WALDEN COGNAC.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets. It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax as assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

A gentleman retiring after many years service in Europe in the United States Department of Agriculture, desires to add, among other representations, a firm or syndicate of Wine Dealers or Growers, who are prepared for European trade. Am also desirous to arrange for the sale of California Fruit. While in Europe have been successful in introducing California products, and would like to continue the same. Address CHARLES J. MURPHY, late Special Agent in Europe, Department of Agriculture, 3 East 41st street, New York.

MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES. The market is very much unsettled, but there is a strong tendency toward an advancement in prices beyond the figures that now prevail. Demand and supply indicate that the business is coming back to a basis that it has not occupied for many years, and with two absolute laws of trade in operation on the line of improvement, the industry can but be largely benefitted within the current year. In other words, it appears that the lowest level of depression has been reached, and that the movement from now on will be toward better things. Sweet wines are more attractive to buyers, and we are confident that they will be receiving more attention before midsummer. The '91 crop was very short, and old stocks are none too large.

Wine prices at first hands are very firm. In fact, there does not seem to be much trading. The knowledge of the great shortage in last year's crop, together with the formation of the California Winemakers' Corporation, has stiffened many a weak back among the growers, and helped their credit and their ability to hold on. The result is that the California Wine Association (the dealers) have advanced their prices for New Orleans and New York delivery. Sixteen cents is the present figure, and it is safe to say that, with the growers holding out as they are now, an advance to twenty cents and over is a possibility in the near future. The Association or anybody else cannot ship wine for 16 cents if the growers persist in their present course.

As to the freights, they have advanced to 50 cents per 100 to New York, and 75 cents per hundred to New Orleans. This is practically equivalent to 5 and 7½ cents per gallon. January was an active month for shippers, who sent forward every gallon of wine they possibly could, in anticipation of the rise in rates which went into effect on the 4th. It is thought the total shipments for the month may reach 1,500,000 gallons.

Late advices from New York are as follows: "There is a small current demand for both dry and sweet wines, which indicates that the buyers continue to buy from hand to mouth. The advance in freight may tend to improve the market a little."

CALIFORNIA BRANDIES are in natural sympathy with wines. Values are hard, and the inclination is toward higher figures. As a consequence, holders of good stocks are not courting customers on the existing basis. Under present circumstances, well-made goods will amply repay carrying.

WHISKIES. There is a better feeling in the trade. The standard houses, in particular, find the consumptive demand steadily increasing toward the old-time volume, and as a consequence there is more cheerfulness on the street. There has certainly been a reaction for the better, and, with the consummation of the plan to incorporate the San Joaquin Valley Railroad, the improvement will be still more marked. Receipts of whiskies for the half month have been of moderate volume, as will be seen by our tables elsewhere.

IMPORTATIONS. Business is moving along in a moderate way, and is good only in spots. Orders are confined strictly to the necessities of the buyer, and small sales are largely the rule. Still, there are indications that better days are coming, and the importers are consequently feeling more encouraged than for some time past. The general business pulse presages a return to former trade conditions, and, all things considered, the outlook is better than it has been for a long time.

TRADE CIRCULARS.

From Gonzales Byass & Co.

DEAR SIRS—Our friends, Messrs. Kessler, Behringer & Co., of New York, having by mutual consent ceased to represent us for the sale of our Sherries, etc., in America, we have now the pleasure to inform you that from this date we have appointed Messrs. W. A. Taylor & Co., of 39 Broadway, New York, as our Agents for Wines and Spanish Brandy in the United States, and we most respectfully solicit for them the same kind patronage as has hitherto been accorded to our late representatives.

Assuring you that your interests will be most carefully guarded, and that you may repose every confidence in our continuing to ship wines of the highest possible value, and spare no trouble in procuring perfect matches of any samples submitted to us, we remain dear sirs, yours faithfully,
GONZALES BYASS & CO.

JERES DE LA FRONTERA, SPAIN, January 1st, 1895.

39 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, January, 1895.

DEAR SIR—We take great pleasure in stating that we have been appointed sole agents of the old and renowned house of Sherry shippers, Messrs. Gonzalez Byass & Co., Jerez de la Frontera. This firm being one of the largest in Spain, and possessing the grandest collections of wine found in the Bodegas there, we are privileged to offer you a choice line of Sherries at as low a figure as it is possible to get them. There is an idea among many buyers in this country that wines can be bought cheaper from houses abroad than from agents here. To all who believe this is so, we would like to say: let us send you samples and prices, and we will soon convince you that such an idea is wrong.

Trusting you will consider the wines shipped by Gonzales Byass & Co. before placing your import orders, extending compliments,
We remain dear sirs, very truly,
W. A. TAYLOR & CO.

PITTSBURG, Pa., January 22, 1895.

EDITOR PACIFIC WINE AND SPIRIT REVIEW—SIR—Upon closing our books for the year 1894 we find that we produced 925 barrels during 1894. Our withdrawals for the same period were 10,058 barrels, and from the free warehouse 1997 barrels, the total withdrawals during 1894 being 12,055 barrels.

We have no comments to make upon these figures as they speak for themselves in no uncertain terms. Very truly,
THE PH. HAMBURGER CO.

76 PEARL STREET, NEW YORK, January 21, 1895.

DEAR SIR—Please take notice that I have just received per Steamship "El Mar" 52 barrels California Wine, of which kindly make mention in your next. Also, per Steamship "Fulda," 15 barrels Gorgonzola cheese. Per Steamship "Victoria," 374 boxes Macaroni, A. Garofalo brand; 100 cases Chianti Wine, L. Laboret-Melini brand. Per Steamship "Fierst-Bismarck," 7 barrels Reggiano cheese. Per Steamship "Armenia," 50 cases and 200 boxes green olive oil soap.
Yours very truly,
ACHILLE STARACE.

From the H. Kantorowicz Company.

42 VESEY STREET, NEW YORK, January, 1895.

DEAR SIR—The business heretofore carried on by me, at No. 42 Vesey street, will hereafter be conducted by the H. Kantorowicz Company, of which I have been appointed the general manager.

The facilities of the business will be greatly extended under the new management. Thanking you for past favors, and soliciting a continuance of the same for the new company, I remain,
Yours truly,
J. LIBROWICZ.

PROHIBITION AGAIN.

So much has been said recently in the daily press concerning the liquor question, and so seriously does the proper solution of this problem concern the welfare of our State, that it would seem to demand something more than a simple reference to the current of passing events bearing thereupon. To that political absurdity, the Prohibition party, we paid our compliments a few weeks ago. It is unreasonable in its demands for complete prohibition, and is as much misled in the belief that prohibition would put an end to crime and drunkenness as is the liquor man who demands non-interference, on the theory that in a free country every man may conduct his business as he sees fit. Both are in error, and the success of either would result injuriously to the State. Prohibition in California would destroy millions of invested capital, would wreck industries upon which thousands of our fellow men are dependent, would render almost valueless acre upon acre of land, and would impair the revenues of the State and counties to an extent which would seriously disarrange our financial system.

Glance at the wine and brandy industries alone. This State produced twenty-one million gallons of wine and two million gallons of brandy during 1893. A fair estimate of wine production for 1894 is 12,600,000 gallons. Sonoma county alone has 22,613 acres of land devoted to the production of the wine grape. Alameda county has 6,690 acres, and five of our southern counties 6,341 acres devoted to the same use. Napa county produced 3,500,000 gallons of wine and 152,832 gallons of brandy in the year 1893. In the past three years California has shipped by sea to New York wines to the value of $1,238,199; to Central America the shipments amounted in value to over three hundred thousand dollars, and to Mexico $158,918. Large revenues have likewise been derived from shipments to British Columbia, Japan, China, Great Britain, Germany and other European countries. The total exports by sea and rail, for the past three years, amounted to 36,279,139 gallons, valued at $16,980,960, while the brandy shipments for the same time were valued at $3,329,512. How far our box manufacturers, our coopers' establishments and our glass works would be affected by a cessation of their immense business, we leave to the imagination.

The cultivation of hops and barley for the manufacture of beer is another industry dependent on this liquor question. The hop crop of California runs up into the millions annually. In 1894 the shipments of hops to Eastern breweries alone amounted to 8,640,000 pounds. All this vast business our Prohibition friend would destroy for the sake of experimenting with a theory which has been tried and discarded in other States having less at stake.

All this recent discussion, it seems, grew out of a vainglorious and ill-advised banquet given by the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association of San Francisco, to commemorate and jubilate, if you please, in a semi-public manner, over some alleged political victories which the "wets" claim out of the flotsam and jetsam of the late election. This wild amount of enthusiasm aroused an equal amount of horror and indignation among the "drys," who protest and storm by turns. Says Mr. C. B. Williams, the candidate for Mayor on the Prohibition ticket at the late election, "This struggle that is going on between the liquor and temperance elements is something like the old slavery question—it's got to be all saloons or all prohibition, sooner or later."

This, of course, is nonsense; but it is the utterance of a man recognized as a leader in the cause, and must be taken as semi-official. We know but little of the Retail Liquor Dealers' Association, think less of their judgment, and know nothing of their alleged political victories. They are as much an enemy to the State and to good government as is the Prohibition party itself, and this is saying a great deal. It is discouraging to one in search of a rational solution of a given social problem to contemplate the utterances of such extremists on either side. The good people engaged in the Prohibition movement do not seem to profit by the experience of others, do not modify their views to meet the vital objections which fair trials have demonstrated their theories to contain.

Prohibition has been declared a failure, has been abolished in localities which have given to it a fair test; it does not prevent but rather leads to drunkenness; it increases taxes, it induces corruption, it degrades public morals, leads to perjury and crime, it injures business, reduces rents, leads to a loss of population. In fact, the horrors of prohibition are equal to, if not worse than, those of an ill-regulated license State. We are not blind to the horrors of drunkenness, but prohibitory laws will not regulate men's appetites. Thomas F. Bayard, ex-Secretary of State, said on this subject: "In many respects the question is a sumptuary one, and laws attempting to establish sumptuary regulations become inquisitorial and impossible of execution, so that, in those communities in this country where they have been enacted, they have either aggravated the evil they were intended to prevent or have fallen into contempt and uselessness and been repealed. * * * I do not believe any man has a greater horror of intemperance than I, and my appreciation of its dangers and evil effects grows with my experience of human affairs; but the graver the evil the more essential to apply the right principle to its cure, and, for the reasons I have stated, and many others, I hope the experiment of 'local option' will not be tried by our Legislature, but increased checks under the license system be continued."

The writer, a few days ago, interviewed a prominent Republican from the State of Iowa, a gentleman of national reputation, who was one of the advocates of prohibition in that State. He said the State had suffered woefully from the date of its adoption; that it increased taxes in some places as high as 113 per cent.; that the cost of conducting criminal courts increased instead of diminished. "Prohibition," said the gentleman, "brought small men into politics. The election of a County Clerk, a Supreme Judge or a State Treasurer was narrowed down to the single question of Prohibition. It drove capital from the State, and destroyed, temporarily, the Republican party, which had fathered the movement. The law absolutely failed to accomplish the desired result. Young men and old men formed private drinking clubs, liquor was smuggled in, and boys who would not, probably, in the ordinary course of events, drink to excess, fell into the habit of attending these clubs and indulging in wild orgies. It was not long," he continued, "before Iowa discovered its mistake, and repealed the law, but not until much havoc had been accomplished and millions of dollars of property destroyed, without any compensating benefit except experience at a very high cost."

The solution of this liquor problem cannot be disposed of, as Mr. Williams suggests, by all saloons or all prohibition. It must receive just and liberal treatment. Some time ago we said:

"Liquor dealers are not the 'bad citizens' the Prohibition party would have us believe. If there existed in the Prohibition ranks as much of a desire to do practical good as there is of respectability among the liquor dealers, the practical element on one side and the respectable element on the other would come together and agree upon some form of general regulation, join hands in exterminating the worst features of the trade, and then yield their united efforts towards securing beneficent laws and their just and proper administration. In the abolishment of pit-falls and disreputable saloons, the practical side of the Prohibition party, if it has a practical side, would, we firmly believe, find the respectable dealers more than willing to cooperate."

Since then, one of the officers of a newly-organized association, known as the California State Protective Association, called upon us to certify to the willingness of that organization to purify the liquor traffic, remove the question from politics, and elevate the business to the highest possible plane. The board of trustees of this organization is composed of gentlemen in the wholesale trade who are men of high commercial honor and strict integrity. Such men as E. R. Lilienthal, J. P. Edloff, Thos. Kirkpatrick, Jas. H. Mundy, Wm. Alfs, Fredk. Staude, C. E. Benjamin, A. P. Hotaling, and others, all rational, practical men of affairs, make up its membership. One of the professed objects of the organization is to rid the community of the worst features of the traffic, to close out the grogeries and dens which infest the city, to yield such protection as they may to persons engaged in conducting respectable and orderly saloons, to deny protection, and to inflict, if possible, punishment upon those engaged in the business who constantly offend decency, and who continually come in conflict with the officers of the law. This movement, if carried out upon the lines suggested, will do much to remedy the evils which stand most in need of reformation. We will watch with interest its proceedings.—J. P. Brown, in Harp.

The Napa & Sonoma Wine Co. has incorporated, with a capital of $15,000. The stockholders and directors are C. W. Meyer, J. C. W. Schnell, J. Frank and Jas. Fickforth.

Notes and Personals.

Wm. A. Veith has taken charge of the Eisen Vineyard, at Fresno, but retains his laboratory for the selection and cultivation of pure yeasts in San Francisco, and will also erect a laboratory at the vineyard. He finds it necessary to increase facilities because of the increasing demand for his yeasts.

J. Garrow has retired from the wholesale house of C. E. Donohoe & Co., of Portland, Or.

The firm of Meyerfeld, Mitchell & Co. now consists of Morris Meyerfeld and John S. Mitchell.

The bark California, owned by N. Richard, which sailed on Oct. 31st from Hadlock for Salaverry with lumber, is a total loss at Pescamajo, Peru—the crew saved. The cargo, shipped by Mohus & Kaltenbach, of this city, was valued at about $7000, and was fully insured in local companies and agencies. So far as can be learned, there was no insurance on the hull. The California, which for several years made a picturesque foreground to Belvidere, was built in 1848, and in early days was famous as a side-wheel steamer on the Panama route, and more famous from the fact that at one time the late W. C. Ralston was supercargo of the vessel.

J. M. Waterfill & Co., distillers of McBrayer, Ky., have sold their distillery to T. J. S. Brown & Sons.

On the 12th ult. the distillery of the Crystal Springs Distillery Co., of Louisville, was completely destroyed by fire, entailing a loss of $10,000. The warehouses were saved.

J. B. Wathen & Bro. Company have removed their Louisville offices to No. 110, south side of Main street. They now have better office facilities to accommodate their rapidly growing trade. In other words, they are on the "ground floor," a position that every firm wants to occupy with the coming revival of the whisky interests. The front office is used for the transaction of general business, the middle apartment for correspondence, etc., while a third apartment in the rear is elegantly fitted up as a private office.

Henry Lachman, the active and jolly, is soon to married. The announcement of the engagement is out, and the wedding will soon take place. The REVIEW wishes him and his chosen wife a long and happy life. Apropos of the coming wedding, the Wine says: "Matrimonially speaking, the debutantes are doing admirably this season. Henry Lachman, one the most ardent of business men, whose time and thoughts are devoted to the extensive interests of the great wine firm, has succumbed to the charms of Miss Rosalie Goslinsky, whose initial appearance in society was made at the New Year's reception at the Brown residence on Sutter street. She is a veritable beauty—a sweet, smiling, happy type of face, rounded outlines, an adorable mouth and exquisite coloring. The family is noted for the good looks of its daughters, however, though it is certain the youngest, Miss Rosalie, is the belle of the flock. Goslinsky, Sr., is in the wholesale tobacco trade, and is reputed very wealthy. Mr. Lachman is the active member of the S. Lachman Co., and is so given to commerce that he never had time to join any of the clubs."

The St. Louis warehouse of the Napa Valley Wine Co. will be given up, owing to the company's consolidation with the California Wine Association.

Mr. Norbert Becker, who has been representing Kohler & Frohling, of San Francisco, will henceforth represent in Chicago and adjacent territory Edinger Bros. & Jacobi, New York, who, as is well known, are sole agents of Lachman & Jacobi, of San Francisco. We congratulate the firm on having secured so efficient a representative as Mr. Becker, who deservedly enjoys the highest confidence and respect of the trade. Citation.

Messrs. J. R. Parkington & Co. state that the shipments of Port for December amount to 6,932 pipes (Great Britain, 1,888 pipes), making 82,059 pipes for twelve months, as compared with 93,329 pipes for 1893, and 111,653 pipes in 1892. The sherry shipments were 6,903 butts, making 49,695 butts for 1894, against 51,095 butts in 1893 and 59,918 butts in 1892.

The will of the late Charles Kohler has been admitted to probate. Provision is made in it that enough property shall be reserved to pay a yearly income of $150 to Carrie Parsons, and the residue is left to Mrs. Elise Kohler. The life insurance companies are paying up rapidly on Mr. Kohler's life, evidently taking little stock in the suicide theory.

Up in Canada the tax on one of our proof gallons is about $1.80, if we are not mis-informed, and yet the best grades of Canadian whiskies retail in the leading saloons of Toronto and elsewhere at 5 cents per drink. This, too, notwithstanding the fact that the grog of Canada calls for more spirits than the toddy of this country. In the United States, though, the retailer charges the consumer 15 cents, and even higher, in all of the better places, and even then hands out a cheap grade of stuff to the average customer. Saloon men in this country are not unlike the balance of our population in that they want to grow rich in a year, and they are always on the look-out for short cuts. They will fit up a saloon regardless of expense, put mirrors up for ceilings, pave the floor with mosaics and $20 gold pieces, finish in the most expensive hard wood and decorate with artistic bric-a-brac, pictures, etc. And yet this very place will not hesitate to pass a $1.50 per gallon whisky over the bar and charge 15 cents per drink for it. The trouble is that distillers pay no attention to the retailing of their liquors in this country, while in Canada they give much attention to this matter. Distillers over here are not fond of details, or of small things generally. They leave such tire some and monotonous work to the brewers, and in consequence the brewer fixes the price at which the beer must be retailed, and, furthermore, he gets the money, which the whisky man does not always do. T. M. GILMORE.

Quite a number of the local wholesale houses are casting longing glances on Alaska as a possible future market. There is a bill at present in Congress providing for the licensing of the business in all towns having 100 or more white inhabitants at $300 per year. Better open up the market. There is plenty of bad liquor sold already.

Charles Bundschu, of J. Gundlach & Co., who was chairman of the German Day celebration at the Midwinter Fair, and who is leading the movement to erect a Goethe and Schiller monument at the Golden Gate Park, has issued a call for the committee to go to work. Many well-known names in the trade are included in the call, among them Fred C. Seibe, William Wolf, Joseph Melezer, H. Braunschweiger, E. C. Priber, Henry Epstein, L. A. Denicke, W. Eogen, Hans H. Kohler, Herman Bendel and W. C. Hildebrandt. The memorial to be erected is expected to be one of the most artistic in the city.

Mr. J. E. Newman has opened an office at 47 Vesey street, New York, as commission merchant and broker in California wines and brandies.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
Washington, January 15, 1895.
R. M. Wood Co., Publishers Pacific Wine and Spirit Review, 317-316 Battery St., San Francisco:
SIR: In compliance with the request contained in yours of the 4th instant I enclose for your information a copy of the regulations recently issued (Circular No. 431) concerning successions and changes of styles by distillers. This shows the full scope of the ruling; but should you desire further information on any point, please so advise this office. Respectfully yours,
JOS. S. MILLER, Commissioner.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
WASHINGTON, November 27, 1894.
It is hereby prescribed that hereafter, whenever a change in the ownership or operation of any distillery shall take place, in fact, by a change in the person or persons engaged in operating the distillery, or whenever a nominal change shall occur by reason of a change in the name or style in which the person or persons operating a distillery conduct their business, in either case the operation and business of producing distilled spirits shall be completely finished in all respects by the person or persons first carrying on the business, or by the distiller desiring to change his name or style, before the business shall be undertaken or begun by the person or persons succeeding to the operation of the distillery, or by the distiller operating under a different name or style.
All mash or beer upon the distillery premises must be fermented and distilled by the distiller outgoing or changing name, and all spirits on the distillery premises shall be run into the cistern room, before a mash shall be made or fermented by the incoming distiller, or by the distiller operating under a new or different name or style.
Any person, firm, company or corporation engaged in carrying on the business of distilling and intending to transfer its business to another person or to other persons, desiring to change the name or style as aforesaid, shall give notice to the collector of the district of intention to suspend business under its name or style then employed, upon the prescribed Form 124, and upon the day mentioned in said notice the collector or his deputy shall attend and duly affix locks to all the furnace doors of said distillery.
The succeeding distiller, distilling firm or corporation, or the distiller changing the name or style, shall thereupon give notice in the prescribed manner on Form 27a of intention to carry on the business of distilling from and after such date, and under such name or style as may be set forth in said notice.
But the collector will decline to accept said notice of intention to carry on business or to approve the bond of a succeeding distiller, or to recognize the distiller under a changed name or style unless he is informed by his deputy, or by the officer in charge of the distillery that full compliance has been made with the foregoing provisions of this regulation, and that all mash or beer and spirits on the distillery premises have been disposed of as hereinbefore prescribed, on or before the date of said proposed suspension of business, and will order and direct the officers on duty at such distillery accordingly.
It is further prescribed that the date of original inspection, the distiller's name, the district and State, and the registered number of the distillery shall be burned upon the stamp head of all distillers packages which may remain in any warehouse longer than six months, and if the said marks were cut upon the package upon entry into the warehouse they shall be burned in with a branding iron upon removal after the expiration of six months.
So much of any regulation heretofore issued as is inconsistent with these regulations is hereby revoked.
JOS. S. MILLER, Commissioner.

Murray, Ky., January 25, 1895.

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review: Sir: I believe that the silver lining is beginning to peep out of the dark cloud that has hung so long and low over the trade, and hope that '95 will leave distillers in a more prosperous condition than '94. I feel much encouraged. My goods are moving nicely. We have shipped five hundred barrels in the last month.

Respectfully,

Ed Murray,

Belle of Anderson County Distillery.

THE RENOWNED JOHANNISBERG VINEYARD.

Mr. Leonard A. Jenkins, Germany, writes: "Johannisberg, now the property of Prince Richard Metternich, son of the famous statesman, who received it as a gift from the Emperor Francis, is situated on the right bank of the Rhine, an hour's drive above the picturesque village of Rudesheim. From the terrace of the castle, which crowns the hill, is seen to the left the wide expanse of beautiful level country called the Rhineyan, through which the majestic river winds its way until lost to sight at the right in the narrow valley formed by the hills of Bingen and the Niederwald. The monks of the middle ages not only kept alive the flame of learning, acted as school-masters, advocates, physicians and apothecaries, fed and clothed the poor, visited the sick, and offered spiritual consolation to all, but they were the first agriculturists of their time, and scented out with infallible accuracy just those hill-sides which would grow the best vines and produce the choicest wines. For eight centuries they cultivated the grape upon Johannisberg. Four hundred years ago they built the splendid cellar with the massive arches upon which the modern castle stands, and built it so well that when in 1813 the retreating French army attempting to blow it up, after drinking all the wine, their pitiful barrel of gunpowder made no more impression upon the solid masonry than it would have made upon the everlasting hills. The territory upon which this wine of unsurpassed excellence can be raised, is small, and therefore very valuable, and the best wine sells at the cellar for ten to twelve dollars a bottle. Nowhere else in the world is to be found land devoted to agricultural purposes, which is estimated at such a figure. Yet it is not always profitable. Some years the expenses are twenty thousand dollars more than the income, for however unfavorable the season, the elaborate cultivation must go on as usual. Of course it is only a proprietor proud of owning the pattern of the world, and to whom profit and loss upon this small item in his estate is of no consequence, who can afford to keep up such a vineyard. The soil is on an average seventy-five centimeters deep, and consists of a finely divided clay slate, containing iron, calcium and phosphates. These ingredients of the soil may appear in such varied proportions, within a radius of fifty feet, that the best and poorest parts of the vineyard may be separated by a distance not greater than this radius.

"The grape which has found such favor here is the Riesling, a strong, hardy vine, which, if uninjured, will bear profitably for forty-five years. To retain the strength of the land, it is dressed every two years with stable manure which has been thoroughly mixed with phosphates. After the vines cease bearing, the land lies fallow a couple of years, and is then re-planted with young vines, which are set out in groups of three. The first year they will grow up clinging to a pole. The second year only one grows upward, and the two others are trained horizontally toward the neighboring vines, about a foot from the ground, facing as nearly north and south as possible. The third year the vine that grew up is trimmed to one side, and the vine which took this position the previous year is trained upward. In the fourth year this operation is repeated, except that the vine which has been trained horizontally for two years exchanges places with the vine that has grown upward. By this rotation each vine is trained horizontally for two years and shoots up the third. It is claimed that when the vine is trained horizontally it yields a larger quantity of grapes than when grown upright, and the grapes are better protected from the burning rays of the sun, yet kept warmer through proximity to the earth. The vine is, however, exhausted at the end of a few years, if it does not receive periods of rest by being permitted to grow up toward the light.

"The vintage occurs either at the end of October or beginning of November according to the character of the season. The wine of the same year is divided into three grades. The first quality consists of wines made from the best grapes picked by hand from the finest bunches. A second picking gives the second quality, and all the remaining grapes go to make up the third. After all the wine is in the wood, it is placed in the vaults below the castle, in which the temperature, summer and winter, does not perceptibly vary more than seven to nine degrees. When the wine arrives at the proper stage it is bottled and sold. A yearly auction takes place, when much of the wine is disposed of to the highest bidder. Many of the finer grades go directly into private hands, and not a few to the various courts of Europe."

Late Season in Champagne Districts.

Daos, France, Sept. 25.—It is a late year along the Cote d'Or. Last autumn, in the Champagne districts, they were plucking the grapes in the last week of August. This fall they have scarcely yet begun in the last days of September. Last year was the dry year of 1893; within the memory of man the grapes had never hung so full and crowded from the vines. This year is the wet year of 1894, and the inspectors scowl at humble pickers when they eat an extra bunch of grapes. The sky is cloudy. It has rained again. The sky is bluish lead, the hills are bluish green. And the blue blouses of the men and the blue skirts of the girls combine with the blue-gray morning mists to form "A Key of Blue," which would be more to the delicate taste of the late Addington Symonds than to the unfortunate peasant proprietors, who, nevertheless, at least feel blue.

If you wish to see the busiest picking you must go out in the misty early morning, almost at the break of day. The picking ordinarily commences with daylight, and the vintagers assert that the grapes gathered at sunrise always produce the lightest and most limpid wine. Thus they are also believed to yield a fourth more juice. Later in the day, when the sun comes out, as it always does, even if but for an hour, it is impossible to prevent some of the detached grapes from partially fermenting, which frequently suffices to give a slight excess of color to the must of grapes intended for high-class champagne. When grapes have to be transported in open baskets for some distance to the presshouse, jolting along the road on the backs of mules and exposed to even an autumnal sun, the juice, however gently it may be squeezed, is often of a positively purple tint and is consequently unfit for the champagne of commerce.

This does not mean, of course, that there are no red champagnes. Although sparkling white wines are made to a considerable extent in Burgundy, notably at Beaune, Nuits, and here in Dijon, the proudest champagnes of the district are, naturally, from the red wines which have made it always famous. In the middle ages the wines of Burgundy passed as presents from one royal personage to another, just as orders and decorations are exchanged between them nowadays. And the favored millionaire stockbrokers and panamists of Paris, the noble, aristocratic, and even royal wine guzzlers of England, Germany, Austria and every other European state, who buy up everything worth buying, you might almost say, each year, knows well the more obscure red champagnes of the golden slope. The sparkling wines of this section, though as a rule heavier and more potent than the subtle and delicate flavored wines of the Marne, still exhibit, both in the red and the white varieties, a degree of refinement which those familiar only with the commoner kinds of champagnes can scarcely form an idea of. Of these red champagnes there are Chambertin, Romance and Vougeot of the highest order.

You see that in one breath I am attempting to tell you almost all I know. I ought to add that it is not difficult to know things down in this wine district. Every one talks wine, every one tastes wine, and every one conceives himself to be a judge of wine, at least for the time being. But which is the more pleasing to the sight, the cobwebbed bottle in the hands of some old amateur who will, perhaps, give you a tiny "pony" glass of it to sip, or the trim, fresh Burgundian girls who will give you as many bunches of grapes as you want (on the sly)—this is a question which it will take a wiser head than mine to worry out. My best idea is that one should take the two together, moderately.

The road lies fresh and damp between two rows of closely planted poplar trees out in the country. A quaint gray church tower dominates the vine-clad slopes. All along the road is bustle and excitement. In the ordinarily quiet little villages the majority of the inhabitants are afoot. The girls, both big and little, basket on arm, keep threading their way through the rows of vines half way up the hills, while the men are on the road between the vineyards and the village or are working in the presshouse. Carts piled up with baskets or crowded with peasants from a distance on their way to the vineyards, jostle trucks and drays laden with brand-new wine casks. Now and then you see hurrying by the fine wagons of some big wine house, hurrying to clinch their final bargain with some peasant proprietor, but it is not here as in the real champagne district. The great establishments of the champagne of commerce of Reims, Epernay, Ay, Mareuil, Avize, Rilly and so on, possess their own vineyards. There everything goes by system and true business methods. Neighboring large vine proprietors will press their own grapes and sell the juices to the great establishments, and thus are able to hold back for the best prices. But the great multitude of small cultivators of all the true champagne district (which every one, of course, knows is not here in Burgundy) invariably sell the grapes themselves and not the pressed juice to the giant monopolists who have their names upon the bottles—the Mummus, the Bollingers, the so-called Cliquot-Ponsardus, the Heidsiecks, Moets, Pipers, Perriers, Pommerys and all the rest—some of whom are corporations, some joint stock companies, and others millionaire partnerships, keeping the old names which made their brands so famous. There it is the swift, strict, correct routine of a great factory. Here, outside of Dijon, it is the happy-go-lucky, but still get-there ways of peasants, where the center is the family. Here, as in the rest of France, the owner of even a single acre of vines will crush its own grapes himself. It is a pretty sight to see it done in families.

The father, mother, grandfather, grandmother, the big boys, little boys, big girls, little girls keep moving to and fro, in the early morning light, to pick a whole piece of their little vineyard. They detach the grapes with scissors or hooked knives—such grapes as have escaped the phylloxera, the mildew, hail and wind. One mule, one single mule, one melancholy mule will drag the baskets and the tubs. The sun mounts to the zenith. The family march back to the farmhouse silently. Where are the sweet songs of the vintage? And then the little daughters of the farmer, singing with fatigue, pull off their shoes and stockings, wash their pretty little feet, pin up their skirts and petticoats and jump into the tubs to press the wine. The sweet grape juice squirts up between their toes. Ah, me!

In the larger villages there is an air of greater jollity. The pickers (hired at 60 to 80 cents a day, with food, lodging, and drink included) are as jolly in a bad year as in a good one. In a vine-producing district every one participates in the interest excited by the vintage. It is the time for settling accounts for the whole year; trades people have a run of custom; bakers and bootmakers, as well as cafe and restaurant proprietors, present a joyous front encouraging the others. Half the population is half tipsy—not on the sweet new must, but on green absinthe and red rum, it must be said. The drum beats in the morning for the picking and songs echo from the wineshops in the evening.

It is not juice for champagne they are squeezing in the village presshouse. For the most part, of course, it is the great Burgundian still wine, red and white. But the mind of an American must naturally run to champagne, even in a still wine district; and, to tell the truth, there are ample evidences of the "little" white wines of this section being shipped to be manipulated, mixed and doctored in the big champagne establishments, to be shipped in a few years to America. America which believeth all things, hopeth all things, and thinketh no evil.

At least it is real grape juice here in the sweet vineyard. Whether for fancy red and pink champagnes, the sparkling Romance destined to sparkle down the red and pink throat of the Prince of Wales; whether for "victorious Burgundy," so smooth and strong, to make new blood for good Franz Joseph; whether for "still wines at $10 a bottle" (dealers' brand) for Ward McAllister; whether to fortify the thin and acid wines of the North to make Champagne of Commerce, it is the same among the honest vintagers. It is pure juice. So, therefore, when you drink your Burgundy in American hotels and restaurants, whether at $1 a bottle or $10, think of the pink feet of the little Mariés, Antonettes, Lucies, Berthes and Lizettes; think of the patient mule that drags the cart; think of the village wine press, and the blue-bloused peasants, and the merry songs they do not sing. Think of the ancient church, the long lines of splendid trees along the smooth, white roads, the village wine shops and the pickers sleeping in the barns at night. Think of intrigues and smothered laughter, kisses in the dark, and lusty girls who have tramped twenty miles to earn their 60 cents a day with food and lodging all included.

II.

There is another picture. Wine is not made in a day. And commerce has its claims. Business is business.

You ask a peasant what wine is and he will answer, "The juice of the grape." But if you ask the French chemists they will tell you from their experience that the only true definition is this: "Wine is the product of the fermentation of the juice of fresh grapes."

After twenty centuries of renown French wine has come to be too often only a wine made from raisins, from figs, from glucose, doctored with alcohol made from rice and grain and potatoes, and coming on the market masked and painted like a play-actor, all having the regulation titles and all equally false.

Here in the region of vineyards this pleasant wine, which fulfills the true definition, has only from eight to ten degrees of alcohol and would be liked everywhere if people's palates were not corrupted by drinking over-alcoholated wines, whiskies, brandies and absinthies. When you see the "clairret" running from the spigot you may bid farewell to it, for you may never see it again. It will be taken from the cellar to the nearest railway station and then make its way to the centers of the red-wine trade, where it will be treated commercially. These are Certe in the south (for the wines of the Pyrenees), Bordeaux, Dijon, here in Burgundy, Chalons on the Marne (for champagne), and Bercy, in Paris (for what Robert Louis Stevenson calls its "red ink").

Even in the years when the phylloxera was exercising its ravages and there were no more vineyards to give grapes for the wine you could still have your Bordeaux and your Burgundy of the year at every meal. It was a mystery, only in part made up of alcohol and raisins. Here is the real secret of the years marked after high-class wines on restaurant cards—if you believe them. Such and such a year was good, and such and such a year was bad. It does not altogether go by seniority, as some folks think.

All the wholesale wine dealers, whether they perform their operations in Dijon or in Certe, in Bordeaux or in Bercy, hold the same opinion. They cannot get on without Spanish wine. At Bordeaux they call it the "wine doctor." Others say it is the watch key of wine, namely, that which "winds it up." It gives courage to the faint-hearted "clairret," it corrects acidity and enlivens flatness. What is Spanish wine? Not at all the sherry and Malaga. It is the blue-red, astringent, and heady wine which tastes of the iron in the sandhills where it grew. It is a wine of Africa rather than of Europe. It is the "table wine" of Spain, and travelers are knocked out by its potency. In hotels they will give it to you free in big carafes. Whoop! Bang! No wonder Spain seems beautiful.

Spanish wine owes the qualities which allow it to tyrannize over the natural wine of France to the alcohol which it contains. When these vineyard owners send up their mild grape juice to the wholesale dealer he tells them: "Your wine is not drinkable. We must fortify it with Spanish wine." The wine owner would have the right to answer: "Your reason for insisting on doctoring our wine, such as nature has given it to us, with the wine of Spain is because it helps on your trade combinations. You can have Spanish wines brought you to Paris by water for half the price which our wines cost you by rail. Then our wines cannot be watered, while two barrels of Spanish wine can easily be made into three for the use of Parisians and people across the seas. Do you expect us to compete successfully with rain water?"

It is not the merchants alone who are responsible for this manipulation of the natural French wine. The civilized drinkers of wine all over the world have learned to like a strong dose of alcohol in their wines, even though the wine should be made from stewed raisins and the alcohol be no more than German potato brandy. There is a Norwegian who for forty years has ordered two barrels of wine yearly from the same house in Bordeaux. One year some accident had happened to the wines and a manufactured brand was sent to him. It pleased him, and he insisted ever after on buying the same wine. It was only necessary for the merchant to keep note of the recipe, and each year it was furnished to his demand. This keeping of recipes, which is a perfectly proper procedure in the case of non-vintage wines like sherry and Malaga, is of course an abomination in the case of any wine of France, excepting always champagne.

So let us turn to our own California wines, which are cheap, pleasant, and sometimes almost pure. In 1893 Karl Baedeker, the great Leipzig publisher of European guidebooks, put forth a splendid and painstaking "Handbook for Travelers in the United States." In his "General Hints" he has this sentence: "Wine is generally poor or dear, and often both, in the United States. It is much to be regretted that the native vintages seldom appear on the wine lists, and European travelers will do good service by making a point of demanding California wines and expressing surprise when they cannot be furnished."

An Open Letter to the Wholesale Liquor Trade.

CINCINNATI, O., January 28th, 1895.

What's the use trying to stop price-lists when some of the officers of the National Wine and Spirit Association encourage brokers who issue price-lists (be they in book form, gross or net, or on sheets of paper a yard or so long) by buying or selling through them?

Where is the justice of jobbers sending out price-lists to the Wholesale Trade, and furthermore, accepting orders from brokers who do issue price-lists, but refusing to buy from those brokers unless they sell cheaper, and then these same Jobbers complaining about price-lists? The brokers who do not send out price-lists don't object to distillers listing their own brands; nor do they object to the jobbers sending all the retail dealers on earth a price-list; but it's certainly unprincipled, to say the least, for jobbers to list to jobbers, and object to brokers doing it.

There are still enough good brokers who do not send out price-lists do do your buying and selling through. If the trade don't want trade-lists galore in the near future as in the past, it is time for them to return and refuse to accept price-lists, books or lists, net or gross, also all mail from parties sending out books or lists, as well as telegrams from all those brokers. Cancel your paid subscriptions; notify the parties to save their stamps, time and trouble; and, distillers, hearken — take your "ad's" out of these price-list books.

There are more of the trade against price-lists than you think, and they watch these things close. So many of the trade mean well, but forget when a book or list comes in; they see something they might use at the price or a shade less, and they write or wire for it. Stop and think if you want that lot. You can, nine times out of ten — yes, oftener — buy the same goods through a broker who does not issue a book or list, at the same price; and, if you have any whisky you want to sell, any other broker can obtain as much for it as you see offered in that book or on that list.

Put your foot down on books and circulars, and don't send them out yourself, or everlastingly hereafter hold your peace.

FAIR PLAY.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., January 30, 1895.

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review — Sir: A meeting of the Board of Control of the National Wine and Spirit Association was held in the city of Louisville, Ky., on January 25th, at which were present E. W. Bernheim, Chas. E. Chase and E. M. Babbitt, of Louisville; H. Van Nes, of Cincinnati, and Wm. H. Lee, of St. Louis.

The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The following firms and individuals who failed to pay their dues were ordered dropped, and their names stricken from the roll:

California Wine Co., Salt Lake City, Utah; Head & Beam, Gethsemane, Ky.; Geo. Monnier, San Francisco; Robt. Broker, Nevada, Mo.; M. M. Manville, La Salle, Wis.; Levy & Lewin, Denver, Col.; Isador Bush Wine & Liquor Co., St. Louis, Mo.; Norman Cole, Millin & Roads, Pa.

The following firms and individuals, having paid their dues, were unanimously elected members of the National Wine and Spirit Association:

J. Simon & Co., Louisville, Ky.; Jno. J. O'Brien, Pittsburg, Pa.; F. A. Bensberg & Co., St. Louis; A. Graf & Co., St. Louis; Swope & Mangold, Dallas, Tex.; Edgewood Dist. Co., and The Cramer Co., Cincinnati; Philip Freiler, Elgin, Ill.; Corning & Co., Peoria, Ill.; J. F. Daugherty & Co.; Keokuk, Iowa; Glasner & Barzen, Kansas City, Mo.; Sam'l Baret & Co., and Fritz Thesi, Denver; M. Shaughnessy & Co., St. Louis.

It was moved and seconded that the next annual convention be held in St. Louis, Mo., April 16th and 17th, 1895.

Mr. E. M. Babbitt was appointed a committee of one, to act in conjunction with Mr. E. W. Bernheim, to open correspondence looking to the relief of the trade in regard to certain unnecessary work in connection with the Government books.

THE NATIONAL WINE & SPIRIT ASSOCIATION,

By E. M. Babbitt, Secretary.

To Abolish the Viticultural Commission.

Senator Langford's bill to abolish the Viticultural Board and turn it over to the University is before the Legislature. In this connection a statement by L. De Turk, made in the Wave, will prove of interest:

SANTA ROSA, January 22, 1895.

Editor Wave: I have read with considerable interest your article in the Wave of the 19th instant, entitled "The Governor's Message." I notice that you say that "His [the Governor's] suggestion that the Agricultural, Viticultural and similar commissions be abolished, and the control be turned over to the University is a wise as well as an economical suggestion."

I have been a member of the Board of State Viticultural Commissioners since 1880. I was one of the original Board, and have been honored by reappointment by both Republican and Democratic Governors from that time to this. I have been President of the Board; I have been a member of its Executive Committee, and I have audited its accounts. If any one can point out the expenditure of a single cent by that Commission in a manner which has not resulted in direct profit to the State of California, I am willing to resign my commission to-day, and to aid in every way the abolishment of the Board.

The Viticultural Commission is not a scientific commission. The Governor complains in his message that we do not own a vineyard or experimental plot. The fact is, the law prevents us from doing so. The Board has never pretended to be an ultra-scientific body. It has always been a commission composed of practical men who have directed its work to practical ends. We have not pursued lines of investigation such as have been attempted by the University. The Commission occupies an entirely different field. Our efforts have been directed to topics pertaining to practical wine and brandy making and handling, and to the extension of the sale of pure California wines and brandies in the markets of the East and of the world.

We are not a political Commission. I cannot tell you to-day the political status of the Board. I have never asked. I don't care whether any one of my associates or eight of them are Democrats or Republicans. All that we have ever asked is that men of known standing and experience be appointed on this Commission, and that they give the business of the Board their careful attention. And this has been done. The names of the gentlemen who compose this Commission are guaranty sufficient. Mr. Doyle, Mr. Shorb, Mr. West, Mr. Towle, Mr. Bundschu, Mr. Stephens, Mr. Crabb and Mr. Bichowsky are all men well known in their sections and throughout the State.

If you want to know what we have done during the past two years, I would tell you that we have made magnificent exhibits at Chicago and at the Midwinter Fair. We have had a representative at Washington, who, with the concurrence of Senators Perkins and White, made an agreement as to the wine and brandy schedule of the tariff bill, which, having been adopted by a unanimous vote, preserved the wine and brandy makers of this Coast from the ad valorem duty, first proposed, which would have completely wiped out their business; we have published a report on phylloxera, which is the standard work on the subject in the English language; we have issued a report on the manufacture of the finest grades of wine, which will be of immense benefit to those of our growers who are striving to improve the quality of their product; we have in preparation an exhibition in Bordeaux; we are preparing to open depots in New York and other Eastern cities, where the finest California wines can be obtained.

Is it not evident from this showing — and many other things might be mentioned — that we are doing work which the University could not do? Do you want to consign us to the care of Professor Hilgard, whose record for the past eight years in the viticultural line has not been strikingly successful? I do not hesitate to say that there is scarcely a member of our Board who has not had, in one year, more experience in practical viticulture than the entire College of Agriculture can boast of. Its connection with viticulture in this State has brought us into endless trouble. It is hardly worth while to go into the details of it all. But the details are ready and at hand. I might however, just bring to memory Professor Hilgard's advocacy of Pasteurization — a failure — or his maintenance of a plot of phylloxerated vines at Berkeley — a menace to every vineyard in Contra Costa and Alameda counties.

Where did the phylloxera plot at Mission San Jose originate?

Professor Hilgard's last exploit in the viticultural field is still rather fresh when he ran counter to the authorities at Washington in respect to the regulations concerning the sweet wine law, and was compelled to make an inglorious retreat.

I must say that I feel very much hurt that so clear-headed a man as Senator Langford should father a bill directed against this Board. Mr. Langford is a friend of Mr. George West, and his attack on the Viticultural Commission is, to some extent, an attack on Mr. West, whose judgment he must know and respect. So far as I am personally concerned, I should rather see the Board utterly abolished than that it should be turned over to Professor Hilgard. I have given fourteen years of work to the Board. I have tried to perform my duties faithfully, and I have never drawn one cent of money for my services. If the Commission is now to be attacked unjustly, for my part I shall make no resistance to such attack. I shall not go to Sacramento. I shall leave the whole matter to the good sense of the members of the Legislature, and accept their verdict, whatever it may be.

Very respectfully, I. DE TURK.

IN RECEIVERS' HANDS.

The Distillers' and Cattle Feeders' Company has been placed in the hands of receivers. Judge Grosscup, of the United States Court, on the application of three comparatively small stockholders, appointed President J. B. Greenhut and E. F. Lawrence receivers of the $35,000,000 Distillers' and Cattle Feeders' Company.

The appointment was made on the 28th ult., at the residence of Judge Grosscup, on Grand Boulevard, Chicago. It was kept a secret from the business world until 4 o'clock p. m. of the 29th. During the day 12,500 shares of stock were sold on the New York market, and prices closed at 82½ against 97½ the night before. The news of the appointment of receivers did not leak out until two hours after the market closed.

In throwing the company into his own hands as receiver President Greenhut took snap judgment, which will bring down on his head the wrath of the stockholders' committee and that of the holders of the $30,000,000 of stock which they represent. A short time ago a committee of stockholders was appointed to consider plans for reorganization. That committee consisted of Richard B. Hartshorne, John I. Waterbury and F. M. Lockwood. When the committee was appointed, early in January, it took up the work at the request of over $10,000,000 of the stock.

A circular was issued on January 17th which announced it to be the intention of the committee to make a full investigation of the affairs of the company, and effect an entire change in its management and methods. The circulars announcing the intentions of the committee, couched in exceedingly strong language as they were, brought in a flood of proxies, until it is asserted the committee now represents nearly the entire list of stockholders. The circulars also brought the management of the company to a sharp understanding of the fact that they were to face at the coming annual meeting a most vigorous opposition.

The committee wished to make an appointment to meet the officers of the company, and they wired that they would come to Peoria and meet them on the 30th, but President Greenhut asked them to postpone the visit for a day, alleging that he could not get his board of directors together before that. Preparations were then immediately made to apply for a receiver. The three stockholders who signed the bill are said to hold but 1700 shares. The company became a voluntary party to the proceedings, entering an appearance, and the result was that President Greenhut was put in a position which, if he can maintain, will prevent the stockholders' committee from carrying through its plan for a change of management. There will be a furious fight.

Not only is there sharp criticism of the appointment of Mr. Greenhut as a receiver, but attention is also drawn to the fact that the other receiver is one of the Nelson-Morris Company directors in the First National Bank, while Mr. Morris has a $550,000 suit pending against the company for a non-fulfillment of contract.

The committee is represented in Chicago by Levi Mayer, and Mr. Mayer, when he learned of the march that had been stolen on his clients, went into court and asked that no orders be entered in the proceedings without giving him an opportunity to be heard. Judge Grosscup agreed to that.

The bill which accompanied the application of Greenhut says that up to 1893 the company paid nearly six millions in dividends, but since that time has paid nothing. At the present time the company own outright seven or eight distilleries and the ground on which they stand; the buildings and appliances of about twenty more, together with the leaseholds of the ground, and about fifty more broken down and dismantled distilleries, on most of which it pays a land lease. From the latter the machinery has been removed to piece out that in the distilleries which have been operated.

At present the property of the company is mortgaged. Bonds to the amount of $1,000,000 have been sold, and $2,500,000 have been put up as collateral for loans. The company owes $800,000 for rebate certificates and $200,000 on warehouse receipts in addition to current expenses. The bill goes on to say that a large amount of rebate certificates are due and payable on February 1st, and the company is without funds for their payment. Therefore, the bill alleges, the company is practically insolvent. The assets are thought to be sufficient to pay all the debts of the company, leaving a small balance to be distributed among the stockholders.

Mr. Wm. Kaltenbach, a member of the firm of Mohus & Kaltenbach, wine and liquor merchants, 29 Market street, San Francisco, became a benedict on the 9th of January. On that day he was united in marriage to Miss Anna Mohus, daughter of Mr. Henry Mohus, the ceremony being performed at high noon in Alameda, at the residence of the bride's father, Rev. Julius Fuendeling, of St. Mark's Church, officiating. Mr. Kaltenbach has already made quite a record for himself as a successful business man, and in securing a "partner for life" we congratulate him, and wish him much prosperity.

A unique thing in advertising comes to the REVIEW from Guasti & Bernard, of Los Angeles, and now occupies a prominent place in our office. It is apparently the head of a barrel sawed off two hoops down. On the face, in relief work, appear a dozen youngsters, boys and girls, in Nature's clothing, sporting with each other, and tapping the wine casks in great glee. Inspection shows the whole to be done in some composition of plaster. It is light, handsome, catchy, and testifies forcibly to the enterprise of Messrs. Guasti & Bernard.

Good Showing for Fine Brandies.

E. Remy Martin & Co. have good reason for feeling comfortable over the volume of their exports to the United States during the year 1894. Notwithstanding the extreme depression in all lines of business and the great falling off in demand for fine imported brandies, the firm made an excellent showing in the volume of sales of their goods. Their exports to this country last year aggregated 19,001 gallons in wood, and 930 cases, containing 1860 gallons—making a total of 19,861 gallons. This places the house in with other foreign exporters of high-class goods. The agents of E. Remy Martin & Co. on the Pacific Coast are Hellmann Bros. & Co., of this city.

THE NEW WAREHOUSE.

1201 BATTERY ST., SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 25, 1891.

"To the Dealers in Whiskies and Spirits GENTLEMEN: The recently-enacted Tariff Law authorizes the removal of whisky and spirits in bond from distillery bonded warehouses to general bonded warehouses, and also authorizes one removal in bond from one general bonded warehouse to another, and authorizes the establishment of such general bonded warehouses, to be used exclusively for the storage of whiskies and spirits.

"In accordance with the provisions of this law we have bonded one of the first-class buildings known as the Overland warehouses, situated on the northeast corner of Third and King streets, in this city, for such storage, and are prepared to handle your whiskies to the best advantage. This warehouse is located on the tracks of the Southern Pacific Company, and has its own track, so that car-load lots of whisky can be transferred directly to the warehouse on arrival, thus avoiding the expense of cartage and the incidental re-handling of packages.

"Storage capacity, 10,000 barrels. Insurance rate, 90 cents per $100.

"We shall be pleased to furnish any further information desired on application, and hope you will find it to your advantage to use our warehouse.

"Agent in Kentucky, W. G. Coldewey, Louisville Public Warehouse Co., Louisville."

The above is self-explanatory. The enterprise and promptness shown by this firm in thus furnishing full facilities under the new law will be appreciated by the Coast trade. Interest can now be saved on car-load lots of bonded goods while in transit, tax and storage can be paid conveniently, and immediate delivery can be had when desired in quantities as ordered. The rack-system of storage will be used, and advances will be made on goods in warehouse, upon application. Bode & Haslett report a few cars already in, and more on the way.

WINE SHIPMENTS TO EUROPE.

Owing to the low freight rates on wine and brandy that have prevailed in the past year, much of our European trade in wine and brandy has been carried by rail direct to New York, and thence by steam to Europe. Following are the figures showing the total volume of the European trade:

SOME MESINGS. Shakespeare wrote, in his day, "Frailty, thy name is Woman!" This may be called epigrammatic, but it is not original, for Virgil had written, 70 B. C., "Variable et mutabile semper femina" — variable and changeable at all times, woman. Both being untrue, they that be wise still follow the admonition of the old Law, "Honor thy father and thy mother." In this day the ultra temperance people, the Prohibitionists, and "unco guid" element of the churches deery the use of wine and denounce those who partake of it, forgetting that the Great Founder of the Church made wine, and that to "Drink no longer water, but take a little wine for thy stomach's sake and thine often infirmities," is a somewhat reliable teaching. And they that be wise may safely follow this as a new Law.

THE TOAST — Then fill up high with generous juice,
As generous as your mind,
And pledge me in this generous toast —
"The whole of human kind."

"To those who love us," second fill;
But not to those whom we love —
Lest we love those who love not us —
A third, "To thee and me, love." — Robert Burns.

Pure California Wines & Grape Brandies.

THE

OF SAN GABRIEL,

Los Angeles County, Cal.

Are now prepared with a large stock of wines and brandies of their own growth to supply the trade and the market generally. This Company owns the largest vineyard in the world, covering over 2,500 acres. They have held their wines and brandies for several years in their own cellars, and do not offer any of their product until it has become properly matured. Their large stock of matured wines and brandies thus accumulated is now open to the purchaser. All goods under their trade mark are warranted pure and unadulterated. Being the successors to B. D. WILSON & Co., and to J. DE BARTH SHORB, they have become possessors of the "SHORB" BRAND OF BRANDY and "MOUNT VINEYARD" WINE. Correspondence solicited.

WALDEN COGNAC.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets.

It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES.—Business is slowly getting in better condition, with respect both to demand and prices. Considering the severity of the weather in the East for many weeks, the situation of the markets is much better than could reasonably be expected. Leading houses report that orders for spring delivery are coming in in an encouraging way, and there is an improved feeling all around. As a result of the two combinations, values have advanced materially, and it is earnestly hoped that the end of the era of ruinous price-cutting is not far distant. They say that the war of prices has been fought for years, to the detriment of all concerned and particularly to the severe loss of the producer. What the industry now needs is a return to values which will bring reasonable prosperity to the entire interest. With the reduced production and increased consumption this can be accomplished if the opposing parties will let their fighting blood cool off and get down to wise business principles. Of course, the new conditions are novel, but we believe they will work out the salvation of the business.

Wine exports during January were of unusual large volume, partly on account of shipments to avoid the increase of freight rates. The table elsewhere shows that the total in bulk by rail was 1,370,865 gallons. The sea shipments were also very heavy. Sweets are hardening in value, and inquiries for all qualities are rapidly growing more numerous, a fact which is to some extent due to the great shortage in production this season. The exasperating slowness of the Internal Revenue officers in getting in their official reports may be judged by the fact that at this writing we are only able to secure from the First District the first two months of the production—September and October. The Fourth District report, however, includes November. These figures should be available promptly, in order that the producer and merchant might have the benefit of the knowledge of the quantity produced. The government collects such information for other classes of farmers, and and it is a hardship that the wine producers have to wait for this information until it is of no particular value. There is a big shortage, and the exact facts ought to be forthcoming even if a few gaugers do have to exert themselves to the extent of sending in their reports promptly. The matter will probably have to be referred to the department at Washington for adjustment. The available figures appear elsewhere.

The receipts of all kinds of wine from the interior during January were 314,000 gallons in excess of those of the same month last year, and for the first half of February 227,000 gallons more than for the same half month in '94, all of which shows that country stocks are being rapidly reduced.

A dispatch from New York, dated the 9th, says: "Sgobel & Day held their ninth auction sale of California wine and brandy yesterday, when they sold 50 barrels of port wine at 32 to 29 cents, averaging 30 cents a gallon; 50 barrels of Zinfandel at 21 to 17½ cents, averaging 19½ cents per gallon; ten barrels of brandy at 50 to 47 cents, an average of 48 cents per gallon; 40 half-barrels of brandy at 56 to 50 cents, averaging 51 cents per gallon. The port and Zinfandel were similar to their previous offerings from the Yolo Winery, and the port averaged 4 cents per gallon higher than the previous sale. The sale of brandy was unsatisfactory, and the prices were not up to what was anticipated. The next sale will take place in two weeks, and will be the heaviest up to the present time, there being six car-loads of Madeira, white wines, port and Zinfandel, as well as another car of brandy."

WHISKIES.—Trade remains about the same, fluctuating in good and bad streaks. Still there is not much complaining, as dealers recognize that the general business conditions do not warrant any marked improvement in their line. They know that they are getting their share of business, and, though not content, must accept the situation. The matter which is causing the most discussion and anxiety on the street is the feature of the new tariff bill permitting the transfer of whiskies in bond. This particularly affects the rectifiers, who fear that the distillers may go into the distribution of straight goods to the retail trade, and carry stocks in this city from which to sell large or small lots. We hardly think this probable, but there is a probability that the same end may be accomplished by the establishment of agencies with houses in this city. At the present time it looks as though a contest of this kind for trade will eventually be had. What the outcome will be remains to be seen.

Receipts of goods have been of ordinary volume.

A number of distillers at Chicago are informally discussing the formation of a new distilling combination, to include all distilleries in the country. Woolner says a combination which would be satisfied with a profit of barely two cents on a sixty million gallons yearly output, $1,200,000, would succeed. This profit would be small enough to discourage building new distilleries, and if properly managed the new combination could count on a steady income. The present Distillers' Company might go into such a deal on the basis of $4,000,000 present cash value for its securities, and outside distilleries could probably be secured for $3,000,000—total, $7,000,000. The cash value might then be capitalized at $20,000,000 or $30,000,000, and handsome dividends paid on the stock.

The Peoria Transcript, in writing of the status of the rebate vouchers of the Distilling and Cattle Feeding Co. now in the hands of the trade, says: "As soon as the bill had been filed it was reviewed by a number of attorneys, who took extended notes from it. Among them was H. C. Fuller, who represents a number of the rebate voucher holders. He says the present action of the court will doubtless result in endless litigation. There is a large number of these rebate vouchers which come due within the next few days. Though there are bonds on deposit in New York to secure their payment, it is said there is no money in the treasury. It is the intention to immediately institute intervening suits, and ask the court to order the payment of these vouchers. Mr. Fuller thinks that all will receive their money in full, but that it will take some time to get it."

CALIFORNIA BRANDY.—Owing to the better values of wines, the strong holders of brandies are not anxious to sell at current prices, as they feel confident that a fair advance will be realized ere long. The situation seems to warrant such an opinion, notwithstanding there were 93,547 gallons more in bond on Dec. 31st, 1894, than on the same date last year. Elsewhere in this issue will be found the tables of brandy production from September to December, 1894, inclusive. The figures are from the record of the First District, and show a peculiar situation in that two-thirds of the brandy product for the first five months was produced in December. The total for that period was 151,936 gallons.

Exports of brandy by rail during January aggregated 42,961 gallons, and sea shipments for the first half of February to domestic ports were of good volume.

IMPORTATIONS.—Business is jogging along at about the same pace, but is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. The demand is still confined to spot needs, and these are not of a pressing nature at this particular season. In other words, the importers are traveling in the same boat with other lines of trade.

Imports were of moderate volume during the fortnight.

Eschenaur & Co., of Bordeaux, announce that Mr. Alexander Wachter has retired from their firm, and that Mr. Frederic Eschenaur will continue the business with the assistance of his nephew, Mr. Louis Lung, who for some time past has held the procuration of the house, and his son Mr. Louis Eschenauer, who will also sign in similar manner.

Articles of incorporation of the Kentucky Distillers' Association have been filed with the county clerk of Louisville. The object of the association is to establish uniform rules relating to the distilling trade, and to protect and advance the whisky interest of Kentucky. The constitution, by-laws and regulations adopted by the unincorporated association, organized in October, are to govern. There is no capital stock, but a membership fee of $19 is charged. There are now fifty-seven members. The officers, who will serve until the second Wednesday in September, when the annual election occurs, are R. N. Wathen, president; R. Monarch, vice-president; Thomas S. Jones, secretary, and F. W. Adams, treasurer. These gentlemen form, with the following, the Board of Managers: J. M. Atherton, M. V. Monarch, G. W. Harris, T. H. Sherley, Max Selliger, J. W. Freiberg, G. H. Watson, G. C. White, William Patterson, Jr., R. F. Balke and G. D. Boldrick.

A New Zealand paper says that the prohibition movement is assuming awful proportions in New Zealand. It is no longer a campaign against drink, but against the individual drinker. In the smaller towns the movement has an eye on everybody, and if it considers that any person's nose is too vividly illustrated, or his breath is too near up to sample, some prohibition advocate calls upon him. Then having leaned his black umbrella against the door-post, he extracts with his black-gloved hand a note book from the tail of his black coat and asks him what he drinks. While he is waiting for an answer he fishes out a pencil from his black waistcoat and stands ready to enter the name of the drink in his book. If the information is not satisfactory he most likely calls on the woman next door and asks if the suspected person is ever seen intoxicated; if any one has noticed his breath; if he looks wild on Saturday nights; if he comes home late and has a difficulty with his key-hole; if he swears or make a disturbance; if he is ever seen bringing home drink, and various other questions. He notes down all the answers, and demands whether the interrogated female's own husband is strictly sober, and whether she has any suspicions concerning any one else in the neighborhood. Then he goes round to the back yard and looks over the fence to see if there are any bottles lying about.—Exchange.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

SEYMOUR'S LIQUOR BILL.

Two important bills were introduced in the State Senate on the 14th, by Senator Seymour, relating to the liquor-license question. One of them proposes a change in Senator Bert's bill (S. B. 216), and the other of Senator Mahoney's bill, recently introduced as a substitute for his uniform license bill. Both of these bills have been referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Senator Bert's bill undertook by an amendment to section 25 of the County Government Act, Article 27, relating to the power of Supervisors to license for purpose of regulation and revenue all kinds of business, the new feature being that "Such license tax shall be based on a fair and equitable distribution of the public burdens upon all classes of business, and with due regard for the volume of business transacted, without unequal or arbitrary discrimination against any kind or class."

Senator Seymour's bill is identical with Senator Bert's, with the following exceptions: After the words "license tax," in the above proviso, he inserts the words, "excepting in the case of saloons and other places where spirituous, vinous, malt, or other intoxicating beverages are disposed of for consumption on the premises where the same are sold or disposed of to consumers." And at the end of the article relating to license taxes he adds the following:

"The sale of pure wine and malt liquors by any hotel, restaurant or boarding-house keeper, to be consumed only by guests seated at table at regular meals, where no such liquors are sold or disposed of except together with and as a part of such regular meals, shall not be sufficient cause to enforce against any such party or parties a saloon-license tax, in addition to the regular license tax on hotels, restaurants and boarding-houses; and the Board of Supervisors shall clearly define by ordinance the distinction between such places of business, as aforesaid, and saloons or other places subject to special discriminating license tax for the sale or disposal of such liquor for consumption on the premises. It is, however, provided further, that Boards of Supervisors may, in their discretion, levy special license taxes upon all persons dealing in and selling rectified and compounded spirits which have not been distilled in the State of California, which special licenses may be fixed in amount equal to the license tax imposed for saloons or other places where liquors are sold at retail for consumption on the premises, such license tax to be in addition to the regular license tax for such liquor business."

Senator Mahoney's original bill for uniform licenses for the sale of liquors was objected to on the ground that it was unconstitutional in some of its provisions, and it was therefore withdrawn. He has since, however, introduced another bill, which was referred to the Judiciary Committee, which, in lieu of a uniform license provided for a maximum of $300 per year, and also against double taxation through county and municipal licenses. This limitation to $300 per annum would cause a reduction in the license tax imposed in many places, as, for instance, in Oakland, where the tax is now $400 per year, but would permit the raising of licenses in San Francisco, where the tax is only $100 a year.

Senator Seymour's bill copies all that was contained in Senator Mahoney's bill excepting that the maximum is fixed at $600 per year, and there are added several new sections, one of which exempts from the saloon license, hotels, restaurants and boarding houses, which furnish with regular meals only wines and malt liquors, and do not conduct any saloons, and also the following:

"The Boards of Supervisors, city and county, city and town governments, shall provide for a limitation of the number of licenses that may be granted for the sale of wines and liquors in saloons, or other places for consumption on the premises in each election precinct, in accordance with an established ratio per capita of population, based on votes cast at general elections ordered by the State, which said limitation shall be determined and declared from time to time as the public interest may require; said Boards of Supervisors and other governing bodies shall have the power to vary this limitation in different precincts in accordance with the public interests. Where the licenses now granted shall exceed the number permitted by such limitation per capita, no new licenses shall be granted for such retail liquor business, until the number of those licenses to engage in such business shall become less than the number authorized by such limitation, excepting, however, that all old licenses may be renewed.

"Section 5. No person who shall be licensed to sell, or dispose of spirituous liquors at retail to be consumed on the premises, as aforesaid, shall be a rectifier of distilled spirits, or deal in, or have in his possession on the said premises, or in connection with the business of said premises, any of the products of any rectifier, or compounder recognized as such by the officers of the United States Internal Revenue; all spirituous liquors, whether domestic or foreign, sold or disposed of by such person in such place of business, shall be brought upon the premises where such retail business is conducted, in original packages, and in the case of domestic products, shall be only what are known as double stamp, 'straight' goods, not less than three years old; and Boards of Supervisors, city and county, city and town governments, shall provide by suitable measures for the enforcement of these provisions, so as to protect the public against compounded and adulterated spirits, and especially so as to prevent the sale of adulterated beverages of foreign origin, providing also for the efficient inspection, discovery and destruction of all prohibited beverages.

"Sec. 6. Boards of Supervisors, city and county, city and town governments, shall have the power to provide for special licenses for all persons dealing in and selling rectified and compounded spirits, which have not been distilled in the State of California, which licenses may be fixed in amount equal to the license tax imposed for saloons or other places where liquors are sold at retail for consumption on the premises, such license tax to be in addition to the regular license tax for such liquor business; also to provide that signs, with letters at least six inches high, shall be prominently displayed over the main business entrances of such places, containing the words, 'Licensed to sell rectified liquors;' also to provide that all bottles and packages containing rectified or compounded spirits, sold or disposed of by such person so licensed, shall bear a stamp or inscription plainly setting forth that such liquors are compounded and rectified, and are not original distillates."

RECENT TREASURY DECISION.

Importation of Whisky in Packages containing less than one Dozen Bottles Prohibited.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, December 31, 1894.

SIR: The Department is in receipt of your letter of the 22d instant, submitting the application of Mr. George Dickson for relief from the payment of duty, under paragraph 244, act of August 28, 1894, on 36 gallons of whisky, instead of 6 gallons, the amount imported by him.

You state that Mr. Dickson imported into your port three cases, each containing two Dutch bottles, with a capacity of one gallon each, which were filled with Irish whisky; that these bottles of whisky were stated on his invoice to be free of charge to the importer (the correct value having been entered for customs purposes), and were intended to be distributed among the importer's customers as advertisements, to be placed in shop windows.

Paragraph 244, to which you refer, prescribes that "wines, brandy and other spirituous liquors imported in bottles or jugs shall be packed in packages containing not less than one dozen bottles or jugs in each package, or duty shall be paid as if such package contained at least one dozen bottles or jugs," and under this provision duty has been assessed upon 36 gallons, at $1.80 per gallon, making $64.80 as duty.

You call attention to the fact that it has been held by the Department that demijohns are not bottles within the contemplation of the section requiring that importations of wines and liquors be packed in packages containing not less than one dozen bottles, and state that "while this case does not come within the terms of such decision, it seems to be equally entitled to the benefit of as liberal an interpretation of the law."

As the vessels in which the spirits were imported in this case were bottles, and are specially mentioned in the paragraph quoted, without reference to their capacity, there does not appear to be any escape from its plain provisions, which require upon entry and delivery of the goods that duty shall be paid upon each package the same as if it contained twelve bottles.

The only relief which can be afforded the applicant is to permit him to export the three cases of whisky.

Respectfully yours,

CHARLES S. HAMLIN,

(7515g.)

Acting Secretary.

From the National Retail Liquor Dealers' Association,

DEAR SIR: A few weeks ago I wrote you in reference to the bill before Congress to increase the Beer tax, and asked you to send a remonstrance to your Congressman.

I am pleased to report to you that our work in this direction has been eminently successful, for, while at the time the above-mentioned letter was sent to you there were some who considered that there was really no danger, yet the agitation at Washington in favor of the measure was so great that even the skeptical ones became much alarmed, and I am fully convinced that, had it not been for the fusillade of protests sent in by our members, some action ere this would have been taken, either on increasing the tax on Beer or increasing the Retail Liquor Dealers' tax from $25 to $50, both of which are now quietly sleeping in the Ways and Means committee room.

We had decided to send a delegation to Washington to enter an earnest protest, but before doing so enlisted the services of a true friend of the cause who happened to be within the inner circle at the Capital, who has faithfully kept us posted of every burden being placed upon the Retail Liquor Dealer by this Congress; yet, as eternal vigilance is the price of safety, we shall still keep our watchmen upon the outer wall to guard against any emergency.

This and other matters in the past should more than convince you and your friends of the necessity of the liquor trade being thoroughly united, and I sincerely hope that you will leave no stone unturned to have your State thoroughly organized, and to enroll yourselves under the banner of the National Association.

I would be pleased to hear from you on this subject, and, if I can render you any assistance, kindly let me know. I hope to hear from you on this subject before long.

Very truly yours,

ROBERT J. HALLE,

Secretary Liquor Dealers' Association.

The Pepsin Whisky Co., of Louisville, is opening up quite a large trade with the druggists of the Coast. The Company is an offshoot of the firm of Applegate & Sons, whose "Beechwood" and "Rosebud" are well known in the liquor trade. George Henderson, whose headquarters are with Jos. Melzer & Co., is the Coast representative.

A new retailers' paper has appeared at Los Angeles. It is called "The Phoenix," and is published weekly. It is well edited—far better than the average retail journal—and in its announcement says, among other things: "The Phoenix will be as strong against the dive as it will uphold the legitimate trade." That has the true ring about it.

"Ma: you pay Miss Leech fifteen dollars a month for taking care of me, don't you?" (Ma): "Sixteen dollars, Willie. You see Miss Leech sticks very close to us and makes you be good; and I guess it's worth that much." (Willie, after thinking): "Because, if you let me have a little 'Lacryma Christi' at dinner sometimes, like Johnny Marzet has, I could be real good all by myself, and you could save most of that."

LITTLE ALCOHOL IS CHAMPAGNE. There are two peculiarities about champagne drinking which are capable of explanation. The one is the rapidity with which the wine exhilarates notwithstanding the small proportion of alcohol it contains. This is due to the carbonic acid gas evolved, which is inhaled while drinking, for it is the property of this gas to expedite the action of anything with which it is associated.

It is estimated that one glass of champagne is equal in effect to two glasses of still wine of the same strength, and is more rapid in action. The other peculiarity is the sort of lethargy or deadness which follows after excessive champagne drinking.

This is analogous to the stupor produced by carbonic acid gas but it is assisted and intensified by the excess of sugar deranging the stomach. The undigested sugar turns into acid, and thus it is that too much champagne is apt to produce dyspepsia. Herein we find both the blessing and the bane of this popular liquor.

Sweetness is often confused with richness in wine, but, as a matter of fact, sweetness is often produced by the addition of sugar, especially in champagne. It has been compared to charity, in that it covers a multitude of sins. The richness proceeding from natural saccharine is produced by a natural arrest of the process of fermentation, leaving an excess of saccharine in the liquor. It occurs mostly in the hot climates, but in port-making a richness is produced by the artificial arrest of fermentation. As a medicine, however, champagne is best "dry," and its tendency then is to thin the blood. —New York Commercial.

George M. Woodburn, son of James Woodburn, the Sacramento wholesaler, died of paralysis on the 4th inst. Mr. Woodburn was born in California, and was but 34 years of age at the time of his death. The stroke which eventually ended his life came but a few days before the end. The deceased left a widow and two small sons. He had been associated with his father in business for many years, and was widely known in the trade.

Gardner S. Chapin, of Chicago, of the liquor firm of Chapin & Gore, died at Santa Barbara, recently, from the effects of a surgical operation for an abscess in the left arm-pit. Blood-poisoning resulted from the operation, and after suffering much agony for several days Mr. Chapin succumbed. He was sixty-two years old, and was the surviving member of the firm of Chapin & Gore, James Gore having died in September, 1891. They had been in business in Monroe street, between Dearborn and State, for a quarter of a century. Their first enterprise in Chicago was a grocery on the West Side, but in 1864 they moved to a site at the northwest corner of Monroe and State. This was kept up for a few years, and then the firm went into the liquor business. Their place in Monroe street was a great resort for horsemen and sporting men of the well-to-do class, as well as for theatrical people. Chapin & Gore had branch houses in Indianapolis and one or two other cities. It is estimated that Mr. Chapin left a fortune of $300,000. Deceased was a member of many well-known societies, having been a thirty-third degree Mason, a member of Apollo Commandery, Knights Templar, and a Knight of Pythias. He leaves a daughter and one son.

EXHIBITORS AT BORDEAUX.

On the 9th instant the steamer Saturn sailed for Panama, taking with her the wines that have been collected by the Viticultural Commission, with the assistance of M. de Lalande, the French consul, P. G. Sabatie and others, for exhibition at the Societe Philomathique, of Bordeaux. The lot included 103 cases of wine, 8 of champagne and 11 of brandy. At Panama the wines will be trans-shipped and put aboard the French steamers sailing from Colon to Havre; thence to Bordeaux in plenty of season for the exposition, which opens May 1st and closes November 1st.

It will be seen from the following list that there will be a thoroughly representative list of our wines and brandies at the exhibition:

EXHIBITORS.

- P. G. Sabatie, San Francisco — 6 cases, containing Burgundy, white wine, Zinfandel, Claret, Sherry, Port, Angelica, Malaga, Brandy, and white spirits.
- Cupertino Wine Co., Cupertino — 12 cases Claret.
- Julius P. Smith, Livermore — 5 cases, containing Cabernet, Claret, Malbec, Zinfandel, Riesling and white wines.
- Arpad Haraszthy & Co., San Francisco — 3 cases, containing Champagne.
- H. W. Crabb, Oakville — 10 cases, containing Cabernet, Tokalon, Muscatel, Port, Riesling, Royal Red, Port and Brandy.
- Ruby Hill Vineyard Co., Livermore — 7 cases, containing Sauterne, Riesling, Hock, Cabernet, Zinfandel.
- George West & Son, Stockton — 4 cases, containing white wine, Brandy, Claret, Port, Frontignan.
- Beringer Bros., St. Helena — 8 cases, containing Riesling, Zinfandel, Carignan, Sherry, Tokay, Brandy, Angelica, Burger.
- E. Albertz, Cloverdale — 11 cases, containing Angelica, Brandy, Chateau Moulton, Sherry, Port, Zinfandel, Grape Syrup, Sauvignon Vert.
- Eisen Vineyard Co., Fresno — 1 case assorted wines.
- Inglenook Vineyard Co., Rutherford — 5 cases, containing Sauterne, Burgundy, Claret, Brandy.
- Jos. Sladky, Mountain View — 2 cases, containing Burgundy and Claret.
- C. Schilling & Co., San Francisco — 9 cases, containing Angelica, Port, Semillon, Gros Mansin, Riesling and Beelan.
- A. Repsold & Co., San Francisco — 3 cases, containing Brandy and Claret.
- John Sweet & Son, Martinez — 5 cases, containing Sauterne and Medoc.
- Pierre Klein, Mountain View — 1 case, containing Cabernet blend and Claret.
- L. J. Rose & Co., San Gabriel — 5 cases, containing Sherry and Port.
- Italian-Swiss Colony, Asti — 12 cases, containing Riesling, Sauvignon, Pinot Blanc, Barbara, Barola, Pinot Gris, Zinfandel, Brandy, Monte Christo, Sparkling Muscat, Claret, Burger, Martaro, Vermont.
- Grau & Werner, Irvington — 4 cases, containing Petit Pinot and Cabernet.
- Ben Lomond Wine Co., Ben Lomond — 7 cases, containing Sauvignon Vert, Grey Riesling (Chablis type), Claret.
- California Wine Association:
- C. Carpy & Co., — 3 cases, containing Matera, Sauterne, La Lomo Claret.
- Napa Valley Wine Co. — 3 cases, containing Zinfandel, Vine Cliff Burgundy.
- B. Dreyfus & Co., — 2 cases, containing Claret and Sherry.
- Kohler & Van Bergen — 3 cases, containing Malaga, Tokay, Madeira.
- S. Lachman & Co., — 3 cases, containing Muscatel, Angelica and Port.
- Kohler & Frohling — 3 cases, containing Blackberry Brandy, Traminer and Brandy.
- C. J. Wetmore, Livermore — 5 cases, containing white wine and Claret.

THE DIFFERENCE. — One man buys a dollar's worth of wine for use on his table; when it is consumed, California still has the money for trade, business or the general good. Another pays a dollar for tea, but when it is used China has the money, and you couldn't get it back with a steam derriek.

The Crown Distilleries Company has set up a splendid exhibit of "Cyrus Noble" whiskies in the main waiting room on the Oakland mole. The whiskies are shown in all the different kinds of bottles in which they are sold, the bottles being arranged in an octagonal pyramid, with a glass case surrounding it. The wood-work of this case is finely finished, and the advertisement is certainly unique. It brings the brand prominently before every person who crosses the bay from Oakland, and is attracting much deserved attention.

"BELLE OF ANDERSON COUNTY."

Seventy years ago, in old Ireland, Ed. Murphy, Sr., made whisky; a few years later his son, the father of Anderson County's own Ed. Murphy, became a distiller, and thus for nearly a century past old Bourbon whisky has been made by the Murphy family. Ed. Murphy, the third of the name, built a distillery in Anderson county, on the high banks of the Kentucky river in the year 1881, and has there established and ever since made but one brand, the now famous "Belle of Anderson County." Although made under the name of Ed. Murphy & Co., Mr. Murphy is the sole owner and manufacturer of the noted brand and distillery. He is about forty-five years of age, a courteous, fair-dealing, clever gentleman, whose popularity is unbounded, and is one of the very few men in the State engaged in the business who is a practical distiller. The entire work at his plant is under his personal supervision. The distillery and warehouses are located on a high, dry ridge, near the Kentucky river, twelve miles south of Frankfort and seven and one-half miles from Lawrenceburg. The warehouses being on high ground, the whisky improves by natural process—no heating—and comes out of bond at a high proof.

Mr. Murphy has never had the slightest complaint made by a single customer during his life-time career. His "Belle of Anderson County" whisky is distilled under the old-fashioned, hand-made, sour-mash formula and process, in use for more than a hundred years. He guarantees that every gallon of his whisky is mashed in small tubs by hand, and not by a machine, one bushel at a time, and that it is doubled in copper over fire, and not over steam. He believes he can safely say there are but few houses making hand-made sour-mash pure copper whiskies in the State of Kentucky. Only the best selected grain is used, and the water is from a pure limestone spring, situated fifty feet above the distillery, doing away with the use of pumps, the water being carried into the distillery by underground pipes. It flows continually into the flake-stand.

The distillery plant is of the latest equipment, and has a capacity of seventeen barrels per day. The area comprised in Mr. Murphy's property embraces about eighty acres, and every essential for developing, bottling and marketing products is at command on the premises. The one brand that is made efficiently represents all that is perfect and pure in the spirit of true excellence.

Messrs. Murphy & Co. have a wholesale house at Lexington, at 15 Cheapside and 14 Mill streets, where they claim to be first and foremost in bottling novelties to suit the trade, such as half-pints, pints and quarts with screw tops, wicker covering; also, white glazed Dutch jugs, with swinging handles, in quarts, half-gallons and gallons. They case the above goods as follows: Half-pint, 48 bottles to case; pints, 48 bottles to case; quarts, 12 bottles to the case; demijohns, pints, 24 bottles to the case; demijohns, quarts, 12 bottles to the case; jugs, any way the trade may call for them.

Arrayed in all the magnificence of mirror effects and electric light, the "Belle of Anderson County" now stands at the Lexington Exposition without a rival. She has captured all hearts, and by the witchery of her presence holds spell-bound in admiration all who behold her inimitable charms. But she is not shy of the male sex, and does not even frown upon her sister claimants for high honors. She reigns a perfect queen, and all bow down in homage before her.

Who is this "Belle of Anderson County?" A lovely spirit in a setting of crystal, her badge of sovereignty being a female crowned with nature's rarest gifts of attractive form and feature. In other words the "Belle of Anderson County" is the prime old, super-excellent sour-mash and rye whisky. It is standard in all markets, and holds it own against any competition.

This exhibition surpasses all others in the splendid arrangement of the products of Messrs. Ed. Murphy & Co., and demonstrates their enterprise and ability to cope with competition, and excel it, in any markets of the world. All visitors should see this splendid exhibit.

Address Ed. Murphy & Co., Lawrenceburg, Ky., or Lexington, Ky.

WINE MARKET IN SWITZERLAND.

Eugene Germain, the United States Consul at Zurich, has forwarded the State Department a very interesting report on the possible development of a market for California and American productions. Himself an old time Californian, he has the following to say in relation to the wine trade:

"Wines and Brandy.—These can be sold, and at prices now ruling in California I am convinced we could compete with other nations. The Swiss people drink more wine, population considered, than any other European nation. The tariff war with France killed the wine trade of the latter country which formerly supplied this Republic with most of the wines consumed, and Italy, Germany, Spain and Hungary at present supply their wants. The importations into Switzerland of wines were, in 1892: In barrels, 30,435,475 gallons; in bottles, 439 tons, of which only 1,611 gallons were received from the United States. This is an opportune time for our California wine men to strike for this trade. Our wines are not well known here. A few shipments have been made, it is true, but the product was not put into the hands of the right parties. If we want our goods put prominently before the public and establish a permanent trade, we must do as other nations have done for years—that is, merchants or growers must send their sons, nephews or cousins to the market intended to be canvassed, establish them, give them a good stock of goods, let them go before the respective mercantile communities in which they are established, and work up a trade by incessant work, which is not obtainable in any other manner.

"Consignments of goods sent out to disinterested parties will not bring about the desired results. See what English, German, Italian, French and Swiss houses have accomplished by establishing branches in the United States, Mexico, Central and South America, East and West Indies, China, Japan, Australia, etc. We have plenty of young men who, if opportunity is offered them, will develop business tact and ability, and who, otherwise, will remain dormant at home. Give our growing young generation an opportunity, and they will no doubt be a credit to their country. This, of course, applies not only to the wine industry, but to our entire American production."

In the tables showing the total volume of imports into Switzerland, Consul Germain shows that in 1892 the country imported 1,152,117 hectoliters (26.4 American gallons=1 hectoliter) of wine, of which this country supplied 61 hectoliters. The imports of brandy into Switzerland that year were 80,962 hectoliters, this country supplying 29 hectoliters. The duty on wine is 3½ francs per 100 kilograms (22 gallons); on brandy it is 20 centimes (3.96 cents) for every degree of alcohol contained. The wine now comes from France, Austria, Germany, Italy, Spain, Greece, Algiers, and the Danube provinces.

New Orleans Notes.

[SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.]

NEW ORLEANS, JAN. 28, 1895.

Business in all its branches is languishing, not only in New Orleans, but throughout the entire South. The low prices of cotton, together with last year's immense crop, a good portion of which is still unsold, the complete prostration of the sugar industry, owing to the repeal of the bounty, together with the general hard times existing everywhere, have at last had full effect here, and the transactions of trade are closely confined to immediate consumptive demand.

The California wine market during the past month has been active, large amounts being bought on account of the competition between the rival concerns controlling that trade. Prices have been forced to a figure far below the cost of production, which, with the announcement of an intended raise of 3½ cents per gallon on February 1st, and the raise of 5 cents (from 70 to 75) in the transportation rates between here and California points by the Southern Pacific Co., have caused an increased activity among buyers. This will, in all probability, result in New Orleans being a rather dull market for some time for the sale of California wines after the 1st of the month.

Mr. Maubee, of the California Wine Association, reports large sales, and predicts a decided improvement soon, owing to the light crop of last year, and the influences now at work among the dealers and growers in California toward the settlement of the condition of the wine trade. It is to be hoped that such will be the case, for the great bulk of the transactions in wine here certainly bring no profit to the handlers.

H. Flotte, representative of C. Schilling & Co. in this market, reports his trade as several carloads a month, and slowly increasing. As this firm sells only on the 25 cents a gallon basis for its cheapest wines, it speaks well for their trade in this, a cheap wine market. It is to be regretted that, for the benefit of the California wine industry, there are not more houses in California endowed with a similar quality of back bone.

I met F. A. Haber on the street the other day, and he remarked that California was, after all, the only State, and avowed his intention of an early return thereto.

Chas. E. Shillaber was in the city several days last month, looking after To-Kalon and Vina interests. He returned to Chicago on the 24th.

H. A. Bradford has bought of Paul Verneulle the entire stock of the To-Kalon Wine Depot at Toulouse and Royal streets, and has leased for a term of five years the commodious store situated at 303-305 (new numbers) St. Charles Street. This is one of the best locations in the city, and Mr. Bradford has spared no expense in fitting the same up, making it the neatest liquor store in the city. In the rear he has fitted up a first-class sideboard for sampling and retail trade, and has already created a run on "Crabb's Imperial Champagne." While conducting a general wholesale business in wines and liquors, the introduction and sale of To-Kalon wines and Vina brandies to the families and fine wine trade will be his especial aim, and, as Mr. Bradford is a pleasant, unassuming gentleman who thoroughly understands his business, he will undoubtedly attain that result.

Probably the largest buyers of California wines in New Orleans and the South is the wholesale grocery and importing house of Schmidt & Zeigler, established in 1845, their receipts of California wine in '94 being 5200 barrels. This house does an immense business in foreign goods, being direct importers and New Orleans agents for such well-known European houses as G. H. Mumm, Rheims; Seignouret Freres, (wines) Bordeaux; Marie Brizard & Roger, Bordeaux; J. and J. A. Nolet, Schiedam; Apollinaris Limited Co., as well as direct importers of all the popular European brands of fine wines, champagnes, cognacs, etc. They are also largely identified with the sugar interest, being owners of the famous Willswood plantation, one of the largest in Louisiana. Their wine and liquor department is under the management of Mr. Arthur Landrodie, a gentleman well fitted for so responsible a position.

New Orleans is the home of the celebrated Peychaud bitters, known to the mixologist of every first-class bar in the United States, and L. E. Jung & Co., the sole proprietors, are gentlemen who make it their business to see that the Peychaud bitters lose none of their well-deserved popularity. This firm are also large handlers of California wines, besides doing a general wholesale business in imported liquors and domestic whiskies. This is one of the oldest houses here, being established in 1845.

A comparatively new firm in the wine trade is that of A. and F. Martin, under the firm name of Martin Bros., established last May. The senior member of the firm is known to many of the California wine men as the cellar-man of Chateau Bellevue, A. Duval's Livermore vineyard, having been connected therewith since 1885. Martin brothers are the New Orleans agents of Mr. Duval's excellent wines, and are building up a splendid family trade among those who appreciate good wines. They are also agents for the Spanish house of Sanchez Romate y Hnos. of Jerez de la Frontera, Spain, growers of fine sheries, ports, etc. They also handle French clarets, cognacs, and other imported goods.

F. Duffour, the resident agent of J. Gundlach & Co., reports a good demand for Rhine Farm wines, and manages to hold his own despite the fierce competition.

J. M. Vernogles, representing A. Brun & Co., pursues the "even tenor of his way" and continues to place several hundred carloads yearly, at an advance over the prices obtained for the bulk of the California wines sold.

We are experiencing a delightful (?) sloppy period here at present, as it rains every week day, and then pours on Sunday for a change.

W. A. GERR.

SUCCESS OF CO-OPERATION.

Not for many months have the wine makers and grape growers felt as hopeful over the future as they do now. The California Wine Makers' Association has made its first sale of 1,000,000 gallons of wine to Lachman & Jacobi. The accepted price, according to report, was 12½ cents a gallon. Further than this, it is expected that 15 cents a gallon will be the price placed on the next million gallons offered, and that the era of low prices is over. The wine makers confidently look forward to a time when they can at least make a decent living, and when it will not be possible for shippers to engage in a veritable death struggle, with dirt-cheap wines as a basis for fighting material.

The problem of the wine-shippers generally is rapidly becoming, "Where shall we get cheap wine?" There are cellars of wine in the State that they cannot touch for less than 20 to 25 cents. These are held by the financially strong. The Wine Makers' Corporation will stand in good stead to extend aid to and bolster up the financially weak, so that absurdly cheap wine will become a thing that was.

Think of it! Wine sold in this State for 7 cents a gallon! That is cheaper than milk; cheaper than beer, and almost as cheap as water. That situation is a thing of last year. Let the year '95 show prices of 18 to 20 cents a gallon at first hands for the poorest grades. At such a price the grower can at least live in comparative decency, and not be compelled to plaster his possessions with mortgages without end.

We think Messrs. Lachman & Jacobi made a good purchase when they secured this lot of wines, and we believe that the next purchaser of a million gallons will do well to pay the grower what is equitable and right, and by so doing recognize the grower's right to existence.

The Eastern buyer can stand this raise, and to California viticulturists it means financial life. The Easterners can pay 25 cents a gallon for San Francisco just as well as 11 cents.

W. S. Hume & Co., of Silver Creek, Ky., producers of the favorably known "Hume," are operating on a very conservative basis this season. They are mashing but 400 bushels daily, while in past seasons they have run as high as 1000 bushels.

THAT NEW WHISKY WAREHOUSE

Not a few liquor merchants are endeavoring to foresee the effect of the establishment of the new bonded warehouse for whisky by Messrs. Bode & Haslett, under the provisions of the new tariff and revenue law.

It is of course known to all the members of the trade, that, under the provisions of this law, as many as ten special bonded warehouses for the storage of whisky can be established in any collection district; that is to say, the States of California and Nevada are entitled to at least twenty of these warehouses, being two collection districts, though of course no one expects that such a number will be established. Whisky can now be moved once in bond, the same as California brandy has heretofore been moved, and the question now uppermost is:

"Where will we get off?"

This has always been a great market for blended and compounded whiskies. "Straights," for bar use, have never had much of a call; but what the distributors of the blends and compounds fear is that Eastern distillers, through agents here, or independent agents, will begin to distribute to the retail trade direct, and that eventually a big business in straights will be done, stimulated by the ability now possessed of selling direct from the bonded warehouse.

Of course there is this to say: The old-time, conservative distillers are loth to do the business of distribution, preferring to sell to responsible wholesale houses rather than mix with the retail element. Nevertheless the existence of houses like the Aurora Distilling Co. and J. L. Nickel & Co., even under the old law, shows what can be done by offering retailers their goods direct from the distillery. Still more will the temptation be great to sell from a bonded warehouse in San Francisco.

The effect of this new warehouse on the course of trade is bound to be closely watched, and still more will the rectifiers and spirit people narrowly scan every movement that is made.

VEUVE CLICQUOT.

Much romantic interest surrounds the planting and growth of the celebrated champagne house of Messrs. Clicquot & Co., of Rheims. Toward the end of the last century Baron Ponsardin carried on a spinning factory in the city; in 1777 his wife presented to him a little daughter, who was subsequently named "Barbe-Nicole." She was a puny, sickly babe, and gave little promise of becoming the creatress of one of the chief champagne houses of the world.

As time progressed, however, she gained strength, and was able to belie the promise of her childhood. When seventeen years of age she married M. Francois-Marie Clicquot, who was her senior by four years. His father was a banker in Rheims, and a manufacturer of woollens and tissues of various kinds. He was also a votary to viticulture, and possessed vineyards in Bouzy and in Verzenay; he favored his immediate friends by selling to them the surplus choice wines his vineyards supplied beyond his own requirements.

After marriage the young couple determined to give the fullest attention to developing the vineyards, so as to make the trade in champagne an important part of their father's house. They bought the best vineyards in and greatly improved the viticulture of the district; but they never anticipated the extent to which their business would grow.

All "went merry as a marriage bell" down to 1805. Prosperity crowned their efforts, for, before the end of the century, the wine trade had become a lucrative branch of the business of the house, and it had also assisted in extending its banking transactions. But, on Oct. 8, 1805, M. Francois Clicquot died suddenly, leaving his young wife in terrible affliction, with the whole weight of the business on her shoulders. And now this hitherto delicate woman "found her vocation."

Resolutely taking her position at the head of the house, she directed all its operations, and with a business capacity wholly unlooked-for. Her first aim was to improve and extend the wine branch, and to make her champagnes the finest that could be produced. It was she who discovered the value of the rotary movement of the bottles for depositing the sediment of wine upon the corks.

Daily, for hours together, and year after year, confiding in no one, but studying with admirable perseverance and great sagacity, she remained in the cellars, carrying on her experiments and carefully watching their effects; and when, at last, she was certain that her discovery was of vast benefit to wine, she formally set up the rotatory movement of the bottles as a most important branch of the work to be carried on throughout her cellars. As soon as this method was made known it was adopted by every grower of champagne, and to-day "a good shaker" commands a high salary.

Mme. Clicquot established a bank and made it an institution of power. South of the Marne, near the vineyards of Epernay, she built for herself the fine Chateau de Boursault, and during the latter years of her life she lived here, and here she died in 1866, aged 89 years. The great estate then became the property of her granddaughter, the present Duchesse d'Uzes.

RESPONDED LIBERALLY.

The wine and liquor trade and wine-growers responded liberally to the call for subscriptions to the San Joaquin Railroad. Among the subscribers to the first $2,000,000 were the following:

E. F. Preston.....	$10,000
John T. Doyle.....	10,000

Col. J. E. Pepper, the Kentucky distiller, has fathered what will evidently be one of the great racing events of the year, at the Hawthorne track, Chicago. Secretary Kuhl of the Chicago Racing Association has issued the entries for the Pepper stakes, a handicap at one mile for all ages, to be run at the summer meeting at Hawthorne. The stake is a guaranteed affair of $5000 contributed by James E. Pepper & Co., of Lexington. That Colonel Pepper has designs on his own stake is evident by the fact that he has named nine of the cracks in his stable. E. Corrigan names six, Marcus Dailey four and Col. Ruppert four. All the cracks in the aged division have been nominated, and the race promises to be one of the most attractive on the Hawthorne card.

IMPROVEMENT OF WINES

By the Use of Pure Cultivated Yeasts.

(Continuation)

As said before, the yeast cells found on the vine and its grapes are not all of the same kind, but differ as much in shape and size as in their influence upon the must during fermentation, and by that upon the wine. While some of them are rather small and light, and for this reason settle down with difficulty, keeping the product turbid for a long time after fermentation, other yeasts, consisting of heavy, large cells, have the peculiarity of forming themselves into lumps, which sink to the bottom very readily, thus leaving the must almost clear during fermentation and giving a perfectly clear product; a yeast of a character like this, is, therefore, of special importance in the manufacture of champagne after the French process, as it greatly facilitates the "disgorgement."

Again, there are varieties of yeast which differ in the more or less rapidity with which they develop a vigorous fermentation, and others which differ in their power to reduce sugar and form alcohol. As a rule, yeasts which cause a vigorous fermentation to set in rapidly will be the most advantageous ones for fermenting must, as they will at once suppress any injurious forms of micro-organisms which may be present; but, on the other hand, in very warm countries a too rapid fermentation may raise the heat to such a degree that any further fermentation is "killed." The germinating power of the yeast is decidedly a matter of prime importance, as it will always be the aim not only to get as much alcohol as possible, but also to have very little or no sugar at all left after fermentation is over, whereby the keeping capacity of the wine is improved and it is brought to earlier maturity. Experiments made in this regard have shown, for instance, that a small, peculiar egg-shaped yeast (Saccharomyces apiculatus) which is almost the only yeast form found on apples, pears and cherries, but which also appears to a larger extent on grapes—only formed 2-3 per cent. of alcohol in a certain must—leaving a large proportion of the sugar contained unfermented, while the same must fermented with other kinds of yeast such as S. pastorianus or S. ellipsoideus showed 10 to 12 per cent. of alcohol, with nearly none or no sugar left. According to Pasteur and other French authorities the above named S. apiculatus is the one mostly found at the beginning of fermentation, and the spontaneous fermentation during the first 48 hours is therefore mostly due to that yeast; by and by, however, it gives way to the S. ellipsoideus, without disappearing entirely. Taking this for granted, the S. ellipsoideus must be the most energetic one, the one that carries the fermentation through, and therefore the one which is to be mostly favored as the true wine-yeast.

Furthermore, there is a noted difference amongst the yeasts according to the products being formed by them during fermentation. This difference not only refers to the quality but also to the quantity of these products, and thus can give an entirely different character to the wine. It is an established fact in this regard, that different kinds of yeasts not only change the quantity of alcohol and carbonic acid being formed, but also have a decided influence upon the amount of glycerin formed out of the same amount of sugar, upon the amount of different volatile acids, the amount of yeast itself, etc. There can be no doubt, according to this, that if the quantity of all these different products changes in a wine, the wine itself must also be changed to a certain degree in its taste and character, and as we have it in our hand to more or less favor the development of these different essential products, by the addition of such kinds of yeasts as we know are adapted to give the desired result, it is but logical to say that we have it by this process in our power to change the character and taste of a wine to a certain degree.

This, however, has nothing to do with the assertions made from different sides, that by the use of yeast from renowned, excellent wines it is possible to confer the fine flavor of these wines upon others, and thus make the same product out of an inferior, poor wine. The characteristic flavor (bouquet) of a wine is in the first instance due to the grape from which it is made, and the influence of the yeast in this respect can only be a secondary one, as described above. Nevertheless, the action of a certain yeast may change the character of a wine, making it similar to the one from which the yeast was taken, when the wine loses its original flavor in the course of time, or when it does not have an outspoken flavor of itself. Two remarkable instances, which I had the opportunity to observe myself, verify these statements: A gentleman in the foremost dry-wine district in this state had, 2-3 years ago, a small quantity of his Zinfandel fermented with a Bordeaux, for an experiment, and today this wine reminds one much more of Bordeaux wine than a Zinfandel, in spite of the pronounced flavor which Zinfandels always possess. Another instance I experienced myself, when I fermented a Burger must with a Riesling yeast, which changed the common Burger entirely, and brought it much nearer to the character of a Riesling. Similar and in many cases more striking results have been obtained by others in different parts of the world (France, Germany, Austria, Australia), where pure cultivated yeasts had already been made use of for a few years, and where they were followed by success—a success which was marked not only by an improvement in the taste of the wine but also by the much more appreciated improvement in the "cash" realized.

So acknowledged is the importance of the yeast for wine-making and so established the fact of the improvement of wines by the use of pure, cultivated yeasts, that in Germany, for instance, where a profitable but at the same time discriminating trade in "pure yeasts" had sprung up, the Government found it advisable to take the matter in its own hand, and erected experiment stations where pure cultures of yeast will be made, and from which the increasing demand for pure yeast is supplied to the wine-growers at reasonable charges. Other countries quickly followed this example, and in France, where the process of using pure yeast cultures for wine-making originated on a large scale about three years ago, thousands of wine-makers, that doubtfully shook their heads once when they heard about this new method of making wine, apply it as a matter of course to-day, and are prepared to tell of the advantages gained by it.

With the cheap general remark, "I do not believe in it," which nearly always comes from men who have never given the subject a single thought and are therefore far from being familiar with its principles—this great result—which was only attained after years of tedious and patience-trying work by most scientific men, who spend their lives in the study of micro-organisms—is neither stamped out of existence nor is its value lessened by any means. In spite of prejudice and narrowness, which great inventions nearly all had to contend with at first, it will also work its way through all difficulties and give satisfaction to its persistent promoters.

HOW ABOUT THAT OUTAGE?

Two departments of the Government at Washington are at loggerheads over the interpretation of the Wilson tariff bill in so far as it relates to the duty on excess evaporation and leakage of liquor in casks. In consequence of this Collector Wise finds himself in a rather uncomfortable predicament.

It appears that several weeks ago Stevens & Co., of this city, exported a quantity of liquor, and in settling up with the Collector for the duties asked for the usual percentage allowance for ullage. The latter rebate is governed entirely by the length of time the liquor has been in bond. But in this particular case the ullage exceeded the allowance authorized by the federal laws, and the Collector assessed this excess at the rate of $2.50 a gallon. The latter rate was the one established by the McKinley bill, but under the Wilson bill, which went into effect on Aug. 24th of last year, the rate was reduced to $1.80 per gallon. Stevens & Co. set up the claim that their excess could only be levied upon under the new rate, and when Wise refused to admit this they appealed the matter to the United States Board of Appraisers. The decision of the latter body was against the Collector.

"We think," said the Board, "that inasmuch as the merchandise, if withdrawn for consumption, would have been dutiable under the act of Aug. 22, 1894, the deficiency was subject to duty under the same act, as it is impossible for any one to determine when the evaporation or leakage took place. Assuming that the quantity of liquor had been deposited in the warehouse one day before the act of 1894 became operative, and withdrawn two years afterward, then, under the interpretation placed on the statute by the Collector, we would have to assume that all of the evaporation occurred on the one day in which it was in the warehouse prior to the act of 1894 becoming operative."

In the same mail which brought this decision came another from the Secretary of the Treasury on the very same subject, but diametrically opposed to that of the Board of Appraisers. S. Glaser, of this city, had been assessed for excess ullage just as Stevens & Co. were, but instead of appealing to the appraisers he filed his protest with the Secretary of the Treasury. The latter finds that the ullage took place under the act of 1890, and that the goods were not drawn for consumption, as prescribed in the Wilson bill, but for exportation. He decides that the Collector was correct in assessing the excess under the old law.

The question is an important one to liquor dealers, and they are anxious to have it settled, as it involves many thousands of dollars which they may have pay the Government, or may save, as the case may be. The difficulty will have to go to the courts for final determination. Unless the Board of Appraisers' decision is appealed from within thirty days, it will stand as the law hereafter. The indications are that an appeal will be taken, and in that case it may be many months before the question is settled. In the meantime all duties paid for excess ullage will have a protest attached.

THE QUESTION OF LICENSE.

The license question has been rather prominently before the Legislature at this session. Public attention has been concentrated largely on the Mahoney Senate Bill, which provides for a maximum license of $25, $50 and $75 per quarter, in counties of the first, second and third class, respectively. Meetings held in Oakland, Fresno and other places were decidedly opposed to the measure, and when it reached the Senate Judiciary Committee for a hearing, the author withdrew the bill.

The Linder bill comes next for consideration. It provides for a minimum license of $75 per quarter in any county whatever, and is a bill that we think will rouse the sleepy San Francisco retail trade from its apathy. San Franciscans have always contended that they had nothing to fear; that the license of $21 a quarter was all that they would ever be expected to pay. What do they think of the Linder bill? Are they to rest in fancied security forever?

Charles A. Wetmore has been spending some time lately in Sacramento. Not being engaged in the wine business, and being naturally an active man, he has gone to Sacramento with some ideas which he wants to have engrafted on the license system.

His plan is to establish a maximum of license; to restrict the number of saloons in each election precinct, and to prevent the sale of single stamp goods. What Mr. Wetmore will accomplish remains to be seen, but it is understood that he wished, if possible, to put in his measure as a rider to the Mahoney bill, had that measure ever reached the floor of the Senate.

[As Billy Forrest, an old-time actor, would say, "On-ut! Lorbv!"]

Riverside county is no longer a prohibition county under the provisions of a license ordinance recently passed by the Supervisors. Five licenses were granted by the Supervisors on the 5th. The temperance element of the several towns protested against the issuance of the licenses, but the board fully decided to experiment with licenses to control the liquor traffic, which has been carried on in violation of the law for two years past.

Pure California Wines & Grape Brandies.
THE
OF SAN GABRIEL,
Los Angeles County, Cal.
Are now prepared with a large stock of wines and brandies of their own growth to supply the trade and the market generally. This Company owns the largest vineyard in the world, covering over 2,500 acres. They have held their wines and brandies for several years in their own cellars, and do not offer any of their product until it has become properly matured. Their large stock of matured wines and brandies thus accumulated is now open to the purchaser. All goods under their trade mark are warranted pure and unadulterated. Being the successors to B. D. WILSON & Co., and to J. DE BARTH SHORB, they have become possessors of the "SHORB" BRAND OF BRANDY and "MOUNT VINEYARD" WINE. Correspondence solicited.

WALDEN COGNAC.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected French grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets. It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES.—The long-looked-for turn of the tide has come at last, and the California wine industry is at the present time in a better and more promising condition than it has been for several years. This, too, at a time when general business is greatly depressed, and there is no life in trade. Up to the advent of the new era, notwithstanding the demand increased and the product decreased, prices steadily declined till good, sound wine was far cheaper than spoiled wine, which had, by natural process, become vinegar. With these conditions prevailing, the downfall could not continue indefinitely without a crash that would result in ruin to both producer and merchant. Knowing this, the trade effected a combination, and the leading producers adopted a similar course. Considering the times, the change that has followed within a few weeks has been surprising. Prices from first hands have advanced one-half at one jump, and confidence is so much restored that values are still on the upward move. What is of more importance to the welfare of the industry is the fact that the two combinations of merchant and producer have decided upon co-operation instead of antagonizing each other's interests. The consequence has been an advance of prices and contracts between the two corporations that assure stability to the business for some years to come, at least. The details of these contracts will be found in another column of this issue. Naturally there are those who rebel against these arrangements, but we think they are not wisely advised. In other words, if the trade proceeded on the basis of straight competition backed by business ability and quality of goods, instead of the ruinous policy of cutting prices to the lowest possible limit, the wine industry of California would soon be sound and prosperous. The situation warrants this statement. To the croaker who talks about the possibility of a large vintage reducing prices this year, we would suggest first, that despite the hard times, the demand for California wines is rapidly increasing; second, that the '94 crop was very short; third, that stocks in interior cellars are being rapidly depleted, and that exports are in excess of receipts. Wine is going to Eastern and foreign markets at the rate of over a million gallons per month on the average, and this draft is on merchantable wines. The question which naturally arises for these croakers to answer, is: With such conditions prevailing, where will be the surplus of wines of this kind when the '95 vintage is ready for the market? A correct answer to this query will be gratefully accepted.

Shipments during the fortnight have been of good volume and exports to Central America and Mexico very numerous. At present orders are not active, and are not expected to be until Eastern stocks, forwarded to save the advance on freight, have been reduced. At the same time, leading houses are refusing orders for Spring delivery at prices considerably in advance of those now prevailing.

Sweets are enjoying the new conditions and advancing in value. We hear of the sale of three hundred thousand gallons of standard goods at prices that would have been regarded unreasonably high about three months ago.

A dispatch from New York, dated the 19th instant, says: "Messrs. Sgobel & Day to-day held their tenth sale of California wine and brandy, and sold as follows: Fifty barrels port wine, 30 to 29 cents per gallon, average 29½ cents; 50 barrels Zinfandel, 23 to 20 cents per gallon, average 21 cents; 2 barrels Madeira, 60 cents per gallon; 20 barrels Riesling, 27 to 26 cents per gallon, averaging 26½ cents; 14 barrels Chasselas, 26 to 24 cents per gallon, averaging 25 cents, 14 barrels Sauvignon, at 25 cents per gallon; 20 barrels brandy in bond, 59 to 51 cents per gallon, averaging 53 cents. It must be remembered that the tax of $1.10 has to be paid by the buyers of this brandy, in addition to the above figures. The attendance at this sale was a full one, larger than at previous sales, partly owing to very satisfactory weather. Zinfandel sold 1½ cents per gallon higher than at the last sale, while port sold ½ cent per gallon lower. Messrs. Sgobel & Day announced the next auction sale for the 26th, when they expect to offer six car-loads of assorted wine and one car-load of brandy."

Late advices from New York are as follows: "The prices now asked for dry wines are from three to four cents higher than they were a month ago. The demand, however, has not improved to any extent, but there is every probability that the prices asked will be paid, it being the unanimous desire of the trade for some time past to have California wines on a sounder basis. The sweet-wine prices remain unchanged, as also the brandies."

The exports of California wines by sea and rail in January, 1895, were as follows:

CALIFORNIA BRANDIES.—With respect to brandies there is little to be said save that they are feeling the effect of the advance in wine values, and are naturally regarded as much more desirable as speculative property than they were three months ago. Holders are in no hurry to sell at prevailing prices, and there is little prospect of any particular movement in the near future.

WHISKIES.—There is nothing special to report in the way of trade. The general interest is centered in the new deal with reference to the D. & C. F. Co. It is announced from Chicago that the receiver of this corporation has entered into a contract with the independent spirit distillers to materially advance prices, and maintain them. As under such conditions there would be no competition, buyers would have to submit. Some of the stockholders of the D. & C. F. Co. are strongly opposed to the scheme on the ground that it is not business, as it would tend to drive out spirits and replace them by cheap whiskies. At any rate, they have sued for an injunction to restrain the receiver from carrying out his plan. What the result will be remains to be seen. The imports of whiskies for the half month were small.

The receipts of American whiskies by sea and rail at San Francisco in January were as follows:

By sea from Atlantic ports.....	Cases.	Barrels.	Hf-brls.
.....	331	80
“ re-imported.....
“ rail overland.....	232	1,046	72
Total.....	563	1,126	72

The receipts of alcohol, spirits, etc., by rail in January were 104 cases and 1480 barrels.

The receipts of foreign whiskies by sea in January were 42 octaves.

The exports of American whiskies by sea to foreign ports in January were 437 cases and 983 gallons, valued at $5,698.

The receipts of American whisky at San Francisco in February by sea and rail were as follows:

By sea from Atlantic ports.....	Cases.	Barrels.	Hf-brls.
.....	274	40
“ reimported.....
“ rail overland.....	145	1,129	31
Total.....	419	1,169	31

The receipts of alcohol, spirits etc., by rail in February were 26 cases and 2164 barrels.

The receipts of foreign whiskies in February were 550 cases.

The exports of American whiskies by rail in February were 224 cases and 379 gallons, valued at $2,420.

IMPORTATIONS.—The principal importations in January were as follows:

Champagne—2264 cases.

THE SITUATION AT SACRAMENTO.

It being inadvisable at present to critically review the situation at Sacramento, we shall defer doing the same until our issue March 20th, by which time the Legislature will have adjourned and the doings of the session on the liquor license question can be fairly and impartially discussed. Suffice it to say that the members of the board of trustees of the California State Protective Association—Messrs. Edoff Lienthal, Alfs, Mundy, Staude, Campe, Benjamin, Loewe, Kirkpatrick and Wolf—have been attending to the interests of the trade to the best advantage, and that Attorney G. W. Baker has been doing everything possible for the trade. It is far better at this time to present what the enemy has to say at this juncture, and we herewith reproduce the latest editorial effort of the California Prohibitionist:

"THE LIQUOR BILLS.

"Mrs. B. Sturtevant Peet, the W. C. T. U. State president who is leading the anti-saloon and suffrage forces at Sacramento, writes encouragingly in regard to the fight against the former measure. The withdrawal of the original bill, followed by the measure introduced by Senator Linder of Southern California, was a confession of weakness on the part of the liquor interests, as it showed very plainly that they saw no hope for their success in an open field, and must perforce be carried, if at all, under cover of some other matter.

"The Linder bill, however, is also too transparent, even though clothed to suffocation almost, in extraneous rubbish, and the measure upon which the saloonists base their final hopes will not become patent until the closing hours of the session, in the hope that its design will not become known until too late to be circumvented. The only possible chance for its failure to appear in the most stringent spirit at that time will be the fear of its promoters that it will create an adverse sentiment, that might prove fatal later to the political ambitions of the members upon whom it relied to make the measure a law.

The liquor lobby is wasting no opportunity to make every point tell, and interesting developments may be expected later in the session. The bitter opposition meeting all attempts to investigate corruption of any kind, particularly the San Francisco monumental election frauds, show very plainly that the present Legislature has no disposition to agitate any matter that would ventilate the methods pursued by the saloon candidates, and leave little to expect in the way of any legislation in favor of good government along these lines.

"Both Democratic and Republican members are alike in this respect, and the few isolated members who stand out from the mass for good government and decency are indeed conspicuous.

"With the passage of the anti-cigarette law, the efforts of the body in the direction of morality has apparently ceased, leaving that tender plant, like its predecessors, to fall a victim to the mildew of non-enforcement, that always attends the enactment of like measures at the hands of an executive force not friendly to its spirit.

"The Suffragists have practically given up their fight for equal representation at the polls, despite the supremacy of the party in power who stood openly committed to their cause, and will come away from the scene of action rejoiced if under the present order of things, they are conceded the right of school suffrage, or the questionable privilege of getting their request referred to the popular male vote upon its alleged constitutional bearings.

"However, if nothing else has been accomplished, the anti-saloon and suffrage workers can return to their homes with the assurance that they have made a brave fight for the cause of good government, and through their agitation and efforts have succeeded in making more soon and certain the day of triumph that is bound to come."

THE COMMISSION AND THE LEGISLATURE.

At this date of writing, March 4th, the relations which the State Viticultural Commission will sustain to the State in the near future appears very uncertain. The University politicians, headed by Professor Hilgard, whose opinions on matters viticultural no one respects, and aided in so far as they are able by those unclever hands, Messrs. Shinn and A. P. Hayne, are making a determined effort to wind up the affairs of the Board and turn over its effects to the University's Agricultural Department. Their ideas are embodied in a House bill ostensibly introduced by the Committee on Retrenchment, but really by Mr. Phelps.

The Commission's ideas are embodied in a bill introduced by Senator Langford, winding up its affairs on December 31st next, and going out of business honorably.

The Senate Finance Committee has inserted $2500 for the maintenance of the Board, without further recommendations.

What will eventually be the outcome will appear in the next issue of the REVIEW, which will be published after the proceedings of the Legislature of 1895 have passed into history.

Considerable amusement has been created by two interviews with A. P. Hayne and Charles A. Wetmore, on the future of the Commission. Whoever put Mr. Hayne forward into that discussion must have known that he would be fairly swallowed alive. It takes a hard fighter to equal Wetmore when he is at his best, and certainly the College of Agriculture has no one to equal him in this direction, saying nothing of Mr. Hayne's "prentice hand" efforts.

Turner Hall at Sacramento was the scene of jollity and festivity on the evening of the 28th ult., when, in response to the following invitation, over 500 people assembled:

"ANTE-MORTEM.

"The Governor, State Officials, Members of the Legislature, Officers and Attachees, State Commissioners, Members of the Press and Parliamentary Attorneys, are respectfully invited to attend, with their ladies and friends, the Ante-Mortem Ceremonies of the State Viticultural Commission Thursday evening, February 28th, at Turner Hall, K Street, between Ninth and Tenth, at 9:30 p. m.

"The Bar'l will be decorated appropriately with the Camelia Sacramento.

"The Hon. John P. Irish has promised to deliver the address of consolation and hope, and Dr. Beverly Cole is expected to hold the public pulse. Regents of the University will supply the immortelles, and soothingly promise to keep our grave green.

"CHAS. A. WETMORE,

"EX-President of the Commission.

"Show this card at the door to admit bearer, ladies and friends."

Down the center of the large hall was a long table, at which a light luncheon was served, while the "bar'l" in question was a 50-gallon barrel of "Cresta Blanca" Sauterne, nicely cooled.

The festivities were up to date in every particular. There were plenty of funeral songs, such as the "Old Sexton," and John P. Irish made one of the finest speeches of his life in pronouncing the eulogy. Among those who spoke were Senators Simpson, Gosford, Bart Burke, Beard, Mr. Wetmore and others. About eighty members of both Houses took in the event.

PROMINENT RETAILERS — NO. 3.

Charles F. Kapp.

Among the retailers who have achieved remarkable success in this city during the past few years is Charles F. Kapp, of Kapp & Street, whose portrait appears above, and who is one of the most popular purveyors of good things to eat and drink in the State.

Mr. Kapp came to California from Pennsylvania in 1886. He at once assumed the management of the Club House at Del Monte, and retained it until ready to come to this city, in 1889. For a little over two years he was located at 200 Market street, but began business for himself, in his present location at 1200 Market street, on May 28, 1892.

Although from the great Quaker State, there is nothing subdued about Mr. Kapp. Indeed, were it not for the quiet native dignity of him, and his winning smile, one might doubt if he had ever seen a Quaker, such an embodiment of active force is he. Quick, fearless, keen, a thinker and a doer — that is Chas. F. Kapp in business. All this he had to be to record a success under the difficulties he encountered in opening at 1200 Market. The place had been losing money for some time. It has a frontage on Market street of only forty-two inches; the room itself is hardly big enough to get a bar into, being only nine feet by eleven, and most men would have considered that there was no way to take care of a rush of patrons, even if a trade were built up. Not so Mr. Kapp. He saw that the location at the corner of Taylor and Golden Gate Avenue was favorable, and that there was room to spread — down one short flight of stairs, if not on the ground floor. He believed in himself, and in his knowledge of how to treat people. The result is that in less than three years he has established the biggest little saloon in the world, and a regular young mint at that. Needless to say, he has been and is tireless in his efforts to please, and as tasteful as tireless. Entering from Market street, you are at once impressed with an air of cosiness and comfort. Every available inch of space is utilized and decorated. The details of the bar are perfect, as is also the service. Case goods on the wall, a dainty lunch in the corner, mirrors, pictures, all sorts of catchy souvenirs — how in the world does "Charlie" find room for it all? Have a little "Golden Wedding" rye out of that dainty golden tea-pot, and come down stairs. A wide, richly carpeted stairway sweeps down from Golden Gate Avenue. As above, everything has its place, and is in it. Palms, pictures, more case goods, mirrors and music! Here are eighteen elegantly furnished rooms. They are inviting; no wonder the public frequents them. Follow the sign, "To the Grotto." A spacious hall it is now, though once it was but an airy basement. Here is a second bar, but enclosed so that lady patrons need not object to its presence. At the tables in this hall, and in the private rooms, are many pleasant people eating the already famous Kapp & Street tamales, and drinking whatever best pleases them. Truly, this is a great place grown out of a tiny one, a flattering evidence of what a man can produce in a short time by the exercise of good judgment.

Notes and Personals.

The winery belonging to the estate of F. W. KIND, of Azusa, Cal., has been sold to MAX LOEWENTHAL.

The Kentucky Liquor Co., of Salt Lake, were damaged by fire and water at a recent blaze in Salt Lake.

GEORGE BODRWIG & Co., have moved from their old Montgomery street quarters to new and large rooms at 110 Geary street.

Messrs. HENR. ROODE, TEAGLE & Co., Oporto, announce that by mutual agreement Mr. DIXON W. A. TEAGLE has retired from their firm.

E. R. LUENTHAL, of the Crown Distilleries Co., has been east during the past fortnight on business connected with the spirit and hop trade.

E. GARNIER & Co. have engaged SAM M. RHEINSTRON, formerly of the S. LACHMAN Co., to represent them in the New York and New England markets.

F. ALBEREZ, the Cloverdale wine-maker, intends going to Europe shortly. He will visit his old home in Denmark, and will return in time for the next vintage.

The Italian-Swiss Colony are fitting up a new store and sales-rooms on Battery street, near Market, for the better accommodation of their city and outside patrons.

The firm of STREINKE & BRUNING, of Los Angeles, has been changed, the Bruning interest having been acquired by Mr. STREINKE, who will hereafter conduct the business.

At the auction sale of JOHN W. BASHFORD, of 11 Hart street, Mark Lane, London, held on the 7th of February, 12 half barrels of California Brandy were sold 3s. 6d. to 3s. 9d. (84 to 90 cents) per gallon, in bond.

JOSEPH MELTZER & Co. are making a telling effort to secure a goodly share of the Central American and Mexican trade. They now have an active representative in the field, and are reaping a fair share of orders.

The California Wine Co., of St. Louis, Mo., has been incorporated by J. C. W. Meyer, J. C. W. Schnell, Jacob Frank, Jr., and John A. Stickfort; capital stock, $15,000. Mr. Meyer was formerly connected with the Napa Valley Wine Co.

F. S. KORTI, the well-known Oregon street wine dealer, is steadily extending his business, and is now regularly shipping to Central American points. He has a well-established and profitable trade, which he knows how to take care of.

ROBE & HASLETT announce that their whisky bonded warehouse is now in active operation. Up to February 25th they had received twenty car-loads of whisky and spirits in bond, and are naturally feeling quite well satisfied with the manner in which their enterprise is progressing.

Spirits exploded in the "Pilgrimage" distillery of JAMES LEVY & Bro., at Lancaster, Ky., on the 18th ult., the storekeeper's lantern being responsible. A fire followed, causing a loss of about $10,000. The firm will rebuild at once, and expect to have everything in order in sixty days.

HUMPHRIS Bros. have just received 100 barrels of "R. B. Hayden" sour mash whisky, in bond. This house has met with flattering success, and notwithstanding the dull times are rapidly extending their business. This is the result of enterprise, first-class goods and proper treatment of customers.

C. M. MASS, manager for I. De Turk, has just shipped three car-loads of wine to New Orleans. These goods were sold at prices ranging from 35 to 50 cents, in spite of the idea held by some that New Orleans is only a cheap market. Mr. MASS has also recently made some heavy shipments for the Texas market.

CORNWELL LEVY & Co., the Sansome street wholesalers, failed recently. Their liabilities are about $16,000, and their assets are $12,000. The firm formerly had a store room on Battery street, but abandoned it about six or eight months ago, moving their stock into warehouse and transacting an office business since that time.

Two unknown footpads assaulted CHARLES W. MARK, manager of A. OYENBOLT & Co., Pittsburg, on the night of the 18th ult. He was knocked down while near his home by a blow over the head from a slung-shot, and a second blow cut open his cheek. While the injuries are serious, we trust that he will have a speedy recovery.

CHAS. MEINERKE & Co. have received 240 barrels of fine whiskies, and have the same now in bond in this city. They are prepared to furnish "Finch's Golden Wedding" and "Gibson" ryes, "R. B. Hayden" sour mash and "Chickencock" whiskies in lots to suit. Their trade in these standard brands is good, and deservedly so.

B. R. KITTRIDGE, of the Sonoma Wine and Brandy Co., New York, has been on the Coast during the past fortnight. Report has it that he has purchased about 500,000 gallons of sweet wine. He has cleared up all of the wine in Southern California that was for sale in the open market, and has also made extensive purchases of GEO. WEST & SON.

R. E. SEVERNS, for a long time chief accountant of ZELLERBACH & SOSS, is now identified with the ITALIAN-SWISS AGRICULTURAL COLONY, now established at 109 Battery street. MR. SEVERNS is an active, energetic and thorough business man, and we predict for him good success in his new field. The company are to be congratulated upon securing his services.

GEORGE WEST & SON, of Stockton, have just made a contract with SANDERS & Co. for the immediate delivery of another of the largest stills made by the firm. The still is to be somewhat larger than the one now owned by WEST & SON (which is the largest brandy still in operation in the world), and will be capable of handling about 25,000 gallons of wine daily. The still is to be manufactured and set up as soon as possible.

Attention is directed to the trade circular of GOODERHAM & WORTS, Ltd., who announce that they have appointed SHERWOOD & SHERWOOD their Pacific Coast, Mexican and Central American agents for "Canadian Rye Whisky." This whisky is matured in wood, and bottled in bond under the supervision of the Canadian Excise authorities, and the firm of SHERWOOD & SHERWOOD is admirably situated to give the goods a wide and ready sale.

The "Breeder and Sportsman" says: H. W. CRABB, the vineyardist of Oakville, Napa county, has traded to F. W. LOEBER, of Vineland Stock Farm, his interest in the stallion "Grandissimo," (2:23 $\frac{1}{2}$). As a result of the trade, Mr. CRABB becomes the owner of "Topsy" (2:26 $\frac{1}{4}$) by "Grandissimo," and "Alco," a very promising three-year-old pacer by "Alconeer." Topsy and Alco will be campaigned in Mr. CRABB's stable this year by JAMES BERRYMAN.

E. MARTIN & Co., one of the pioneer houses in the liquor trade, who have been located on Front street for a great many years, have removed to the Lachman Block, No. 411 Market street, where better facilities can be had for handling business. The premises are large and well lighted, and the offices are elegantly fitted up. The firm now has one of the handsomest and best equipped establishments in the country, where the many friends of "Argonaut" and "J. E. Cutter" whisky will receive a hearty welcome.

THE CALIFORNIA WINE GROWERS' UNION has been lately re-organized. MR. WERTHEIMER has retired, and his interest in the business is now owned by P. C. DESCALSO. We are informed that the purchase involved the transfer of valuable income property in this city, and MR. DESCALSO says that he has a long line of such real estate to trade for good, sound wine. The officers of the new company are J. CH. DE ST. HUBERT, President, and P. C. DESCALSO, Vice-President. The business is growing, and will be largely extended.

SUSSKIND COHN, of the firm of H. COHN & Co., of Eureka, died recently, very suddenly, of heart disease. MR. COHN was but twenty-six years of age, and on the evening before his death he attended a ball in Eureka, given by the Native Sons of the Golden West, appearing to be in the best of health and spirits. The remains were brought to San Francisco for burial, the funeral taking place from the residence of his parents at 1221 $\frac{1}{2}$ Eddy street. MR. COHN was a very popular young business man in the Humboldt Bay country, and was identified with Humboldt Parlor, N. S. G. W.

LUDWIG WAGNER, of the Pacific Copper Works, 565 Mission street, has just finished a Distillery for the special purpose of distilling different kinds of fruits only. The still is made by order of Messrs. LEONARD LOUPE and ISIDORE OBER-SHNEIDER, and will be erected at the Loupe fruit ranch, called Fair Oak Villa Ranch, at San Jose. The Fruit Brandy made there will go into the bonded warehouses at San Jose and San Francisco, and will be sold at a reasonable price to the trade in order to make it popular. As the distillery is in charge of an experienced distiller, and the best material is used, there is no doubt that the goods will be unequalled, and the enterprise will, we hope, be a success for the proprietors and a benefit for the fruit producers.

MR. N. AMERS has been doing a large business at the corner of Market and Stewart streets for years. Not content with this, however, he now proves himself in touch with the spirit of progress, and confident of the future by securing a location at the junction of Market and Sacramento streets, where he is fitting up what he predicts will be "The finest saloon in America." He will maintain the old place also, but intends taking off the wholesale license. An inspection of the new premises shows that Mr. AURENS will have one of the retail palaces of the city. An open lobby with a frontage of twelve feet on Market, is finished in marble for wainscoting, and is arranged for the display of case-goods above the marble on both sides. The swinging doors are in rich art glass. Inside a crowd of experts are now endeavoring to excel their former efforts in decoration. The same elegant effect of marble and costly wood is kept up, and there are already admirable results of good taste everywhere. MR. AURENS is to be congratulated on his judgment and his energy. He is sure to become a leader in his line of business.

The United States Government instituted proceedings at St. Louis, some time ago, to forfeit certain packages of liquor, on the ground that while labeled with the name of a well-known London maker, the contents were an inferior imitation. Judge PRIEST, of the Federal Court, decided against the Government's contention, saying that the question was, when a compounder or rectifier labels his product as that of a well-known distiller or rectifier, and attempts to place them under such brands on the market, does he subject such brands to forfeiture and himself to fine? So section 3449, he said, seemed to declare. But did Congress in this internal revenue legislation, which dealt solely with the taxation of liquor, intend to legislate on the question of trade-marks, or to protect the public from a base quality of merchandise? He thought not; and he found a reason for so thinking, because the internal revenue act expressly recognizes "compounders," and legalizes such a manipulation of liquors as that shown in the case. It was not claimed, he said, that the government had lost any of the taxes that ought to have been paid on these goods, and the only reason for asking the forfeiture was because they were counterfeits of brands of other manufacturers, and were consequently a fraud on other makers when the government had in no wise undertaken to protect them, nor could it legitimately undertake to protect them.

JOHN SPRUANCE, the wholesale liquor dealer, is building a handsome residence on the north side of Jackson street, 75 feet west of Steiner. The house will be in the Colonial style, from the plans of J. H. LITTLEFIELD, the architect, and will make a very attractive addition to the select quarter in which it will be erected. MR. SPRUANCE bought the site about two months ago, and at once commenced preparing for the erection of a fine residence. That now under way will cost $12,000. The lot is 40x127 8, and the house will have a frontage of 24 1/2 feet on Jackson street. This will leave considerable space on the side, which will be utilized as an entrance-way, for the main entrance will be at the side, and not at the front of the building. The depth of the house will be 73.4. Gaining the entrance porch by either of two flights of stairs, one comes upon a vestibule 9x15, with tiling in mosaic. The steps will be of artificial stone in terra cotta tints. Handsome plasters will flank the main door, which will be surrounded by side lights. Passing through the main door, one will come upon the main hall, 13.3 x 19.6. This may also be used as a reception room. The parlor, 17.6 x 23, will front on Jackson street. Next to the stair-hall, opposite the parlor, will be the dining-room, 15.6 x 19.6. Adjoining this favorite room will be the breakfast-room, 10 x 12.6. These three rooms may be thrown into one large hall by opening the folding doors which will separate them. The kitchen, 12 x 16, with an annex 10 x 12, and the butler's pantry, will connect with both the dining-room and the breakfast-room. The stair hall will be made very elaborate. The stairs will have three broad landings, exclusive of the final one at the top. On the second floor will be four chambers, two dressing-rooms, a bath-room and a linen-room. The attic floor will be divided into three finished rooms and one large partially finished room about 27 feet square. The residence will have a high basement, floored with concrete. The billiard room will be in front of the basement, and the remaining space will be utilized by the laundry, store-room, wine-room and servants' room. A concrete coping in terra cotta, twenty inches high, will border the front and the two long sides of the lot to a depth of 16 feet. The concrete walks and all the steps will also be in the soft terra cotta hue. MR. SPRUANCE will have a very handsome home, and the house, because of the style of its architecture—examples of the Colonial not being very numerous in the city—will attract considerable attention.—Chronicle.

IMPORTANT CHANGE.

The Italian-Swiss Agricultural Colony has made a change in its San Francisco headquarters. On March 1st a depot and cellars for the Asti wines were established at 109 Battery street. President P. C. Rossi will act as manager at the new place, but Messrs. S. Fellerspiel and B. E. Severns, two experienced and genial gentlemen, will be generally in evidence. President Rossi informs us that the agency for Asti wines, heretofore at 624 Montgomery street, is discontinued, and that hereafter all business, both California and Eastern, will be concentrated at the new headquarters. In this connection the following circular has been issued to the trade:

DEAR SIR: We take pleasure to inform you that on the 1st of March next we will discontinue the agency for the sale of the wines of the Italian-Swiss Agricultural Colony on the Pacific Coast, heretofore held by F. Cavagnaro, and remove our sales-rooms, vaults and business office to the spacious stores and cellars at No. 109 Battery street, between Pine and California streets, where we will personally and directly attend to the sale of our own wines and brandies, and the general business of the Corporation.

Our new premises will facilitate the storing and handling of the increased product of our Asti vineyard and winery, so that we will always be ready to fill with dispatch your esteemed orders which we doubt not you will continue to favor us with in the future as you have done in the past. Hoping to hear from you soon, we remain,

Respectfully,
ITALIAN-SWISS AGRICULTURAL COLONY,
A. SBARBORO, Secretary.

76 PEARL STREET, NEW YORK, Feb. 12, 1895.

DEAR SIR: Please take notice that I have just received per Steamship "Bolivia" an invoice 1985 boxes macaroni, A. Garofalo brand, of which kindly make mention in your next edition.

I also beg to inform you that, wishing to render more popular my celebrated Lucca Olive Oil—"Aquila & Co." brand—I have decided to offer it to the trade at the following reduced prices:

- Cases containing 10 1-gallon tins, at $1.30 per gallon.
- " " 20 1/2-gallon tins, at 1.35 per gallon.
- " " 40 1/4-gallon tins, at 1.40 per gallon.
- " " 1 doz. bottles, qts. 5.50 per case.
- " " 2 doz. bottles, pts. 6.25 per case.
- " " 2 doz. bottles, 1/2-pts. 3.75 per case.

I am confident that, in view of the above exceptional low quotations, together with the excellent quality of said oil, you will find it to your advantage to pass me your orders.

Will be pleased to furnish you with samples on application.

Hoping that you will avail yourselves of this opportunity, I remain, yours very truly,
ACHILLE STARACE.

CONSULAR REPORTS.

California Wines Judged by French Experts.

On the 2d of June, 1894, at the Agricultural Institute of Paris, a committee of wine experts, composed of M. Garnier, president of the Chamber of Wines and Spirits of the Department of the Seine; M. Gervais, secretary of Agriculture of the Seine; M. Droin, ex-president of the Tribunal of Commerce of the Seine; M. Pinson, ex-commission merchant; MM. Michy, Bouvalet and Houdart, wine merchants; M. Desmoulin, attached to the staff of the Moniteur Vinicole, and MM. Muntz, Herisson, Schribeaux, Girard, Kayser, Wery, Viala, Convert, Lamarie and Mazade, wine experts, met to give their opinion on about one hundred samples of California wines selected by Mr. F. Gos in the wine cellars of California and brought by him to Paris. In his report to the National Society of Agriculture, M. Gos, who has devoted his labors, time and energy to all questions connected with the cultivation of the vine and the making of wine, and who is himself a vine grower, states, as the result of the investigations of this committee, that the vine growers of California have made, in a short time, rapid progress in the art of preparing wine, but that, however much they have accomplished, they have yet a good deal to do, and it is probable that they will never surmount certain obstacles engendered by the climate and some other causes which will likely always prevent them from obtaining fine table wines.

As a general rule, the ordinary wines, which are most commonly used, have been declared the best, and some of them have even compared favorably with the bons ordinaires. They do not, however, improve with age, but, when two years old, seem to lose their quality. In the category of vins ordinaires the red wines have been found superior to the white wines, by reason of the fact that most of the latter are made exactly like the red wines, the white grapes in this case being allowed to ferment in bunches. The Zinfandel wine has attracted the favorable attention of the committee on account of certain qualities it contains which are not found in the products of the other common vines.

The wines of the better grade, made with the grapes grown on the vines imported from Burgundy and the Bordeaux districts, have been pronounced generally good and not lacking in aroma and clearness; however, they have been declared not to possess the "bouquet" to be found in the products of the famous wine regions of France, and, although they are at first fragrant, they do not leave a durable taste in the mouth after they have been absorbed. The opinion of the committee is that they are harsh, and, as they express it, "rasp the throat," which, unlike the Americans, the French connoisseurs do not consider as qualities. Hence they declare that no great reliance can be placed in the future development of the cultivation of the vine in California — that the natural conditions surrounding the local production are better adapted to the making of ordinary wines, but that unfortunately, no outlet exists for these wines in the United States, where the population uses ice-water, tea, coffee, milk and alcohol, but very seldom drink wine. While in the United States the consumption of distilled liquors reaches 6 liters (6.34 quarts) per year per head, that of wine is scarcely 1.4 liter (1.48 quarts), and the day is far remote, if it ever comes, when the extra qualities of California wines, the aim toward which all the efforts of the vine growers of the country have been directed, can be placed side by side with the best wines of France.

Twelve samples of brandy, made by the best firms of California, have been pronounced good, but very inferior to the products of the French Charentes.

The committee adds that, by reason of the difficulties found in wine making, the growers of Southern California have turned their attention to the manufacture of vinous liquors, and have fully succeeded in this line. Their Port, Xeres, Malaga, and even their Muscat, exceed those of Spain and Portugal.

In conclusion, this committee is of the opinion that the country lying north of San Francisco is the best adapted for fine wines, while the middle region can produce but common ordinary wines, and Southern California is destined to secure big profits to the manufacture of vinous liquors, brandies, and to those engaged in the raisin business.

The committee finds in the example of California the evidence of the fact that if perfection cannot be obtained without many trials and sacrifices, wine production presents very great difficulties. The California pioneers, they say, have exhibited more energy than prudence, and they realize to-day that fine wines cannot be made extempore; that it is not sufficient to possess fine vines and general notions of making wine in order to constitute that peculiar and unaccountable thing which is called crus.^{*} And, by way of consolation, the French experts are willing to concede that the Californians have done considerable work, that their cellars are admirably fitted up, that their plants are perfectly constructed and operated, that they have neglected nothing to make their goods attractive and to introduce them, and that they are progressing continually and every year obtaining better results. The acknowledgment is made that the wines of the two last vintages are already superior to those of the preceding years, and that their final success would be certain if they could overcome the repugnance of the American population to the use of wine.

That French wine experts, always so conservative and slow in acknowledging even a resemblance of foreign-made wines with theirs, should concede that California is making a class of goods which can be compared to some of France's products, ought certainly to be great encouragement to the vine growers of California to persevere in their so far successful efforts. Our farmer has not only the tenacity of the French peasant, but surpasses him in education and general intelligence; he is better prepared for the struggles of life; his spirit of boundless initiative and enterprise helps him to overthrow obstacles which most generally discourage and stop his timid European brother, accustomed to look and wait for the impulse or suggestion emanating from the officially constituted authorities. American energy is known to increase in direct ratio to the difficulties confronting it, and while it makes the envy of the old world it will lead our people to gradually master the secrets of wine making until crus shall be found in the United States to equal those of France; and, should the supply in the United States exceed the demand, new markets might be found in Europe itself, where wine-drinking, being considered a necessity even among the poorest classes of society, a pure American ordinary wine would inevitably, all tariff prohibition once removed, replace on the table the adulterated article sold by him under the name of wine.

Owing to the rupture of commercial relations with France, Switzerland, whose importation of French wines in 1893 has fallen off 93 per cent, of what it was in 1891, has become a desirable market for our California wine. Other countries may likewise, in the course of time, be opened to the enterprise of our wine merchants.

HENRY P. DU BELLET, Consul.

RHEIMS, November 15, 1894.

Threatened Revolution in Wine Production.

The "pure yeast mania" has extended to the wine industry, and threatens to revolutionize it. To call it a mania is perhaps scarcely fair, in view of the solid work which has been accomplished by some of those who are affected by it. Still, if not actually a craze, there is danger of it becoming so, and we are glad to see that some of our contemporaries are raising a mild protest against the importance attached to it. With regard to wine, it must be determined or found out to what extent the grape juice can be made to yield an improved wine by employing selected yeast in its fermentation. Here, fortunately, we get into a province beyond the reach of mere argument, and already some of the wine experts are investigating it. Mons. C. Fabre has found, after making a long series of experiments, that must from the same kind of grape behaves very differently with different kinds of yeast. He is not inclined to assent to the statement that upon the nature of the yeast depends the nature of the bouquet and flavor of the wine; these are factors which are influenced as much as anything by the nature of the grapes from which the wine is made — a conclusion which corresponds with the generally accepted views of the non-scientific wine experts, if they may with fairness be so termed. Mons. Fabre has been communicating the results of his experiments to the Paris Academy of Science. Amongst these the following has a certain significance which cannot be misunderstood: A selected yeast will not yield a fine wine with every class of must. The must used to produce a fine wine should be obtained from grapes grown in and well acclimatized to the district from which the selected yeasts are obtained. So the threatened revolution may yet be a long way off. — Wine Trade Review.

* Crus is the name given in France to a generally very small area of country, every inch of which produces identically the same quality of grapes and wines, which cannot be found elsewhere.

New Orleans Notes.

NEW ORLEANS, February 21th, 1895.

The miserable weather New Orleans has experienced the past month, which culminated in a real old New England snow-storm, depositing 14 inches of the "beautiful" on February 14th, which remained three days with us, thoroughly demoralized business in all branches for the time being, and the rest of the month everybody devoted most unselfishly to carnival matters; and as I write the Crescent City has put on a clean suit and a holiday appearance, and for the next week business will be relegated to the back ground, and everybody, from boss to office-boy, will celebrate the arrival of King Rex and his satellites. The city is overflowing with visitors from all over the Union, and Canal street looks like Kearney street during the promenade hour.

The increase of prices in California wines is hailed with much satisfaction by those engaged in their handling here, as it betokens a release from the ruinous conditions which have existed here so long. Wines heretofore have been handled at an infinitesimal profit to dealers, who now hail with delight the dawning of a better era. The California Wine Association, through Mr. Maubec, its hustling agent, is doing very well, and reports the placing of nearly 4000 barrels last week.

Mr. H. A. Bradford, who controls the To-Kalon Vineyard products in this market, has now got his store in good shape, and reports an excellent trade. "Crabb's Imperial Champagne on draught" is now a familiar quotation in the first-class cafes of the city.

Messrs. Hermann & Lanata, whose store and contents were destroyed by fire last month, have reopened offices at the corner of Gravier and South Peters streets, and are now actively pushing toward competition their new factory at Genois and Cleveland avenue for the manufacture of liquors, cordials, syraps, &c.

The building will be 175 x 300 feet, two stories in height. All the stills and other apparatus have been ordered from Europe, and the only factory in the United States devoted entirely to the distillery of syrups, liquors, etc., from roots and herbs on exactly the same formula that has made the European products famous, will be in operation in about 90 days. This firm is composed of young men who have built up an enormous trade throughout the Union, and they will guarantee the products of their factory to be in every way equal to the imported article.

The business formerly conducted by Paul N. Verneuille has been reconstructed by his brother, W. H. Verneuille, with Paul N. Verneuille as manager. The store, corner of Royal and Toulouse streets, has been thoroughly refitted, and restocked with a complete assortment of wines and liquors. Mr. Verneuille will continue to handle To-Kalon wines, at both wholesale and retail, and will make family trade his specialty.

The well-known house of Vatter & Grevenig has been re-organized, and after March 1st will be known as Vatter, Grevenig & Co. Mr. W. J. Rand being admitted as junior partner. This is one of the oldest houses in New Orleans, being established in 1868. They handle both domestic and imported goods, and are one of the largest dealers in California wines in this market. They are also agents for Private Stock Rye (their specialty), and Melcher's gins and Hardy's cognacs.

W. A. GEFT.

A dispatch has been received by MOINS & KALTENBACH, the wine dealers at 29 Market street, San Francisco, concerning the bark California, which was recently wrecked off the South American coast, not far from Pacasmayo. The dispatch was sent from Lima, and informs Messrs. MOINS & KALTENBACH, who had chartered the California, that the vessel and cargo had been sold at public auction, and that the crew had been paid off. The California, it will be remembered, was the first steamer that crossed the Golden Gate and disturbed the waters of the San Francisco bay, bringing to this State many pioneers who subsequently became prominently identified with the history of the State, among them being Judge Crosby, of this city.

THE above celebrated brands of Whisky are still leaders, care without regard to expense having always been taken to keep the goods to the highest standard in quality, their popularity now being unequalled.

The distilleries that make the above brands never made private brands. Notice the feathered sticks in the Imperial brand. They are correct cuts of the celebrated hand mash sticks with which all these whiskies are made.

THE BIG WINE DEAL.

Just after the last edition of the REVIEW had gone to press, announcement was made of the consummation of the largest wine deal ever effected in California or in the United States. By the terms of the agreement between the California Wine Association—the seven merchants—and the California Wine Makers' Corporation, 4,000,000 gallons of wine has been bought by the Association for 12½ cents per gallon, naked, delivered in San Francisco, and a further contract is entered upon by which the Association is to get 5,000,000 gallons of wine annually at a price to be agreed upon each year.

What is of still more importance, the Wine Association is practically going out of business as a wine-making concern. The wineries belonging to the Association, including the Carpy wineries at Napa, St. Helena and San Jose, the Kohler & Frohling winery at Glen Ellen, the Haraszthy winery at Esparto, and the Aguillon & Bustelli winery at Livermore, are now leased for a term of years to the Wine Makers' Corporation, and the merchants will go out of business as dry wine makers, and attend strictly to the business of wine selling.

This seems to us of much more importance to the wine makers of the State than the actual sale of 4,000,000 gallons. This quantity of wine is but a four months' shipping supply for the entire State, while the abandonment of the policy of wine making by merchants means much to the wine makers, pure and simple. There will no longer be a temptation on the part of merchants engaged in the battle for the control of the cheap markets to take advantage of cheap grapes to enable them to hold their own. Wine making will now be in the hands of those to whom it belongs. Conditions have arisen in the State in past years by which a wine merchant of necessity was compelled to become a wine maker, grape grower and merchant at one and the same time; similarly the grape grower and wine maker became a merchant and shipper because he could not sell his products at fairly lucrative prices to merchants.

The California Wine Association has certainly improved its standing among the wine makers by making this step, and we trust that the time will never come again when wine makers will be placed between the lower millstone of cheap grapes, and the upper millstone of competition from merchants in the wine making business.

P. C. Rossi, who has been an exceedingly active promoter of the organization of the California Wine Makers' Corporation, has made the following statement:

"We have won our fight, and the backbone of the opposition is now broken. The sale, which is virtually for 19,000,000 gallons, assures of success. The increase of 5 cents a gallon in the price, will show those connected with the syndicate that it pays to organize. In fact, we have done just what we promised we would do. We now see our way clear to add at least $600,000 to the old income of the producers of dry wine, and $200,000 to the sweet wine makers. None of the wine that we now have left will be sold for 12½ cents a gallon, but will be held until there is a demand for it, and the price can be increased. It will be the same with the contract made with the Wine Association. If the price is increased, the Association must pay it for its 5,000,000 gallons delivered each year. The advantages of the Corporation to the producers are numerous, and they will realize it more as it grows older. Those who declined to join with us certainly will see what they have lost. During the last month several cellars of wine have been sold out by men who believed our organization would go to pieces, at 7½ and 8 cents a gallon. Under our system, the profits, which have in the past gone to the middlemen, will be saved, and go to the producers. Our plan will give the producers a living price, and in time a fair profit. The merchants will still receive a reasonable compensation upon their investments, and the consumer will not be injured. The producers will be able to pay better wages, and can put their idle land into vineyards. We know our power, and so do the wholesale men. We can understand and respect each other, and, as a result, we can do business on an equitable basis. It is no longer a fight, each trying to get the better of the other. In the past, certain of the buyers have taken advantage of the financial condition of some of the producers. When they knew that the producer was in debt or mortgaged, and was compelled to have money, they forced him to take a low price. Such a condition no longer exists. The Corporation acts as a merchant as well as producer. The wine industry is now on its feet, and it will not be long until dry wine is selling at 15 cents a gallon, and we hope to see it reach 20 cents. The price of sweet wine will also be increased, and instead of selling for 17 cents a gallon, it will command 25 cents."

VICTORY IN LAKE COUNTY.

Word comes from Lake county that a petition containing more than 800 signatures has been presented to the Board of Supervisors, praying the repeal of Ordinance No. 57—the anti-liquor ordinance. Little doubt exists but that the prayer will be granted.

And this will end the famous struggle in Lake county, that has lasted for about two years. We are not averse to giving credit where it should be given, and it is to the brewers and hop men, led by Mr. E. R. Lilienthal, that this victory is due. Without that active, persistent, and just embargo on Lake county hops, in retaliation for the Lake county ordinance forbidding the sale of liquor, there would have been one more county permanently added to the list of "dry" counties in this State.

VISTAS OF SUNNY SLOPE.

Sunny Slope, the magnificent domain of L. J. Rose & Co., Ltd., of San Gabriel, is one of the show places of Southern California. The vineyard consists of about 700 acres out of a total of nearly 2,000 acres in the ranch. The wines of the Company are known to every market in the United States. The vineyard was set out many years ago by the Hon. L. J. Rose, and the property passed to the Company, an English syndicate, about 1887. The manager of the ranch, Mr. E. C. Bichowsky, is at present Vice-President of the State Viticultural Commissioners.

Sweet wines and brandies are the specialty of the Company, and the vintages now in cellar date back 21 years. Though visited by the Anaheim disease, the wines are rapidly assuming their wonted origin and the Company's affairs are becoming more satisfactory with each year.

RECENT LEGAL DECISION.

Anderson and Nelson Distilleries Co.; Anderson Distillery Co.;
Nelson Distillery Co.,
Versus
Anderson Distilling Co.; Nelson Distilling Co.; Old Times Distillery Co.

The Jefferson Circuit Court of Kentucky, Law and Equity Division, on Monday February 11th, rendered an opinion in the cases of the Nelson Distillery Company vs. Nelson Distilling Company, etc., and the Anderson Distillery Company vs. Anderson Distilling Company, etc., which is very important to the whisky trade.

By its judgment court enjoins defendants, Charles E. Lemmon, D. Meschendorf and the "Old Times Distillery Company," of Louisville, from branding whisky with the name of the "Nelson Distilling Company" or the Anderson Distilling Company." The plaintiffs, the Nelson Distillery Company and the Anderson Distillery Company, are distillers in Louisville, Kentucky, being subordinate companies under the Anderson & Nelson Distilleries Company. They have for many years been making whisky in the Fifth District of Kentucky, at Louisville, and branding it the "Nelson Distillery Company, Distillers, Fifth District, Kentucky," and the Anderson Distillery Company, Distillers, Fifth District, Kentucky."

With the design of pirating upon the brands, the defendants, Lemmon and Meschendorf and the Old Times Distillery Company, have been making whisky for certain parties in St. Louis named George G. Menke, Fred J. Cornet and H. H. Brueggeman and branding it "Nelson Distilling Company, Distillers, Fifth District, Kentucky," and "Anderson Distilling Company, Distillers, Fifth District, Kentucky,"—almost an exact copy of the plaintiffs' brands.

These St. Louis parties had previously handled the whisky of the plaintiffs, and thereby had become acquainted with their trade, and were thus enabled by this piracy to pass off the inferior goods at a cheaper price to the customers and persons wanting the genuine "Anderson" and "Nelson" whisky.

The court, in an elaborate opinion, held that the plaintiffs, the Anderson & Nelson Distilleries Company, are entitled to the exclusive use of these brands; that whisky branded in that way, and known as "Nelson" whisky and "Anderson" whisky, is everywhere in the trade known as the product of the plaintiffs' Louisville distilleries; that the use of these brands by the defendants was a double fraud—being, first, a fraud upon the public; and, second, a fraud upon the plaintiffs. The court, in its opinion, says:

"It will be observed that the words adopted by the defendants are false and misleading in several respects. They do not speak the truth in stating that the defendant companies of St. Louis are 'distilling' companies. They do not speak the truth in saying or rather designating them as 'distillers.' They do not speak the truth in stating that they are distillers in the 'Fifth District of Kentucky.' By such misrepresentations embodied in their trademarks these two defendant corporations of St. Louis, aided and abetted by their coadjutors, the Old Times Distillery Company and Meschendorf and Lemmon here in Kentucky, are enabled to palm off on the public the whisky so produced as and for the genuine whisky produced by the plaintiffs. Now, no one has a right to sell his goods as the goods of another. To do so is to perpetrate a double fraud; to cheat and impose upon the public, and to deprive the owner or manufacturer, whose goods are simulated, of the legitimate profits which are thus cut off, by the fraudulent supply of counterfeit and spurious goods. There can be no doubt, from the evidence in this case, that the object of the defendants (who are not distillers) in naming their two corporations in St. Louis 'Distilling' Companies was to deceive the public. * * * What other purpose could they have had in so branding their barrels of whisky? And when it is considered that these defendants adopted the very names — 'Nelson' and 'Anderson,' as a prefix to the words 'Distilling Company, Fifth District of Kentucky,—thus so imitating the names and trademarks of plaintiffs as to make them barely distinguishable from their own, the illegal purpose to pirate the plaintiffs' trademarks is too palpable for contradiction. The words 'Nelson' and 'Anderson,' taken in connection with the other words appearing in the plaintiffs' trademarks, are the distinguishing words to show that the whisky, made in the Fifth District of Kentucky, under and by that name or names, was solely manufactured by the plaintiffs; and such the proof shows is the opinion of the public on the subject.

"The plaintiffs have long used the label or trademarks they are now seeking to protect, and their whisky is known to the trade and markets of the country under and by said trademarks, as goods manufactured by plaintiffs. * * * The proof shows that the Old Times Distillery Company is as deep in the mud, in these illegal transactions, as the St. Louis non-resident defendants are in the mire. They are all guilty of piracy; flying the black flag of fraud on the sea of trade.

"The proof shows that this is not their first offense. They have persistently raided the rights of these plaintiffs, and pirated and counterfeited their trademarks of different kinds. The plaintiffs are entitled to the relief they seek; and let a judgment be prepared accordingly."

The judgment of the court is, to enjoin the defendants, Lemmon, Meschendorf and the Old Times Distillery, etc., from using the "Anderson" and "Nelson" brands, and to compel them to account for all the profits they have made by the use of those brands.

Pure California Wines & Grape Brandies.

Are now prepared with a large stock of wines and brandies of their own growth to supply the trade and the market generally. This Company owns the largest vineyard in the world, covering over 2,500 acres. They have held their wines and brandies for several years in their own cellars, and do not offer any of their product until it has become properly matured. Their large stock of matured wines and brandies thus accumulated is now open to the purchaser. All goods under their trade mark are warranted pure and unadulterated. Being the successors to B. D. WILSON & Co., and to J. DE BARTH SHORB, they have become possessors of the "SHORB" BRAND OF BRANDY and "MOUNT VINEYARD" WINE. Correspondence solicited.

WALDEN COGNAC.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets. It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as for foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES.—Business continues in about the same condition, as to demand, although there is a firmer feeling in the matter of values. The hardening process continues, and it is predicted by those who are in a position to speak with judgment that another advance in prices is certain in the not far distant future. Notwithstanding the dullness in all lines of trade, the exports of California wines continue in as large a volume as for many months past. This is evidenced by the fact that in the short month of February the shipments from this State were over 1,300,000 gallons, with a total of 3,222 cases. This is certainly a fine showing, and a glance at our tables of monthly shipments by rail to the East will show that these goods are going out for consumption. It is certain that they are not going forward for storage, or to avoid a prospective raise in freights, as there is no advance in the tariff known to be contemplated. The figures, which are official, show that shipments by rail were more than 1,300,000 gallons, and that over one half million gallons were distributed throughout the United States, exclusive of the city of New York. In view of the advance in prices, this is certainly a healthy showing. Orders are of fair volume, and holders of sound, merchantable wines with an established reputation are holding up their prices and refuse to fill orders at reduced figures. This is the right position to occupy, and if the entire trade will stand to that policy the prosperity of both merchant and producer is assured. With the existing conditions, there is no reason why the business should not be put on a good sound footing within a comparatively short time. Exports during the half month to foreign countries have been of unusually large volume, and plainly indicate a growing demand for California wines in those markets. Receipts from interior cellars have been very heavy, and for the two months and a half past have been nearly double the quantity received during the same period of 1894.

Recent advices from New York are as follows: "The recent increase in the price of dry wines is generally felt on the Eastern markets, and in many instances the buyers cheerfully submit to the advance; the demand, however, is not large, and the holders will have to be patient if they want to reap the benefit of the movement. Sweet wines and brandies remain unchanged in prices owing to the general dullness and scarcity of demand."

The shipments of California wines by sea and rail in February were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
By sea.....	1,314	272,991	$110,543
By rail overland.....	1,908	1,067,838	437,767
Total.....	3,222	1,340,829	548,310

CALIFORNIA BRANDIES.—The market is in sympathy with the movement in California wines, and, while there is no active demand, exports to domestic and foreign ports are of good volume. We note one large shipment to Germany of a brand well established, which goes to show that California brandies are still in demand among the trade of Germany who desire to sell a high grade of pure brandies. The statistics of the product during the last ninety days are not obtainable, but it is probable that the total is of moderate volume. Receipts from interior distilleries have been very small during the half month. Up to the 15th instant only 880 gallons have been received, as against 32,445 gallons for the same period last year. For the two months and a half of this year the receipts have been but 63,010 gallons, as against 365,800 gallons during the same period of 1894.

The total shipments of brandy by sea and rail in February were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
By sea.....	26	18,178	$9,646
By rail overland.....	295	27,689	44,483
Total.....	321	45,867	$54,129

WHISKIES.—Business is quiet generally, and the expected movement has not materialized. However, the spring trade has considerable time to develop, and while no particular activity is looked for, it is confidently believed that the next sixty days will bring an improved condition. The particularly unpleasant feature of the situation is the slowness of collections. This applies especially to the country, where money has been tied up. How long it will take the loosening process to adjust things remains to be seen. Exports to foreign countries during the fortnight have been of average volume, while receipts were something over the average. The special whisky bonded warehouse proposition is still the subject of a great deal of discussion, pro and con. One branch of the trade regards the new law as highly beneficial, while others consider it the opposite. In another column will be found a communication from one of the leading distillers of Kentucky, which points out what he regards as a serious defect in the application of the law. His arguments in this respect are well worthy of perusal. Time and trial will decide which side is right.

IMPORTATIONS.—Business is moving along in a quiet way, being neither very good nor very bad. Standard brands are doing as well as could be expected under the conditions, but as a general rule orders are for immediate needs. Importers look for no particular change for the better until there shall have been a new movement and better feeling in general lines of trade. Importations during the half month were unusually large. Details will be found elsewhere in our tables.

The spirit situation is growing interesting. Following up the recent advance in price comes the following telegram from Chicago, dated the 17th inst.: "It is almost certain now that substantially all the distilling interests of the country will soon be united in the Spirit Distilling Association, which was organized by the receivers of the Distilling and Cattle-feeding Company. The receivers had a conference here to-day with Frank Curtis, of New York, president of the American Distributing Company, and George W. Kidd, one of its directors and a representative of the Indiana Distilling Company. Should these gentlemen decide to co-operate with the receivers of the Trust, as now seems probable, it will unite, substantially, all of the spirit interests of the country in this association."

On the other hand, the wholesalers and distillers' agents of New York met on the 16th, and pledged themselves to build two distilleries, of a combined capacity of 14,000 bushels, if the re-organization of the D. & C. F. Co. is effected. Dissatisfaction is also reported from Cincinnati.

THE LEGISLATURE AND THE LIQUOR PROBLEM.

The Legislature has adjourned. With the Sacramento Bee's added exclamation of two years ago, "Thank God," we are heartily in accord. A majority of the members were elected under verbal promises to be fair and just with the liquor trade. Nothing definite was done against the trade, but the session was a disappointment. When some of the present members of the Assembly come up for re-election or for the Senate, two years hence, they will find what it means to be snowed under.

The California State Protective Association desired the passage of two laws: One making it mandatory on Boards of Supervisors to license; and another providing that such licenses should be fair and adjusted to an equitable distribution of the public burdens.

These were not passed, but at the same time no adverse legislation of any consequence to the trade was passed. An idea got abroad that the State Association had a "sack" at Sacramento, and the boodle hunting members of each house held off, and yet hovered around, like buzzards surrounding a dying steer. They got nothing—that is one satisfaction, and at the end of the session Senator Biggy's exposure of the notorious Senator Dunn sent the boodlers to cover.

Senator Linder, a brilliant specimen of the average legislator, got in a bill providing for a State license of $600 before any county or city license was collected. This he hoped to effect by a constitutional amendment. It was not passed upon. Senator Seymour, another able man in his line, got in a "single stamp bill," providing for the prohibition of single stamp goods. This, too, never came to anything. In all, twenty-one bills were introduced against the liquor trade, and we suppose about eighteen were introduced as cinches.

The members of the trade owe a debt of gratitude to President Edoff and the Board of Trustees of the California State Protective Association, as well as to Attorney George W. Baker, for the ability with which they headed off these adverse measures.

One of the amusing breaks made at this session was perpetrated by Senator E. C. Voorheis, of Amador county, who, we understand, has aspirations to be Governor. On the 22d of January he introduced a bill (Senate Bill No. 369) entitled—

AN ACT To amend an act entitled an act to provide for the formation, government, operation and dissolution of sanitary districts in any part of the State, for the construction of sewers, and other sanitary purposes; the acquisition of property thereby; the calling and conducting of collections in such districts; the assessment, levy, collection, custody and disbursement of taxes therein; the issuance and disposal of the bonds thereof, and the determination of their validity, and making provision for the payment of such bonds and the disposal of their proceeds.

The act goes on to provide for the handling of the sewerage and garbage questions, and in section 5 occurs this passage:

"To make and enforce all necessary and proper regulations for suppressing disorderly and disreputable resorts and houses of ill-fame within the district, and to determine the qualification of persons authorized to sell liquors at retail; and from and after the passage of this act no license to keep a saloon or sell liquors at retail shall take effect or be operative within any sanitary district unless the same be approved by the Sanitary Board of the district; to impose fines, penalties and forfeitures for any and all violations of its regulations or orders, and to fix the penalty thereof by fine, or imprisonment, or both; but no fine shall exceed the sum of one hundred dollars, and no imprisonment shall exceed one month."

This act was passed by both houses of the Legislature, but it was sent back to them to have the word "collections," in the title, changed to "elections," which was done.

Mr. Voorheis's "joker" is clearly unconstitutional. The complete purposes of the act are not stated in the title, and it is sought to take from the County Boards of Supervisors police regulating power specifically granted by Section 11, Article 11, of the Constitution. Mr. Voorheis's bill troubles no one.

Another act, which was aimed at the baking-powder companies but which is being considered by the liquor men, has been passed, and the Governor has signed it. It is an act (Senate bill 201) entitled "An Act to provide against the adulteration of food and drugs," and is very stringent in its provisions.

plaint in a Justice's or Police Court, as set forth in Sec. 1426 of the Penal Code, do not include a conclusion of the statute. Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. As to the complaints for misdemeanors in Justice's and Police Courts, at least, the common law rule has been changed. The complaint in this case complies with the requirements of the law, and states a cause of action against the defendant.

Wherefore it is ordered that the writ be discharged, and the petitioner remanded.

KRUG'S WINE REPORT.

The Viticultural Commission will soon take up the question of the recent analyses of California wines by the Government chemists at Washington under Dr. Wiley. Trouble is brewing over the work of Mr. Wiley's man, Mr. Krug, who characterized a certain wine of this State as an "artistic mixture." The matter was brought up by the Chronicle on the 15th, and on the publication of its article we received the following:

Berkeley, Cal., March 15, 1895.

EDITOR PACIFIC WINE AND SPIRIT REVIEW: Although there has been much discussion, pro and con, as to the relative value of work, scientific and semi scientific, done by the Commissions and the State University for the benefit of various industries of this State, I do not wish to express any opinion on the subject, while I think, however, that all reports of a scientific nature should be open to criticism and insist that work for the State should be reliable, impartial, and without special friendship for favorites and free from political bias. Nothing should be covered up that the law requires to be exposed; yet it seems that the laws requiring exposure of bad practices are sometimes ignored.

I am led to this conclusion after reading the report mentioned in the Chronicle, and the Journal of the American Chemical Society, September, 1894, on "Some of the Characteristics of California Wines," by W. H. Krug, assistant chemist in the Chemical Laboratory of the Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C., sent to the society by Prof. H. W. Wiley, the Chief Chemist of the Department. It appears that this paper was the result of analyses procured at the request of Mr. C. A. Wetmore, who represented the State Viticultural Commission at the Chicago Exposition, samples being duplicates of the California wines on exhibit there.

I find in the report published by the American Chemical Society the following paragraph:

"No. 12,792, a dry white wine, proved an interesting sample. It furnished the following figures: Alcohol, by weight, 9.53 per cent.; extract, 1.1 per cent.; glycerol, 0.321 per cent.; ash extract ratio, 17.36 per cent.; extract rest, 0.56 per cent. There is no doubt in my mind that this is merely an artistic mixture that never saw a vineyard, but has had its birth in the cellar of some wine mixer."

In another place I find, viz: "Cane sugar is undoubtedly used by many to sweeten their wines, as is shown by the increased laevo rotation after inversion."

This report was published by the State Viticultural Commission, recently, as a part of the report from Mr. C. A. Wetmore, but upon careful examination I find that the statements above referred to have been for some reason suppressed. There may be some good reason for such suppression, but it is very plain to me that Mr. Wetmore should be called upon for an explanation.
 JUSTICE.

The charges made by our Berkeley correspondent against Mr. Wetmore have been submitted to him. He said that he was sorry that the question had been raised, because it compelled him to touch upon the much-vexed question of the incompetency of agricultural chemists when expressing opinions outside the line of their legitimate work.

"The report, which I was the means of procuring," said he, "contains much valuable information. The analyses are the most complete that have ever been made for California wines, and the tables are published in my report, where the Berkeley critic may find No. 12,792 without difficulty, giving the figures as quoted. If he had taken the trouble to turn to the catalogue of the list of exhibits submitted for analysis, page 89 of my report, he would have found opposite the number: 'Golden Chasselas, J. L. Beard, Warm Springs,' and could have satisfied his curiosity as to the individual whom he imagines I have protected by concealment.

"I did not think it was my duty to publish the unscientific comments of the chemist without verification of his work. I have called upon Mr. Beard for a fresh sample of the same wine to have it analyzed at the State University, but he has failed to produce it. I think I should have been guilty of great discourtesy if I had published such damaging statements concerning an ex-Regent of the State University, also a State Senator and a gentleman who receives advice in his wine making from Professor Hilgard. Furthermore, Senator Beard was a classmate of mine, and I plead guilty to the ordinary demands of friendship, and could see no public good in publishing a criticism which I am quite sure is founded upon some mistake.

"As to the cane-sugar proposition, the original report made the charge that we were using glucose, which I suppressed because I knew it to be a false conclusion. Mr. Krug saw fit to change his charge to the use 'by many' of cane-sugar, which to all wine makers here would be a reason to ridicule the whole report — a report valuable enough so far as it is restricted to results, but unreliable, as most reports from agricultural chemists are, when loaded with speculative opinions founded on inexperience."

END OF THE VITICULTURAL BOARD.

On the 13th inst. the Assembly at Sacramento passed the Langford bill, by which the affairs of the Viticultural Commission are to be wound up on the 31st day of December, 1895, and the property then transferred to the Regents of the University. The Senate has already passed the bill, and the Governor will of course sign it.

It is of no use crying over spilled milk; no use arguing with those viticulturists who have always been prone to criticize the Board no matter what it did. These people will now know what it is to dive down into their own pockets to influence legislation in Washington whenever the necessity arises; they can do their own investigating work; they can make their own markets; create their own exhibits. The fact of the matter is that the viticulturists of the State, as a body, did not support the Board, and it is best that it passes out of existence. We know that these people will see its need later, but at that time we shall simply say, Let them suffer.

The Viticulturists of the State have had free of charge the services of men like De Turk, Crabb, West, Shorb, Doyle, Bichowsky and Bundschu. They thought these services were of no particular value — so let it go.

It is neither meet nor proper that the Board should pass without recognition of its services.

It has published the standard literature in the English language on Viticulture; on planting, pruning, grafting, cellar management, distillization, and the utilization of wine residues.

It created a market in California and the East for California wines true to label.

It passed the sweet wine law in Congress, a means of saving $1,200,000 annually to the sweet wine makers.

It saved the industry at the last session of Congress by arranging the present schedule of the Wilson law.

It has made exhibits of our wines too numerous to mention.

It held viticultural conventions for the good of all.

It had a watchful eye on the welfare of the industry from every point of view.

Animosities it certainly aroused. Viticultural frauds, like Hilgard, it antagonized in plenty; but its work is done and its good record will live after it.

It is best that it should die thus. Finding that the Governor, whose record as a reformer will not be as pronounced two years hence as it now is, was bent on making the Board a political machine, the act which ended its existence was drawn up by the members themselves.

Let it rest; but let its influence go on.

OAKLAND WON OUT.

Oakland's municipal election has come and gone, and the liquor men are safe. Fair-minded councilmen have been elected, men not likely to be influenced by any aggregation of Prohibition cranks who may come to them with unreasonable demands. Oakland is a hot-bed of all sorts and conditions of human crankiness, and the councilmen are sure to be beset by the theorists and raddists of the cold water army.

It was the quietest election ever held in Oakland. About ten days prior the election notification was sent to all the members of the California State Protective Association that they must refrain from selling liquor on the sly on election day; that the Association would assist in the prosecution of every person who violated the law. The result is that but one person—Henry Fitzsimmons, at Eighth and Webster streets—was arrested, and he is not a member of the Association. A letter has been written from the headquarters of the Association to the City Council of Oakland, asking that Fitzsimmons's license be taken away if he is found guilty of having violated the law.

And yet the Prohibitionists contend that the liquor trade is not law-abiding.

Just prior to the recent election the following appeared in all the Oakland papers:

Attention, Members of the California State Protective Association:

"Your attention is called to the following statute:

"It shall not be lawful for any person or persons keeping a public house, saloon or drinking place, either licensed or unlicensed, to sell, give away or furnish spirituous or malt liquors, wine or any other intoxicating beverages, on any part of any day set apart or to be set apart for any general or special election by the citizens in any election district or precinct in any of the counties within the State, where an election is in progress, during the hours when by law in said district or precinct the election polls are required to be kept open. Any person violating the provisions of this act shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor.

"This act shall take effect from and after its passage.

"And you are hereby warned that the California State Protective Association will assist in the prosecution of any of its members charged with the violation of the above statute."

In regard to the policy of the California State Protective Association, President J. P. Edolf had the following to say, in a recent interview in Oakland:

"We have made a complete change in the policy that has heretofore been followed by the liquor men, and the younger members among the wholesale liquor trade have recognized for some time past that for two causes the business of selling liquor has been rendered obnoxious to the better sense of the community. First, because liquor men engaged in politics; and, secondly, because the better class of dealers were gauged in public estimation by the grog-seller and dive-keeper.

"It was to rid the business of this odium that the California State Protective Association was formed. Forty-five of the wholesale firms of San Francisco are members of it, and they represent a combined capital of $25,000,000. While I am talking about figures, let me tell you that the liquor interests of this State represent $106,000,000, and employ 76,000 people—that is, the wholesale and retail trade. When the organization was formed we sought to take the liquor business out of politics on the lines which were suggested to me by United States Senator Sherman, and which have proved efficacious in Ohio, where the liquor interests are not warring upon and do not war; that is, by a uniform State license, with a maximum of $250 a year. You know, of course, we failed in our efforts before the Legislature, yet the facts are not generally understood.

"Under the present system, it has been shown how an official can vent his petty spite against saloon-keepers who refused to support him for office, as was recently shown in two cases in this city.

"But never mind about side issues. The State Association immediately took hold and passed upon the application of every saloon-keeper who desired to become a member. In Oakland there are 205 dealers, but out of them we admitted only 188, who were unquestionably fit to come into the organization.

"We require that not a single charge can be brought against those who are members of the organization. We only take those who conduct orderly and respectable places, and who comply with the law in every particular. Now we have issued stringent instructions to comply with every city ordinance, and we will ourselves have the Association attorneys prosecute any member of the organization who does not comply with the strict letter of the law.

"The directors of the Association can only be selected from among the members engaged in the wholesale trade, and it is their especial object to rid the business of the odium that has been cast upon it in the past by the grog-dealer and dive-keeper. Of itself the business is legitimate, and in this city alone we contribute one-fifth towards maintaining the municipal government, and the records show but few crimes that can be attributed to liquor, directly or indirectly. As a result of our efforts, the annexation election was the first one to be held in the history of this city when there was not a saloon door open either back or front. If our efforts are rightfully recognized we will soon have the saloon business on a plane where its legitimate right to exist will be recognized, and every groggery and pitfall driven from under its shelter. As regards Sunday closing, I have this to say: Close the saloons entirely, or let them operate, as they have a right to under their license."

DEATH OF HENRY SCHRODER.

Henry Schroder, formerly of the firm of Hencken & Schroder and one of the best known men in the trade, died at his home in this city on the 17th instant, after a long and distressing illness. The cause of his death was cancer of the stomach, and he had been complaining, off and on, for about four years, though his retirement from the firm on account of his illness dates back only a few months.

Mr. Schroder was born in Hanover, Germany, in 1833, and came to this Coast direct from his birth-place, by sailing vessel around the Horn, arriving in 1850. For some years after his arrival he was in the grocery and general merchandise business, afterward entering the old house of Henry Brickwedel & Co. as an employe. At the time of Mr. Brickwedel's death the firm of Hencken & Schroder succeeded to the business, and the partnership continued until a short time ago.

Mr. Schroder was a prominent man among the German residents of the city. He was a member of the Schuetzen Verein, and was a noted marksman. He also served as one of the Board of Directors of the German Hospital from 1882 to 1890, and was Vice President of the German Benevolent Society. Other German societies also had him as a member.

He leaves a widow, three sons—Henry, John and William—and four daughters—Mrs. John Thode, Mrs. M. Joost, Mrs. Andrew Moeker and Mrs. Fred. Maas. The funeral took place on the 20th inst.

CINCINNATI, March, 1895.

IMPORTANT.—It behooves all prudent and conservative merchants (particularly under the eight years bonded period, for "goodness" only knows what may happen during this long time), to buy "bonded goods," either Kentucky bourbons or Eastern ryes, of reliable and responsible houses. Reference is had to such firms who are willing and have demonstrated their capability of helping the trade in time of need, and whose goods at all times must be reliable and of undoubted quality.

"Time alone will prove the truth of these remarks."

"A word to the wise is sufficient."

Old Darling (Kentucky bourbon), Mercantile Club Rye (Kentucky rye), The Penwick (Pennsylvania rye), are always reliable. Prevailing prices of to-day in bond or free, for reliable brands and honest goods are a purchase; mark this prediction.

Respectfully, ELIAS BLOCK & SONS.

Notes and Personals.

C. W. KELLOGG, of WILMERDING & Co., is laid up with a severe attack of pneumonia, brought on by the grip.

D. V. B. HEXARIE, of E. MARTIN & Co., has been elected as director of the Sunset Telephone & Telegraph Company for the ensuing year.

E. DIDIERLE has opened a new wholesale liquor house in Sacramento. His place of business is at K street, above Fifth, and his quarters are nicely fitted up. We wish Mr. DIDIERLE success in his new enterprise.

CHARLES BUNDSCHU, of J. GUNDLACH & Co., has been laid up at his home during the last fortnight. He sprained his ankle in the Market street cellar, and the injury kept him in bed about two weeks. He appeared on the street again on the 18th inst.

SHERLEY MOORE, of Louisville, a son of GEORGE H. MOORE, of "Jesse Moore" fame, is making a pleasure trip over the Coast, in company with his wife. They spent some days in Southern California, and are now taking in the sights in and about San Francisco.

E. R. LILIENTHAL and J. H. MUNDY have returned from their Eastern trips. They met in Chicago and went to Peoria together. After attending to their business affairs there, Mr. LILIENTHAL went to New York on business, while Mr. MUNDY spent some time visiting in Massachusetts.

SOLOMON HAAS, the father of LOUIS S. HAAS, of the Crown Distilleries Co., died at his home in this city on the 11th inst., at the advanced age of 78 years. The deceased was born in Bavaria, and had not been actively engaged in business for some years. He left a widow, a daughter and two sons.

An important arrival that we overlooked in our table of whiskies imported by rail, last issue, was that of a car-load of 500 cases of the celebrated "Keystone Monogram Whisky," from ROSSKAM, GIBBLEY & Co., Philadelphia, to SHERWOOD & SHERWOOD. This high-class whisky has obtained a very large sale on the Pacific Coast.

CHARLES E. BOWEN, manager of THE BOWEN Co., is developing into a genius as a show-window advertiser. His old, re-imported whisky, nicely placarded, acted as a magnet for a time, and now he is showing a water-color bird's-eye view of the proposed new San Joaquin Valley Railroad, which generally keeps a dozen people about his store all the time.

RHEINSTRON, BETTMAN, JOHNSON & Co., the Cincinnati cordial and blended goods firm, have just issued something unique in the way of a circular, in the shape of an interview with Mr. SAM. J. JOHNSON, of the firm. Mr. JOHNSON is shown in six half-tone engravings, introducing, expatiating on, and selling his specialties. Send for one. It is worth reading and preserving.

The first shipment of fine Canadian Rye Whisky recently arrived in bond to SHERWOOD & SHERWOOD, the agents, from GOODERMAN & WOLFE, Ltd., Toronto. This whisky has always been recognized in Canada as the high type of Canadian whisky, and, while the manufacturers are very conservative, the Excise statistics of Canada show that their output is very nearly the largest in the Dominion.

At the auction sale of Messrs. Southward & Co., of 2 St. Dunstan's Hill, E. C., London, held on the 28th of February, 12 hog-heads and 8 quarters of brandy were sold at auction, which have a peculiar interest to California grape growers. The brandy was distilled in England by the Grape Brandy Co., Ltd., with concentrated must as a basis, and was bottled in 1893. It brought 5 shillings per gallon.

PAUL JONES, president of the PAUL JONES Co., and the J. G. MARTINAY Co., of Louisville, died suddenly at his home in Louisville, Ky., recently. An abscess formed on his brain the day before his death, and his passing was rather unexpected to his business associates. He was a native of Lynchburg, Va., and was fifty-four years of age. Deceased was never married, and left a large fortune to his immediate relatives.

DAVID RICH & Co., the wholesale wine merchants of New York, are about to wind up their business, and the individual members of the firm will return to their old home, San Francisco. They have been in business in New York about twelve years, and have done well, but the San Francisco interests of the members of the firm required attention, and it was with reluctance that this step was decided upon. San Francisco will welcome the Rich's back again.

THE CALIFORNIA WINE ASSOCIATION has petitioned the Board of Supervisors for permission to lay pipes in the streets between the KOTLER & FROTHING cellar, at Second and Folsom streets, and the S. LYCHMAN Co.'s cellar, on Brannan street near Fourth. The pipes will be used for transferring wine from one cellar to the other, and this is the first privilege of the kind ever asked in San Francisco. The pipes will be laid under the supervision of the street department, and their use will save a large sum annually in drayage.

The cases brought against DANIEL McSHERRY and A. SCARONI, of Hanford, in the Superior Court of Kings county, for violation of the county prohibitory law, were tried on the 11th, Judge GRAY, of Tulare county, on the bench. HORACE L. SMITH represented the defendants, and made an elaborate argument. The Court decided for the defendants, holding that the ordinance was inoperative within the city of Hanford. The case of C. DANKEN, a saloon-keeper at Leemore, an unincorporated town, was also tried and taken under advisement by the Court.

The San Jose Prohibitionists and the Home Protective Association of San Jose have put a straight "dry" ticket in the field. They evidently want another beating. F. R. SUTHER, of San Jose, has served notice on Sheriff LYNBOK that the law regarding the sale of liquor has been violated, and also informing him who will act as witnesses. Sheriff LYNBOK has refused to prosecute these men, and notice was served to give him warning. It is understood that the Home Protective Association will take steps to impeach the official if he does not prosecute the offenders.

A new Sunday-closing movement has been started in Oakland. The proposed measure closes the saloons from 6 o'clock Saturday night to 6 o'clock Monday morning. The saloon men are watching the course of events very closely. President EDOLF, of the California State Protective Association, and their attorney, George W. Baker, are keeping close eyes upon the City Council, and as soon as the measure is introduced they will make a strong fight against it. There are on hand a number of plans for anti-saloon work in Oakland just now. A call signed by a number of citizens has been made for a meeting, to be held on the 22d, to consider a movement which has received the indorsement of the Men's League of the First Congregational Church. Rev. W. H. McDougall, of San Mateo, is at the head of the movement.

CHAS. MEINEKE & Co. recently lost a car-load of whisky en route from the East in bond, the loss occurring in a railway accident.

GEORGE E. GRAYES, the San Jose wholesaler, has become financially embarrassed, and has made an assignment. WILMERDING & Co. are the heaviest creditors.

The distillery of J. B. WATKIN & Bros. Co., at Louisville, was burned out on the 5th inst. The loss is $50,000, and the insurance $34,800. The Company will at once rebuild.

Among the members of the Trade who have recently subscribed for the stock of the New San Joaquin Valley railroad are BRAUNSCHEWIGER & Co., $2000, and E. GARNIER & Co., $1000.

THE AMERICAN CONCENTRATED MUST COMPANY shipped 500 barrels of Concentrated Must to Germany on the British bark Millwall, which cleared on the 9th instant. The lot was valued at $16,000.

The firm of MEYERFELD, MITCHELL & Co. has again undergone a change in its personnel, SOLOMON DANNENBAUM retiring and JACOB WERNERMEIER being admitted. The style of the firm remains unchanged.

Messrs. ARTHUR GRUENBERG & Co. shipped to China, per steamer Gaelic, on her last trip, twenty cases Bohemian Club champagne. They hope to open up an extensive trade in that country, and have already received considerable encouragement.

JESSE MEYERFELD, formerly of the firm of MEYERFELD, MITCHELL & Co., intends to start for Europe about the 21st instant. He will take his family with him, and will remain a year, at least, in Germany and possibly may locate permanently in the old country.

The City Council of San Luis Obispo has taken the initial step looking to a raise in the town liquor license from $100 to $600 per annum. The Tribune says there are now thirty licensed saloons, and that high license will reduce their number fully 50 per cent., thus raising their revenues from $3,000 to $9,000 per annum.

C. M. MASS, manager for I. DeTurck, reports business steadily improving, and orders coming in in a very gratifying manner. He has just shipped a selected car-load of wine to Louisville and another to St. Louis and Cincinnati. Mr. MASS considers the outlook for the wine business better than it has been for many years.

Messrs. E. Remy Martin & Co., of Cognac, France shipped to the United States during 1894 18,001 gallons in bulk and 930 cases, making a total of 19,861 gallons. We are sorry that the data did not reach us in time to be included in our brandy table of Jan. 10, 1895. Had it appeared in the table it would have placed Messrs. E. Remy Martin & Co. fifth in the list.—Bonfort's.

PETER DARBY, J. B. ENDERE, E. YALES and WM. H. McADAMS, liquor dealers, refused to pay the city liquor license of Crescent City for March, on the grounds that such could not be collected on account of some defect in the ordinance. The City Attorney was instructed by the City Trustees to take steps toward enforcing said ordinance. Three of the above men were formerly members of the Board of Trustees, and paid the tax up to the 1st instant.

Messrs. Southard & Co., of 2 St. Dunstan's Hill, E. C., London, say in a recent circular: "The wines of California are now beginning to reach our market, and we will be able to show you shortly, in one of our next sales, some of the best specimens we have seen on our market. It is a serious attempt on the part of the growers of these wines to introduce them to the trade, and we hope this first trial will be followed by many more hereafter."

A "FOOLING" CONGRESS.—During the closing hours of the last Congress, while the House was in session Sunday night (which by legislative fiction was called part of Saturday), Mr. Broderick, of Kansas, strolled over to the seat of Mr. Bailey, of Texas. "Bailey," queried the Kansan, "Do you suppose that the Fifty-third Congress, by calling this Saturday, will be able to fool the Lord?" "I don't know," replied Mr. Bailey, doubtfully; "perhaps it will. It has fooled everybody else."

The Nicholson bill has passed the Indiana Senate, and is before the Governor for his signature. There were only ten votes against it in the House, and the report of the last conference committee was passed viva voce in the Senate. The act is recognized as a prohibition measure, pure and simple, that has been forced on the Republican majority in a clever manner. The most prominent feature of the bill is a local-option clause, but in addition to this are many restrictions designed to harass and aggrivate the saloon business. The German population is largely stirred up over the measure. In addition to the local-option feature of the bill, it restricts any one man or firm to a single license, thus knocking out the brewer system of taking out licenses by the score. It provides that none but males may take out a license, and throws the revoking power in the hands of the Justice of the Peace. Drugstores can dispense in quantities of a quart or more, but no less except on a reputable physician's prescription.

Correspondence.

OWENSBORO, Ky., March, 1895.

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review—SIR: My attention has been called to the article in your paper of the 20th ultimo in relation to the effect of the establishment of the new bonded warehouse under the provisions of the new tariff and revenue laws.

Under the provisions of the law whisky can be moved twice, instead of once, yet the greatest obstruction to the system is the fact that the distiller and his bondsmen, who originally bond the whisky, are held responsible for the tax until it is paid, regardless of the number of times it has been removed in bond. Such responsibility, reaching through eight years, of which the distiller cannot be relieved under this act by the substitution of other bonds, renders the new proposed system of warehouse inoperative.

Therefore, so far as Kentucky distillers are concerned, the utility of such warehouses will not be largely a practical question, and the distribution of straight goods will remain to a great extent as heretofore, for there is scarcely a responsible distiller who would assume to pay the tax on whisky of which he has not had the control during its entire bonded time. However, responsible distillers might ship whisky to remain in bond six or twelve months. I think distillers could take bonds for this time.

I wish, in this connection, to call the trade's attention to the many irresponsible warehouse companies that are fast springing up. I now have cases where persons have, for fraudulent purposes, bought my goods, tax-paid and thereby got possession of them, deliberately and systematically robbed the barrels of the entire contents, and replaced it with vile and worthless stuff, and then manage to get it into so-called private warehouse and sell it through brokers as the genuine article.

This is about the latest scheme (that I am aware of, at least,) to practice frauds. So I wish to say—The trade has no guarantee unless it buys direct from the distillery warehouses. And I hope the handlers of my goods—(the "K. Monarch," "Kentucky Club," "T. J. Monarch," "Glenmore," "Kentucky Standard," "Imperial," "Doherty Short Horn Rye" and "Kentucky Midland")—will not buy from other warehouses. If they do, I cannot be responsible for the purity of the goods.

Yours respectfully,

R. MONARCH.

"Times have changed," said an old-time Eastern druggist, as he set down his demijohn in a straight-goods house and ordered it filled, "and I'm not sure it's changed for the better. Now when I kept store the soda-fountain gave out soda-water only, and did a very light business. Next came the period of 'winks' and facial contortions, which the 'soda man' interpreted to mean 'brandy,' 'whisky,' 'wine,' or other added stimulant. Now, the soda-fountain that don't have a long list of 'flavoring extracts,' and 'tonics,' and the like, simply does no business. From the drugstore to the department store it's all the same," continued the old-style druggist, warning up on the subject. "And the women are the best patrons of the soda-fountain of to-day—except the Prohibitionists and extremists on the temperance question. 'Calisaya,' 'coca,' and other nerve-wrecking stimulants have the most general call; but perhaps it looks better to have a case of drugstore 'nervousness' than a saloon 'too-much straight.' It's the old thirst of mankind for a stimulant," he went on, "and the 'Tonics' and other fancy names cannot hide or change it." Can this be possible? Perish the thought!

THE City of Rochester, with its abundant supply of magnificent water and its close proximity to the best barley and hop-producing districts of the country, affords unsurpassed facilities for the production of such health giving and palatable beer as brewed by the BARTHOLOMAY BREWERY CO., Rochester, N. Y. Bartholomay's "Fine Standard" unquestionably is the purest and best beer in the market, and the "Knickerbocker," brewed of the choicest material with, we feel confident, on account of its exquisite properties, soon become a favorite with lovers of a high grade and delicate beer. FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS AND GROCERS.

An interesting case, involving the validity of the Santa Rosa city ordinance regarding the revocation of saloon licenses, is on trial. M. Pozzi, proprietor of the Champion saloon, had his license revoked by the City Council upon representation by the City Marshal that he was not a fit person to conduct a retail liquor business. Pozzi closed the saloon, and then opened it again. He was arrested for selling liquor without a license, and his defense is that the Council did not revoke the license regularly. He has engaged a formidable array of lawyers to defend him.

Where a social club is clearly a bona fide organization with a limited membership, and admission into which cannot be obtained by any person at his pleasure, and its property is actually owned in common by its members, a distribution of wine or other liquors belonging to such club among its several members is not a sale of liquor by retail or in original packages within the meaning and purview of the dramshop act, although, technically, the act does amount to a sale for some purposes. The bona-fides of the organization is in each case a question for the court or the jury under proper instruction of the court. (State vs. St. Louis Club, Supreme Court of Missouri, Division No. 2, 28 S. W. Rep., 604.)

The following is a comparative statement of the receipts of wine and brandy at this point for 2½ months, 1894 and 1895:

UNFERMENTED WINE.

We are indebted to the Australian Vigneron for the following report on the manufacture of unfermented wine read at the proceedings of the Board of Viticulture of Victoria:

"The Secretary said that in connection with the letter received from Messrs. Barlow and Armitage, the proprietors of the Vigneron, regarding unfermented wine, Signor Bragati had forwarded the following report: To prepare unfermented wine the grapes should be gathered when properly ripe, crushed, pressed and strained as quickly as possible; then it should be put through a concentrator, which machine concentrates the must in the empty space—vacuum—at a low temperature and low pressure. The machine is very simple, easily worked and relatively cheap to the advantages obtained by it in comparison with other methods adopted. By this method 100 gallons of must will be reduced in one hour into 10 gallons of syrup or concentrated unfermented wine. The concentrated must when diluted with water constitutes a wholesome summer drink, and is the true unfermented wine. I shall be pleased to show samples of it to any member of the Board who wishes to see it.

"In a report to the Secretary for Agriculture I mentioned the advantages obtained by this concentrator in comparison with other methods.

"1. The concentrated grape must in the shape of syrup may be easily fermented when required by adding the water which has been taken by concentration, as the grape yeast—Saccharomyces ellipsoideus—are in their natural state and are not damaged by the concentration.

"2. The grape sugar is also intact and not burnt, as happens with other concentrators worked with too high temperature.

"3. The other components of the must are also to be found in their natural state.

"4. The must thus concentrated is reduced to a small parcel and therefore great saving is afforded to growers in packing, storage, shipping and freight; besides, in exporting it may be considered as syrup, and thus avoid heavy duty.

"5. The concentrated must as obtained from the concentrator cannot ferment, and is easily preserved in sound condition for months and years, and by adding water to it is easily converted into wine similar to that which would have been obtained before concentration."

A correspondent of the New York World furnished recently the following description of the Fountaingrove Vineyard and its products. This well-known establishment is just outside the city limits of Santa Rosa:

"A recent visit to California by the writer was a revelation in this respect. The renown, in the East, of the Fountaingrove Vineyards, at Santa Rosa, naturally attracted attention to that enormous establishment. The surroundings of the winery are beautiful beyond description. Located on a lovely, fertile plateau, among low hills, with rolling vineyards on three sides and an opening to the west through which a panoramic view of the wide valley, extending to the Coast Range, may be seen, it is one of the garden spots of the continent. The buildings stand on a hillside near the base, with the front to the slope, facing north. From the north foundations to the south there is a rise of thirty feet, thus bringing much of the cellar room underground. The capacity of the big crusher is seventy tons a day, and in the imposing, lofty cellars there is storage room for 1,000,000 gallons of wine, held in oak casks and tanks, varying from 1,000 to 25,000 gallons. The latter are used for blending wines. Not the least interesting feature of the plant is the distillery. The boiler furnishes the steam, for sherry and other purposes. The brandy is made by the new continuous automatic still. Extensive as this plant is, it is scarcely large enough for the Fountaingrove Vineyard—700 acres—producing all varieties of grapes used in the manufacture of the best wines, including for red wines, Zinfandel, Mataro, Petit Pinot, Gros Mancin, Lenoir, Mondeuse, Seirene, Pinaut Pernaud, Cabernet, Sauvignon, Malbec, Chauche Noir, St. Macaire, Gaimai Tienturier; for white wines, five varieties of Riesling, Semillon, Chauche Gris, Colombar, Palomino, Gutedel, Burger and Traminer; for table grapes, Emperor, Cornichon and Black Morocco. With these enormous vineyards to draw from, it is unnecessary to handle grapes grown elsewhere, and uniformity is assured. The quantity of wine shipped East and to Europe is astonishing. The blended Zinfandel of the Company is one of the standard clarets of America; the Tokay is the equal of the Hungarian; the Sherry and Port have been brought up to a high point of excellence, and, generally speaking, the Fountaingrove Vineyard stands close to the head of the wine-making industry of the Western Hemisphere."

EDITOR DANA ON THE COMBINE.

Editor Charles A. Dana, of the New York Sun, has editorially taken violent exception to the formation of the California Wine Association (merchants), and the California Winemakers' Corporation (wine makers). He warns these two combinations that if prices are raised, or the present standard is maintained, dire results may be expected in the loss of trade in New York.

Mr. Dana, whose clearness of expression and general judgment of affairs is second to no man's in this country, is evidently, this time at least, writing of matters of which he understands nothing. Mr. Dana would not look with disfavor on a combination of wheat-farmers, for instance, calculated to raise the price of wheat to a level that would enable the wheat-growers to make a fair living, and at least pay the interest on their mortgages. How, then, can he object to a combination or combinations of wine-producers and wine-merchants, whose sole aim it is to permit the growers and handlers to make a fair living? Certainly no one expected that the first price of wine, from producers' hands, would be long maintained at 7 cents a gallon. And yet, when this is increased to a beggarly 12½ or 15 cents, Mr. Dana is the first to protest. Is the producer of this country not worth his keep?

The situation was so plainly stated recently by Ferdinand Frohman, of the California Wine Association, that it is a pleasure to reproduce his remarks here:

"Editor Dana will probably soon be able to write some editorials on the rise in the price of California wines. If he had taken the trouble to inform himself of the conditions of this industry in the past and present he would know that the advance recently made was based upon natural causes, and was not the work of a 'combine' nor the result of a corner.

"Up to last summer, owing to the bitter competition waged between the San Francisco dealers for the control of the New Orleans market, everybody in the wine industry, from the grape-grower to the wine-dealer, had been losing money for at least three years. This will be readily seen when the fact is stated that the price for dry wines—that is, hock and claret—have steadily declined during the past ten years from 45 cents a gallon to 12½ cents.

"When a number of grape growers began tearing up their vines the wine makers and wine dealers began to realize that the industry in which they had their capital invested was in danger of being annihilated by reason of war being waged among themselves, and which, among other things, forced the price of grapes down to where there was absolutely no chance for the viticulturist to realize even the cost of production of his crop.

"This led to the organization of the Wine Makers' Corporation, composed of grape growers and wine makers throughout the State, and also to the creation of the California Wine Association, comprising seven of the leading San Francisco wine dealers. The object of each organization was the same—to hold out encouragement to the grape grower by enhancing the value of his crop. After the Wine Makers' Corporation was well under way, overtures were made to it by the dealers, who agreed to work in harmony with them if they succeeded in securing the control of 10,000,000 gallons of wine annually. On this basis a combination was effected and the result has been that the dealers are now paying from five to ten cents more a gallon for wine than they did last year, and the grape growers are receiving a proportionate increase for their crops. It is these circumstances that have led to the increase in the price of California wines, for we are now paying to the wine makers the price for which we formerly sold.

"Another potent factor is the curtailed product during the past season. So you see the advance that Mr. Dana takes exception to is both natural and fully justified. There is not a wine-house in this city that has not lost money, and heavily, during the past three years."

ABOUT RESISTANT VINES.

The consideration of the subject of resistant vines is now of vital importance to the grape growers of northern Sonoma. Already the vineyards of Napa Valley and those of Sonoma county as high up as Bennett valley have been ravaged by this pest.

Judging its progress northward by the experience of the past five years, it is unnatural to suppose that the Cloverdale district will escape its onward march of destruction. The only recognized remedy is to prepare for its coming by planting resistant stock. In France and the infected districts of California resistant vines have proved the only remedy. Fortunes have been spent in applying various poisons or gases to the soil, but all of little or no avail, the soil neutralizing all poisoning agents.

The proved and recognized resistant vines are all native to the United States. The riparia, the stock which is most generally used, grows wild in the Missouri valley—hence its name. Vitis riparia, which means the grape of the river side. This vine succeeds best in deep soil, and will not grow vigorously on poor and shallow hillsides. The ripestis, another recognized resistant vine, unlike the riparia, is by nature a hill grape, being known as the "bush grape" of the Southwestern States; it succeeds very well on poor and shallow hillsides, but on deep soil it is not as good as the riparia. The vines of the estivalis class, such as the Lenoir, Cynthia and Herbemont, are the "summer grape" of the Southern States. The resistant qualities of the vines is a matter of dispute; they are hardy growers, the Herbemont especially so. They are also advocated by some as direct producers, the Lenoir and Cynthia being what are known as coloring grapes—grapes with red juice. Eight years' experience with them on hillsides has demonstrated their failure as bearers, however valuable they may be as grafting stock. The California, the native grape of our creek and river sides, is also a grape whose resistant qualities are disputed. With us, on ordinary deep soil, they almost equal the Herbemont in the vigor of their growth.

All resistant stocks are very hard to grow from cuttings—those cut from cultivated stocks growing much more readily than those from the wild vines. It has always been our practice to root our resistant vines on rich garden land, planting them on the hillsides when one year old. In ordinary good soil the vines will be large enough to graft the second year. With us all the various kinds graft equally well. Our experience has also proved that the Vitifera do better on resistant roots than on their own, the growth and bearing qualities being greater. We are convinced that, even apart from their resistant qualities, it pays to plant the wild stock, the increased vigor and bearing capacity more than paying for the loss of time and cost of grafting. Some parties are now planting the resistant vines in the rows of their bearing vineyards, so as to be ready when the pest comes.

The phylloxera, as perhaps all know, is an insect which attacks the roots of the vine. The resistant qualities of the wild vines is owing to the fact that their roots are tough and wiry, and also that, when punctured by the insect, the wounds heal up.—G. W., in Cloverdale Recolle.

TWO CHAMPAGNE STORIES.

The opening of the theatrical season floated several good stories, which are hereby given a wider circulation:

A well-known member of the Columbia Club, of Washington, D. C., took a lady to Albaugh's. She had just returned from Bar Harbor, and was round, browned and full of life. After that they dropped into a restaurant for lunch. The gentleman rashly ordered a small bottle of champagne with the eatables. When it came in, the young lady seized it and drew it beside her plate, asking as she did so: "What are you going to drink? Beer?"

And the second is like unto the first:

A certain State Department clerk, whose income by no means accords with his social standing or his desires, had been improving his summer hours by extensive horse-back riding. One day a fair daughter of the upper ten accompanied him by invitation. They broke the monotony of the ride by lunching at an exclusive suburban resort. He, too, in a spirit of ambitious bravado, ordered a small bottle of champagne.

His fair vis-a-vis inspected the label in silence, and looked up inquiringly, as she asked: "You order it in pints so it will not get stale, don't you?"

The room seemed to swim around, but the gentleman was a blood, and came to the scratch like a hero.

"I couldn't help admiring her demitition innocence don't-cherknow," he remarked at the club that evening.

OUR WINES IN EUROPE.

Charles J. Murphy, formerly representative in Europe of the United States Agricultural Department, has written to the New York Sun as follows:

"I was instructed by Mr. Morton, Secretary of the Agricultural Department, as an official representative of his department in Europe, to use my best endeavors to introduce the use of California wines, fruit and other products of that State into Northern Europe, and my endeavors have met with considerable success. I succeeded in securing a gold medal for California wines at the late exhibition at Antwerp, though samples of the same were not received until two weeks after the jury of awards had adjourned; but, as a compliment, the jury—which was composed of the most noted wine experts in Europe—reconvened, and, after thoroughly testing the wines, they unanimously agreed that they were fully entitled to this high award.

"The result of this has been the ordering of several carloads of these wines direct from California, and agencies have been opened in Brussels and Antwerp. At the present low price of California wines they can be sold lower than the same grade of European wines, and I feel assured that it is only a question of time when a very large trade will be developed for these goods in Europe.

"In the cities of Hamburg and Bremen agencies have been established for the sale of California wines, and one of the proprietors of a Bremen house informed me that they had already over 500 customers in Germany alone.

"In Scandinavia and in Holland I met with considerable success in making known their merits, and in the city of Copenhagen and at Christiania, Norway, agencies have been established, and the demand is constantly increasing, and they are much preferred by many in those cold climates on account of their containing more alcoholic strength than the French or German wines.

"In the United Kingdom a large trade is being developed, and in nearly all the best hotels and restaurants, California wines can be found on the bills of fare. One large firm in London, whose senior partner is a baronet, has succeeded in creating a large demand for these excellent wines.

"When in Russia two years ago I was surprised to find at all the principal hotels and restaurants wines made in the Crimea, which have almost entirely taken the place of the ordinary French and German wines. I could not help contrasting the difference in this respect between the Russian and American people, as we seldom or ever see California wines on the menu of any of our first-class hotels or restaurants, which is unaccountable, as California is now producing fully as fine a quality of wines as is produced in the world, except probably some higher grades."

The Sun comments editorially on the above as follows: "The great drawback which we find here in California wines is their want of moderation. They are either too alcoholic or too heavy or too sour. Now, the French clarets and white wines, like the Sauterne or Chablis, are distinguished by their pleasant flavor and agreeable taste, combined with a very low percentage of alcohol. They contain a very small quantity of tartrates. Therefore they are agreeable beverages, not heavy, and not provocative of gout and allied diseases. Yet the great mass of people in the East are every day drinking more and more California wine, and less and less French wine. If the restaurants which serve dinner 'with wine' show the general tendency, the best thing for the California vitiiculturists to do, if they wish to compete in quality and price combined against French wines, is to cultivate a lightness. There ought to be a big fortune for the California grower who is prepared to put a natural wine, especially if it be a white one, on this market or the markets of Europe, which is marked by its low percentage of alcohol in addition to the presence of all other qualities which a sound wine should have."

The City Trustees of Willows have passed an ordinance placing a license of $500 a year, payable in advance, upon those houses that retail liquor by the glass, and $250 a year upon those that sell in quantities of a quart or more.

The Butte county saloon-keepers held a meeting at Oroville, recently, and decided to refuse to pay any more high license. Attorneys GALE and JOYCE were engaged to defend any prosecution that may be commenced, and carry the cases to the Supreme Court if necessary. The Chico saloon men have a case in court to test the validity of the high-license ordinance passed by the Butte County Supervisors.

CALIFORNIA WINES IN MEXICO.

Some months ago we published an interview with W. J. Parker, then connected with the Mexican Central Railway, on the possibility of developing a market for California wines in the Central and Eastern portions of the Republic of Mexico. All of the conditions of trade were then set forth; the adaptability of the City of Mexico as a central distributing depot; the habits of the millions who live on the Central Mexican plateau; the conditions of trade; the methods of doing business and other particulars. Since then there has been a steady and gratifying increase in the shipments of wine to that portion of Mexico, and now California wine and brandy makers are to have a remarkably good opportunity to show their wares to the Mexican buyers.

Governor Budd has appointed a State Commission to take charge of collecting a suitable exhibit, and the Commissioners met on the 11th and organized for work. Colonel Andrews was chosen President, and the other officers were Captain H. Weinstock, Vice-President; E. J. Molera, Secretary, and C. A. Wetmore, Assistant Secretary. The others present were D. M. Murphy, Jr., John Mulvanskey, and the Mexican Consul, A. K. Coney, who is Commissioner-General for the United States. It was decided not to ask the State for an appropriation to arrange the exhibit, but to secure, if possible, a recommendation from the Senate and the Assembly to the effect that all State, public and private institutions make an exhibit. Colonel Andrews, H. Weinstock and C. A. Wetmore were appointed a committee to urge upon the Senators and Assemblymen the necessity of making such a recommendation.

The Commissioners believe that a good exhibit of the State's products will be made, and that if a proper display is made, it will open up an almost undeveloped market for California's wines, canned goods, dried fruits, nuts, lumber, mining machinery, and, in fact, all the products and industries of the State.

SIMI IS RIGHT.

"G. Simi, one of the largest wine-makers in Russian River Valley, California, has been arrested for violating an ordinance recently passed by the Supervisors, which provides that no persons or firm shall sell liquors or wine in quantities of less than one quart without obtaining a retailer's license. Simi claims that, as a manufacturer, he has the right to sell the produce of the vine as he sees fit, and to back up his claim has a strong legal array employed to test the validity of the ordinance."—Exchange.

Mr. Simi is right. He is sustained by the Supreme Court, in the decision in the case of Merced County vs. Helm & Nolan, in which the court held as follows:

"A sale by a wine-grower of the product of his vineyard, or by a distiller of the spirits produced at his distillery, does not constitute a 'business' of selling wines and spirits any more than the selling by a miller of the flour ground at his mill, or by the manufacturer of the cloth woven at his factory constitutes the business of selling flour or cloth; and the power to impose a license on a business does not authorize a tax, either by way of license or excise, upon the sale which the wine-grower or the distiller may make. Under the power conferred by the above section of the County Government Act it would be competent for the county to impose a license tax upon the business of manufacturing cloth or of raising sheep, but it would not be competent for it, under this authority, to require the payment of a license tax from every person who should sell a piece of cloth he manufactured, or the wool from the sheep which he had raised. The business of distilling spirits, or brewing beer, or manufacturing wool into cloth, or grain into flour, or grapes or currants into wine, or apples into cider is a lawful occupation, and while the business is such, under the authority thus given to the county may be made subject to a license tax, the county cannot, under this authority, impose a tax upon the individual sales of the product of such business, or upon all the sales made within each quarter of the year, or within any other limited period of time, for the reason that such a tax is not upon the business, but upon the different acts in the transaction of the business. With the same propriety might a tax be imposed upon the pruning of the vines, the picking of the grapes, the gathering of the apples, the pressing into the vats, the barreling of the juice, or its sale before fermentation into wine or cider. From these views it follows—as the county had no authority to demand a license tax except from those who were engaged in carrying on some business, and as the ordinance in question does not impose a tax on the business of saloon-keeping, and as the complaint does not charge the defendant with having conducted any business upon which the ordinance imposes a license tax—there was no authority to commence or maintain this action."

It is about time that the Boards of Supervisors of the various counties of this State recognize that the vitiicultural industry and those engaged in it (and particularly in such a county as Sonoma, which has 20,000 acres of vineyards and many millions of capital invested in the vitiicultural industry) have some rights which they are bound by the laws to respect. They have some very hazy ideas about the right to license, in any event.

Prohibitionists and the Liquor Question.

There is no measure proposed by any member of the Legislature that is creating such general interest among the people of the State as the proposition submitted by Senator Mahoney and Assemblyman Davitt to enact a uniform license law. It is a scheme of the liquor organization known as the California State Protective Association, and has for its object, not a more general spread of the saloon, but a stultification of the constitutional provision granting local option. In almost every city, town and hamlet the people are aroused, and are denouncing the proposition in the most violent manner. Resolutions are being passed and petitions sent up to the Legislature by the W. C. T. U. societies, the Good Templars, the Christian Endeavors, and from many church organizations, denouncing it as a bold, satanic and infamous attempt to take from people of localities the right of local police regulation. There is not an intelligent idea extant in relation to the objects of this bill. It is not one that will increase the number of saloons in the State, but will rather have a tendency to lessen the number in many localities. But the main object is to put a stop to the agitation that has been so annoying and so expensive both to the liquor dealers and the taxpayers in counties where litigation has been resorted to by the dealers to protect their vested rights. The bill, as it was introduced, takes from the people the right of local option by fixing a maximum license tax beyond which Boards of Supervisors and municipal authorities cannot go, and provides for a classification of localities as first, second and third. The rate fixed by the bill for the first class is $100 per annum, that for the second $200, and for the third $300. It also settles the question of Sunday closing, so that there will be no more agitation on that question such as has marked the crusades of the temperance elements during the past twenty years. This subject is one which requires considerable thought, and has occupied the attention of some of the most eminent men. There have been conflicting views held by divines as well as other classes of professional men. The violence with which the professed Prohibitionists have made their attacks, admitting of no compromise or middle ground in opposition to an industry that has grown so powerful in the United States, and which to a large extent affects one of the principal industries of California, has operated to defeat them in their efforts to become a factor in politics. It has undoubtedly caused an increase in the number of saloons all over the State, and the increasing agitation and assault against the liquor traffic have led these men to seek protection through organization and legislative enactments.—News Letter.

TRADE CIRCULARS.

From J. Gundlach & Co.

SAN FRANCISCO, January, 1895.

Under the admitted fact that the vintages of California are attracting more attention from year to year among consumers as well as among the wine trade in general, we take the liberty of submitting the following:

After an abundant vintage in 1893, last year's yield fell considerably below a fair average. The vines evidently needed a rest, and took it. The progress of the ravages of phylloxera in northern counties, unprecedented frosts during the month of May in Sonoma and Napa counties, neglected vineyards, abandoned for lack of profitable returns, are paramount reasons for the shortage of the vintage of 1894.

The product, however, presents itself under very favorable conditions, as the grapes developed nicely and were fully matured. The wines are full in body, low in acid, and show already after the first racking, a tendency to mellowness and a delicate character, which generally develops good, and in some sections high-grade wines.

The Dry Wine product of 1894 may be put down at 12,000,000 gallons, against 17,000,000 gallons in 1893; the estimates of the Sweet Wine product, based on internal revenue returns to date, show about 2,500,000 gallons, against 4,500,000 in 1893. The Brandy product of 1894-5 may probably be equal to that of 1893 — namely, about 2,000,000 gallons. Owing to the desire on the part of the producers to reduce the output of wines as much as possible, all inferior varieties and other surplus material were turned into Brandy. Our home consumption of wines in 1894 being estimated at about 8,000,000, and the total shipments by sea and rail being over 14,000,000 gallons, clearly indicates a considerable increase in trade in both directions. The stock of old wines in first hands is limited. The surplus having been effectively diminished, a better feeling prevails and indicates that prices may be advanced by natural causes of supply and demand. Nothing definite can be predicted, however, in this direction as long as unreasonable competition will continue to rule and to ruin a once prosperous industry. The position may be still further strengthened by combinations recently effected by a majority of wine merchants of this city, on one side, and by a large number of the most important wine growers and producers of this State on the other. The tendency toward suicidal competition could thus be restrained to a great extent, and the growers, once more obtaining adequate returns for their investments in vineyard estates, will naturally be encouraged to aspire to quality instead of quantity. If, in consequence thereof, prices will rule reasonably higher, the improved conditions will insure increased popularity and a higher estimation of our California product. We trust this will be the ultimate result of present combinations.

Our own position will continue to remain an independent one; we have joined no trust or combinations, and will endeavor to maintain our own freedom in all business relations, as heretofore. As vineyard proprietors and wine shippers it has been our aim, for over thirty years, to establish public recognition for the merits of California Wines and we have ever been ready to join hands with all interested parties having the welfare of our industry at heart. At an early date we led the way toward preserving the industry from the ravages of its natural enemy, the phylloxera, by experimentally planting resistant vines on an extensive scale; we have taken our share in all generous and unprofitable sacrifices to advance the industry, and we will continue our efforts to promote the common interests as well as our own.

We are carrying a large stock of all the finer varieties of Rhine Wine, Sauternes, Medoc, Bordeaux and Burgundy types, also a choice selection of sweet wines and well-matured Brandy. We shall pursue the same conservative policy we have followed in the past — namely, to supply the trade with carefully-selected, well-matured, high-grade wines of guaranteed purity, and we trust to be favored with a share of your valued patronage.

Respectfully,

J. GUNDLACH & Co.

From Gooderham & Worts (Limited).

DISTILLERS, MALTSTERS AND MILLERS — ESTABLISHED 1832.

DEAR SIR: It affords us much pleasure to advise you and the trade in general that we have just completed arrangements with Messrs. Sherwood & Sherwood, San Francisco, U. S. A., for the sole handling of our Canadian Rye whisky in the United States, States of California, Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Nevada and Arizona, and the Western or Pacific Coast territory of Mexico and Central America. They will deliver in bond or duty paid, or will ship direct if preferred.

These gentlemen are well known throughout the territory named as a large and most reliable firm, and we have every confidence, therefore, that dealers in our product will be enabled to do an extensive and profitable business under the most pleasant and favorable circumstances.

Canadian Rye Whisky is highly appreciated the world over, and is reputed to be the peer of the best brands of Irish, Scotch and American whiskies. All our whiskies for bottling being matured and ripened in wood, and bottled in bond under the direct supervision of the Canadian Excise Department, is an unquestionable guarantee of their age, purity and general excellence, and we consequently have no hesitation in recommending them not only to the general public but to the most fastidious of connoisseurs.

Yours, truly,

Toronto, Canada.

GOODERHAM & WORTS, L^TD.

From W. A. Taylor & Co.

39 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, February 24, 1895.

DEAR SIR: We take pleasure in calling attention to the enclosed circular referring to "Sparkling Saumur." This is a most delicious sparkling wine made in Saumur, France. It has long been used in homes and clubs throughout England, and stood the severest tests and criticisms, coming in competition with the best brands of champagne. We have placed it here so far with only fine wine drinkers, and take pride in saying some of the best entertainers in New York are using either "Dry Royal" or "Brut Royal" on their tables.

For those who enjoy drinking sparkling wines of France, we strongly recommend their either calling for this brand, at their wine merchant's, or communicating with us. The price, $21 per case of one dozen quarts, is bound to make this delicious wine popular. Purity and quality are what we claim, and we sincerely trust you will examine and see what merit it possesses.

Believing this wine will stand fair comparison with any of the popular champagnes in this market, and calling your attention to the enclosed order, extending compliments, we remain,

Yours truly,

W. A. TAYLOR & Co.

From Wm. Wolff & Co.

327-329 MARKET ST., SAN FRANCISCO.

DEAR SIR: We beg to announce that owing to our increased trade in Southern California we have opened an office in Los Angeles, at 212 Commercial street.

We assure you that your kind orders placed with our representatives, Messrs. Flint and Wise, will receive most careful attention.

Thanking you for past favors, and soliciting a continuance of the same, we remain, dear sir,

Yours very truly,

WM. WOLFF & Co.

ANOTHER SOLUTION OF THE LIQUOR PROBLEM.

Dr. Austin Abbott, of New York, is the proponent of another method of dealing with the liquor problem. Heretofore we have had an abundance of ideas, including the South Carolina dispensary system, the Gothenberg system, the ineffectual Maine law and its offspring, the theory against single-stamp goods, and high and low license, but now comes a proposition to put the liquor traffic under control of the medical profession. Dr. Abbott's theory was sprung at a meeting of the New York Society of Medical Jurisprudence, and, starting with the hypothesis that inebriety is either a disease or a habit (and it is undoubtedly a disease), he advanced four propositions:

First—The entire administration of the law regulating the sale of intoxicants should be committed directly to medical care. A man arrested for drunkenness instead of being punished at once should first be turned over to medical care to determine whether his case was one calling for treatment as a disease or not.

Second—The whole traffic in intoxicants ought to be submitted to medical supervision, that adulteration and falsification might be prevented.

Third—The education of the people in the proper use of intoxicants should be submitted to medical guidance.

Fourth—The method of sale ought to be aided by whatever information medical science could give on the subject.

Dr. Abbott said he did not propose to go into the question from a temperance or moral stand-point, but he believed that the consideration of the matter on the lines just submitted opened up a new field for medical attention. Moral and legal suasion had been tried often and repeatedly, and their effect was fully understood. It was admitted that much treatment to be done to remedy the evil of inebriety was necessary, and it was but fair to give medical suasion a chance.

The first step which might be taken is the stopping of all adulterations and the prevention of the sale of patent medicines, that are but adulterated intoxicants. It was in the interest of labor organizations to promote moderation in the use of liquor, but their greatest difficulty was the tendency of the working classes, like others, to over-indulgence.

The causes which made man a drunkard, he said, called for scientific investigation, and it was his opinion that both crime and inebriety should first be submitted to science to determine if they, in individual cases at least, were not really disease.

Medical science, he added, ought to determine which of the four principal methods of regulating the traffic of liquor was preferable — licensing, a tax without further restrictions, prohibition or government monopoly. He thought, however, that medical supervision would not lead to prohibition, as physicians, like other sensible men, liked a little of a good thing.

By consenting to the regulation of the sale of liquor on these lines, he said, the traffic would be taken out of politics and a more wholesome method substituted, and it was the consensus of medical opinion that the traffic would be conducted in such a way as would be to the best interests of the public.

Considering the wide publicity which his plans have obtained throughout the United States, by means of the co operation of the secular press, it is to be expected that in some locality an effort will be made to put his theory into operation. In such an event the practicability of his plan will receive a fair trial, but we doubt its success in any considerable degree. There is a decided proneness on the part of the medical profession, and especially on the part of druggists, not to be bound by any restrictive or prohibitory measures, no matter how stringent such restrictions may be.

The Board of Town Trustees of Santa Monica will soon take up the matter of licenses for the year beginning May 1. The question of license is an important one, and should be given careful attention. At present we have fourteen saloons, paying a license of $300 per year each. The trustees, at a recent meeting, by resolution declared that the number of saloons should be limited to thirteen, but at the very next meeting granted the application for license of the fourteenth. As a matter of fact, six or eight saloons would be amply sufficient for the needs of the thirsty ones in a town the size of Santa Monica, and the license should be made $500 per year, strictly payable in advance. This would have a tendency to crowd out the "dives," and would be a protection to the well-conducted saloons. In many towns in Southern California the system of high-license has been tried and found to work to perfection. In fact many temperance advocates strongly support high license, as against prohibition which does not prohibit, but results in a never-ending squabble over the illegitimate selling of liquor. If the saloon license was placed at $500 or $600 per year, and the number cut down to say ten, the result would be gratifying in every way. The revenue would be increased, and the saloons would be conducted in conformance with the law. The penalty of losing a license worth $500 would tend to make the saloon men more careful in the conduct of their business.—Santa Monica Gazette.

Pure California Wines & Grape Brandies.
THE San Gabriel Wine Co.
OF SAN GABRIEL,
Los Angeles County, Cal.
Are now prepared with a large stock of wines and brandies of their own growth to supply the trade and the market generally. This Company owns the largest vineyard in the world, covering over 2,500 acres. They have held their wines and brandies for several years in their own cellars, and do not offer any of their product until it has become properly matured. Their large stock of matured wines and brandies thus accumulated is now open to the purchaser. All goods under their trade mark are warranted pure and unadulterated. Being the successors to B. D. WILSON & Co., and to J. DE BARTH SHORB, they have become possessors of the "SHORB" BRAND OF BRANDY and "MOUNT VINEYARD"

goods success-fully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets. It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES.—The feeling of confidence in the situation increases steadily, and it is certainly warranted by the volume of trade, which is holding up surprisingly well, considering the condition of general business throughout the country. Furthermore, values continue to harden, and another advance is among the probabilities in the not far distant future. In short, the industry gives every indication of having squared away with a fair wind toward the long-sought port of general prosperity. May the breeze hold good and the voyage be quick. Orders are coming in nicely, and shipments both by sea and rail are more than could be expected. The Central American trade is particularly gratifying, as can be seen by watching the tables of exports to that market. During the half month exportations to the Central American countries and Mexico have been numerous and of good volume, and it is evident by the large number of cases included that this class of trade is improving—that wines in glass are fast growing more popular. This is a desirable feature of the business, and goes far to show that it is only a question of time when these countries will comprise one of the great markets for our wines. Receipts of stocks from interior cellars during the month were very heavy, the total aggregating 1,588,430 gallons, as against 972,900 gallons in the same month of last year. It will be seen by the comparative figures, herewith, that the receipts for the first quarter of the year exceed those of the similar period of 1894 by more than a million and a half gallons, and in connection with this fact, the exports have grown in about the same proportion.

The following is a comparative statement of the receipts of wine and brandy at this point for 3 months, 1894 and 1895:

	Wine.	Brandy.	Wine.	Brandy.
January	553,110	142,705	897,534	60,590
February	711,110	190,650	1,341,780	1,540
March	972,900	25,695	1,588,430	6,630
Total 3 mo's.	2,267,120	359,050	3,830,744	68,760

Recent advices from New York are as follows: "The demand continues to be small, but this is not owing to the advanced prices—it is simply owing to the general condition of the trade; there are some indications of improvement, but they do not as yet extend to the class of trade handling California dry wines. In the meanwhile, prices are held firm."

At the recent sale of Southard & Co., 2 St. Dunstan's Hill, E. C. London, on the 28th of February, one lot of '92 California Zinfandel was sold at 2s. 2d. (52 cents) per gallon, and a lot of '91 Zinfandel was sold at 2s. 1d. per gallon (56 cents).

The shipments of California wines by sea in March were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
To New York.....	54	463,764	$144,757
Central America.....	1,748	15,086	14,370
Mexico.....	28	6,778	3,314
Hawaii.....	23	6,068	3,903
British Columbia.....	4	957	481
Japan and China.....	44	3,937	1,253
Great Britain.....
Germany.....	55	22,122	9,886
Other European.....
Tahiti.....
All other foreign.....	307	394
Total by sea.....	1,956	519,019	$178,358

CALIFORNIA BRANDIES.—The market remains slow. A scarcity of orders and light shipments have been the rule during the last half month. In view of the season and the tax-paid stocks on hand, no general movement is expected for some time. Values are sound, in sympathy with the upward tendency of wines. Receipts from the interior during March were the smallest of any month in the past ten years. During the first three months of '95 the receipts were 68,760 gallons, compared with 359,050 gallons in the same period of '94.

The total exports of California brandy by sea in March were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
To Domestic Eastern Ports.....
Germany.....	12,201	6,127
Great Britain.....
All other foreign.....	31	200	551
Total by sea.....	31	12,401	6,678

WHISKIES.—Trade with most jobbers continues to move slowly, and it is only in the case of old-established and widely-popular brands that business holds up to the point where "there is no particular cause for complaint." At the same time, things might be much worse, and it is certain that the wine and liquor trade is as well off as any other line. The general public are still economizing on good things to drink, and not till the new movement of enterprise gets under good headway, and the thousands of idle men on the Coast are afforded employment, need any marked change for the better be looked for. Recent experience has proved this to be true. The reaction is not with us yet, but it is coming along, and will be here in a short time, unless all signs fail. Exports to Pacific ports have been fair during the fortnight, while receipts of whiskies and spirits by rail were of ordinary volume.

The receipts of American whiskies by sea and rail at San Francisco in March were as follows:

	Cases.	Barrels.	Hefbrs.
By sea from Atlantic ports.....	5	...
" re-imported.....
" rail overland.....	680	1,390	227
Total.....	680	1,395	227

The receipts of spirits in March by rail were 2130 barrels; of alcohol 90 barrels and 2 drums.

The receipts of foreign whiskies in March were 1700 cases, 14 octaves, 53 casks and 3 hogsheads.

The exports of American whiskies by sea to foreign ports were 360 cases and 1641 gallons, valued at $6174.

IMPORTATIONS.—There is a better feeling, and some evidences that business is slowly but steadily growing better. Houses carrying standard lines with an established demand find orders more frequent and sales less difficult to make. It is to be hoped this change is not temporary.

As will be seen by the annexed figures, the receipts of foreign goods during the past month have been remarkably large in nearly every important line except champagne, and exceed those of any one month for several years.

The principal importations at San Francisco for March were as follows:

Champagne—25 cases.

Still Wines—381 cases, 54 hogsheads, 24 casks, 70 quarters, 350 octaves and 8 half-barrels.

Brandy—1242 cases, 5 hogsheads, 1 cask, 50 octaves; also, from overland, 1 half-barrel.

Gin and Geneva—390 cases; from New York via Cape Horn, 5 barrels.

Vermouth—3070 cases.

Mineral water—1210 cases and 60 barrels.

Bitters—55 cases.

Absinthe—705 cases.

Cordials—34 cases.

Aquavit—75 cases.

Undesignated Liquors—381 cases; also, from overland, 40 cases and 1 barrel.

Ginger Ale—305 barrels.

Rum—25 octaves; also, via Cape Horn, 10 barrels.

Bulk Beer (from overland)—257 barrels, 205 half-barrels, 460 quarter-barrels, 120 kegs.

Bottled Beer (from overland)—135 barrels, 511 casks, 281 boxes.

Foreign Beer (by sea)—1222 cases, 575 barrels, 135 casks.

Foreign Stout (by sea)—140 cases and 1015 barrels.

Foreign Ale (by sea)—10 cases and 30 barrels; also, by rail, 120 casks.

A CASE OF PROHIBITION REJOICING.

Governor Budd's action in signing the bill winding up the affairs of the Viticultural Commission appears to have caused measureless rejoicing among the Prohibitionists. For a gentleman who is as reputedly free a user of alcoholic stimulants as is the worthy Governor Budd this is a surprising statement, doubtless. Hear what one of the faithful—a woman, of course—has to say. Her name we believe is Peet, or something akin to it, and her utterances in the Prohibitionist are as follows:

"The abolition of the Viticultural Commission and the elimination of State aid from district fairs are both measures that are matters for congratulation."

And the Prohibitionist backs this up with this rot:

"Governor Budd has settled the doom of the Viticultural Commission by signing the bill calling for its abolition. Thus comes to an end one of the most notoriously unjust and shameful institutions ever fastened by law upon any Commonwealth. To sanction the practice of making drunkards is barbarous enough in itself, but to make Prohibitionists pay a tax to perpetuate an institution whose sole business lies in making drunkards scientifically as well as legally, was adding shameful insult to gross injury."

What does Governor Budd think of himself? Has he had enough of his advocacy of measures to put the University into politics? Does he want the wine men of this State to know how he betrayed them? Does he want the truth about the lobby that was arranged in the Board of Regents, told? We have it all?

He must be pleased with this cold-water approval.

And now, just a word to journals of the St. Helena Star calibre: Their prejudices against the Commission aided the fight against it. How does the St. Helena Star relish the situation which places the vine growers of the Napa Valley as helplessly in the hands of Boards of Supervisors as are the saloon men? How does it like the proposition of having the leading industry of the Napa Valley placed in the same category as the saloon business, which, the truth being told, exists in this State only on the sufferance of the County Supervisors?

As long as the Board existed, appropriation or no appropriation, the policy of the State was declared. The Supreme Court has decided that the County Supervisors could not prohibit wine selling from a winery. The business was placed on a legitimate plane, and only the existence of the Board saved A. H. Brown of Riverside, for instance, from the ruin of his business. Does the Star want the wine business on the same uncertain standard as is the saloon business?

The Treasury Department has decided that when brandy is imported in glass, and it is found that some of the bottles have been "lost in transit," a rebate of the duty on such loss is allowable.

Hos. J. De Bacco Snorn, Viticultural Commissioner and formerly of the San Gabriel Wine Company, has been spending some time in the city during the past fortnight.

SAZERAC.

A History of An Ancient Brandy House.

The name of "Sazerac" in connection with imported French Brandy on this market has been as familiar as household words since "the days of old, the days of gold, the days of '49."

The firm of Sazerac de Forge & Fils, France, dates its origin back to the ancient times.

Having been founded over 250 years, it may be of interest to the many patrons of a brandy which has maintained such a high reputation for nearly three centuries, to give a short history of this ancient house.

The origin of this firm is traceable back to the seventeenth century, when Charles I was King in England. Louis Sazerac, Seigneur des Roches and lord of other estates near Cognac, of the younger branch of the noble family of that name, established the business in the year 1640, and under the management of the sons of the first Louis Sazerac it became of great importance, and obtained from the king special privileges for the exportation of their brandies. In the year 1770 one of the descendants of Louis Sazerac was joined by M. Bernard Sazerac de Forge, Seigneur de Forge, de la Foix, etc., a nobleman who held several high offices, and M. Sazerac de Forge succeeded to the entire business in 1782, when the firm took its present name of Sazerac de Forge, subsequently becoming Sazerac de Forge et Fils, which designation it at present bears, and as consequence, with the exactness observed by French statements—the date of its establishment is named as 1782, although as we have already explained, the actual business commenced in 1640, or 254 years ago at this present writing. Since then the progress of the business of the firm has been one continuous record of prosperity; the brandy of Sazerac de Forge has always been noted for its perfect purity and genuine character—a first class champagne Cognac. As such it is appreciated throughout France, and agencies for its sale have been extended to Australia, India, Cape Colony, California, etc., etc., whilst on the continent of Europe, specially in Russia, Germany and Sweden, it is regarded as one of the few choicest spirits.

It is worth recording that members of this old and noble house have attained to high places in the State. Among its members were Chevaliers of St. Louis, five Chevaliers of the Legion of Honor, one an officer of the Academy, two officers of Public Instruction, two Deputies to Parliament, six General Councilors to the Department of the Charente, two Vice-Presidents of the Assembly, nine Consular Judges, eight Presidents of the Commercial Tribunal, six Vice-Mayors, three Mayors of Angoulême, twelve Municipal Councilors of Angoulême, and a large number of other public offices have been filled by this illustrious family. At present the partners of the firm of Sazerac de Forge et Fils are M. Albert Sazerac de Forge, Municipal Councilor of Monthiers-Forge, member of the Agricultural, Scientific, Artistic and Commercial Society of Charente, and M. Fernand Kolb-Bernard, formerly Sous-Préfet, now Judge of the Tribunal of Commerce in Angoulême, son-in-law to one of the deceased partners, and for the last fifteen years a member of the firm.

We may add that the Chateau de Forge, whose splendid vineyards are situated in one of the best districts of the vine-growing part of the Charente, belongs to the firm of Sazerac de Forge et Fils; this estate has been in the family over 200 years. Surely such a history give nobility to trade.

The Sazerac Brandy of different vintages and prices are to be had at the leading jobbing houses of San Francisco, and the excellent quality and high grade of these Cognacs are so extensively and favorably known as to require no further eulogies at our hands.

LIQUOR TRADE LEGISLATION.

Governor Budd has signed the so-called Sanitary Act, with the liquor license joker in it. There is no trouble to be anticipated on this measure. The joker is clearly unconstitutional, its purpose not being expressed in the title of the act; it is unconstitutional, also, because it seeks to remove the power to license from County Boards, which power is specifically given in Section 11 of Article 11 of the Constitution.

On the request of a number of members of the Trade we publish the full text of the Withington Pure Drug and Food Bill, which was also approved by the Governor. The Act is as follows:

Section 1. Be it enacted by the People of the State of California, in Assembly assembled,

AN ACT to provide against the adulteration of food and

The People of the State of California, represented in the Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

Section 1. No person shall, within this State, manufacture for sale, offer for sale or sell any drug or article of food which is adulterated within the meaning of this act.

Sec. 2. The term "drug," as used in this act, shall include all medicines for internal or external use, antiseptics, disinfectants and cosmetics. The term "food," as used herein, shall include all articles used for food or drink by man, whether simple, mixed or compound.

Sec. 3. Any article shall be deemed to be adulterated, within the meaning of this act

(a) In the case of drugs: (1) If when sold under or by a name recognized in the United States Pharmacopœia, it differs from the standard of strength, quality or purity laid down therein. (2) If when sold under or by a name not recognized in the United States Pharmacopœia but which is found in some other pharmacopœia or other standard work on materia medica, it differs materially from the standard of strength, quality or purity laid down in such work. (3) If its strength, quality or purity falls below the professed standard under which it is sold.

(b) In case of food: (1) If any substance or substances have been mixed with it, so as to lower, or depreciate or injuriously affect its quality, strength or purity. (2) If any inferior or cheaper substance or substances have been substituted wholly or in part for it. (3) If any valuable or necessary constituent or ingredient has been wholly or in part abstracted from it. (4) If it is an imitation of or is sold under the name of another article. (5) If it consists wholly or in part of a diseased, decomposed, putrid, infected, tainted or rotten animal or vegetable substance or article, whether manufactured or not; or, in the case of milk, if it is the produce of a diseased animal. (6) If it is colored, coated, polished or powdered, whereby damage or inferiority is concealed, or if by any means it is made to appear better or of greater value than it really is. (7) If it contains any added substance or ingredient which is poisonous or injurious to health. Provided, That the provisions of this act shall not apply to mixtures or compounds recognized as ordinary articles or ingredients of articles of food, if each and every package sold or offered for sale be distinctly labeled as mixtures or compounds, with the name and per cent. of each ingredient therein, and are not injurious to health.

Sec. 4. Every person manufacturing, exposing or offering for sale or delivering to a purchaser any drug or article of food included in the provisions of this act shall furnish to any person interested, or demanding the same, who shall apply to him for the purpose and shall tender to him the value of the same, a sample sufficient for the analysis of any such drug or article of food which is in his possession.

Sec. 5. Whoever refuses to comply, upon demand, with the requirements of section four, and whoever violates any of the provisions of this act, shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be fined not exceeding one hundred nor less than twenty-five dollars, or imprisoned in the county jail not exceeding one hundred nor less than thirty days, or both. And any person found guilty of manufacturing, offering for sale, or selling, an adulterated article of food or drug under the provisions of this act shall be adjudged to pay, in addition to the penalties hereinbefore provided for, all the necessary costs and expenses incurred in inspecting and analyzing such adulterated articles of which said person may have been found guilty of manufacturing, selling or offering for sale.

Sec. 6. This act shall be in force and take effect from and after its passage.

Here is the way that Mrs. Peet, of San Jose, a "temperance" worker who spent some time at the recent session of the Legislature, sizes up the situation:

"The outcome, as far as the liquor question is concerned, is fully satisfactory. The liquor dealers made an extremely earnest struggle to compass their ends. They were represented by their best attorneys, the lobby was full of their advocates, and day and night they worked incessantly to bring about the success of their plans. Colonel Baker, their attorney, made the best efforts of his life, evidently, both before the individual members and before the Judiciary committee, to which the bill was referred, but all to no avail, and after disappearing in one form and then reappearing in another—playing a sort of hide-and-seek game, as it were, with the fond hope that its passage might be effected in some roundabout manner at the last moment—it finally met an ignominious defeat."

Notes and Personals.

B. K. Bloch & Co., of Salt Lake City, will shortly open a branch house in Sacramento.

Sim Bros., of Healdsburg, are thinking of erecting an addition to their winery, which will double their present capacity.

G. MUGLAVACA, the Napa wine merchant, has let the contract for the construction of a new residence to FRANK WILLIS for $3,999.

THE BOARD OF TOWN TRUSTEES at Willows has raised the tariff on saloon license from $40 per year to $500, payable in advance, and placed a license on bottle shops of $250 a year.

J. E. PEPPER & Co., of Lexington, Ky., have secured a contract with the Pullman Co. by which "J. E. PEPPER" whisky will be the only brand sold on the cars of the Company all over the United States.

YOUNG FREEMAN helplessly — "BONDIAM, is there any cure for the liquor habit?" Old BONDIAM (thoughtfully) — "Y-ess — one." "What is it?" "Marry a woman bigger than you are!"

It is announced that the GREAT WHITE SPIRIT COMPANY, of New York, the concern which was heralded as an opponent of the Distilling and Cattle Feeding Company, has gone out of business.

ACTING SECRETARY CURTIS, of the Treasury, has directed that $640,794 of taxes due on 711,994 gallons of whisky destroyed by fire in 1893, the property of the Allen-Bradley Company, of Louisville, Ky., be abated, as the origin of the fire has been satisfactorily shown to have been accidental.

CHARLES MEINECKE, of CHARLES MEINECKE & Co., will leave for Europe on the evening of the 7th, to be gone for an indefinite period. He will rejoin his family, which is now at Munich. We wish Mr. MEINECKE "bon voyage."

THE JULIUS KESSLER COMPANY, of Covington, Ky., has been incorporated by Julius Kessler, of Chicago; Daniel F. Brown and Jonas B. Frenke, of Cincinnati, for the purpose of distilling and selling whisky. Capital stock, $100,000.

JOHN BUTLER, the popular Market-street retailer has ordered twenty-five barrels of "R. B. Hayden" whisky. These goods are of high quality, and are making rapid headway in this market under the management of CHAS. MEINECKE & Co.

THE BODEGA WINE COMPANY, Cleveland, Ohio, has been incorporated by Theodore Boehmke, Carl F. Schroedter, August J. Liedermann, Henry Boehmke and John A. Zangerle, for the purpose of dealing in, purchasing and selling of wines, liquors, etc. Capital stock, $10,000.

THE DAVIESS COUNTY Distillery, of Owensboro, will be wound up next month and the property sold. This action is due to disagreements between Mr. R. Moxam and the executor of the late JOHN CAVELAGHAN. The property is a very valuable one, and the company owns a large amount of fine whisky.

THE saloon business at South Riverside is being greatly interfered with by the series of revival meetings in progress in that town. It is thought the County Supervisors will have to make the license for conducting saloons still lower, or those engaged in the business at South Riverside will have to close their doors.

THEY had been drinking — more than they should. At last one — the literary man of the party, gave vent to the concluding words of "Vanity Fair": "Ah! Vanitas Vanitatum! Which of us is happy in this world? Which of us has his desire? or, having it, is satisfied?" To which he gravely added, after a long pause — "let's have another!"

PAUL MASSON, the well known wine merchant and champagne maker of San Jose, is rapidly establishing a fine trade in Mexico. His goods meet with much favor, as they deserve to. During the half month he has made numerous shipments of wine, brandy and champagne to the Pacific ports of the Southern Republic. Mr. Masson's trade in the Coast market and to the East is growing in a very healthy manner.

THERE has been a reorganization of the California Wine Association, by which the number of directors is reduced to seven, namely, CHARLES CARBY, HENRY ERSTEIN, A. L. TUBBS, PERRY MORGAN, J. J. WEGELIN, HANS H. KOHLER and HENRY KOHLER. The new officers are: President and General Manager, CHARLES CARBY; Vice President, J. J. WEGELIN; Treasurer, J. VAN BERGEN; Secretary, HANS KOHLER; Assistant Manager and Cellar Inspector, HENRY LACHMANN.

ANNOUNCEMENT is made that in the future the Champagne business of ARPAD HARASZTHY & Co. will be conducted entirely independently of the California Wine Association. All the trade-marks of the firm are Mr. HARASZTHY's property, and they were never transferred to the Association. By the terms of the agreement between the parties Messrs. HARASZTHY buy back from the Association all stock not sold, and the Association agrees to purchase champagne of the house for a certain period.

KORB & DENYARD are establishing an important line of trade, in connection with their wholesale wine department, in the matter of clarifying and bottling wine for the trade and consumers. They have the very best facilities, and Mr. Korb's many years' experience in the art enable the house to render first-class service and guarantee satisfaction. Wholesale salers, retailers, clubs, restaurants, and the general public find this a great convenience. Messrs. KORB & DENYARD are, however, prepared to fill all orders with dispatch. Those who are interested in this line of work would do well to ask them for prices.

THE LUTHER-SCHROEDER COMPANY, of San Jose, one of the largest liquor houses in the State outside of San Francisco, went into voluntary insolvency on the 13th inst. The reasons assigned are increasing indebtedness, loss of trade and slow collections. The liabilities foot up $26,848.36, of which $13,762.89 is due the Crown Distilleries Company, of this city, and $2,504.85 is due the Commercial and Savings Bank of San Jose. The balance of the liabilities is due to various houses in smaller amounts. The assets consist of stock, $5,000; fixtures, $300, and accounts to the amount of $27,000, which are estimated as worth $7,500.

OWING to the supply of pomace having become exhausted the Cream of Tartar Factory in Healdsburg has closed for the season. The output of cream of tartar from this concern was not so large as it will be during the next run, and henceforth, because the plant was not at the outset equal to what it is now, and the facility of securing the material was not so well compassed. Mr. DE LAFORE will this year contract for enough pomace to manufacture double the amount of cream of tartar which was made between last autumn and the time when the works were closed down. The force of men which will be employed will likely be doubled, and a steady run, night and day, is anticipated for at least eight months.

THERE is not in the West a firm which has a stronger hold upon their line of trade than STEIN BROS. & PRYGMANN. Since 1876 they have been established at the corner of Sacramento and Sansome streets, and during that time they have built up a business which extends throughout the entire Pacific Coast. Wines and liquors of a superb quality are their specialties, and their Bourbon and Rye are so well known for their excellence that retail merchants are seldom called upon with samples of the brands kept by the house. They simply send in their orders and the big firm fills them forthwith. All dealers know the popular "O. K. Rosedale" whisky which is blended Kentucky juice, and which is brought by sailing vessel around the Horn. STEIN BROS. & PRYGMANN have been the agents for this fine brand for many years. They have also been sole agents for the celebrated "Belle of Bourbon," and they have control of many of the very best brands of whiskies known in the trade. They also handle "Zwitzer Schapps," and carry an immense stock of the leading champagnes, brandies, gins and imported wines.—Post.

Correspondence.

From L. Gandolfi & Co.

NEW YORK, March 15, 1895.

DEAR SIR: The following goods have been received to which we ask the kind attention of the trade: Per "Burgundia," Mar. 4, 630 bxs. macaroni; per "Herman Winter," 50 drums codfish; per "Werra," March 6, 25 cases h't-moon olive oil, 40 bbls. Piedmont wines, 26 packages anchovies, 2 cases of cheese; per "Berlin," 50 cases French cognac.

We also take pleasure in announcing that we have accepted the general agency for the United States of the old-established and well-known house of L. L. Ruffino, of Florence (Italy), grower and exporter of high grade Chianti wines. Of all Tuscan wines, the Ruffino's Chianti is reputedly the finest, being grown in the best vineyards of the Chianti hills, and expressly put up for the American market. We will be pleased to submit samples and prices.

Yours truly,
L. GANDOLFI & Co.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 20th, 1895.

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review—SIR: We beg to advise you that the Annual Convention of the National Wine and Spirit Association will be held at the St. Nicholas Hotel, in St. Louis, Mo., on April 16th and 17th, 1895.

Our President, Mr. I. W. Bernheim, was in St. Louis yesterday, and had a personal interview with many of the leading members of the trade. He received assurances from them which make it an absolute certainty that our annual meeting will be a brilliant success from a business and from a social stand-point.

Secretary of the Treasury Hon. J. G. Carlisle has been invited to attend, as also the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Hon. J. S. Miller, and we may reasonably hope that one, or perhaps both, may honor us with their presence.

Excursion rates have been secured already. Particulars will be made known shortly. To make the meeting more interesting and more profitable from a business stand-point, we should like to have addresses from some of our members during the Convention, bearing on subjects relating to our trade, either political, scientific or economic.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 30, 1895.

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review—SIR: The President of this Association has just returned from St. Louis, and finds that the trade of that city has made ample and liberal provision for the entertainment of the visiting members on April 16th and 17th at our annual convention. The headquarters will be at the St. Nicholas Hotel, where a splendid hall has been secured for the meeting, and a superb banquet will be a feature of the occasion. Altogether, this convention promises to be a notable one in the history of our trade, and we feel safe in saying that no one who attends will ever have cause to regret it. Remember, that only members of the National Wine and Spirit Association will be admitted to the proceedings; so urge all your friends who are not members to send in their applications at once, and then meet us in St. Louis. All the railroads will make a rate for round trip of one and a third fares. Please advise us by return mail if you can attend, so that the St. Louis committee may know how many they will be expected to entertain.

Yours truly,
W. W. BULLITT, Secretary.

The high-license ordinance was passed by the San Luis Obispo City Council, and now a fight to a finish is on between the Council and the liquor dealers. The saloon license was fixed at $600 a year, which it is estimated will freeze out about one-half of the number in the business.

ONCE MORE.—One man buys a dollar's worth of wine for use on his table; when it is consumed, California still has the money for trade, busi- or the general good. Another pays a dollar for tea, but when it is used China has the money, and you couldn't get it back with a steam derrick. If the tea-drinkers could only invent a super-dynamic magnet! Well!

From Achille Starace.

76 PEARL STREET, NEW YORK, March 22, 1895.

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review—SIR: Please take notice that I have just received per Steamship "Normannia" an invoice of 50 cases Lunca Olive Oil, of which kindly make mention in your next edition.

Per Italia, (Mar. 30) 5053 bx's macaroni, A. Garofalo brand.
Yours truly,
ACHILLE STARACE.

CHARLEY ROTH, of ROTH & HALL, Louisville, is in San Francisco once more, looking after his trade.

HENRY ELFERS, of the Kelly's Island Wine Company, Lake Erie, and Mr. MOISE, of the Sweet Valley Wine Co., are making a month's tour through the Viticultural districts of the State.

J. P. EDOFF, President of the California State Protective Association, intends taking a four weeks' business and pleasure trip through Southern California in the near future. He will start about April 15th.

J. GUNDLACH & Co. are getting a fine share of the cream of the Central American trade. The steamer San Blas carried out during the month some healthy shipments, among which were 592 cases of wine of the well-known "Rhine Farm" brand. This fact speaks well for the popularity of these goods in the markets named.

The members of the Italian-Swiss Agricultural Colony held their fourteenth annual meeting on the evening of the 2d instant. Secretary A. SERRAORO read his annual report, which shows the Colony to have been organized in 1881, and that a tract of land consisting of 1500 acres was purchased at Asti, Saronna county, near Cloverdale, one-half of which has been set out in fine varieties of wine grapes and a portion in fruit trees. The Association has erected one of the largest wineries in the State. The selection of directors has resulted in the re-election by unanimous vote of the following gentlemen: P. C. ROSSI, Dr. G. OLLINO, A. MERLE, C. A. MALM, L. CUENIN, M. J. FONTANA, D. PARONI, P. CANEPA and A. SERRAORO. The board subsequently met and elected the following officers: President, P. C. ROSSI; Vice President, Dr. G. OLLINO; Treasurer, London and San Francisco Bank, (limited); Secretary, A. SERRAORO, and Attorney, D. FREDENRICH.

COLLEGE OF VITICULTURE.

The proposition to establish a suitable and worthy successor to the Viticultural Commission, when its affairs are ended by the limitation of law, is bringing about much discussion. The inability of the College of Agriculture to deal with commercial problems as they arise—such as questions of tariff, internal revenue laws, and regulations, and the creation of markets—must be recognized as patent. It goes without the saying that the College of Agriculture is not equipped for this manner of work, let alone its series of failures in theoretical viticultural work. The viticulturists must have some central working body in San Francisco, which shall neither be dominated by political considerations nor be governed by the theorists and dreamers who hold supreme control in the College of Agriculture. There must be a representative central working body of practical men at the head of affairs, and when it is organized it will not be on the plan of, say, the State Horticultural Society, nor the Board of Horticulture, nor the State Floral Society.

The details of what this working body will be will be settled definitely at the June meeting of the State Viticultural Commission. At that time the plans will have been elaborated, and it is stated that it will probably take on the form of a College of Viticulture. The June meeting of the Commission will be the last but one of the body, and when the December meeting comes around the Board will be in readiness to retire gracefully and with honor.

The following are the salient points of Ordinance No. 69, licensing the retail liquor business in Lake county. The license tax is fixed at $50 per quarter, payable in advance, and no license to be granted for less than three months. No license to be granted except upon written application of the one desiring to carry on the business, and ten freeholders of the same precinct who are heads of families, who are not engaged in the same business, and who have not petitioned for license for any one else. A bond of $2500 is required, signed by at least five freeholders and heads of families of the same Supervisory district, and who are not engaged in the same business, and who must qualify in the amount of $500 each, conditioned for the faithful compliance with the provisions of the ordinance. Saloons must close at 11 o'clock p. m., and not open until 5 o'clock a. m., except on Sunday, when they must close at 11 o'clock p. m. Saturday and remain closed until 5 o'clock a. m. Monday morning. Any violation of the ordinance forfeits the bond and license and disqualifies the offender from ever obtaining another license. The violation of any of the provisions of this ordinance is a misdemeanor, punishable by a fine of not less than $100 nor more than $500.

MANUFACTURERS' RESOLUTIONS AND PAPERS.

The Manufacturers' Convention, which was in session in this city several days during the past fortnight, adopted two sets of resolutions of interest to the local liquor and wine trade. The first of these refers to "free alcohol in the arts," and its purport is so plain as need no further comment. It is as follows:

Resolved, That the use of spirits in the arts not connected with the production of beverages, and for purposes not intended to evade taxation on alcohol used in connection with beverages, should be free from internal revenue taxation, and that present laws on this subject should be construed in harmony with these restrictive conditions, but literally, or to industries not connected with beverages.

Resolved, That this convention particularly requests the Senators and Representatives of the Pacific Coast to use all means within their power to have this law made operative and continuous, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to each and every Senator and Representative of the Pacific Coast.

The second set of resolutions was offered by Arpad Haraszthy, and its purpose is two-fold. Some of the Prohibitionists objected to the consideration of such resolutions, but their objections counted for nothing, and the following were adopted:

Resolved, That this convention recommends to the favorable consideration of the Senators and Representatives of the State of California in Congress the demands of the distillers of this State, especially those connected with the brandy industry, which call for an amendment to the revenue laws permitting distillers to blend, perfect and bottle their pure products in bonded warehouses both for domestic and foreign trade, giving them the right to change the size of their packages to suit the demands of commerce, while retaining the evidences of the purity of their products through the internal revenue stamps, as now provided for original packages placed in bond.

Resolved, That we commend to the favorable consideration of the wholesale liquor trade in this State, the proposition that they should patronize local distillers wherever it is established that they are able to supply neutral spirits and alcohol equal in quality, and as low in price as can be obtained from distillers outside of the State, and that in the event the local distillers may not be able to supply all that is needed in this respect, then they should exert their influence with the spirit-producing combination in the Eastern States to open and operate distilleries in this State for the supply of this Coast.

The first portion is aimed to assist in carrying out a favorite proposition of the brandy distillers and dealers; i. e., the bottling and blending of brandy in bond. The needful draft of this measure has already been drawn up, and is to be found on page 70 of Charles A. Wetmore's recent Treatise on Wine Production, published by the Viticultural Commissioners.

The second portion of this resolution is calculated to increase the business of the California Distilling Co. (C. Jost & Son) and the Golden State Distilling Co.

Another resolution, which was adopted, and referring to the continuation of the work of the Viticultural Commissioners, will be found elsewhere, together with a full discussion of its feasibility and right.

Among the papers read was one by Mr. Andrea Sbarboro, on the wine industry of California, which was as follows:

Address made by C. Sbarboro.—The wine industry of this State has been very much depressed for the past four years. Within the past year neither the producer of the grape, the wine maker nor the wine dealers have made any profit on their investment.

The grape growers were so discouraged that some of them plowed up their vines, and many intended to do so. This was not owing so much to over-production as to the fact of excessive competition among the dealers. In view of this state of affairs, a few of the principal grape growers and wine makers called a convention to meet in this city a few months ago, which was attended by a large number of interested parties.

The result of the meeting was the formation of the California Wine Makers' Cooperation, the members of which agreed to transfer all their vines to the said Association, to be sold by a board of directors, and the proceeds of such sales to be divided pro rata in accordance with the quality and quantity of the wine furnished by each individual.

This Board set to work in earnest, and succeeded in obtaining control of about nine tenths of the wine of 1893-94 in the State. With this power in their hands they succeeded in con-rolling the market, and in a few months have raised the price of ordinary wine from 6 to 12½ cents per gallon, at which latter figure 6,000,000 gallons of wine have already been sold, and, furthermore, an agreement has been entered into with the principal wine dealers in this city whereby future prices shall be regulated so as to give a fair living price to the grape growers and wine makers alike.

The co-operation of the wine dealers and wine makers has succeeded in saving the viticultural industry of the State from utter ruin, and this they have done alike to the advantage of the wine growers, dealers and consumers.

The price obtained for wine by the producer and that paid by the consumer has been unreasonably disproportionate. There have been instances where the producer has received 10 cents per gallon for his wine, which, after having been put up in so-called pint bottles, has been sold on the cars and in some hotels as high as $1 per bottle, thus making the consumer pay about $10 per gallon for an article for which the producer receives about 10 cents per gallon.

It is the aim of this co-operative combination to do away with such unreasonable charges, and at the same time to permit only sound and good wine to be furnished to the consumers. All unsound wine will hereafter go to the distillery.

There is room in this State for a very large increase of the wine industry. The 20,000,000 gallons of wine which is now produced as an average in this State would be consumed in Italy and France by a single city having the population of San Francisco.

At the same time, the people of the State of California, knowing that wine here is only made from the pure juice of the grape, consume nearly as much wine as all the Eastern States put together. If some means could be found by which our Eastern brethren could be induced to use as much wine as we do in this State, the industry could be increased immensely.

California is practically the only State in the Union that can produce fine wines and in large quantities. Millions of acres of hillside lands could be planted in vines, thus giving employment to thousands of industrious laborers, who, in their turn, consuming the product and manufactured articles of the State, would soon increase our population and materially enhance the prosperity of the country. In former years there was a prejudice against the quality of our wines, but now that prejudice has been overcome, especially since it has been admitted by experts and juries at the United States and foreign exhibits that our ordinary wine is far superior to that produced in Europe, and that, with the exception of a few extraordinarily fine wines of France, we can produce here as fine a table wine as is made in France, Italy or Spain.

A great deal to retard the general use of wine by the Eastern people is due to the temperance societies. These societies, which are undoubtedly composed of philanthropists who are striving to better the condition of their fellow man, have unfortunately not been able yet to distinguish the difference between the use of whisky, which intoxicates, and wine, which merely invigorates. (Great applause.)

If these temperance people would look at the statistics of the wine-using countries of Europe, where Italy and France alone, with a population only a little larger than that of the United States, each make and consume annually nearly 1,000,000,000 gallons of wine, they would find that there drunkenness is almost unknown. Look at the wine-producing counties of the State of California, where the people are commencing to make general use of wine, and you will see very few intoxicated persons among them. At the large vineyard of the Italian-Swiss Agricultural Colony, organized at Asti, Sonoma county, in 1881—which now supports a large number of prosperous families, and where an average of a hundred common laborers have been furnished with wine ad libitum in the morning, at noon, and at their evening meals, and where each squad of ten men, whilst working are furnished with a demijohn of wine, which they use from time to time in the heat of the sun to quench their thirst with the municipal authorities of the town of Cloverdale, a few miles from the colony, will bear me out when I say that during the past fifteen years there has never been a person seen drunk in that Colony. This proves beyond a peradventure or doubt that the true remedy for the eradication of the curse of drunkenness in the United States is the general introduction of our pure wines in every family.

When that happy day comes—which I firmly believe it will, sooner or later—then the millions of dollars which are now sent to China, Japan, Costa Rica, Java and the other tea and coffee producing countries of the world will be saved to the industrious people of the United States. Then every hill of this State will be covered by a beautiful vineyard, and every valley will have its village and winery, and our product, instead of being 20,000,000 gallons, will increase to from 100,000,000 to 200,000,000 gallons per year, thus increasing the prosperity and wealth of the State, and the general happiness of the people of the United States.

Mr. Charles A. Wetmore read the following paper:

Mr. President and Gentlemen of the Convention—This occasion calls for concise statements bearing directly upon the main purposes for which the convention has been called. I have been announced to address you on the subject of "Wine." I shall take the liberty to vary the subject matter so as to relate more particularly to economic questions in which the vine grower is at present interested most deeply, and will not attempt to cover the ground so well treated by Mr. Sbarboro yesterday.

A few words will suffice to explain the nature and objects of the National Viticultural Association, which, as its President, I represent here. It was organized in the city of Washington, D. C., in 1886, under the direct auspices of, and within the halls of the National Department of Agriculture, by a convention of delegates from all the vine growing and wine making States. The permanent organization consists of a President, Secretary and a Viticultural Council of fifteen members, representing the following States: California, New York, Ohio, Missouri, Virginia, North Carolina, Florida, New Jersey, Kentucky, Tennessee and Texas. Its purposes are similar to those of the State Viticultural Commission of California, with whom it has worked in perfect harmony. Its influence has been felt in promoting laws in several States to prevent adulteration of our products, and advancing our common commercial interests in the passage by Congress of the "Sweet Wine Bill" and its amendments, in preventing the demoralization of the wine industry through threatened attempts to secure free corn spirits for fortifying wines, and most notably during the last term of Congress, in harmonizing all demands relating to the tariff on wines, and in securing the extension of the bonding period for native spirits. It will continue to encourage local State organizations devoted to the promotion of viticulture, and the advancement of the wine maker towards the highest planes of honor and prosperity. Its importance will be recognized more hereafter, when the State Viticultural Commission ceases to act under the laws of this State. A local convention will soon be called in this city for the permanent organization of a State association or college of practical viticulturists and wine makers, which it is hoped will become associated with the affiliated colleges of the State University, and find a peaceful home in the new buildings authorized for such colleges by the recent Legislature. It is further hoped that the Board of Regents of the State University, which is to become administrator of the estate of the State Commission, will co-operate in such a movement, and preserve in this city the material collected by the Commission for the use and benefit of practical viticulturists. With such an institution in this city, intimately connected with the State Analyst and the College of Agriculture at Berkeley, and harmonious with the National Association, which may continue intimately connected with the work of the Department of Agriculture in Washington, Viticulture will expand as a national industry, and become the pride of America.

Statistics of viticultural products in the United States are not perfect. The extent of the industry is little understood, California leads in production, and per capita consumption of wines; but I find much misconception of our relative importance as a wine market. It is safe to say that the present average annual production of sound, wholesome, reputable wines in the United States is between thirty and forty millions gallons, of which this State produces about one-half, although less than one-half during the last vintage. The consumption of wines in the United States, including foreign goods, which latter represent about one-eighth of the market supply, is about forty million gallons, of which California consumes about one-fifth.

California produces nearly all the genuine pure brandies used in the markets of the whole country, and now supplies Eastern wine makers with the grape spirits to fortify sweet wines. Eastern wine makers and dealers in Eastern products largely use California products for blending purposes, both for still wines and champagnes. Our national industry, is, therefore, closely interwoven on lines of ordinary commerce. Brands of individual producers are slowly making headway in popular favor, but are resisted by the conservatism of trade and the special interests of distributing merchants.

Competition in price has been the rule of the trade, which has compelled the organization of syndicates to protect producers. As the individual producers' brands gain in favor, competition in quality contests the field with competition in price, and encourages our growers with hopes of profit with honor. A better feeling for the future now prevails.

We must not, however, look to viticulture as an industry specially designed to enrich us through exportation. Even France, with hundreds of years of effort and unquestioned reputation, has not exceeded in exportation an average of five per cent. of her wine product. Those regions which live almost exclusively on exportation of beverages and other food products, live under miserable conditions, and are not to be envied by California. It is because California has become so largely dependent upon exportation of food products that our people suffer more from excessive competition with similar products of cheap and degraded labor, the excessive drains of transportation charges and middle men, and the tendency of our industries to seek the cover of trusts and combines. If our industries must organize trusts and combines to secure our people the plainest necessities of life, our farm life will rapidly degenerate under plantation methods and customs.

Our great necessities now are the elevation and extension of private producers' brands, which are to some extent healthful, private monopolies outside the leveling influences of excessive competition in price, and the encouragement and development of numerous and varied industries in California, where our best and most profitable markets now are and always will be. For this latter result, our California vine growers will labor in harmony with the purposes of this Convention, as our national viticultural industry will also for the general up-building of the manufacturing interests of the whole country. The prosperity of our fellow citizens is the reservoir upon which the hopes of vine growers expect to draw life-renewing draughts for the maintenance of their wives and children. Vine growers are instinctively protectionists and well-wishers for their neighbors.

Incidentally, while earnest in efforts to promote the industries of all assembled here, we ask your co-operation with us to break down senseless prejudices and selfish conservatism, and to protect our rightful markets against the invasion of the piratical imitator and adulterator.

We ask you specially to lend us your influence to secure just rulings from the Internal Revenue Bureau, which lays its heavy hand upon our brandies, forbidding us in exportation the rights which the Constitution intended to preserve, and which are freely granted to our competitors of other countries, not only in foreign markets, where we meet them with our brands shackled by our Government, but also in our own land. Internal Revenue regulations, under the poor excuse of saving trouble with extra employes and book-keeping, forbid us to export our brandies, free of tax, except in original packages. We cannot export bottled brandies free from tax from our special bonded warehouses, nor can we meet competition in our own home markets with pure brandies bottled in bond.

Our revenue laws require amendment so that we may do in this country what is permitted in other countries. "Canadian Club Whisky," bottled in bond in Canada, makes its way in this country, while our products are shut out of Canada and Mexico by our own unwise restrictions. Moreover, existing laws favor and encourage the compounding and adulteration of spirits under rectifiers' licenses, while severely restricting the producer of genuine straight goods.

I wish to call your special attention to the vast importation into this State of what is known in trade as neutral spirits, and alcohol for blending and compounding liquors. The average annual importation from Illinois, Ohio and other corn spirit States of such high proof colorless spirits, is about 25,000 barrels for Central California, or from 30,000 to 40,000 barrels for the Pacific Coast, or about 1,600,000 gallons, which, reduced to proof, equals probably not less than 3,000,000 gallons of proof spirits. If these spirits came from our own distilleries, they would represent about six or seven hundred thousand bushels of grain purchased from our farmers, and a gain to the State of the costs of transportation, cooerage and other expenses. It is practicable for our wholesale merchants to encourage our own distilleries, and to compel the so-called "Whisky Trust" to operate its distilleries in California.

"I hev soust that a man iz like whisky in win way enyhow—the porer he iz the liabler he iz to stay in the jug."—Uncle Ephraim.

A VITICULTURAL COLLEGE.

A proposition was raised at the recent Manufacturers' Convention in San Francisco to establish in this city a "College of Practical Viticulture," in the event that the Viticultural Commission is to become a thing of the past. The main idea of the promoters is conveyed in the resolutions adopted, which are as follows:

"Resolved, That the permanent officers provided for by this convention are hereby requested to confer with the Board of Regents of the State University, and to urge the importance of preserving in the city of San Francisco, as a branch of its work for the benefit of practical producers, such portions of the property of the said commission as may be useful and necessary to vine growers, wine makers and the wine trade, such collection to serve as a nucleus for further collections, by gift, endowment or bequest.

"Resolved, That we do commend the proposition that has been made before this convention to found in this city a college for practical viticulturists and wine makers, as an independent body or in connection with the affiliated colleges of the University."

It is useless at this time to discuss the relations of the Agricultural department of Berkeley with the main body of viticulturists of the State. As a matter of convenience, the viticulturists do not care to be going to Berkeley for information and guidance, independent of considerations of the value of such information as they might receive from Professor Hilgard, or from Mr. Hayne, who is a veritable fledgling in matters viticultural, and whose only opportunity of inspecting and studying the vineyards of the State was afforded by the Viticultural Commission.

What is wanted is some central and convenient place in San Francisco where vineyardists and wine makers can meet and receive practical instruction and advice. The need of such a place will be emphasized when the Commission is gone and no substitute takes its place.

By all means, then, let us have the "College of Practical Viticulture," and let it be affiliated with the University.

Since the foregoing was written Governor Budd has signed the bill which winds up the affairs of the Commission, and the Board will make its exit gracefully and unregretfully on the 31st of December. He has also signed the general Appropriation bill, which gives the Board $2,500 to work with from the 1st of July to the end of the year.

Many of the members of the Commission are relieved at the turn of events. It is morally certain the viticulturists will reorganize on a better basis, on which politicians will have nothing to do with providing for support. The first steps for the organization have already been effected.

It is also a satisfaction to know that the College of Agriculture will not get the $5,000 that was appropriated when the act winding up the Board was passed. The appropriation is illegal, and the State Controller will render himself pecuniarily liable if he signs the warrant for this sum of money. There is also serious question as to the legality of the transfer of the property of the Board.

THE STAFFORDSHIRE BEEROMETER.

In a local collection of pottery there is a large mug, dating from the last century, called the "Staffordshire Beerometer," upon which is a representation of a tube of mercury, with the following degrees of intoxication and sobriety against it:

- 50. Drunk as a lord.
- 45. Drunk.
- 40. Disguised in liquor.
- 35. As sober as a man ought to be; knows what he is about.
- 30. Drunk without, but sober within.
- 25. Fresh; worse for liquor.
- 20. Market fresh; had had a drop.
- 15. Consarned in liquor; had had a drink.
- 10. Sober as a judge.
- 5. Sober as I am now; had had 5 quarts among 3 of us.
- 0. Sober.
- 5. Had nothing since breakfast.
- 10. Had nothing to-day.

The "Beerometer" does not exhaust the various states: a teetotaler might continue the descending scale with advantage, while there are few policemen who could not supply higher degrees than "50."—Brighton (England) Herald.

VIVIER and DEPOIX have experimented as to the manufacture of alcohol from apples. One hundred quarts of apple juice, weighing 233 pounds, contained 89.75 per cent. of water, 0.30 per cent. of ash, 2.04 per cent. of pectine bodies and 2 per cent. of cane sugar, 2.97 per cent. of dextrose, 8.50 per cent. levulose, and 0.84 per cent. of other sugars; total sugars, 14.31 per cent. On adding phosphoric acid, potash and ammonia (or sodium nitrate) the fermentation proceeds as quickly as with turnip juice, and by this means 5 per cent. of alcohol is obtained from the apples. This alcohol was considered to be of better quality than the ordinary alcohol obtained from cider. The grounds remaining compose 48 per cent. of the apples taken, and contain 2.5 per cent. of sugar.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

Chicago, March 28, 1895.

There seems to be a general stiffening of values, and a slight upward tendency in prices, giving a firmer tone to the market. Business to the wholesaler, however, is still in a rather unsatisfactory condition, the demands of consumers being unusually light and sales of any consequence are an unknown quantity to the majority of dealers engaged in the wine and liquor trade. All, however, join in the prediction that the end is in sight, and that business has received the initiatory impulse toward regaining its wonted activity. The last year has been an exceedingly hard one on the whisky men, and the dawn of a brighter era is being hailed with much satisfaction by them. They hope to recoup themselves for losses entailed by lack of business by the volume done this summer and fall. The large stocks of free whisky, which have been a depressing factor in the market ever since the enforcement of the new tariff law, have been gradually decreased by consumption until at the present time they no longer cut much of a figure. There remains a large amount of the cheap whisky made two years ago still unconsumed, and a large portion of '93's and '94's are still on hand, and until these two factors have been removed but little real improvement in the whisky situation will take place. Opinions as to how long this will take are divided, but the majority seem to think they will not last very much longer, and that trade will be in a satisfactory state once more by fall.

The distillers have learned a costly lesson in the past three years, and all signs point toward there being a very small amount of cheap whiskies, and a conservative production of straight, legitimate goods from now on—a state of affairs that causes a good deal of satisfaction to those dealers who have the good of the trade at heart.

Whisky circles have been much stirred up the past fortnight over the various phases of the Trust's affairs. Somewhat of a sensation was caused by the revelations in the report of the expert committee detailed by the receiver to examine the books, etc., of the Trust. A partial report was made to-day, and shows a discrepancy of nearly $2,000,000, and an effort to hide it by erasures on the books. It is stated that this is only one of many items that General McNulta, the receiver of the Trust, says he shall endeavor to collect by law from the old officers and directors. The discrepancy arises over 34,981 shares of stock which the directors sold to themselves at $15 per share. As the laws of Illinois prohibit the directors of a corporation from assigning stock to themselves at less than par value, it seems to place them in a hole, for they can hardly plead ignorance of law, as it is stated that while the stock book was made to show the value of $3,198,400, the price at par, the cash books were untouched and show only the actual cash paid, $1,574,380, being a difference of $55 per share. This will probably result in a stubbornly contested lawsuit. News from New York says that the reorganization is complete—that 324,000 out of 350,000 shares have been deposited with the Manhattan Trust Company. It is said that the committee having the reorganization in charge propose to forthwith transfer the assets of the company to a New Jersey corporation, and thus oust the Greenhut faction. As to whether they can legally do so remains to be seen.

California wines and brandies are much stronger in this market, and prices are slightly advancing, with a better demand than has existed for some time past. Especially is this the case in the better grades of California wines, which have a large consumption in the "free market" where but a short time since they were unknown.

This state of affairs has been brought about by the untiring efforts of a very few California growers who have had faith in the production of their vineyards. The leader in this movement, the man who has done more for the California wine interests than any other, is Mr. H. W. Crabb, whose To-Kalon wines have by sheer force of merit won their way from a modest little trial shipment up to the magnificent trade they now command. The idea originating with Mr. Crabb to introduce direct to the consumer the pure juice of the California grape has, by the success attained, proved that the consumer does know a good thing and can appreciate it accordingly. The Chicago business in To-Kalon wines has increased until it has outgrown its present location, and has forced a removal to larger quarters. The large double stores at 284 and 286 Wabash avenue have been leased for a term of years, and are being fitted up handsomely and in a way best fitted for the needs of the business for a wholesale depot and general offices of Capt. C. E. Shillaber, Mr. Crabb's Eastern representative. The retail department has assumed such proportions that it has been found necessary to separate the two branches, and a lease has been made of the store, 194 La Salle street. This is unquestionably one of the best locations in the city for a retail wine house, handling high grades of wines, as it is in the actual center of Chicago's vast financial interests, being surrounded by banks, office buildings, and only a short distance from the Board of Trade and also the Stock Exchange—and more men having money to spend, and who enjoy spending it for a good thing, pass by its doors than in any other location in the city. The success of Mr. Crabb's To-Kalon wines indisputably proves that good California wines meet the appreciation of the wine-consuming public when properly placed before them. Mr. Crabb has an honest source of gratification in the success of the To-Kalon wines, which have gone a long way toward clearing away the mist of prejudice that has existed (and, unfortunately for California, too often with cause,) against them, until the consumer was willing to believe "no good could come out of Israel."

Louis Zierngibl reports a flattering success as meeting the establishment of his retail department on Randolph street, opposite the Schiller Theater, and it is now the fashion in that neighborhood to drop into Zierngibl's to get a glass of the "Minnaberg Vineyard" wines.

C. W. Dakin reports an excellent business the past month in California wines, he having placed some nine car-loads, and is finding many new customers for the sweet wines of the Eisen Vineyards.

Charles W. Wright, formerly of the Meadville (Pa.) Distillery Company, has opened a general wholesale liquor business on Washington street. No one has more friends in the trade than Mr. Wright, and his success is assured.

Morand Bros., the leading West-side wine dealers, are doing a large business in California wines. They make a specialty of family trade, and report a most satisfactory increase in this line of business.

WARNING.

To Whom it May Concern: The firm of M. T. Bruce & Co., of Dallas, Texas, who recently executed a deed of trust, having through false representations obtained from us warehouse receipts for 50 barrels "Jack Beam" Jan. '94, serial numbers 17033 to 17082;

50 barrels "A. G. Nall" Feb. '93, serial numbers 12350 to 12399;

50 barrels "Early Times" April '93, serial numbers 13400 to 13449.

we hereby warn all parties not to purchase these warehouse receipts, and we now give notice that none of the whisky represented by these certificates will be delivered or shipped to the holder thereof. The Beam warehouse receipts were issued in one-barrel lots, the others in five-barrel lots.

NEW YORK AUCTION.

NEW YORK, March 19, 1895.

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review:—SIR: To-day our fourteenth sale of wine and brandy took place with the following results:

Chas. Krug Winery,	3 bbls	Hock	average	31 cents.
"	2 "	Angelica	"	38 "
"	1 "	Tokay	"	60 "
"	2 "	Madeira	"	65 1/2 "
"	1 "	Sherry	"	53 "
"	14 "	Sauvignon Vert	"	25 "
"	27 "	Chasselas	"	23 "
"	2 "	Johannisberg Riesling	"	54 1/2 "
"	54 "	Riesling	"	23 "
Joseph Oberti,	64 "	Port	"	27 "
"	71 "	Port	"	27 "
"	63 "	Zinfandel	"	20 1/2 "
Bubach Produc'g Co,	22 "	Brandy	"	49 1/2 "

Some of these wines certainly brought high prices, while others did not come up to our expectations. The Krug wines generally were good. The Oberti Port was decidedly lacking in alcoholic strength, while the Zinfandel sold higher than at the last sale. The brandy also brought a little more money than it did previously. Had the brandy been in half barrels we believe it would have sold ten cents per gallon above our average to-day on the barrels. Lines 1 to 5, and also line 8, were pronounced fine old wines, and we think such stock will always bring its full value. We always have buyers looking round for this class of wine.

There were over one hundred buyers in our auction room; in fact it was nearly full, and while, on the whole, prices were not quite up to what we had hoped for, they all brought regular market values according to the age and grade of the offering.

Our next sale will take place in about two weeks, when we will of course report fully to you, and until then remain,

Very truly yours, SOBEL & DAY.

THE BRITISH LIQUOR BILL FOR 1894.

A certain interest attaches to the statistics of the consumption and cost of intoxicating liquors in the United Kingdom, the latest compilation of which, prepared by Dr. Dawson Burns, is given in a recent issue of the London Times. In the following table the figures for the year 1894 are compared with those for the preceding year:

Liquor consumed, 1894.	Quantities Consumed, Gallons.	Retail Cost.	Cost of liquors consumed in 1893.
British spirits (20s. per gallon)	29,893,576	£28,893,576	£29,857,987
Foreign and colonial spirits (24s. per gallon)	7,642,030	9,150,447	9,443,803
Total spirits	37,535,615	£38,044,023	£39,301,790
Beer (54s. per barrel)	1,112,836,632	£5,712,747	£5,394,715
Wine (18s. per gallon)	13,845,620	12,461,058	12,748,294
British wines, cider, etc., estimated	15,000,000	1,500,000	1,500,000

£138,737,828 £138,854,829

It will be seen that the expenditure in 1894 was less than in 1893 by £117,001. On spirits there was a decrease of £237,767, and on wine of £287,236, an aggregate decrease of £525,003, but on beer the increased expenditure was £108,002, making the net decrease £117,001. The population of the United Kingdom is estimated for the middle of 1894 at 38,779,031 (England 30,960,763; Scotland, 4,124,691; Ireland, 1,593,577), on which basis the average expenditure per head of the whole population was £3 11s. 6 1/2d., or for each family of five persons £17 17s. 8 1/2d. In 1893 the figures were respectively £3 12s. 3d. and £18 1s. 3d. The decrease in expenditure in 1894 was much less than that in 1893, which exceeded two millions sterling. The statistics for the several divisions of the United Kingdom are of less interest, and they need not be referred to in detail. It may, however, be pointed out that the cost per head is greatest in England, where it reaches the total of £3 17s. 4d. Scotland comes next with £3 1s., and Ireland last with £2 2s. 8d. In the consumption of spirits, Scotland heads the list with £1 11s. per capita, Ireland coming second with £1 10s., and England last with 18s. per capita. In the consumption of beer, however, England heads the list with a per capita cost of £2 11s., Scotland coming second with £1 0s. 6d., and Ireland last.

Statistics of the cost of liquors for the ten years ending in 1894, show that while there was a marked increase in the total cost for the years 1889, 1890 and 1891, there has been a gradual decrease in the total cost of liquors consumed, and, of course, in the amount per head of population since the latter year. This is shown in the following table:

	Total cost.	Per head of Population
1885	£124,263,396	£3 7s 10d
1886	122,880,045	3 6 10
1887	121,473,939	3 5 3
1888	121,611,439	3 6 8
1889	152,293,276	3 9 11
1890	159,495,150	3 11 1
1891	141,220,675	3 15 0
1892	130,895,292	3 13 11
1893	138,854,829	3 12 3
1894	138,737,828	3 11 6 1/2
Total 1885-94	£1,320,004,000	£3 5 6 1/2

The total given for the decade is, indeed, a vast one, amounting as it does to over $6,500,000,000 of American money. The statistics for the decade have two aspects. Those for the last few years, it is true, show a decline in the total cost and the cost per capita of liquors consumed, but on the other hand in neither respect have the figures reached the level of 1885, so that the conclusion remains that for the decade both the total cost and the cost per head show an increase. Whether the rate of decrease in the drink bill per head of population will be continued so as to bring it down to the level reached ten years ago, is a problem the solution of which must be looked for in future statistics.

Pure California Wines & Grape Brandies.
THE San Gabriel Wine Co.
OF SAN GABRIEL,
Los Angeles County, Cal.
Are now prepared with a largestock of wines and
brandies of their own growth to supply the trade and the market generally. This Company owns the largest vineyard in the world, covering over 2,500 acres. They have held their wines and brandies for several years in their own cellars, and do not offer any of their product until it has become properly matured. Their large stock of matured wines and brandies thus accumulated is now open to the purchaser. All goods under their trade mark are warranted pure and unadulterated. Being the successors to B. D. WILSON & Co., and to J. DE BARTH SHORB, they have become possessors of the "SHORB" BRAND OF BRANDY and "MOUNT VINEYARD"
WINE. Correspondence solicited.

WALDEN.

WALDEN COGNAC.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets.

It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES.—The outlook in the wine market brightens steadily, and there is generally a better feeling among those closely identified with the trade. Orders continue to come in quite freely, and shipments are of remarkably large volume, the exports for March having been over one million gallons by rail, and over a half million by sea. This brings the aggregate up to probably the greatest month's shipments in the history of the industry. Of this quantity New York gets 300,000 gallons, New Orleans 300,000 gallons, and Chicago 81,000 gallons. The remainder is scattered throughout the States and Territories, and shows a wide distribution of our wines. The extent of these exports is a surprise even to those who are supposed to know the general volume of trade. Values remain firm, and we still believe an advance in prices will be the feature in the market ere long. Exports to Central American points have been for the last half-month quite generally distributed, but not of large volume. Receipts of wines from interior cellars were larger in the half-month of April than in the same period of 1894. A glance at comparative figures shows that for the first three months and a half of 1895, the receipts were 4,420,044 gallons as against 2,739,150 gallons for 1894. In other words, wines are coming into the city in very large quantities, and are being shipped out again fully as rapidly as they are received, all of which would indicate that the condition of stocks at the time of the next vintage will be more gratifying than has existed in many years.

The following is a comparative statement of the receipts of wine and brandy at this point for 3½ months, 1894 and 1895:

	1894		1895
	Wine.	Brandy.	Wine.	Brandy.
January	553,110	142,705	897,534	60,590
February	741,410	190,650	1,344,780	1,540
March	972,900	25,695	1,588,430	6,630
Apr'l (to 15th)	471,730	15,590	589,300	11,620
Total 3½ mo's	2,739,150	374,640	4,420,044	80,380

A dispatch from New York, dated on the 5th says: "Sgobel & Day held their fifteenth auction sale of California wine and brandy yesterday, when they offered six carloads—287 barrels—with the following results: Sherry, 42 cents; Claret, 30 cents; Chasselas, 21½ to 24½ cents; Sauvignon Verte, 23½ cents; Johannisberg Riesling, 37 to 42½ cents; Madeira, 65 to 13 cents; Riesling, 25 to 24½ cents; Tokay, 40 cents; Port, 32 to 30 cents; Zinfandel, 23½ to 20½ cents; Angelica, 33 cents; brandy, 77 to 44 cents. On an average the wines at this sale brought nearly 3 cents a gallon more than at the last auction, showing both a strong market and more attendance on the part of interested parties at these auction sales, which have now become quite a feature in the market here for California wines. The next sale will take place on the 17th instant, when ten carloads, or nearly six hundred barrels, will be offered."

The shipments of California wines by sea and rail in March were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
By sea.....	1,956	519,019	$178,358
By rail overland.....	2,784	1,017,090	129,972
Total.....	4,740	1,567,109	$608,330

CALIFORNIA BRANDIES. The market is without special features; however, the exports during the month of March were of fair volume in bulk, and surprisingly large in case goods, the total of the latter being nearly 1200 cases. The brandy in bulk aggregated more than 53,000 gallons, of which, about one-third went to Chicago. We have secured from the Collector of the First District reports of the production for January and February, showing that in the first month there were produced 59,159 tax gallons, and there remained in bond on January 31st 920,265 tax gallons. In February the production was very light, only aggregating 5,933 tax gallons. There remained in bond on February 28th 886,442 tax gallons. The details of the production, etc., will be found elsewhere in this issue.

The total exports of California brandy by sea and rail in March were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
By sea.....	31	12,401	$ 6,678
By rail overland.....	1,199	53,499	92,238
Total.....	1,230	65,900	$98,916

WHISKIES. There is nothing particularly new to relate, business moving along in the same deliberate way as has characterized trade for a long time. Some leading houses report more satisfactory conditions than have existed for a long time past. Collections continue slow, but they are not as bad as they have been, and taking it altogether, the situation is as good as can be expected. Receipts of whisky and spirits by rail and sea during the half-month were of average volume. Advices from the East are encouraging as to the fall and winter trade, it being the opinion of the leading men in the business that the long-looked-for revival will be then experienced. They predict that it will be a substantial advance movement, based on, first, the fact of a small production, and the further fact that the free whiskies that were tax-paid under the old ninety-cent rate will then have almost entirely gone into consumption. With two such conditions, there seems to be no reason why the predicted good time should not come in due season. One thing is certain, and that is that old whiskies are not only good property now, but must materially advance in value during the next six months.

A dispatch from Chicago dated the 5th inst. says: "What is said to be one of the most important transactions yet undertaken in connection with the re-organization of the Whisky Trust was consummated to-day. This was the agreement with the American Distributing Company. Its terms were settled on Thursday, and this afternoon signatures were affixed to the contract drawn up in New York. Under the agreement the former selling agent of the Trust, alienated by the Greenhut regime, has been brought into close connection once more, and furthermore, the only influential factor in the spirit trade remaining outside is brought into the Spirit Distillers' Association. A call for a meeting of the Distillers' Association in this city next Friday was issued for the purpose of ratifying the agreement."

A dispatch from Chicago dated the 7th inst. says: "The representatives of the four big distilleries to-day, after a long conference with Receiver McNulta and representatives of the reorganization committee, demanded concessions which were refused. They gave formal notice that they would not ratify the agreement made with the American Distributing Company. Their action is equivalent to a withdrawal from the Spirit Distillers' Association. Samuel Woolner of the Atlas Distillery, Henry Kahn of the Hanover distillery, E. W. Wilson of the American distillery, and George Herget of the Globe distillery, all of Peoria, were the men who visited General McNulta."

IMPORTATIONS.—There is nothing to be said new with respect to trade in imported goods. The average volume of business is being transacted, and on some special lines sale have been unusually active. The receipts during the half-month have been about normal.

RESULTS OF APRIL ELECTIONS.

Municipal elections in which the liquor question was the chief issue were held in Pomona, Santa Ana, San Bernardino and other places on the 8th instant.

Pomona voted to abolish the two saloons within its boundaries. Out of three city trustees to be elected they captured one, and they will have a bare majority in the Board of Trustee for two years after May 1st. For the past two years Pomona has been on a high-license basis. Two saloons, under strict police regulations, have each paid $1000 license annually. They have not been allowed to keep open after 10 p. m. nor on Sundays. They have been permitted to use no screens at the doors or windows, to have no back doors, no chairs, benches or seats, and no games of chance or reading matter were allowed in them.

Santa Ana voted by a large majority to raise the liquor license from $600 to $800 per year, and to subject saloons to the same regulations as have existed in Pomona.

In San Jose three Republican councilmen out of four were elected on a platform to restrict the saloons to the business portion of the city.

In San Bernardino the Sunday-closing law was defeated by a vote of two to one.

In Alameda the retailers are safe for two years more. Without exception, they obeyed the law as to closing.

THE DOUBLE MURDER.

It is a matter of congratulation for the liquor trade that the murder of Miss Blanche Lamont and Miss Minnie Williams, in the Emanuel Baptist Church, cannot be connected, directly or indirectly, with the liquor traffic. Theodore Durrant, whose name has been associated in the daily press as the man who must account for his whereabouts at the times the murders are supposed to have been committed, was not a user of liquor or tobacco; he did not frequent the much-vilified "side entrance"; he may even have been in the habit of returning thanks that he was not like unto other men, and he had the usual Christian and godly denunciation of both the liquor and tobacco habits at his command. In short, nothing has transpired that can connect the murders with the liquor business, directly or indirectly.

If the murder of Miss Lamont or of Miss Williams had been committed in a saloon, or in a saloon which had a side entrance, or in a restaurant with the up-stairs attachment of questionable character, there would at once have been a howl of Christian-like protest against the liquor business, with all its features. There would have been petitions without number addressed to the Board of Supervisors, and to the Legislature were it unfortunately in session, asking for the abolition of the saloon, the grocery and bar, and the liquor business, good, bad and indifferent.

HOW ABOUT THE SIDE-DOOR ENTRANCE TO THE CHURCHES?

Is it not a menace to the youth of the State? Have not two virtuous and noble young women passed through these side entrances to their deaths?

Candidly, is there not a good deal of hypocritical buncombe in all this excited reference to the evils of the liquor trade as a means of seducing the minds of the young? Should not the churches first clear their own door-ways, and "let him that is without sin cast the first stone"?

Incidentally, a petition has been filed with the San Francisco Board of Supervisors asking for the abolition of the church side-door entrance. We know that this petition did not emanate from any one connected with the liquor trade. But, as a matter of fact, isn't this petition as sensible as the one with which the church people have been afflicting the Supervisors?

Will the Prohibitionist answer these questions and satisfy a waiting liquor trade?

THAT SANITARY LAW.

Journals like the San Jose Herald are endeavoring to secure the formation of Sanitary Districts under the provisions of the Voorheis law, with its saloon joker, not for the purpose of securing better drainage and the removal of garbage, but to worry the liquor dealers with the joker. Here is the form presented by the Herald to go about this business:

To the Honorable Board of Supervisors of Santa Clara County:

We the undersigned residents and freeholders of Willow Glen District, bounded east by the western limits of the city of San Jose and the center line of the Almaden road to Curtner avenue; south by the center line of Curtner avenue prolonged to the San Jose and Los Gatos road; west by the center line of the San Jose and Los Gatos road to the Stevens Creek road; north by the center line of the Stevens Creek road to the Meridian road; thence along the center line of the Meridian road to Park avenue; thence along the center line of Park avenue to Race street; thence along the center line of Race street to the Alameda road, and thence along the center of the Alameda road to the limits of the city of San Jose, the place of beginning—herby petition your honorable body to call an election for the purpose of forming that part of Santa Clara county enclosed within the said boundaries into a Sanitary District and to choose sanitary officers, as provided by the law creating the Districts."

The Sacramento Record-Union says of the Voorheis joker:

It is a pertinent question. Better far that the laws referred to had never been placed upon the statute books than become dead letters and decaying law. If the laws are ill advised, the quickest way to find out is to enforce them. Nothing brings about such speedy repeal of a [bad] law as its enforcement, and nothing better develops the virtues of a good law than enforcement. All communities have it now in their power to say, despite Boards of Trustees and Supervisors, whether they will have ten, or twenty, or two saloons to a block. They have it now wholly in their own hands to determine whether there shall be a saloon beneath a school-house window or a mile away—whether one must suffer a doggerly besides his children's play-room or direct its removal to a distance. In this city we have instance after instance of the protests of citizens of residence districts being pushed aside, and drinking places set up where the people did not want them. This can no longer be so if the people choose to exercise the power given to them."

Notes and Personals.

P. & J. J. COMB, of Healdsburg, have sold to LYONMAN & JACOBI 10,000 gallons of wine, mostly claret.

MAX proposes, another power disposes. A stone thrown straight at the devil will in nine cases out of ten hit some one returning thanks that he is "not like unto other men."

THE Los Angeles "Phoenix" has consolidated with the "Forumpine," and a first-class circulation is thus assured. The consolidated journal will be published in the interest of the liquor trade.

THE town trustees of Selma, by a vote of 3 to 2, recently decided to license the retail liquor trade. A petition against license containing 90 names of voters was presented to the Trustees, but did no good.

CHARLES MEINECKE, of CHARLES MEINECKE & Co., has gone on an extended trip to Europe. He will stop for some weeks in Bremen and then go to Freiberg. Mr. MEINECKE'S son is a student at the University of Heidelberg.

A PROPOSITION is on foot for the organization of a Country Club at Los Angeles, which is to lease the ranch of L. J. ROSE & Co., at San Gabriel, for a term of years. The intention is to build a half-mile track, lay out polo grounds, build a Club House, etc. The negotiations are still pending.

B. H. UPHAM, of the Glorieta Vineyard, at Martinez, has issued a twenty-four page pamphlet describing the wine and winery at his place. Mr. Upham writes as a wine producer, and he refers the reader to patrons in St. Louis, Milwaukee, Martinez, San Francisco, New York and Chicago.

LOW LICENSE, of $25 per quarter, received more votes than any other saloon proposition before the people of Petaluma at their recent city election. Its vote was 300 to 209 in favor of high license, or $100 per quarter. The Prohibition vote was only 25, while 82 declared in favor of $50 per quarter.

WALDEN & Co., the distillers at Geyserville, are prepared to put up brandied fruits at their institution this year. The product of such goods in California is not large, and WALDEN & Co. will not only find a ready sale for their brandied fruits, but they will have comparatively little competition to meet.

FERGUSON & CURLEY, the Market street dealers, are making a hit on the Coast with T. H. SHERLEY & Co.'s bottled "New Hope" whisky. Ever since embarking in business in their present location, some time ago, Messrs. FERGUSON & CURLEY have made a good business record, and their circle of friends and patrons is steadily increasing.

MARSHALL SPELLEMAN & Co., of New York, have been buying wine very freely during the past fortnight, and are reported to have secured nearly 600,000 gallons. Most of the Dowdell cellar, which was bought by F. CHEVALIER & Co., goes to the New York firm, and they have secured a large lot from the Pobbleside Vineyard (the Scott-Collins place) of Santa Clara Valley.

FELIX COBLENZ, who has been in the firm of COBLENZ, PIKE & Co. for some time, has opened a wholesale liquor house on Battery street, between Clay and Washington, the firm name being FELIX COBLENZ & Co. The firm will make a specialty of the best grades of goods, and are negotiating to handle the bottled whiskies of one of the oldest and best known of Kentucky's brands.

THE Retail Liquor Dealers' Mutual Protective Association has reorganized as Branch No. 1, of the California State Protective Association, and has elected the following officers: President, J. E. KISSY; Vice President, JOHN L. HENDER; Mitchell; Secretary, F. W. REYNOLDS; Treasurer, JAMES GILLERAN. P. J. DENNE, of J. P. DENNE & Co., is chairman of the Executive Committee.

IN the Paris Figaro of February 12th is the following elaborate description of the establishment of VVEVE POMMERY, FILS & Co. "The house was founded in 1836 by M. GRENQ, who sold out in 1856 to M. POMMERY. On the death of the latter, in 1858, MADAME VVEVE POMMERY took control of the house, aided by M. HENRY VVASSER, who had come from London two years before at the instance of M. POMMERY. Under the energetic guidance of the new administration, the business increased rapidly. The mark is now a prime favorite in Holland, England, Russia, Germany, Austria, Sweden, Norway and Denmark, as well as in this country. In 1856 the shipments of the house were 46,000 bottles; at present they vary from 2,000,000 to 2,500,000 bottles per annum. This success is to be attributed to the great care exercised by the management in always choosing wines of good quality from the best vintages for their shipments. They claim to be the pioneers in shipping brut wines to England and to this country. The cellars of the house are over six miles in length, and are noted for the bas-reliefs sculptured on their walls. These represent the feast of Bacchus, Champagne in the eighteenth century, Silenus and the Infancy of Bacchus. The picture of M. HENRY VVASSER, which was painted in March, 1890, was considered a public success. He was the first to have his name made for widely known. His magic portrait of M. HENRY VVASSER, which is now in the Museum of the Louvre will be remembered for all time. The picture had cost her 300,000 francs. Since her death the business of the house has been continued under the name of VVEVE POMMERY FILS & Co., the partners at present being M. JEAN POMMERY, her son, the Countess of PONSAC, her daughter, and M. HENRY VVASSER.

EDWARD BAYEN, a German Scientist of Bremen, who had been married on the 13th inst. to Miss LUCY RYAN, the daughter of FERDINAND RYAN. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. FERGUSON, at St. Martin's Church, after which a reception was held at the BAYENSCHEWINEK home, at McAllister and Divisadero streets. Mr. and Mrs. BAYENSCHEWINEK are now away on their wedding tour.

THE Sutter Super-visors have laid the liquor license matter over for one month to allow the protests to come in. The advocates of a restitution of the license have had W. H. CYRUS as spokesman, while those in opposition to the petition are represented by J. F. WILSON and JOSHUA GRONER. The pro-license people are confident that they have three Super-visors who will vote for about a $600 a year license.

A. LANDSBERGER, the wine maker of Anaheim, died recently.

M. KEATING, the wholesaler of Portland, Oregon, is going to retire from business.

Wm. DRIVER & Son, the wholesale liquor dealers and druggists of Ogden, have made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors.

THE firm of Joseph Melezer & Co. has dissolved, Mr. William Melezer retiring. Mr. Joseph Melezer and Mr. Jesse M. Levy have formed a new partnership under the same style, and will continue the business as heretofore.

DUNCAN BANKHARDT, formerly with C. Carpy & Co., will leave for the City of Mexico on the 22d inst. For the present he will represent a large Cycle manufacturing house, but he expects to work into the wine trade in the course of a few months. Besides having his line of bicycles, Mr. Bankhardt will have the agency of the Inglenook and Cresta Blanca cased wines, and of the sweet wines of the Eisen Vineyard Co. With these wines he should open up a good-sized trade from the outset.

C. CARPY & Co. have sued J. Powell & Son, of St. Helena, to enjoin the sale and delivery of about 400,000 gallons of wine to F. Chevalier & Co. The suit is brought in the courts of Napa county, and it will attract no little attention on account of the magnitude of the transaction. It will be remembered that the sale of this wine was made about ten days ago, and some of it was ready for delivery on the cars at St. Helena when the process of the Court stopped the delivery. Messrs. Carpy & Co. claim to have the first call on the wine, in virtue of advances made J. Dowdell & Son for the purchase of the grapes.

BONDED WAREHOUSES FOR WHISKY.

The establishment of a special bonded warehouse for the storage of whisky in this city, the proposition of selling bonded goods by the single barrel to retailers, and the report that there is a bare possibility of the establishment of another bonded warehouse, still continue the topics of discussion among the trade. The views on the question are as widely different as can be. Opinions are also widely divergent as to whether the Kentucky distillers will stand by their resolution not to ship in bond.

"No use talking; they must come to the new order of affairs, sooner or later," said an active broker and agent for one of Kentucky's principal distillers one day last week. "My people do not want to ship in bond; but you mark me, history will repeat itself. Let me show you: Several years ago there was a petition out for the establishment of a special bonded warehouse for the storage of brandy in New York. Every wine merchant in San Francisco and New York fought it, but nevertheless it was established, and every mother's son of them sells straight brandy from special bonded warehouses, not only in New York, but Chicago, Louisville, St. Louis and other places. They swore by all that was holy that they wouldn't use the bonded warehouses, and that they and the distiller of the brandy thus sold would not receive proper protection were the system inaugurated.

"Well, we all know the end; and I will venture the prediction that the whisky distillers will take their medicine in the same way. They must if they will keep up with the times. Wholesalers, whose business and profits both depend on rectifying, don't like it, but they must soon see that times have changed."

"That argument sounds very well," says another representative of Eastern distillers, "but it won't work in practice. There is this talk of requiring indemnifying bonds for whisky so shipped in bond. Well, how many houses are there in this city doing a large trade that would want to give indemnifying bonds for $1.10 per gallon on goods worth say 30 cents a gallon in bond? No, sir; it won't do. The trade here is against the system, and I am sure that it will cost more to carry whisky in bond here than it will in Kentucky. I haven't used the warehouse, and I will not if I can help myself."

Take the opinion of a wholesale liquor dealer: "I don't look for much future for the whisky business if it is conducted on the old plan. Take a house like ours. We carry a big floor stock, and are under heavy expense in rents and interest. Now, how are we to compete, on ordinary goods at least, with some chap around the corner who has a $10-a-month office rent and a side-pocket full of warehouse certificates that he will peddle around, a barrel at a time, with the additional brag of 'two-stamp goods and full proof?' Luckily for us, we have a brand that is known very well indeed, and I will sell the whisky in competition with the warehouse-certificate fellows. I think you will see some warm times over this matter in the next two or three years. If not, I am no prophet."

The will of Calvin W. Kellogg has been filed for probate. It disposes of an estate valued at over $100,000. Half of the estate goes to his widow, Mary E. Kellogg, and the rest to his daughter, Mrs. Ella F. Gilroy, who lives in Hastings, England. The deceased recommended that the legatees under the will furnish his son and son's family with the common necessities of life, as he made no provision for him or for his adopted sons, Ben B. and Frederick Sutton. Thomas Cole, Joseph M. Loewe and Mrs. Mary E. Kellogg were named as executors.

TROUBLES OF THE TRUST.

On the 12th inst., at Chicago, the properties of the D. & C. L. Co. were ordered sold by Judge Showalter, U. S. Court. The attorneys for the Greenhut faction and the stockholders consented to the action of the Court. The bill upon which the order was based was brought before Judge Showalter at 3 o'clock. It was an application for a receiver by Stephen D. Bohrer, of New York, owner of 500 shares; D. C. Bennett, of Albany, N. Y., owner of 500 shares, of the stock of the Distilling and Cattle Feeding Company. The divergence of the bill from the original bill begins with a recital that the last meeting of the board of directors was held on February 1st. Since then the directors have abandoned their trust and paid no attention to its affairs, it claims, and the sole management has been in the hands of John McNulta, the receiver. The resignation of Nelson Morris left the Board consisting of Messrs. Greenhut, Hobart, Greene, Freiberg, Hennessy and Begus. On April 8th, the complainants aver, Hobart, Greene and Freiberg resigned. There are but three directors left, and the bill alleges they do not constitute a quorum and that they cannot fill vacancies. The bill then recites that the Attorney General of the State, by quo warranto proceedings, attacked the charter of the Trust, and that the lower court held that it was forfeited, and the issue is now pending before the Supreme Court of the State. The prayer of the bill, in which the order granted by Judge Showalter adheres, is as follows: "That by an order entered herein the said John McNulta may be appointed receiver of all the property and the effects of the said defendant company, and invested with full title thereto as receiver, and that all of the officers, managers, superintendent, agents and employes of said defendant company shall be required forthwith to deliver up to such receiver the possession of each and every part of said property, wherever situated, and also all books and accounts, vouchers and papers in any way relating to its business, or the operation thereof, or an injunction to restrain each and every officer, director superintendent, manager, agent and employes of said defendant from in any way interfering with the possession and control of said receiver over said property, and that, at such time as may be found just and proper, the property may be ordered to be sold and the proceeds distributed among those entitled thereto."

THESE various brands of Whisky are still leaders, care without regard to expense having always been bestowed to the highest standard in quality, their popularity now being unequalled.

The distilleries that make the above brands never made private brands. Notice the feathered sticks in the Imperial brand. They are correct cuts of the celebrated hand mash sticks with which all these whiskies are made.

We regret to announce the decease, on the 10th ult., at his residence in Norwood, England, of Captain Thomas Trapp, in the ninety-fifth year of his age. The deceased, who was highly respected, managed and owned several sailing vessels in the Bordeaux and Cadiz routes, long before steamers took the running; and he started the business some fifty years ago which is now carried on by his son, at 47 Mark-lane, E. C.

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.

NEW YORK, April 10, 1895.

There has been no perceptible improvement in general lines of trade over that of last month, although money seems easier and more plentiful. In the liquor trade business is very quiet—almost at a standstill, except the movement of small lots to meet the demands of the retail trade. Whiskies, although not meeting a demand, are still holding up quite well in price, holders evidently believing that it is only a question of time, and that in the near future, when stocks will be in good demand, and so are not throwing any goods on the market at reduced prices. Especially is this the case with Eastern Ryes, which rule rather firmer than Kentucky Bourbons. In the latter there is nothing doing save in the cheap grades of '93 and '94. As these goods have practically had the call on the market for several months past, it is evident that there cannot be very much more of them in stock, and to a "man up a tree" it looks as though the end of their reign is in sight. There certainly cannot be sufficient of them now left to be a factor more than a few weeks, when there must be an increased demand for legitimate goods and a consequent revival in the trade. From the best information that can be gathered, the stock of tax-paid and old whiskies has been very heavily reduced, and that there is only a very small percentage of them left in dealers' hands. Though the demand for this class of goods is very light, prices remain firm—a rather good indication that stocks are running low. There seems, however, to be nothing in the present situation to encourage the belief that there will be any reaction in the whisky market before the fall trade sets in.

In California wines and brandies the trade is dull and small deals the rule. There is much speculation among buyers over the California situation, and as to how long the present conditions now influencing prices may continue. As a consequence, purchases are mostly in small lots, for immediate consumption. Prices have advanced slightly, and remain firm, and are pretty well adhered to among dealers. It is said that the competition of the cheaper grades of imported brandies is in a measure responsible for the low price and slow demand for California brandies in this market. It would seem that the average small dealer prefers to sell brandy bearing the name of some French concern and the importation seal, regardless of the quality, somewhat on the principle that "a prophet is without honor in his own country." Although a few brands of California brandies command a regular trade at fair prices, the bulk of the goods move slowly at weak prices at present.

A sale of California wines at auction took place here on April 4th where 187 barrels of wine and brandy were sold.

Another sale is announced for the 17th, when the auctioneers expect about ten car-loads to dispose of.

Frank Ayers, of Frash & Co., is rather ill at Asheville, N. C., where he was sent by physicians' order to recover from a severe attack of la grippe and pneumonia last winter.

Mr. Geo. Clark has been appointed the New York agent of the Vandegrift Distilling Co., with offices at 77 Hudson street. The Vandegrift people are pushing their bottled goods in this market, and their bottled rye is making many friends on account of its purity and quality.

News has just reached here of another split in the arrangements of the Trust's affairs. The independent distillers have withdrawn from the combination, and prices of spirits have been reduced 2 cents per gallon to day as a consequence. More rumors are flying around as to more sensational discoveries being made by the experts who are still wrestling with the books of the Credit management, and that important suits would be instituted by Receiver McNulta against the old management.

There is to be another "Trust" in the field shortly. According to Treasurer John F. Searles the American Sugar Refining Co. will shortly begin the distillation of spirits. Owing to lack of demand and low prices, the Trust cannot dispose of its low-grade syrups, and is preparing to convert one of its old refineries into a distillery to utilize the product, and expect to be in working order by this fall.

LETTER FROM R. MONARCH.

OWENSBORO, Ky., March 22, 1895.

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review: After sending you my communication on the subject of transporting whisky in bond to other warehouses than distillery warehouses, I being a member of the Kentucky Distillers' Association, studied further on the subject, and the thought struck me while it was against the present rules of the Kentucky Distillers' Association to transport whisky in bond to other warehouses than distillery warehouses, I had better go to Louisville and talk with some of the other members on the subject. So I did, and suggested to them, in view of the facts that there are now other persons, who don't belong to the Association, transporting whisky in bond, we had better call a meeting of the managers of the Association and have that rule modified, allowing us to transport in bond but to remain in the foreign warehouses to the extent of either six or twelve months. By this means I think it will be beneficial both to the Kentucky distiller and to the distributor, and that responsible distillers can afford to run the risk of taking, as they may think, good bonds for the payment of the tax for the time mentioned—six or twelve months.

Yours truly,

R. MONARCH.

NO OUNCE ALLOWED ON THE SUBSEQUENT FOUR YEARS.

The maximum allowance for loss on casks or packages of less capacity than forty wine gallons, and not less than twenty wine gallons, is limited to one-half the amounts stated in the above table. No loss will be allowed on casks or packages of less capacity than twenty wine gallons.

It will be seen that where the loss of spirits while in warehouse does not exceed the statute limit, the tax is to be collected on the proof gallons contents as shown by the regauge.

Where the loss exceeds the statute limit, the tax will be collected on number of proof gallons contents, as shown by the original gauge, less only the loss allowed by law.

HAWAIIAN TRADE.

Consul-General Ellis G. Mills, at Honolulu, has submitted a report to the State Department, at Washington, on the imports of wine, beer and spirits into the Hawaiian islands. It has been reported that the imports into those islands of California wines had been falling off, and their places taken by sake, made in Japan from rice grain and grapes. Mr. Mills finds this untrue. The quantity imported has been enormous, over 83,000 gallons being brought in 1892, as against only 3100 gallons in 1893. For the same years, however, the importations of California wines have increased from 103,000 to 125,000 gallons. Beer shows an increase of nearly 14,000 gallons, or about 35 per cent., and spirits a general decrease of 5000 gallons.

Barber, Ferriell & Co., at Hobbs, are running light, and will make a very small crop of whisky this year. They say the yield is very satisfactory. This concern owns about nine hundred barrels of very fine sour-mash whisky of the spring of '91 inspection, which they have been holding back, but which they will now dispose of. Their price at present on these goods is exceedingly close. Bonfacts.

INTEMPERANCE VS. PROHIBITION

A late number of the Sacramento Record-Union reviews at some length the legislative record on the liquor question; applauds our law-makers for inflicting punishment upon that interest, and is inclined to be sarcastic at the expense of the political management of the liquor dealers. In closing, the editor says: "To sum up, if there is, in the history of legislation anywhere, any record at all comparable with this, we have never heard of it and are unable to find it in the libraries." All this may be very amusing and very comforting to the misguided friends of Prohibition who consider every infliction on the liquor dealers a cure for drunkenness; but it does not solve the question. The liquor problem remains a problem still. It must be met and solved in some way, and no State has more at stake, no community and people are more deeply involved in a proper and fair solution of this perplexing question than we of California. We cannot applaud the miserable juggling and trifling which the Record-Union approves.

It would be folly to deny the evils of intemperance or attempt to palliate the wrongs for which the inordinate appetite for liquor is responsible. But it is just as stupid, just as irrational, at this day, to maintain that that exploded piece of sentimental frumpery called Prohibition will cure or even alleviate its evils. History has demonstrated that prohibition is not the remedy for intemperance; that it does not even abate, but, on the contrary, increases drunkenness and leads to crime. The Sacramento paper declares that the California liquor dealers make the mistake of "holding their business to be exceptional, one to be specially privileged and entitled to more consideration than any other." Of course this is a plain, palpable distortion of the truth. It is notorious that all they sought was a statutory safeguard against the assaults of fanatical local legislation. It asked for protection from the destructive policy of a class of people who have refused to learn by experience that their theories are not only worse than useless, but are distinctly harmful. If the Prohibitionists did not show such an utter disregard for the undisputed testimony which demonstrates the fallacy of their contentions, one might have more patience with them, and the liquor problem might be removed from our politics to the everlasting benefit of our Commonwealth. But, as was well said by that eminent writer, Goldwin Smith, "They tell you that with them it is a matter, not of expediency, but of principle; that their cause is the cause of Heaven; yours, if you are an opponent, that of the darker power; and they intimate—with more or less of gentleness and courtesy—what, if you persist in getting in heaven's way, will be your doom." To tell a Prohibitionist that the Scott Act, in Canada, had been a deplorable failure, and had been disastrous to the morals and welfare of the community, would convince him of nothing. Yet such is the truth. The Scott act was a good deal like our own State laws it gave the counties and cities the right of local self-government, i. e., prohibition. Its effect was to substitute an unlicensed, unregulated trade, for one that had been hitherto licensed and regulated. It did not decrease the demand—simply changed the ways of supply to an illicit trade. Tell a Prohibitionist that down in Maine—where his pet theory has been in force for forty years, and where its strongest adherent is the illicit dealer who pays no license—that Bangor practically enjoys free liquor, and that Bath, and Lewiston, and Augusta, and Portland are similarly situated, and he will not "bat an eye," but will thank Heaven that they have a Prohibition law in Maine. Though Archbishop Farrar was informed that the whisky trade had been completely driven out of Maine, "it appears that upwards of 1000 people in the State paid United States retail liquor tax." Even the prison officials in that State recognize the true conditions there existing, and the Prison Report for the year 1881 declares that "intoxication is on the increase." The number of commitments for drunkenness for one year in Portland, with a population of 31,000, was 2318. Experience with the Prohibition experiment in Vermont is very similar. Massachusetts tried the Prohibition cure, but found it ineffective for good, and promptly condemned it as a means for suppressing intemperance.

It is delirious, from such intermeddling that the liquor-dealer seeks, deliverance from the intemperance of Prohibition; and yet the Record-Union declares that they sought exemptions and special privileges.

Some very good people abhor the use of meat as a food. Indeed, it is within the realm of imagination that a community of non-meat eaters might settle in one of our smaller counties, obtain control of the Board of Supervisors, and place prohibitory restrictions upon the sale of meat or the conduct of butchering establishments. Would our Sacramento contemporary declare the butchers who sought relief from such stupid legislation to be asking for "special exemptions and privileges?" There is abundant authority for the passage of a law prohibiting the sale of meats on strictly moral grounds, which might bring such legislation within the protection of that very elastic and uncertain thing known as the "police power." As an example of the evil effects of the consumption of meat as a food, we refer the reader to a very remarkable article written by Sir Henry Thompson, and published in 1895, wherein he declares that not only the bodily but the moral evil arising from intemperance in eating meat is as great as that arising from intemperance in drink. There is literature enough upon this subject to overwhelm the butcher, and fill him with confusion that he has so long innocently engaged in such an infamous calling.

Good government demands that the liquor problem be fairly discussed and settled. It is a matter of vital importance to every county in the State; indeed, so widely does its ramifications extend, so woven with our revenues and industries is this trade, that citizens who imagine it is a question of no interest to themselves will discover, unless the subject receives sane treatment, that their incomes, their comfort and their property have been injuriously affected by their own neglect. To close out the doggeries and pitfalls, and settle upon some general and uniform legislation should be the aim of every citizen interested in good government.—J. P. BROWN, in Ware.

DR. WILEY EXPLAINS.

We have received a long communication from Dr. H. W. Wiley, Chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture, in regard to the report of W. H. Krug that the wine of Senator John L. Beard, of Warm Springs, "had never seen a vineyard." Without saying so directly, Dr. Wiley would seem to stand by Mr. Krug's opinion, though Senator Beard has already, in a strongly worded letter, indignantly denied the conclusions of Mr. Krug.

Dr. Wiley's communication, in part, is as follows:

"SIR: It does not seem advisable at the present time to enter into any extended discussion of the matters therein contained. We are perfectly willing to be criticised, either from the stand-point of the agricultural chemist or practical wine maker. We do not share Mr. Wetmore's opinion of agricultural chemists in general, and claim that they have a perfect right to draw whatever conclusions seem justified from the data which they obtain. We recognize their liability to error, and that they are often mistaken. We were extremely gratified at the good showing made by the California wines when subjected to the severest chemical tests. It is not at all strange that among so many samples a few were found which varied from the standards of excellence universally recognized. In the case of the particular wine named, namely, No. 12,792, exhibited as Golden Chasselas by J. L. Beard, of Warm Springs, Cal., the analytical data obtained were as follows:

Alcohol	9.53	per cent.
Extract.....	1.10	"
Glycerol.....	0.321	"
Ash	0.191	"
Total acidity, calculated as tartaric acid	0.54	"
Ash-extract ratio.....	17.36-100	"
Glycerol alcohol ratio.....	3.3-100	"
Extract rest.....	0.56	"

"The wine was not judged by any individual figure, but by the extraordinary deviation from the universal standards which have been established for white wines by the analytical experience of many years. This experience has been considered of sufficient value to form the basis for the legislative control of the composition of wines in Germany, France, Austria and Switzerland. Let us compare the figures obtained in the analysis of this wine with those prescribed by European laws, and also with other California wines analyzed at the same time:

European Standard for White Wines.	Analysis of No. 12,792.
Extract, not over 1.1 per cent.	1.10 per cent.
Ash-extract ratio, not over 1:10, unless extract is proportionately high.	17.36-100, with very low extract.
Glycerol alcohol ratio, between 7-100	3.3-100 per cent.
14-100.
Extract rest, after deduction of the total acid not less than 1.0 per cent.	0.56 per cent.

" A careful examination of the analyses of the other California samples of white wines will show isolated cases where samples fell below the standard established for a certain constituent, but no wine will be found which deviated so generally and so extraordinarily. Thus, in Sauterne No. 12,630, the glycerol-alcohol ratio is only 2-100, and the ash extract is low. The latter, however, is due to the high extract caused by the presence of unfermented sugar, as a glance at the polarization will show. The same is true of Sauterne No. 12,631. Sauterne No. 12,688 attracts attention by its high ash-extract ratio, but this wine can never be condemned solely on the strength of this variation, as it agrees with other wines in other respects. Some of the wines have a high extract, but this has always been found due to the presence of unfermented sugar. The lowest extract found, with the exception of No. 12,792 was 1.66 per cent., which is well within the limit.

" It is the practice of oeno-chemists never to condemn a wine on account of any single variation, but rather give the dealer or grower the benefit of the doubt, and for this reason no comments were made in the cases just cited. It is evident, however, that the above wine, No. 12,792, could never pass examination, and that any chemist would be justified in branding it adulterated.

" In reference to the use of glucose, the original report, as published in the Journal of the American Chemical Society, Vol. XVI, No. 9, page 607, contained the following statements:

" In every other instance, as will be seen from the tables, there was a dextro-rotation, showing possibly that commercial glucose had been used for purposes of fortification. It is well known, however, that this substance is not used in California, and therefore this dextro-rotation is not positive proof of the use of glucose.

" The value of the analytical experience which has been accumulating for many years in this country and Europe should not be under-estimated. Such work has been a powerful factor in the improvement of many industries, notably those based on processes of fermentation. The idea so prevalent among many, that the chemist has for his sole aim the injury of their interests, should be vanished. His work is devoted to an impartial and fair consideration of the subject submitted to him, and it is his purpose, as much as that of any others, to work for the common good. The chemist, however, would not be true to his principles if, in the examination of any subject of agricultural importance, he should report only the good qualities found and suppress any mention of those of an inferior nature. We do not profess to be wine makers or wine experts, but we have the highest respect for those who are, and we are glad to have Mr. Wetmore criticize our scientific work wherever it comes in conflict with the well-established principles developed by practice.

" If we should have any criticism to make of Mr. Wetmore's position, it would be of a very complimentary nature, for it is very difficult for him to see any good which could result from the publication of any data affecting injuriously the character of even a few samples of California wines, a very small part of the industry to which he has so enthusiastically devoted his life and talents."

CLEARLY STATED.

To my mind the only solution of the license question is to find out what is constitutional—what is best for the state—what makes character. I maintain that all sumptuary laws are unconstitutional—that personal liberty is the foundation of our Government—that prohibition is impossible, and makes liars, sneaks and thieves: that it would injure the populace by encouraging the use of liquors that can be stowed away in small bulk and discouraging the use of light wines and beers. Moreover it introduces adulterated compounds that create drunkenness and disease. High license reduces the number of saloons, raises their standard, kills off low dives and adds to the school revenue whereby civilization is advanced. Sobriety follows intelligence. The saloon will remain in politics as long as fanatics attempt to destroy a legitimate industry. Stop legislating against alcohol, and the saloon will regulate itself. Make voters honest, and, though every shop sold liquor, there would be no political power outside of individual conscience.—KATE FIELD.

H. W. HELMS & Co., the California wine dealers and vineyardists, have been succeeded by ROTHSCHILD & HELMS, and their place of business has been removed from Clay street, to 201 Powell street, in a location well suited for family trade.

OBITUARY.

CALVIN W. KELLOGG.

C. W. Kellogg, who was one of the most familiar figures in the liquor trade of the Coast, died on the 12th inst. after a short illness. He was taken down with pneumonia about two months ago, and as the malady progressed, acute Bright's disease set in, which ended in his death. Mr. Kellogg was born in Michigan, and was seventy three years of age. He came to California in 1854, and after a few years experience in mining he became connected with the house of Fargo & Co. When Mr. Fargo retired from this house the firm changed to Wilmerding, Kellogg & Co., and after a disastrous speculation of Mr. Kellogg, it was changed to Wilmerding & Co. Mr. Kellogg was connected with the house from that time until his death, and after the death of J. Clute Wilmerding he succeeded in effecting an arrangement with Loewe Bros. by which the business continued. Aside from his interest in the liquor trade, he was well known in insurance, banking and mining circles, and had had his share of the ups and downs of life. He left a widow and three children by a former marriage. The funeral took place from his late residence, 2009 O'Farrell street, on the 14th inst., and was largely attended by the mercantile and banking community.

P. G. SABATIE.

Phillippe G. Sabatie, head of the house of P. G. Sabatie & Co., and the oldest importer of wines in this city, died very suddenly of rheumatism of the heart, on the 7th inst. He had suffered for some years from gout and rheumatism, but the last attack came almost unawares.

Mr. Sabatie was born in Libourne, France, sixty-three years ago. He had been engaged in the importing business for thirty-three years, but of late years he has not paid so much attention to importing as to the California wine trade. His ill health also prevented his giving much attention to business.

On the 10th inst. the funeral services were held at the French Church on Bush street, Notre Dame des Victoires, where a requiem mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul. Deceased left one son, who was associated with him in business.

W. M. COLLINS.

W. M. Collins, President of the Greenbrier Distillery Co., of Louisville, and head of W. M. Collins & Co., died on the 28th ult. at the age of fifty years. Mr. Collins was born in Ireland, and came to Kentucky when young, being educated at Bardstown. He was a soldier in the Union army during the war, and after the close of the war he went into distilling.

TRADE CIRCULARS.

From J. W. Biles & Co.

CINCINNATI, April 1, 1895.

PARTNERSHIP NOTICE.—We beg to advise you that on this day the firms of J. W. Biles & Co. and H. Van Nes have been consolidated. The firm of H. Van Nes ceases to exist, and a new partnership will be carried on under the old firm name of J. W. Biles & Co. Mr. A. Wittekind remains with the new firm, and has been given an interest in the business.

Thanking you for favors extended in the past, we solicit your further patronage, and remain,

Respectfully,

J. W. BILES,
H. VAN NES.

From L. Gandolfi & Co.

NEW YORK, March 30, 1895.

Send please note in your next issue the following importations, by us during the fortnight ending this date:

Per "Neustria," Mar. 25th, 869 boxes macaroni. Per "Kaiser Wilhelm II.," Mar. 27, 50 cases Lucca oil, 15 baskets "Bra" cheese, 50 tubs "Gorgonzola" cheese, 24 cases "Chianti" wine, 25 cases cognac "Cruix Rouge," and 350 boxes Genoa paste.

Respectfully,

L. GANDOLFI & Co.

From the Louisville Public Warehouse Company.

To the Wholesale Whisky Trade:

For many years this Company has advocated and pressed upon Congress the necessity for some relief from the compulsory system of storage in bond upon the distillery premises, believing it a commercial necessity to the trade—both to the dealer and distiller. After a long fight and at great expense we have partially succeeded in so far that transportation in bond and storage in general bonded warehouses are now permitted, although under regulations and conditions greatly detrimental to the complete and practical operation of the measure—we refer to the unfortunate provision requiring the distiller's signature to the transportation and warehousing bond, and his continued responsibility required—and we beg to explain that in this particular the bill was originally properly drafted, providing that the owner or the distiller was to sign, and that at the last moment, while the bill was in the hands of the conference committee, and too late for the fact to become known to us, the word "owner" was unfairly and surreptitiously stricken out.

As the matter now stands we have bonded our largest and best house, fronting on Main street, immediately east of the Galt House, in the very center of the city, accessible to every wholesale whisky house within a radius of two blocks, yet with complete railroad connection to warehouse doors, and having a capacity of 22,000 barrels.

The house is built upon the rack plan but slightly different from the average distillery warehouse, being much stronger and the racks wider apart, thus affording a better ventilation. Our location being convenient to visitors, an inspection is invited. We are prepared to equalize all the advantages of storage on the distillery premises by making a storage rate of five cents per barrel per month or fraction thereof, to guarantee the outage on first-class cooperage, and can quote an insurance rate of 85 cents per $100, and furthermore, a majority of the local bankers being interested with us, liberal advances can be readily negotiated.

In addition to this we offer the advantage of better and quicker shipping facilities, a receipt of a third independent party not interested in similar whisky of same age and brand in competition, as the distiller often is, and a receipt that is recognized and accepted at all money centers, generally a lower rate of insurance, and the further advantage of frequent and actual inspection by interested parties. Many of the dealers now contracting for goods stipulate the privilege of transportation in bond should they see fit.

To the distiller, as he is compelled to sign the bonds, we are prepared to offer our indemnifying bond in any amount, to furnish all sureties, and in fact, to protect him as far as is in our power. For his own use we offer extra space when his own warehouse capacity is exhausted, either by a regular arrangement for storage or by lease of so much of any of our warehouses as he may need.

At the next session of Congress an earnest effort will be made to relieve the distiller of the responsibility of signing the bonds, and we solicit your co-operation and aid in this regard. Correspondence solicited. Respectfully,

W. G. CORDEWEN, President.

From Nicholas Rath & Co.

NEW YORK, April 6, 1895.

DEAR SIR: Referring to the fine blends of Cragganmore Glenlivet whiskies shipped in cases by Messrs. James Watson & Co., Dundee, and the celebrated John Smith Glenlivet whisky in casks, we beg to remind you that we are sole United States agents.

The Messrs. Watson are the largest holders of whisky in Great Britain, and that they stand unrivalled as blenders and bottlers is shown by the fact of their brands being for sale in all the most prominent establishments in the trade in London, and throughout the British provinces. To those who wish to obtain Scotch whisky in perfection, we can guarantee that when they order "Watson" there will be no disappointment.

Yours sincerely,

NICHOLAS RATH & Co.

Always meet trouble square in the face. The bird that goes with the wind is always ruffled, within and without, while the bird that faces the wind always has smooth feathers.

From E. H. Taylor, Jr., & Sons (Incorporated.)

FRANKFORT, Ky., March 5, 1895.

This corporation has on storage with the Export Storage Company, Cincinnati, a limited amount of "Old Taylor" whiskies — six, seven and eight years old.

None of these whiskies have ever been exported. The tax on the same was paid at the expiration of the bonded period of each, respectively, and the whiskies shipped to the said export company direct by the distiller.

The whiskies are ranking whiskies in quality, are splendidly matured, being seven, eight and ten degrees above proof, and afford the first-class trade of the country an opportunity of securing the best of all whisky at reasonable prices.

E. H. TAYLOR, JR., & SONS (INC'D).

E. H. TAYLOR, JR., President.

P. S.—These whiskies are far superior to any that have been exported and returned.

WELL KNOWN NAPA VINEYARDS.

The Call, of recent date, contained the following description of the vineyards of Beringer, Schram, Parrott and Niebaum, in the Napa Valley:

"Los Hermanos, the winery and distillery of the Beringer Bros., with the 200 acres of vineyard and the Beringers' beautiful homes, touches the corporate limits of St. Helena. The Beringers spent their boyhood on the Rhine, and brought a practical knowledge of wine-making with them to this State, where they manufacture wines and brandies that are acknowledged among the best the world over. The correspondent visited the spacious cool grotto under the big hillside, a mammoth wine cellar with tunnels branching from it. It has a storage capacity of half a million gallons. There were casks upon casks of the products of Napa's sun-kissed vineyards, labeled for shipment to England, Mexico and Japan. All of the hogsheads and barrels at Los Hermanos are of long, oval shape. Mr. Beringer explained that the wine was improved in flavor by thus having the contact of more wood surface. The residence of Fritz Beringer, the senior member of the firm, is the most artistic home in the valley, not excepting the home of the late Tiburcio Parrott, near by. Both places are beautiful. Beringer's home is filled with curios picked up in foreign travel and souvenirs of celebrities in art, music and literature the world over.

"Immediately adjoining the Beringer estate is the celebrated Greystone Wine Cellar, built by W. B. Bourn, which is the largest cellar under one roof in the world. This place, with a capacity of 3,000,000 gallons, with its five immense grape presses, each one of which presses 100 tons per day during the vintage season, is now controlled by the Wine Association.

"The Mountain Vineyard and wine cellar of Jacob Schram is just a few miles up the road toward Calistoga. The beautiful place and the kindly master and mistress are known far and wide.

"Inglenook, Captain C. Niebaum's place, is at Rutherford, the pretty little station four miles down the Napa City highway. Captain Niebaum, late Russian Vice-Consul to San Francisco, is a member of a large seal and fur company, so to him wine making is a pleasant diversion. His wine cellar at Inglenook is one of the finest in interior furnishings in this country. Every cask and utensil is clean and polished. Captain Niebaum does not permit his wines to go upon the market until they are three years old, and the demand for the Inglenook brands exceeds the supply. The country home that was Tiburcio Parrott's, with its great madrono trees standing like sentinels to protect the wealth of flowers and vines, is a fitting monument to the artistic, beauty-loving soul that has passed away. Here 300 varieties of roses scatter their petals over a carpet of the fragrant violets which should have borne the name of their cultivator. It is a charming place, with its many orange trees, and outlying vineyards, and olive orchards, the wine cellars containing thousands of gallons of the best vintage, and the well-equipped olive plant, which is supplied with the latest French inventions. Only the product of the home ranch, three and a half tons was pressed into oil this season, which yield resulted in 175 gallons first-grade olive oil.

"Childhood's happy hour" is balanced by many an hour of real distress, and the five-year-old who announced in a moment of gloom that "this world isn't much better than an old shanty, anyhow," is not without occasional sympathy from very many.

NATIONAL WINE AND SPIRIT ASSOCIATION.

The following was the order of business at the annual meeting of the National Wine and Spirit Association, held at St. Nicholas Hotel, St. Louis, on April 16th and 17th:

Tuesday, April 16th, Morning. The meeting was called to order on Tuesday morning, April 16th, in the Banquet Hall of the St. Nicholas Hotel, St. Louis, at 10 o'clock A. M.; address of the President, Mr. I. W. Bernheim, of Louisville, Ky.; routine business; address, "The Relation of Manufacturers and Vendors of Alcoholic Stimulants to Society," Geo. C. Brown, of Louisville, Ky.; address, "The Relations of the Trade to Politics and the Community," Charles McK. Leoser, Jr., of New York.

Tuesday Afternoon, 3 P. M.—Executive session.

Wednesday Morning, April 17th, 10 o'clock. Unfinished business; election of officers; selection of place of meeting for next year. Wednesday Evening.—Banquet.

The Board of Supervisors of Siskiyou county have passed a new ordinance raising the liquor license to $100 a year, payable in advance. The people voted at the last election to have the license raised, and the Supervisors complied with their wish by raising it $40, it being $60 heretofore. This will make an income to the county of about $6000 from the saloons.

It cures Colds, Neuralgia, Headache and all Malaria Troubles. It stands on its Merits.

THE San Gabriel Wine Co.

OF SAN GABRIEL,
Los Angeles County, Cal.

Are now prepared with a large stock of wines and brandies of their own growth to supply the trade and the market generally. This Company owns the largest vineyard in the world, covering over 2,500 acres. They have held their wines and brandies for several years in their own cellars, and do not offer any of their product until it has become properly matured. Their large stock of matured wines and brandies thus accumulated is now open to the purchaser. All goods under their trade mark are warranted pure and unadulterated. Being the successors to B. D. WILSON & Co., and to J. DE BARTH SHORB, they have become possessors of the "SHORB" BRAND OF BRANDY and "MOUNT VINEYARD"
WINE. Correspondence solicited.

CELEBRATED IMPERIAL GIN AND RYE MALT GIN

DISTILLED BY THE HOLLAND PROCESS.

Equal in flavor and surpassing in purity the most famous imported Gins. Put up in packages prepared to hold contents colorless, and contain, respectively 44, 24, 15 and 10 gallons, all under double stamps.

These Gins are the only ones distilled in the U. S. by the HOLLAND PROCESS

And are unquestionably the purest and most wholesome Gins today, used in the U. S.

WALDEN COGNAC.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets.

It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES.—The hopeful tone that has characterized the market for some time past still continues, and there is every indication that the present confidence is based on a good foundation. The activity in the movement of wines is much greater than could be reasonably expected. This is particularly so with respect to the receipts of wines from interior cellars, as for instance, during the month of April more than 2,000,000 gallons were withdrawn from the cellars in the various wine districts, and shipped to this city. On the 27th of last month the record for heavy receipts was beaten by the arrival of over 560,000 gallons of wine. On the 22d over 100,000 gallons were received. A comparative statement of the receipts for the first four months to May 1st, 1894, and the same period this year is of interest. It shows that during the same period of last year there were received 3,252,170 gallons, as against 5,810,956 gallons to May 1st of this year. In other words, during that period about 2,200,000 gallons more were received than in the same time last year. On the other hand, the movement of wines from this market has been particularly strong. The record of rail shipments during April is not yet available, but we understand that the total was large. Exports by sea for the last half-month have been of excellent volume, aggregating 379,000 gallons. Orders are coming in in quite a satisfactory way, and there is less complaint in the business than there has been for a long time. Our New York correspondent states in another column that the market has not responded to the advance here as rapidly as would naturally be expected, but it is evident that inasmuch as this is the source of supply, those who are holding the market down will be forced by necessity to adjust themselves to the new conditions. The probable quantity and the quality of the next vintage are coming up for discussion, and we hear of contracts being made in the Napa Valley at fifteen and sixteen dollars per ton for grapes. However, should there be a big crop, these prices would doubtless be shaded considerably. Thus far the weather has been very favorable for the development of the vines, and should there be no damage on account of the weather, we look for a good average crop.

The following is a comparative statement of the receipts of wine and brandy at this point for four months—January to April, inclusive—1894 and 1895:

	—1894—		—1895—
	Wine.	Brandy.	Wine.	Brandy.
January	553,110	142,705	897,534	60,590
February	711,410	190,650	1,311,780	1,540
March	972,900	25,695	1,588,430	6,630
April	985,050	16,690	2,013,212	11,410
Totals	3,252,470	375,740	5,813,956	83,200

The shipments of California wines by sea in April were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
To New York.....	110	351,021	$116,360
Central America.....	1,213	12,925	13,610
Mexico	310	7,108	3,843
Hawaii	139	8,211	4,528
British Columbia.....	6	1,051	368
Japan and China	26	2,476	1,160
Great Britain
Germany
Other European
Tahiti	9,613	2,873
All other foreign	382	247
Total by sea.....	1,804	392,793	$142,989

CALIFORNIA BRANDIES.—The brandy market has no feature of special interest, the demand at present being light, and holders not anxious to sell at ruling prices. Exports by sea during the fortnight have been small. There is no doubt, however, that the change which has taken place in the conditions of the wine market will eventually infuse more activity into this branch of the business. Rail shipments are not yet at hand for April.

The total exports of California brandy by sea in April were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
To Domestic Eastern Ports.....	9,209	$10,509
Germany
Great Britain.....
All other foreign.....	39	80	520
Total by sea.....	39	9,289	$11,029

WHISKIES.—The market is jogging along. Some fair sales in round lots are reported. While business might be much better, we realize also that it might be a great deal worse; for instance, as it was a year ago. Advices from the East indicate that the free goods are going slowly into consumption, and that it is only a matter of a few months when the market will be free from these stocks, and buyers will be compelled to purchase bonded goods under the new tax rate. When this time comes and '92's are the old whiskies, it is confidently prophesied a lively shake-up will occur in the whisky market. The prediction seems to be based on a good theory, and it need only be said that some such change as that would be welcomed by all concerned. Business during the fortnight has been about the same, and collections are still slow.

The imports of American whiskies by sea and rail at San Francisco in March were as follows:

	Cases.	Barrels.	Half-bbls.
By sea from Atlantic ports.....	182	61	...
re-imported
rail overland	1,368	1,039	97
Total	1,550	1,103	97

The total imports of spirits by rail in April were 2080 barrels; of alcohol 65 barrels.

The imports of foreign whiskies were 878 cases. The exports of American whiskies by sea to foreign ports were 931 cases and 2065 gallons, valued at $9644.

IMPORTATIONS. The business still runs in spots, and owing to quietness in all lines of trade, it does not seem to be able to adjust itself to any steady basis. It livened up some during the fortnight, but is taking another turn for the quiet.

However, the standard and popular goods are receiving about the usual attention at this season of the year. Importations for the past fortnight have been light.

The principal importations in April were as follows: Champagne—1010 cases. Still Wines—157 cases, 10 casks, 10 octaves. Brandy—58 cases, 8 casks. Gin and Geneva—20 casks. Vermont—20 cases. Bitters—4 cases. Cordials—37 cases. Undesignated Liqueurs—125 cases. Undesignated Spirits—37 cases. Bulk Beer (from overland)—372 barrets, 378 half-barrels, no quarter-barrels, and 10 kegs. Bottled Beer (from overland)—85 barrels, 430 casks, and 405 boxes.

ORANGE COUNTY AGAINST WINERIES.

The Board of Supervisors of Orange County has organized itself into a committee of the whole and formulated a report that will form the basis of a new liquor ordinance, to govern the sale of all vinous, malt and intoxicating liquors throughout the county, outside of incorporated cities and towns.

The report, as yet, is not given to the public, but it is claimed when the ordinance is framed which will be the outgrowth of the report, that a license of $300 per year, or $75 per quarter, in advance, will be imposed upon all liquor dealers outside of the incorporated cities and towns, and that wine and other intoxicating drinks will not be permitted to be sold from any of the wineries in the county in quantities of less than one gallon.

It is claimed that the Supervisors propose that the ordinance shall not prove a hardship to the better class of liquor houses, but that they desire to bear down on the "dives," if any there be in Orange County.—Los Angeles Times.

The Orange County Supervisors evidently need some instruction on the question of wine-selling from wineries. The Supreme Court held, in the case of Merced County vs. Helm & Nolan, that the policy of the State is to encourage wine and brandy making; that counties have no right to interfere with the sale of wine from wineries; that such sales do not constitute the business of wine-selling.

If the Orange County Supervisors do not understand this they should read the law covering such cases, a law that has been fully sustained by the courts.

They had best let the wineries alone. No ordinance that they can pass will affect the right of wineries to dispose of their products.

ARPAD HARASZTHY'S NEW POSITION.

Attention is directed to the circular of Arpad Haraszthy, which appears elsewhere. It is the formal announcement of his withdrawal from the California Wine Association, mention of which was made in a recent number of the REVIEW.

Mr. Haraszthy, from this time out, will devote his attention exclusively to the champagne business, the trade-marks and brands of which remained in his control and ownership when the Association was formed. He also retains the right to continue as a manufacturer of dry and sweet wines—as a vigneron—but will not place them on the market. It is his wish and desire to devote all his time and energy to perfecting the champagnes which have already made his name familiar throughout the United States and England.

He will not only continue to put out the "Eclipse" brand, but has nearly ready for the market wines which will impress and delight connoisseurs, and which will be placed under a new brand, the excellence of which will commend it to all wine-drinkers.

We are sincerely glad that Mr. Haraszthy will hereafter give his entire time and attention to the production of champagnes. He understands the business to perfection, and he can be depended upon, unhampered by other interests, to raise the standard of his products to a very enviable position.

Charles Meinecke & Co. are making many improvements to their offices in the Sacramento street store. The walls are being whitened, and new carpets and furniture will soon add to the brightness of their quarters.

LOUISVILLE, KY.

ARISING IN NEW FORM.

Following fast upon the news that the Viticultural Commission must go out of existence next December comes the news that the Commissioners and their friends are perfecting a scheme whereby all that was of value in the old institution may be retained in a new organization, only the general plan of which has so far been spoken of. It is meeting with very general favor, however, and it is hoped by the time the present Commission will disband the new organization will be in running order and quite ready to take up the work necessary.

The plan is to form a College of Practical Viticulture, which will acquire as good a library as the old Commission, will gather what information is obtainable regarding the viticultural interest, and will disseminate the same, just as the present institution has been doing all along. The one particular wherein it will differ from the old Commission will be in this: The new organization will incorporate, and its Directors will be elected by the members of the organization. They will have no affiliation with political parties and the institution will be run entirely independent of the State Government.

When the affairs of the Commission have been wound up all the effects of the office will be turned over to the Regents of the University, and will presumably be handed over by them to the Agricultural Department of the College, which is expected to continue the work of the Commission. There is now at the Commission rooms, on the corner of Sansome and Bush streets, the finest viticultural library in America, and it will be rather hard for the new organization to give it up, but the present Viticultural Commissioners expect to be able to duplicate it when they go out of office next December.

There are already enlisted in the scheme some of the most prominent vineyardists in the State, including representatives from every important wine district in California. All the present Commissioners are also interested in it, and with such support it is hoped to make a strong and lasting institution. Its only political element will be to attend to legislation in both Legislature and Congress whenever any bill in the interests of its clients is introduced, or when any obnoxious measure is in danger of being adopted.

The Viticultural Commission is in this respect in a little better condition than the Board of Horticulture. The Viticultural Commission was killed in the Legislature, but the Board of Horticulture, while not killed, had its appropriation cut off by the Governor's veto.

It was originally intended that it should share the fate of the Viticultural Commission, but by a neat little political play this was averted. It seems that at the same time the Legislative Committee from the Board of Regents of the University was actively pressing the legislators to place the work of the Board in the hands of the Agricultural Department of the University they were also supporting Mr. Phelps' bill to appropriate $250,000 to erect a building in this city to contain the affiliated colleges. By some means Frank Buck, of Napa, who was working in the interests of the Board, gathered strength enough in the Senate to defeat the Affiliated Colleges bill in that House, and then he went to Mr. Phelps and made a compromise with him.

The Regents were to let the Board of Horticulture alone, or their Affiliated Colleges bill would not go through the Senate, and as this latter was of more importance to them they agreed, and the Board of Horticulture was let alone. But when it came before the Governor he vetoed the appropriation and the Board now has its life, but after July 1st will have to support itself.

In the meantime the Viticultural Commission was ordered disbanded on December 31, 1895, and an appropriation to last that long was allowed. By that time the viticulturists will be in a position to continue the work of the Commission without any trouble by the new organization which will succeed it.

LARGE SALE OF BRANDY.

On the 4th and 5th inst. John W. Bashford, of 11 Hart street, Mark Lane, London, sold the largest lot of California brandy yet disposed of at auction in England. The lot consisted of 150 barrels of 1890 brandy marked T. H. F., undoubtedly Vina Brandy shipped by T. H. Froelich. It sold for 2s. 7d. to 2s. 11d. per gallon in bond, an equivalent of 62 to 70 cents.

NATIONAL W. & S. ASSOCIATION.

The second annual Convention of the National Wine and Spirit Association, held in St. Louis April 16, 1895, was a decided success in every particular. The Convention was held at the St. Nicholas Hotel and was largely attended, over 100 delegates being in attendance from all parts of the country.

President T. W. Bernheim, of Louisville, Ky., called the Convention to order at 10 o'clock on the morning of the 16th. In opening the meeting he said, in part:

"GENTLEMEN: It is a source of great pleasure in greeting so large an attendance upon this the second annual meeting of the National Wine and Spirit Association.

"The National Wine and Spirit Association has, thanks to the efficient services of the Secretary and the devotion to duty of the Board of Control, instituted some measures which have proven beneficial, it attempted some reforms which, I regret to say, have not fully materialized, and set in motion others which may prove of great value.

"The Prohibitionists, of the old school, have changed the 'theater of war' from the East and West to the South. The East and West have been taught by bitter experience that total prohibition by statutory enactments invariably results in the transfer of the trade from the well-regulated, lawfully licensed saloon managed and operated by the law-abiding, responsible citizen, to that of the bootlegger and moonshiner, who is ever ready for the sake of gain to disregard alike the laws of State and United States.

"The National Wine and Spirit Association is neither the friend nor advocate of intemperance; it favors a fair license law which will place the retail trade in the hands of law-abiding citizens, and make the saloon, not an evil as many consider it, or an institution to be apologized for, as a large portion of our trade conceive it to be, but rather a most important factor in the development of our complex and surging civilization. In a word, the saloon should become the workingman's club in the full sense, and it should be so conducted as to make him happier, better and more prosperous and patriotic because of its existence and of his contact with it.

"The necessity of co-operation in warding off hostile legislation, the devising of means to lessen losses in the conduct of our business, the simplifying of the internal revenue laws, without in the slightest degree decreasing their efficiency, are measures which might be discussed during our meeting with profit."

Following the President's address, a committee of five was appointed, to whom all resolutions and suggestions should be submitted; also a committee to examine the books of the Secretary and Treasurer.

George G. Brown, of Louisville, Ky., then read a paper on "The Relation of Manufacturers and Venders of Alcoholic Stimulants to Society," which is as follows:

The first reference to an alcoholic stimulant in either sacred or profane history is when that illustrious personage, from whom most of us claim descent, and who was selected by the Creator of Heaven and earth and all that is in them as the only man then living righteous enough to escape destruction by the flood, planted a vineyard, made wine and drank thereof. Several hundred years later, it is recorded that Melchisedek, the priest of the most high God, comforted Abraham, to whom the Lord, as an expression of gratitude for mercies received, and promised in abundance as a reward for obedience, and as a matter of convenience—instructions given about the sale of wine and strong drink. Approaching a little nearer to our own period, but still very remote from the present generation, we find a very exalted man, in fact the most illustrious of his generation, if not of all preceding and subsequent ones, paying his debts with wine, for the records show that King Solomon sent Hiram, King of Tyre, about one hundred and fifty thousand gallons of wine in payment of an obligation due Hiram.

After the lapse of some hundred years more sacred history shows that He, whom many of us accept as God and all as the most perfect type of man, converted water into wine to be used solely as a beverage on the festive occasion of a marriage feast, and who said of himself: "The Son of Man is come eating and drinking"—referring to bread and wine.

Thus we find that many eminent men in ancient history, whose characters and memory we revere, did not think it unworthy of themselves to manufacture, sell and use as an intoxicant; and coming down to the history of our own country, the great Washington, truly said to be "first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen," did not feel that he reflected discredit either on himself or his countrymen by manufacturing whiskey; but times have changed, and what the eminent men before referred to could do in their generations with perfect freedom of conscience and perfect consistency with public sentiment is now condemned in the minds of a great many of our people as being a great sin, if not a great crime, and logically such public sentiment now convicts these eminent men of past generations of having been sinners, if not criminals, in pursuing the life before mentioned.

Americans, as a rule, are restless people, and during periods of political inactivity are prone, for want of something better, to turn to isms, old or new, for that excitement which seems essential to their happiness. Taking advantage of these periods of quiet, certain classes of restless persons who feel on agitation and deem themselves divinely appointed to provide a nostrum for every ill humanity is heir to, from time to time organize unreasoning crusades of misrepresentation against the liquor business and all engaged therein. Such crusades, based on grounds equally fallacious in theory and impossible in practice, spend themselves in violence, and while they mislead the public for a time, gradually subside as their character is exposed, to give place in turn to fresh ones, varying in form, but identical in principle.

The abuse of Intoxicants shows itself more plainly and probably more distressingly than that of any gift God has given to us, so that an organization for suppressing the manufacture and sale of intoxicants to those restless spirits that must constantly be looking outside of themselves for something to reform, was a natural sequence; therefore, the origin of the Prohibition party and its natural ally, the Women's so-called Temperance Union.

The Prohibitionists are not only a discontented, but a very progressive and inventive class of people in their fanaticism, and having become dissatisfied with the many, to them, petty sins mentioned in the Holy Bible, particularly in the Decalogue, they have evidently concluded to repeal, as far as they can, all the old-fashioned sins recognized by our forefathers, and to invent and patent for use in America only, one great big sin to take the place of all others on the principle of

"Compounding for sins they are inclined to
By damning those they have no mind to,"

And none of these self-sacrificing patriots having any pecuniary in alcoholic stimulants by unanimous consent the manufacture and sale of such stimulants has been accepted as the one great sin to serve as the scapegoat for all others. This is a specially attractive system of morality, as it requires nothing more than a vigorous abuse of one's neighbor and voting the Prohibition ticket to occupy a chief seat in the synagogue.

The Prohibitionist and the W. C. T. U. have for years been maligning and persecuting all those who have the courage to engage in a business which such organizations condemn, until now candor forces us to admit that we are, in a measure, under the ban of public opinion. For this unfortunate state of affairs we and our predecessors are largely responsible, because until recent years we have thought the position taken by those who would destroy our business were so contrary to the principles of our Government and to the inalienable rights of every free citizen and so illogical generally that we did not make any effort to combat the error that has been so persistently fostered by many of our fellow-citizens. We remained inactive so long that the average citizen seems to have concluded that we have no rights whatever. States have voted in favor of prohibition; manufactories have practically been confiscated without compensation by denying them the privilege of operation; special taxes and licenses have been imposed on us, it seems, for permitting us to engage in our chosen vocation. We are fined in advance for crimes rather than licensed to conduct a legitimate business, and paid for such privileges as is paid by those engaged in other lines. If our business is a criminal one, I say emphatically, it ought to be suppressed altogether. If it is a legitimate one, then I protest in paying a penalty in engaging in it.

I sincerely believe that no class of people in any civilized country is to-day so maligned and persecuted by fellow-countrymen as that engaged in the manufacture and sale of alcoholic stimulants in the United States. Our enemies endeavor to make us responsible for almost all the murders, the suicides, and, in fact, all the crimes that are committed in the country. But is there any foundation for these accusations?

The Chicago "Tribune" has for several years past kept what it calls a "criminal record." For 1894 this record shows that there were 9,800 murders reported in the United States; of this number 776 are attributed to liquor, 812 to jealousy and the remainder to various other causes. This shows but about 8 per cent. of the total being charged to liquor, instead of 50 per cent. to 90 per cent., as would usually be charged by our enemies. A larger percentage is charged to jealousy than to liquor; jealousy is the result of unwise love. Now, according to the Prohibitionist's logic, if jealousy is responsible for more murders than liquor, then that which is supposed to be the foundation of jealousy, namely, love, should be suppressed, and if the Prohibitionists are willing to take the vote of the country on the suppression of love and liquor jointly we are willing to accept the consequences.

This report shows that while there were 9,800 murders reported in 1894, there were only 132 legal executions, so that a murderer had about one chance in seventy-four of being legally executed. The number of murders in 1894 seems to have exceeded those of 1893 by about 50 per cent., and yet the consumption of alcohol in 1894 was considerably less than in 1893; therefore, to assume the character of logic used by our Prohibitionist friends, the excess of murders of 1894 over those of 1893 must have been attributable to the reduction in the quantity of alcohol consumed.

The "Tribune" also keeps a record of the number of suicides in the country, which show there were in 1894, 4,912.

Of this number 251 are attributed to liquor and 232 to disappointed love, the remainder to various other causes. Now, if it were possible to prevent all these suicides by legal enactment, I should like to see it done, but I am not old enough yet to be willing to destroy love by law or prevent any young person from falling in love for fear that it might not be requited and he would be tempted to commit suicide.

This whole question resolves itself into the impossibility of making an individual or a people moral by legal enactment. The Lord has created us as free agents, and all that we have was given us for our enjoyment, however, with proper restraint against abuse. Because some abuse, is no reason why others should be denied the proper use of alcohol or any other article. I believe that the manufacturers and vendors of alcoholic stimulants are themselves most interested in the temperate use of such stimulants, and that they are willing to further any reasonable suggestions looking toward the suppression of drunkenness. I say this, not as a mere speculation, but from a firm conviction that with the universal practice of true temperance the consumption of alcoholic spirits would be increased in this country. The drunkard is the great enemy to our business, but, according to the prevailing opinion, we are made the scapegoat for the drunkard's sin, it not his crime. There is no more reason for this than that the manufacturers and vendors of the various implements used by the 9,800 murderers last year in committing their heinous crimes should be responsible for those murders.

If our people will only accept the true situation, which is, that legislation can give the individual neither true morality nor true religion, and will begin at the foundation by inculcating these virtues in childhood and in the homes, then we will have a genuine reformation.

While I would say nothing in disparagement of our public schools, yet if they are to be relied upon for the moral training of our children in order to give our women an opportunity to perform the assumed public duties required by the combined organizations of the Female Suffragists, the Women's so-called Christian Temperance Unionists and the Prohibitionists, it were better to abandon the public schools than to rely upon Government agents to assume the function that by Divine Providence rests in the home circle only, and just in proportion to the interest taken by the mothers of our land in such societies as the before mentioned, will be the neglect of the early training of our children who should be taught in early life the principles of self-control and all other virtues, and in proportion to the neglect of the homes and the growth of the political female societies will be the growth of drunkenness and immorality generally.

Fellow members of the National Wine and Spirit Association, we have a great work before us, and each day's delay will make it harder to free ourselves from the malignant influences that surround us. Our enemy has the zeal of fanaticism and the sophistical reasoning of sentimentalism in his favor, but we have on our side truth, the God-given inheritance, free agency and individual responsibility and the principles of a free government as against a despotism. In opposing the doctrine of Prohibition (or local option, which really is local Prohibition), we are fighting the cause of all our countrymen, and I feel sure that future generations would thank us for the work that we should do.

The majority of those who oppose us and our cause do so through misapprehension, and I believe it to be the duty of this Association to maintain a literary bureau for the purpose of the gratuitous distribution of such literature as may be adapted to all who will read it, and for the further purpose of maintaining a limited number of popular speakers to address the public when it may need enlightenment.

I hope this Association will take prompt action toward establishing such a bureau as I have suggested. I believe duty to our own good name, to our wives and children, and even above these, duty to our Creator, demands that we should expose the slander cast upon us and Him by a class which, in its efforts to humiliate us, does not hesitate to blaspheme God by denouncing as a curse what He has pronounced a blessing.

The afternoon session was an executive one, devoted to the discussion of the reports of the committees and other business in general.

The session on the morning of the 17th was devoted to various discussions pertaining to the whisky trade.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

President—George G. Brown, of Louisville, Ky.

First Vice-President—Philip Hamburger, of Pittsburg, Pa.

Second Vice-President—George Dieterle, of Cincinnati, O.

The President and Vice-Presidents will name the Board of Control later, and the Board will select the Secretary and Treasurer. After choosing Pittsburg, Pa., as the next place of meeting, the meeting adjourned sine die.

In the afternoon the members, in a body, took a carriage ride about the city, visiting places of interest.

The banquet in the evening was one of the most elaborate affairs ever held in St. Louis.

There was no prearranged programmes, all the responses being impromptu, and Toastmaster Carl Moeller acquitted himself with the utmost credit.

The principal speakers were Mr. Moeller, who delivered the address of welcome; G. W. Swearingen, of Louisville, Ky., on "The Kentucky Distillery;" Thomas L. Gilmore, of Louisville, on "The Wine and Spirit Trade;" ex-Internal Revenue Collector Green B. Raum, who made a brief address on the existing internal revenue laws; Philip Hamburger, of Pittsburg, Pa.; William Hobbs, on "St. Louis;" Frank Wynnan, A. Moll, of St. Louis, and Peter Lee Atherton, of Louisville.

Most of the delegates left for their homes immediately after the banquet.

A. R. SCHAFERS, a wholesale and retail liquor merchant in this city and at Redondo, Los Angeles county, has petitioned to be declared insolvent. He owes $3,304.27; assets, $3,000.

DARK—"I don't see why you think K. a disinterested patriot." CLEAR—"He bows to the will of the people." "How so?" "He was defeated on the Prohibition ticket for Mayor, and now he has opened a saloon!"

The J. C. WILMERDING trust fund of $400,000, bequeathed in the will of the deceased merchant for the equipment and maintenance of a trades school for boys, is about to be paid to the trustees, who are the Regents of the University of California. The fund will be used in furthering the idea of the donor, who left plans for a school which should give boys a manual training in the various trades. It is believed that Oakland will have an excellent chance to secure the school. The intention of the trustees is to seek a suitable site just as soon as the money comes into their possession. Inducements as to grounds and buildings will be considered in the choice of a location.

THE WHISKY WAREHOUSE.

The Distillers' Journal, an ably conducted monthly published at Bardstown, Ky., and which devotes its energies to the propaganda of Nelson County, Ky., whiskies, is discussing the questions pertaining to general bonded warehouses with great vigor. The Journal sees in the general bonded warehouses an additional outlet for the Nelson County product, and takes issue with the statement that "there are now no indications that distillers will distribute goods to the retail trade." On the contrary, the Journal holds that if this means to say "that the distillers will not attempt, either by themselves or through brokers, to reach the retail trade to the exclusion of the rectifiers," he is greatly mistaken.

In conclusion the Journal states that "'straight' goods in considerable quantities are now moving in bond to the general bonded warehouses on the Pacific Slope from the Fifth District of Kentucky, and the inevitable result of this process must be a displacement of blended goods to make way for 'straights' for bar use in the very localities where they have heretofore never had much of a call." It is a self-evident proposition that the substitution of 'straights' for 'blends' for bar use will benefit the distiller just in proportion as that substitution shall prevail."

In the meantime several houses are figuring on handling "straights" from the warehouse at the first favorable opportunity, even though they may have brands of blended goods of their own. Once the Kentucky Distillers' Association recedes from its stand, the break will come. The few houses now using the warehouse in San Francisco are hammering away at the retail trade with all their energy, and they think that the results so far have been as favorable as could be expected.

Those on the other side, however, are holding still to their ground, and are doing all in their power to prevent the general use of the warehouse, claiming that the time-honored method of doing business is the best.

MIDA'S TRADE-MARK REGISTER.

William Mida, publisher of Mida's Criterion, of Chicago, has just issued in combined form volumes 1 and 2 of his "National Register of Trade-Marks," of spirituous and malt liquors and wines. The book is a marvel in its line, and without question is the best of its kind ever issued in the country. It contains a total of 2,114 trade-marks, of which 1,599 are of whisky, 64 of gin, 110 of wines, 280 of malt liquors and 68 of sundries.

Mr. Mida never does work by halves, and his register is a monument to his energy and his skill in compilation. The book consists of nearly 300 pages, is handsomely bound in boards and is a typographical masterpiece. The price, $10, is very low, considering the information imparted.

Charles Bundschu, of J. Gundlach & Co., went south with the excursion of the Half Million Club, and spent the greater part of the month of April in sight-seeing and pleasure seeking.

THE WETMORE-BOWEN DEAL.

Clarence J. Wetmore and Charles E. Bowen, both of whom are known to everybody in the wine business, have consummated a most important wine deal.

The C. A. Wetmore Company has been bought out by the Bowen Company, and with it ends C. K. Kirby's connection with the Wetmore name. Mr. Kirby has sold all the labels, trade-marks, business, good will and the pick of the wine. He will have no more to do with the Company.

Papers are now being drawn up for the incorporation of the Wetmore-Bowen Company, which will absorb the business heretofore conducted by C. J. Wetmore, under the name of C. A. Wetmore, at 325 Pine street, the Bowen Company's business at 140 Montgomery street and the C. A. Wetmore Company at McAllister and Larkin streets. The new Company will abandon the basement at 325 Pine street, and will concentrate its storage cellars at McAllister and Larkin streets, with city headquarters at the Montgomery-street store. The C. A. Wetmore Company (Kirby) labels will be retired.

Clarence J. Wetmore has added to the effectiveness of the deal by buying outright from Charles A. Wetmore the "Cresta Blanca" brand, labels, name and trade-marks. The new Company will thus handle the Cresta Blanca vintage, the El Pinal Vineyard wines and a general line of wines and liquors.

No stronger or better equipped combination to handle the finest bottle, restaurant and family trade could have been formed, and the Company will no doubt do a big and paying business.

VINA BRANDY IN AUSTRALIA.

It is indeed gratifying to every citizen of the United States, and more especially California, who is an advocate of purity in everything which this life demands shall be consumed, either as a food or stimulant, to read the report recently received from Australia, wherein Mr. C. R. Blackett, the Victorian Government analyst, states that he has carefully analyzed samples of Vina Brandy and has found the same absolutely pure, of fine flavor and high quality.

While, of course, Mr. Blackett could not conscientiously make any different report than the one submitted, as it is well known in this country that the purity of Vina Brandy is unquestioned, and has always been highly recommended by eminent physicians for medicinal purposes on account of its absolute purity and perfect distillation, still it is gratifying to know that our English neighbors, the brandy consumers, and, we might say, connoisseurs of the world, through their Government analyst echo the sentiments of the American public by heralding to the four winds of heaven the well-known Vina Brandy slogan, "It's Pure! That's Sure!"

BOND—"Did you try the hot water cure for your cold?"
FREE—"Yes; it's simply great, too. You see I mixed it with a little whisky and lemon, and I never had anything slip down so easy."—Indianapolis Journal.

New York Letter.

(SPECIAL CORRESPONDENCE.)

NEW YORK, April 27, 1895.

About the same conditions prevail here at present as have ruled the market the past three months. Trade is light, no large sales being reported. Some small lots of free goods have moved into other hands the past fortnight, but were for consumption, there being no speculation whatever in whisky, judging from the universal heaviness of the market. The tax-paid goods here are being slowly diminished in volume, but still enough of them, taken in conjunction with the stocks of cheap whisky held in this market, to prevent any material advance in the demand and prices of the new crops of legitimate whiskies.

The expected advance in the Eastern ryes has failed to "advance," although Eastern ryes remain firm, with an occasional demand for favorite brands. In California wines and brandies the market is still in the same condition as last month, there being no active demand for these goods. Prices rule firm and show signs of stiffening under the reports of another raise being contemplated by the California wine-growers. At the auction sale of California wines, held here on the 17th of this month, ten carloads, comprising nearly 600 barrels, were disposed of at prices ruling considerably below the market value of the wines. There were several out-of-town buyers in attendance, being attracted by the low prices reported at previous sales, and considerable wine went to them.

Mr. H. W. Day, of Sgobel & Day, who are engineering the auction scheme here, left for California on the 20th to try to convince wine-growers that it is to their interest to consign their wine to the auction.

Mr. Julius P. Smith has just returned from an extended trip through the Middle and Western States in the interest of Olivina Vineyard products, and reports a fair trade and growing demand everywhere for "Olivina" brands. Mr. Smith is one of the very few California wine men who has the faith in his wines and the American wine consumer sufficient to establish an Eastern depot for a grower's wine and the steady increase in the demand and the consumption in widely separate markets proves that good wine, energetically pushed, can overcome the ancient prejudice, which still exists and unfortunately too often with cause—against California wines. Mr. Smith deserves the thanks of every wine man in California for the good he has done their interests. By forcing a demand for his own wine has created a favorable sentiment toward all good, pure California wines.

Colonel H. Trevelyan, general manager of the Barton Estate, Limited, was in the city last week on a visit to Messrs. F. O. Boyd & Co., the sole agents of the Barton Vineyard wines in this market. Mr. Trevelyan also stopped at Chicago while on his way and made satisfactory arrangements to have the Barton wines pushed in that market.

Mr. Charles Meinecke, of San Francisco, spent last week in New York, and departed on the steamer Lahn for Europe on the 23d.

Mr. Secondo Guasti, of Guasti & Bernard, of Los Angeles, the well-known sweet wine-growers and dealers, was in the city this week looking after the interests of his firm in this market. He was accompanied here by his Philadelphia representative, Mr. Robert F. Walsh, who reports good success meeting the introduction of his wines to the trade of the Quaker City.

Bouquet. Western department records the departure of two well-known Kentucky distillers for the Golden State, Messrs. James L. Hackett, of the Greenbrier Distilling Company, and B. A. Ostrum, of the Belle of Bourbon Company. As they are both hustlers you can look for increased shipments of these popular brands out your way soon.

Messrs. M. S. Greenbaum and Charles H. Johnson, of Louisville, and Ed Sinclair, of Cincinnati, were in the city this week.

INTERNAL REVENUE DEPARTMENT.

Instructions for Preparation of Distillers' Notices and Bonds.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT,
WASHINGTON, D., C. April, 4, 1895.

To Collectors of Internal Revenue: Your special attention is called to a general letter of advice addressed to your office on the 5th day of April, 1894, containing particular directions as to the correct preparation and execution of Distillers' Annual Notices and Bonds, which you are requested to carefully read, and to observe with reference to similar papers for the ensuing year.

You are further instructed that distillers' notices and bonds given by executors and administrators, receivers or other persons acting in fiduciary capacities must not only recite the estate or person represented, but indicate the same by the signature.

Your attention is especially directed to regulations, Series 7, No. 8, Revised, Supplement No. 3, under the head, "Power of collectors to refuse to approve distillers' bonds," and you are instructed that when bonds are tendered by persons who have been convicted with any fraudulent non-compliance with any of the provisions of law relating to the duties and business of distillers, or who have compromised such offenses, collectors will, when such bonds are presented, so exercise the power conferred as to give full force and effect to the statute in this regard.

When a corporation is tendered as sole surety in a distiller's bond under the act of August 13, 1894, you will see that such corporation is duly authorized in writing by the Attorney General of the United States, and also that a resident agent has been appointed as required by said act.

You should carefully see to it, when any bonds or other papers are signed by agents or attorneys in fact, that they have not only been legally and duly empowered so to act, but that evidence of such authority is duly filed in your office and copies thereof are sent to this office with such bonds and other papers.

Respectfully yours,

G. W. WILSON, Acting Commissioner.

The property of the Davies County Distillery Co. of Owensboro, Ky., including the Kentucky Club Brand, the good-will and all other appurtenances, will be sold at public auction on the 10th day of July. We have received word from the company to this effect, and in the next issue of the REVIEW we will give particulars of the property to be sold, together with terms and a detailed statement of the property. The Davies County Company have been well known to the trade throughout the Pacific Coast for a number of years, and this would seem an exceptional opportunity to buyers.

The firm of Thomas Taylor & Co. has been reorganized, following the death of Mr. G. Bauer, some months ago. The new partners are Mrs. Taylor, Charles Cellarius and Gustav. A. Voeke. Mr. Cellarius and Mr. Voeke are the active managers. Mr. Voeke, who purchased the Bauer interest, is an old-time cigar and tobacco maker, and is already well known in the business world. We trust that the firm will continue in its prosperous course.

The Carlisle and O. F. C. distilleries, at Frankfort, will only run during April and May. Owing to short runs the Geo. F. Stagg Company will feed no cattle.—Bulletin.

Correspondence.

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review—SIR: It is a relief to read the change in your leader on the wine market. I used to be amused to see how you and the editor of the Enville Vinicole kept funeral step in your respective leaders. The medicine, I rather think, has not quickened his step, but you have, and you come cheerily to us to the tune of "March, boys, march!" that is the proper tune for the good Yankee.

However, how has the change come about in you? It has come through the wine-growers, though plenty deny it, and with passion, saying: "Wine-growers forsooth! Who be they, and whence? They be yokels with the hearts of conies, and it is the short crop of 1894 which has done it." I deny nothing fair to the influence of the 1894 crop, but if it had not been that the despicable wine-growers clubbed together to the blank astonishment of peer and prophet your doleful ditty would be still seven cents per gallon of wine, or mayhap five, as was boldly threatened.

You tell us that wine will most likely go up soon. This is exceedingly pleasant to hear, and you tell us, too, that wine cannot go down, which is more pleasant still. If there happen no crack among the wine-growers—and they keep shoulder to shoulder, both highlanders and lowlanders—I concede your point. But this is a strange country.

The rise which has occurred in wine is confined to "vin ordinaire," which my vineyard, alas! does not yield. I grow but the fine Medocs and Sauternes vines, and I must be a fool and without palate if my wines correspond not to my vines. Since common and ordinary wines have doubled their prices, why is it that fine wines show no corresponding rise, or any rise that I can make out? What is the matter with fine wines? I saw some fair Charbono and Zinfandel blend, which not the less needed a skillful cellar-master, sold for eighteen cents and by the carload, while an almost perfect Sauvignon Vert could not fetch twelve cents.

Is it to be driven with a hammer into the brains of the few enthusiasts who pledged their all to the love of the Cabernet Sauvignon and Semillon and Sauvignon Blanc that they made the mistake of their lives? I for one had to graft my Medoc and Sauterne vines, on the Charbono. On finding what a coarse yield it gave, and back to the Charbono I return—may I add to perdition? Is the taste of America so depraved, or the craze for the "cheap," the "cheap," so imperative that "vin classis" must be eschewed—at least outside the millionaire rejoicing in a fad?

It was a wise word spoken by Mr. Haraszthy when Haute Medoc and Haute Sauterne vines were the trumpet notes of the Viticultural Commission: "Careful, fellow vigneron, careful; try before you indulge in the fine vines. America may be hardly educated yet to the finest kinds of wines." We put from us the voice of the wise, and some of us are maybe now sitting in sackcloth because of it.

ERNA HILL, Santa Cruz.

JOHN A. STEWART.

[While it is true, as Dr. Stewart contends, that there is but very little demand for the very finest wines, except for blending purposes, still we think he is entirely too pessimistic on the future of the finest grades. Fine wines that are sold under an established brand command a full measure of value, and it would seem that Dr. Stewart, in common with other producers who have planted the Cabernet Sauvignon, the Cabernet Franc, the Semillon, the Sauvignon Blanc, and other of the best varieties, should emulate the example of others by creating brands of their own, which will always bring full returns for the capital, time and trouble invested.—Ed. Review.]

OWENSBORO, Ky., April 15, 1895.

On the 6th day of April, 1895, a certain Trust Company, which represents one-fourth of the stock of the Daviess County Distilling Company, filed a suit in the Circuit Court here praying for an order appointing a receiver to take charge of the affairs and assets, basing its suit upon several groundless charges of fraud in the management of the Company's affairs. At the same time it notified me that on the 11th day of April it would move the Court to appoint a receiver. The motion was not made on the 11th, but was abandoned. Up to this date no further step in that direction has been taken. The Daviess County Distilling Company and its management were ready for the hearing on the 11th inst., and will be ready at any time this Trust Company sees proper to show itself in Court in support of its charges. If, within a reasonable time, it fails to attempt to make good its charges or fails to withdraw them with proper apologies, I shall feel it due to the interests of the corporation and myself, in some appropriate form, to expose the fallacy of its pretensions.

R. MONARCH.

NATIONAL WINE AND SPIRIT ASSOCIATION.

At the recent Convention of the National Wine and Spirit Association, at St. Louis, the Secretary, Mr. W. W. Bullitt, of Louisville, was instructed to send a list of members of the Association to the trade journals of the country. We are in receipt of the list for which we are under obligations to the Association and to Mr. Bullitt. The Pacific Coast members follow:

San Francisco, Cal.—Coblentz Pike & Co., Thomas Taylor & Co., Louis Taussig & Co., C. Carpy & Co., Pacific Wine and Spirit Review.

Phoenix, Ariz.—E. Ganz.

Denver, Col.—A. Friedman & Co., Samuel Baretts & Co., Weil Bros., Fritz Thies.

Ogden, Utah—Fred J. Keisel & Co.

Anaconda, Mont.—John V. Petritz.

The showing from San Francisco is not what it should be. By rights there ought to be 150 members from this city alone.

Walden & Co., of Geyserville, are completing their arrangements to pack branded fruit on an extensive scale. Particular attention will be paid to packing peaches, plums, pears and cherries and they propose marketing some of the choicest qualities produced so as to establish a reputation that will create a demand for their goods among the best of the trade and keep the institution running heavily each year. For the packing room the brick building in which Walden & Co. formerly made sherry wine will be used, and a second story, which will be frame, is in course of erection, and its dimensions will be 50 by 90 feet. The apparatus required by this new enterprise has been purchased and a large part of it is already in place in the brick portion of the structure. In a few days the additional story will be completed, and everything will be in order when the first fruit is ripe.

THE RAM'S HORN.

From Achille Starace.

One of the breeziest publications in the religious field which has been brought out in recent times is a Chicago weekly non-sectarian journal of sixteen pages bearing the unusual name given above. Nicely printed, well written, it contains pungent sayings and aphorisms like the following:

Do the wounds made by a friend ever heal?

Any fool can ask questions—wisdom alone can answer them.

Abuse the devil, and there are men who will think you mean them.

The man who rides a hobby thinks everybody else ought to travel his way.

Some men count upon getting to heaven because they have never been in jail.

As soon as a man finds out he is little he begins trying to add a cubit to his stature.

As long as there are hypocrites in the church the devil will get outsiders who hide behind them.

While some people are watching for stumbling blocks ahead, they fall down right where they stand.

If all our bones were funny bones, oh, wouldn't it be jolly?

If all our tones were sunny tones there'd be no melancholy.

There'd be no melancholy if our tones were always sunny.

And life would be so jolly, if—if all our bones were funny.

TRADE CIRCULARS.

From Arpad Haraszthy.

630 WASHINGTON ST., SAN FRANCISCO, April 18.

To the Trade: Please be advised that I have severed my connection with the California Wine Association and bought from it all the bottled Champagne Wine, stock and material previously the property of Arpad Haraszthy & Co. In future the champagne business will be conducted solely on my behalf and account, at 530 Washington street, where it has been located the past fifteen years.

Recognizing the necessity of devoting my entire attention to the development and perfection of my Champagne brands, I will, in future, limit myself solely to their production and sale. A new brand with a new name will shortly be placed upon the market, whose delicate qualities promise it the brightest future and greatest popularity.

Hoping to receive your early and numerous orders, I am respectfully yours,

ARPAD HARASZTHY, Wine Grower, and Producer of Carte Blanche, Eclipse and Brut Champagnes.

Remember that all Champagne made or sold by me is the product of the noblest grapes grown in our Golden State, and its sparkle is produced only by natural fermentation of two years' duration in the bottle.

Notes and Personals.

SECONDO GRASIN, of GRASIN & BERNARD, Los Angeles, is East on business. He has had a very fair trip, so far, and will remain about a fortnight longer placing the wines of this well-known house.

ONE of the largest personal wine deals ever made in this State was consummated recently when F. CHRYVATER & Co., of this city, bought from DOWDRI & Co., of St. Helena, Cal., 100,000 gallons of dry wine, which is now stored in Chateau Chevalier at St. Helena. The wine has already been sold to prominent wine-dealers at New York, where California wines are commanding better prices each year. The California Wine Association had agreed to take the 100,000 gallons of Dowdria & Co., who were members of the Association, but failed to keep their agreement as to the prices agreed upon. GEORGE CHRYVATER, manager, of the firm, saw his opportunity, bought up the whole lot, and will immediately begin shipping it East.

THE MAN with the grip sack, the commercial traveler, has the reputation of carrying a chest full of anecdotes and stories — wise and otherwise — which he dispenses freely on all proper occasions. It is related of one of them in the wine trade, that, having made very satisfactory sales to a firm of two partners, he spent a Saturday evening with them, telling his stories — some with morals and some without morals — until quite a late hour. Prior to breaking up the meeting, so to speak, he got off the following: "Now gentlemen, before we separate, I would like to ask you just one question, which I assure you it would please me to have you answer: If Satan, the Evil One, Diablo, the Prince of Darkness were given the privilege of taking one of us three to-night [looking at each partner gravely, and then downward at himself] which one would he take?" Both the partners being modest gentlemen, and not liking to say what they thought, there was no answer. "Now gentlemen," continued the drummer, "you may not have quite understood me, so I will repeat my question: If the Old Scratch, the Diabolo, der Teufel, were this night granted permission to take one of us three, whom would he select?" A pause ensued — but still no answer, for about the same reason as before. The knight of the grip then went on: "Now, gentlemen, I think I understand the case. Your modesty prevents your saying, as you no doubt believe, that he would take me. But you are mistaken, and I can prove it to you. He would certainly take one of you two — because HE IS SOME OF ME ALREADY!" It may be said that the "Next" was on the partners.

THE following notice of the "Louis Roederer Champagne" appeared in a recent number of the Post: "There are many brands of champagne now before the public, but none that has stood the test of years better than the famous 'Louis Roederer Champagne,' manufactured by the world-wide known firm of LOUIS ROEDERER, Reims, France. Every true lover of champagne knows that a high grade of champagne is dependent on its absolute uniformity, year in and year out. This is a strong point in favor of 'Louis Roederer Champagne,' and the connoisseur, in ordering this wine, knows always exactly what he will receive. Then, too, the manufacturers of this wine have facilities that render it possible to give to the champagne drinkers of the world a wine that to imitate successfully is impossible. It may be safely stated that 'Louis Roederer Champagne' has to-day the call amongst select circles, not only on this Coast but in the East and in Europe. The wine is bottled to suit all tastes, the 'Carte Blanche' white seal being a delicate, delicious, rich wine, drunk almost exclusively by ladies and gentlemen who do not like a dry wine. The brand 'Grand Vin Sec' (brown seal) is simply the perfection of a dry wine and the brand called 'Brut,' or gold seal is an extra dry wine so extremely popular at dinner, not only in America, but in England and all over the Continent of Europe. 'Louis Roederer Champagne' has a flavor peculiarly its own, and it appeals at once to the refined and critical taste, as may be judged from the fact that it is the favorite wine of the club man, at the banquet, and certainly of fashionable society. We must have had good judges of wine at our late Midwinter Fair, for all three brands of this champagne were given the highest possible awards over all other competitors. The well known firm of MCGRAY BROTHERS & LOCKARD, 21 Sansome street, are sole Pacific Coast Agents."

COL. H. TREVELYAN, of the Barton Estate Co., Ltd., is East on a business trip.

F. CHEVALIER & Co. have removed from 520 Washington street to larger and better quarters at H. Beale street.

GEORGE WEST, of Geo. West & Son, Stockton, will start East in about a week, to be gone for a two months' business trip.

THE Cloverdale Wine Company has sold the Japanese ranch, known as the Westover place, on the Yorkville road, to John Hencken, of Oakland, consideration, $2250. Mr. Hencken will take possession, with his family, in a few weeks, and will make good improvements — the first in order being a new house.

J. L. HACKETT, of the Greenbrier Distillery Co., of Louisville, is again on the Coast in the interest of R. B. Hayden and Greenbrier.

ALFRED MACGROTTY has been appointed agent of the California Wine Association in Great Britain. Mr. MacGroTTY has been engaged in various enterprises in San Francisco, but of late has been much of the time abroad.

HORACE W. DAY, of Sgobel & Day, the auctioneers of California wines, brandies and fruits, is in the city on a business trip. Mr. Day says the sale of California wines at auction in New York is a success, and has come to stay.

IT IS ROUGH on the saloons to be attacked by those in the flesh, but when the spirits of the dead join in the war, the saloon must go. On the account of an appearance of ghosts, two saloons are said to have been closed in Indiana.

THE BOWEN COMPANY has bought up the stock of the C. A. Wetmore Company, and Mr. C. K. Kirby has retired from the latter firm. Mr. C. E. Bowen is the principal stockholder of the C. A. Wetmore Company, although his wife, W. H. McNeil and two others hold sufficient stock to enable the Company to continue.

IT IS ANNOUNCED that the will of Calvin W. Kellogg is to be contested on the ground of undue influence. The estate is worth about $80,000, of which $20,000 is in real estate and $60,000 in book accounts. The son, Edward Kellogg, and Mrs. Thomas F. Gilroy, of London, England, a daughter, will contest the will, both having been disinherited.

COLONEL E. C. HOMAN, whose dulcet voice has successfully sung the praises of "Old Crow" and "Hermitage" all over the continent, is in the city to shake hands with old customers and incidentally take some orders. He is looking as well preserved as is the reputation of his goods. Colonel Homan predicts a whisky boom in the not far distant future.

THE Wilmerding-Loewe Company has incorporated with a capital stock of $300,000, of which $250,000 is paid in. The Directors are Mrs. H. Loewe, Moses Sigel, Jacques Blum, Joseph M. Loewe and J. Sigel. The officers of the Company have not yet been elected. The Company will succeed to and take up the business heretofore conducted by Wilmerding & Co. and Loewe Bros.

F. A. HABER, who for many years has been a familiar figure in the Coast trade, has returned from a six months' trip to New Orleans, and has opened offices at No. 209 Sansome street. He will conduct a general commission business, making a specialty of selected brands of liquors and cigars. Mr. Haber has many friends on this Coast, and will doubtless make a success of his new undertaking.

ON THE 13th inst. Sheriff Lyndon, of Santa Clara county, receiver of the Luther-Schroeder Liquor Company, of San Jose sold the latter's stock to Attorney Jesse W. Lienthal, of San Francisco, for $7150. It is understood the purchase was made for the Crown Distilleries Company, of San Francisco. The company became insolvent about a month ago, its assets being $12,000 with liabilities of $26,000.

WICHMAN, Lutgen & Co. now occupy the entire building at 320 and 322 Clay street, three floors and a basement in all. They have established a bottling department on the top floor and are cementing the basement. The floors will be connected by a hydraulic elevator especially constructed for freight. When the improvements now being made are completed the firm will have one of the best equipped stores in the city.

THE wine men around Windsor are presenting a smiling front. They are now able to dispose of their wine at a good figure, and most of them have embraced the opportunity offered and made immediate sales. Many grape-growers, being unable to dispose of their last year's vintage, were compelled to hold it over for a future market. The present raise in wine has enabled them to dispose of the surplus, and the coming fall will be prosperous one for the grape men. At the rate wine is now selling, grapes will undoubtedly bring from ten to twelve dollars per ton. — Herald-Tribune.

In recording the death of A. G. Sheehan, at Redlands, recently, we feel a sense of personal loss. Mr. Sheehan was editor of the Redlands Facts, and prior to accepting that position he was editor of the California Prohibitionist. As an opponent in the cause which we have espoused he was always ready to break a lance, and unlike ninety-nine per cent. of the Prohibitionist editors he was fair in his discussions and marshaled his arguments with ability.

William Palmtag has rented from S. W. Conklin, for the period of one year, the old storeroom next door to Wells-Fargo's office, at Salinas, and will fit the place up to be used as a wine depot, where the produce of his vineyard near Hollister will be for sale to the public. The wines and brandies from Mr. Palmtag's vineyard took several medals at the Midwinter Fair and also at the World's Columbian Exposition. Mr. Palmtag takes a pardonable pride in his vineyard and the product thereof, and can be depended upon not to expose for sale any wines or brandies the quality and purity of which cannot be vouched for in very particular.

P. N. Yung and F. C. Hensley have formed a copartnership under the name of P. N. Yung & Co., and will hereafter conduct a general wine and liquor business at 109 Battery street. They have the agency of the Italian-swiss Colony, both for their dry wines and for the "Monte Christo" Champagne, and they have the United States as a field for these wines. Their stores are the ones recently fitted up by the Colony. Mr. Hensley is an old hand at the wine and liquor business, and was for years connected with Arpad Haraszthy & Co., while Mr. Yung is known to the entire wine trade. The REVIEW joins with their well wishers in trusting that they will have a full measure of success.

William T. Minuse, of New York, the well-known Beaver street handler of California wines, is in the State looking for vine, and particularly sweet wine. This is Mr. Minuse's first trip to California, and it is regretted that he can remain but ten days or a fortnight. He now represents the following producers in New York: John Thoman, St. Helena; Ewer & Atkinson, Lutherford; Eisen Vineyard Co., Fresno; Lind Vineyard Co., Fresno; Peter Holst, Healdsburg; Guy E. Grosse, Santa Rosa, and the Sachs' Estate, St. Helena. Mr. Minuse says that the New York buyers have scarcely awakened as yet to the fact that wine is wine "nowadays, and that low prices are a thing of the past.

Mayor Davis, of Oakland, has sent a message, to the City Council suggesting that the Council and Board of Education appoint committees to act jointly in an effort to secure for Oakland the location of the Wilmerding Trades School for Boys, for the establishment of which $400,000 was bequeathed by the late J. C. Wilmerding. The funds will shortly come into possession of the Regents of the State University, who were designated as the permanent trustees of the money. To them has been left the choice of location of the school, and the lucky city which secures the prize will have to enter into a keen competition. The trustees have announced that their choice will be based, to some extent, upon the inducements that are offered in the way of a site, etc. Ex-Mayor J. West Martin, who is a Regent of the University, is in favor of locating the school in Oakland, provided sufficient inducements are tendered.

The Legislature of Texas passed, in May, 1893, an act providing that the payment of the United States special tax by a seller of spirituous, vinous or malt liquors shall be held to be prima facie evidence that the person or persons paying such tax are engaged in the selling of such liquors. In the case of Floeck vs. The State, recently decided by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals, the appellant contended that this provision of the act was unconstitutional, because the Legislature in making the obtaining of the license from the Federal government to follow the occupation of a liquor dealer prima facie evidence that he pursued such occupation, violated the provision of the Texas constitution which declares that the right of trial by jury shall forever remain inviolate. The Court held that the provision was not obnoxious on that ground, saying that the decisions of the state courts on similar points concur in the view that it is within the power of the Legislature to establish, change or alter rules of evidence and procedure in the courts.

It is with much pleasure that we announce that Mr. Albert George Sandeman, senior partner in the well-known firm of George G. Sandeman, Sons & Co., has been appointed Governor of the Bank of England. The firm was established, in 1790 by the late Mr. George Sandeman, of Perth, and it has carried on business in St. Swithin's lane, E. C., from the beginning of the century, having branches at Oporto and Lisbon, Jerez-de-la-Frontera and Sydney. Mr. Albert G. Sandeman, who has in all respects admirably maintained the high traditions of the house, has been a Director of the Bank of England for about thirty years, and he was formerly a Director and Chairman of the London and St. Katharine's Dock Company, and a Director of the London Assurance Company. He is one of her Majesty's Lieutenants for the City of London, was Sheriff of Surrey in 1872, and was formerly an officer of the Civil Service Rifle Volunteers. Altogether, he has led a busy and useful life, and it will afford great satisfaction to members of the wine trade to know that he has been appointed to the highest position within the reach of commercial men in London. Everybody who knows him will be confident of his ability to discharge the duties of his important office to the advantage of the finance and commerce of the city.—Wine Trade Review.

When Mr. Hazelton, of the Chronicle, was in town recently, he had a talk with Mr. DeTurk and gave the same in his paper, as follows: "I think," said Mr. DeTurk, "that we are going to have ten years of very good business in wine-making. I think it will pay very handsomely. In the first place, the stock on hand is not very large, and a market at fair prices has been found for all that California is producing. Our product last year was 12,000,000 gallons or thereabouts. Our own home consumption is from 6,000,000 to 8,000,000, and our Eastern and foreign market amounts to 10,000,000 gallons or thereabouts. So there is a demand for more than we are producing, and prices must go up. The vineyardist this year will get, I think, from $10 to $12 a ton for his grapes, and that is much better than $6 to $8, for which he has heretofore been obliged to sell his product. The phylloxera is making ravages, and will continue to do so as long as there is anything left for it to feed upon. The only remedy is a resistant stock. There is every reason to believe that with the diminished product that has resulted from the destruction spread everywhere by phylloxera and also the uprooting of large tracts in vines because their cultivation has been unprofitable, prices for grapes and wine will be remunerative. I look forward to ten years of good business for the wine-makers."—Santa Rosa Republican.

The trial of J. J. Brown, the Santa Ynez saloon man, for selling liquor to the Indians (so-called) which inhabit that section was concluded in the Superior Court at Santa Barbara, recently, the jury returning a verdict of "not guilty." This was one of a series of petty spite cases which have characterized that place in the past, and which bid fair to continue unless the disturbing element of that community, composed chiefly of a few vindictive persons, be made to suffer in some manner for their unwarranted charges. Anybody who knows Santa Ynez knows that the perennial jag is part of the existence of the Indian (so-called) of that section. He couldn't live without it; has never had to, nor never will, and any attempt to deprive him of his only pleasure on this earth by "sinching" his source of supply should be promptly sat down upon, as in the instance above mentioned, and we have no hesitancy in saying that intelligent juries will never do otherwise. Revenge is sweet to some people, hence these charges. They are brought merely as an annoyance to what has in every case proven to be innocent parties. We know what we are talking about; we have been there, the game having been tried on us not long ago. A county pays the expenses of the accuser, but the innocent accused has to hustle for himself. The tables should be turned. The man who will bring a charge which he feels in his heart cannot be sustained, doing it to gratify personal spite, nothing else, and knowing full well the county will look after his end of it, is a coward, and an attorney who aids him in his nefarious methods should be in better business. Santa Ynez has earned for itself an unenviable reputation in this line. We are pleased to state that Santa Maria has not.—Santa Maria Graphic.

SELF-MADE men sometimes demonstrate the truth that all human work is imperfect.

WHEN the devil goes for his photograph he wants to retouch the negative himself.—Ram's Horn.

WINE CROP OF FRANCE.

Official statistics of the wine crop of France have been received from the Minister of Finance. From his figures it appears the crop of 1893 was the largest ever made, and while the crop of 1891 was above the average, it fell short of that of 1893 by 286,442,000 gallons. The vintage of 1891 reached 1,015,378,000 gallons, which does not include 7,800,000 gallons made in Corsica and 91,692,000 made in Algeria. The approximate value of the entire crop is placed at $185,800,000, or about 16c. per gallon. The price of wine varies according to the locality in which made. For instance, the wines of the Medoc, Burgundy and Champagne districts are worth the most, while those of the extreme south of France are the cheapest in price and most inferior in quality. Mr. J. M. Wiley, our Consul at Bordeaux, says that "as yet the quality of last year's wine crop cannot be fully determined, but the price augments every day, and will, unless it should by chance turn bad, which is improbable, continue to do so, unless it goes into consumption from five to twenty-five years hence. It is noted as a curious fact that large crops usually make good wine, and, if this holds good for the crop of 1894, the product should be superior. The notably good wines were the product of the years 1869, 1874, 1875, 1890 and 1893."

Bartholomay

BREWERY CO. ROCHESTER, N.Y.

THE City of Rochester, with its abundant supply of magnificent water and its close proximity to the best barley and hop producing districts of the country, affords unsurpassed facilities for the production of such health giving and palatable beer as brewed by the "BARTHOLOMAY BREWERY CO.," Rochester, N. Y. Bartholomay's "Fine Standard" unquestionably is the purest and best beer in the market, and the "Knickerbocker," brewed of the choicest material with, we feel confident, on account of its exquisite properties, soon become a favorite with lovers of a high grade and delicate beer. WALDEN COGNAC.

WALDEN.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets. It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES.—The encouraging conditions that have characterized the market for some time past have continued during the fortnight, and the indications are that the business will hold up much better during the early summer season than for a number of years past. The activity in the movement of wines from interior cellars is unabated, and for the first fifteen days of the month reached the unprecedented figure of 912,490 gallons, and during two days of that period the receipts ran over 100,000 gallons for each day. For the same period of 1893 the receipts for the half-month were only 569,700 gallons, showing a great difference in the movement of stocks. In the export wines by sea very little has been done in the past two weeks, and the total is small. This is due to the fact that there has been no shipment by clipper, and no steamer via Panama. However, rail shipments have held up to the same high figure, the total during the month of April reaching the handsome figure of 1,017,764 gallons, which keeps the volume of exports considerable over the one million mark. The movement of case goods by rail aggregated 3999 cases, which is also a very good showing. The reports from various wine interests show that conditions are very much more satisfactory than they have been for a number of years past. Furthermore, it is generally believed that if proper business judgment is exercised in the future, there is no question that the long depressed California wine industry can be placed in a position where it will be remunerative to the principal people in interest. Orders have been of good volume, and reports from New York announce that there was a marked advance in the prices bid for the quality of wines sold in that city on consignment at auction. This is only another indication that our wines are more in demand than ever before, and help to give brightness to the future. Let us have wise business management, and good, sound wines, with a steady improvement in our general cellar-work, and the well-being of the industry will be assured.

It will be of importance to wine men to glance at the comparative table of receipts of wine from interior cellars for the period ending May 15th. During that time in this year, the total was 6,756,446 gallons, against 3,822,170 gallons for 1894, or nearly double the amount.

The following is a comparative statement of the receipts of wine and brandy at this point for 4½ months — January 1st to April 15th, inclusive — 1894 and 1895:

	1894		1895
	Wine.	Brandy.	Wine.	Brandy.
January	553,110	142,705	897,534	60,590
February	741,410	190,650	1,341,780	1,540
March	972,900	25,695	1,588,430	6,630
April	985,050	16,690	2,013,212	14,440
15 days May..	569,700	4,500	912,490	2,880
Totals ...	3,822,170	380,240	6,756,446	86,080

At this late date, owing to the slowness of gaugers in making their reports, we are only able to give the official figures of the production of sweet wines in the First District for the month of November last. It seems strange that men appointed to hold as responsible positions as these are unable to make their reports inside of five months. It is an injustice and a handicap to the producers, and reflects no credit upon the Government officials who are responsible. We trust that in the coming season this department of records will be kept up at least to the standard that has prevailed heretofore under other administrations. The November production aggregated 854,430 gallons, over half of which was Port. The details will be found elsewhere.

Recent advices from New York are as follows: "During the past two weeks the demand for dry wines has somewhat improved, but it is far from being satisfactory. Prices are well maintained, and the same can be said for sweet wines and brandies. It is reported that the dealers in California are strong buyers for old wines at 15 cents, naked, and for last year's wines at 12½ cents, naked. A San Jose grower writes that the prospects are good for a fair crop of grapes this year, if the frost will keep off a few weeks longer."

The grape crop of Western New York was ruined by frost May 1st.

It is stated on good authority that the auction sales of Sgoebel & Day, in New York, will be discontinued throughout the summer, but will be resumed in September or October.

Record of the largest sale of wine ever made in Santa Clara county was filed at San Jose on the 20th. The transfer was to the California Wine Makers' Association of San Francisco. No price is stated in the documents. The total of dry red wine transferred was 823,395 gallons, and 5600 gallons of dry white wines, with a reserve of 74,300 gallons of dry red wines.

The exports of California wines by sea and rail in April were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
By sea.....	1,804	392,793	$142,989
By rail overland	3,339	1,017,764	420,461
Total.....	5,143	1,410,557	$563,450

CALIFORNIA BRANDIES.—There is little to be said regarding the market except that shipments to domestic points hold up to a fair volume with a very small movement to foreign ports. The shipments overland aggregated 230 cases and 45,219 gallons, the distribution of which has been very general. New York received only 14,000 gallons, and Chicago the same quantity. The remainder was well scattered throughout the entire country, Montana and Idaho points having taken 129 cases out of the total. There has been little or no change in selling prices, but good judges are of the opinion that those who have old goods will find at the close of the year that they have an excellent investment.

The exports of California brandy by sea and rail in April were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
By sea.....	39	9,289	$11,029
By rail overland.....	230	45,219	70,128
Total.....	269	54,508	$81,157

WHISKIES.—We are pleased to report that business is steadily improving, and giving reliable indications that the revival is on a sound basis. The change has been very slow since the financial crisis of 1893, but the movement towards a good, healthy trade is now as active as could reasonably be expected. We predicted this change some time ago, and we see no reason why it should not stay with us, or why business should not steadily grow better. There is every promise of an unusually prosperous year for the State, and the steady improvement in business throughout the East will only tend to react upon California beneficially. The trade is all right, and should be in a more healthy condition by fall.

IMPORTATIONS.—Business is moving along in a fair way, with indications of improvement. The demand for established brands required in this market is gradually working back to the normal volume. This is naturally in accordance with the improved conditions of the wine and whisky business, and we hear less complaints from importers, of poor trade than at any time since June, 1893. What is better, the trade looks for a continuation of these conditions, and we feel confident that the Fall will bring them still better returns. Receipts for the half month have been normal.

VINTAGE PROSPECTS.

According to the managers of the California Winemakers' Corporation, based on their own transactions and such information as they have at hand, the prospects for the year are very favorable for the vitiiculturists of the State. If the authorities quoted are correct, there is not only a strong likelihood that the wine product of the season will be ample, but the indications are also that prices will continue good in spite of the promise of such abundance. It may be stated in this connection that the Winemakers' Corporation, brief as is the time that it has been in existence, is already doing a business of the most active character, as is evidenced by the most convincing of all proofs in commercial transactions, the handling of money. Secretary Charles F. Montealegre, for instance, has been in several days last busily engaged in making the proper allotments of the sum of $72,000, the proceeds of late sales, among the members of the corporation. The money is on hand and ready to be distributed, but as under the rules of the company, each member receives a share proportionate upon the amount of his own interest in the concern, there is naturally a good deal of figuring to do on the occasion of each division. A somewhat peculiar, but at the same time generally satisfactory feature of the plan under which the business of the Corporation is conducted, is that which provides that all who are interested in it receive their due proportion of the proceeds of sale, whether any of their own wine has been disposed of in the special transaction in question or not.

To return, however, to the prospects for the coming season, Secretary Montealegre stated yesterday that they were such as he considered excellent. "I haven't data at hand sufficient to base any very positive statement on as to the size of the coming crop," he said, "but my impression is that it will be a large one. But the larger the better, for the existing condition of affairs is such that prices are bound to remain good. At present there is an actual shortage in the supply, singular as the statement may seem to some people, and no prospective crop, however abundant it promises to be, can alter this fact and so act as to bring down prices. No, as I have said, I think we are to have a large crop, and the larger the better. It can be all disposed of, now that we have the machinery for handling it in proper shape, and for good figures."

A movement is under way at Fresno to form a company to build ten miles of trolley line to reach the vineyards and wineries east of the city of Fresno. The country to be tapped is very rich, and produces nearly all of the wine and a large part of the raisin crop of the county. An offer of power has been made by the new San Jose Electrical Company. The road, if built, will go direct to the different wineries, and will thus effect a great saving in the matter of teaming. During the summer a great many people from Fresno work in the vineyards and wineries, and the road would be assured of a heavy passenger traffic.

The Hearst Estate has set out about 25,000 new vines on the vineyard at Glen Ellen.

WATERFILL & FRAZIER.

The old-time sour mash whisky known as the Waterfill & Frazier has gained for itself a well earned reputation, and for that reason its good name is being infringed upon, and thereby hangs a tale.

Many years ago Waterfill & Frazier established a distillery at Lawrenceburg, Ky., and the reputation of its product soon placed it in the front ranks of Kentucky's finest brands of sour mash whisky. In course of time, both members of the firm died, and the distillery, together with the brand name, became the property of John Dowling & Co., who continued to maintain its standing in the commercial world.

James Levy & Bro., the well-known distillers of Cincinnati, knowing a good thing, secured a contract for the entire output.

Later the sons of the old firm formed a partnership and secured a distillery at McBrayer station, Anderson county, Kentucky, with the hopes of building up a trade on the reputation of their deceased fathers. A new Waterfill & Frazier whisky was placed upon the market, and Mr. Joseph Wolf, a Chicago whisky broker, secured control of the output. Injunction proceedings were commenced by the owners of the original brand, John Dowling & Co., of Lawrenceburg, Ky., and the result was that perpetual injunction was issued restraining the sons from branding their whisky under the old name of Waterfill & Frazier. Under this injunction all of the new whisky was ordered to be rebranded before shipment from the distillery bonded warehouse.

Wolf, the Chicago broker, became financially involved, and turned over a large quantity of the whisky to a Chicago bank as security for a loan.

This lot of whisky, having recently been released, is now offered to Chicago saloonkeepers as the original Waterfill & Frazier brand. The present owners of this whisky are making a good thing out of it, as the original market value of the new brand was from 30 to 40 cents, and they are now offering it at a trifle lower than the regular market quotations of the old and reliable brand.

For the protection of our readers we would say that all genuine Waterfill & Frazier whisky is branded as shown herein.

The warehouse receipts are signed by John Dowling & Co. and indorsed by James Levy & Bro. The warehouse receipts of the new brand are signed by J. M. Waterfill and indorsed by Joseph Wolf, and all such whisky is valued at from 30 to 40 cents. Keep your eyes open, and if you want to pay the price of the genuine article see that the warehouse receipts are signed and indorsed as herein fully stated.—Fair Play.

The Wetmore-Bowen Co. has incorporated with a capital of $100,000, of which $60,000 is paid in. The incorporators and directors are C. J. Wetmore, Charles E. Bowen, H. P. Poulin, John Uhlhorn and J. G. Brauer. The officers are: President, C. J. Wetmore; Vice-President and Manager, Charles E. Bowen; Treasurer, the Anglo-Californian Bank, Ltd.; Secretary, H. P. Poulin.

Correspondence.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 15, 1895.

DEAR SIR: Referring to the notice appearing in your issue of May 7th, of the formation of the firm of P. N. Yung & Co., we desire to correct an error relative thereto. The article stated that P. N. Yung & Co. were the agents of the Italian-Swiss Colony wines. Although we make a specialty of their very superior products, still we are not the agents. The Colony have no agencies: they control their entire product exclusively, as has been stated from time to time in your columns. The article referred to also states that their stores are those recently fitted up at 109 Battery street by the Italian-Swiss Colony. Such is not the case. The stores are the exclusive property of the Colony, they having very kindly given us desk room therein.

In justice to the Italian-Swiss Colony, to the public and to ourselves, we deem it proper to make this statement.

P. N. YUNG & Co.

California wines are to be placed upon the tables of the Atlantic steamers of the North German Lloyd Steamship Co., thanks to Mr. Herman Oelrichs.

DISTILLERY FOR SALE.—Owing to disagreement of Stockholders, the Distillery of the Daviess County Distilling Company, with "Kentucky Club" brand, Trade-mark, Good-will, etc., will be offered for sale at public auction at the Distillery on July the 10th, 1895.

This Distillery has a capacity of 750 bushels per day, is admirably located upon about seventeen acres of land on the bank of the Ohio River, adjacent to the City of Owensboro, Ky.

Three Warehouses, one brick, slate roof, and two frames with patent ricking, furnishing storage capacity for about 40,000 barrels.

Persons desiring further information will write the undersigned, or call and inspect for themselves. Those visiting the premises will be furnished a summary of the business for the past ten years.

Terms—One, two and three years, with bonds bearing interest from date at 8 per cent. per annum with approved security, or purchaser at his option may pay cash, or in part to suit purchaser.

Notes and Personals.

Joshua Chauvet, the Glen Ellen wine maker, has purchased the Kohler & Frohling vineyard at Glen Ellen.

John H. Wise, of Christy & Wise, has gone East on a business trip, and is expected back in about a week.

Edward G. Uihlein, of the Schlitz Brewing Co., Milwaukee, Wis., has been visiting San Francisco on a pleasure trip. He is now homeward bound.

George Harms, of Henry Campe & Co., has gone to Germany for a pleasure and health trip. He will visit his brother in the old country, and expects to be gone for two or three months.

John F. Nugent, who is connected with Cartan, McCarthy & Co., left for Honolulu on the steamer Alameda on the 2d inst., for his vacation. He will be gone about six weeks or two months.

The Cucamonga Vineyard Company has been incorporated, with a capital stock of $100,000. The directors are L. W. Hellman, H. W. Hellman, L. P. Weil, J. M. Harvey, John Milner, P. D. Martin and Max Meyberg.

C. H. Evans, the senior of C. H. Evans & Sons, the great ale brewers of Hudson, New York, and manufacturers of the famous "Evans Cream Ale," has been sojourning in this city and State with his family, on pleasure bent.

The Board of Supervisors of Sutter county have refused to grant the petition of those in favor of saloons to repeal the prohibition ordinance in force for several years. The Board recommended that the question be submitted to a vote of the people at the next general election.

Herman F. Hiller has been appointed Pacific Coast agent of Bernheim Bros., of Louisville, with headquarters with the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Co., on Market street. Bernheim Bros. are among the best known houses in the Kentucky trade, and in Mr. Hiller they have an active man representing them.

Schlesinger & Bender, who have taken new quarters at the northeast corner of Battery and Pine streets, are in a far better location for family and general trade than at the old place on Clay street. Their new place of business is in the heart of the business section of the city, and it is well equipped to meet every demand of trade.

Walden & Co., of Geyserville, have perfected their plans for putting up brandied fruit this year, and are ready for business. Last year they put up quite a large quantity, but entirely of late fruits. They could not experiment with cherries and other early fruits, not being fully prepared early in the season, but worked on the pears, peaches and other late fruits.

F. A. Haber, whose offices are located at 209 Sansome street, has been appointed Coast representative of the Southern Redistilling and Rectifying Company, of New Orleans, a company which has only recently established a large plant for the manufacture of spirits from molasses. Mr. Haber has his energies at work, and intends to be a factor in the spirit trade in the near future.

Moore, Hunt & Co. have brought out and will soon distribute one of the most novel signs yet issued on the Coast. The sign is a highly polished oak board, about sixteen by twenty inches in size, on which appears (apparently hand-painted) a full-size bottle of "AA Jesse Moore" held in a hand. The work is very life-like, and, being quiet and neat, will doubtless find a place in the best bars of the Coast.

The city election at Napa called out a large vote, and the result seems to be a complete victory for the advocates of low license. Those elected are: Mayor, J. A. Fuller; Clerk and Treasurer, A. H. Conkling; Marshal, Paul Caigneau; members of the Council, John Evan and C. B. Seeley. Three members of the Council hold over, one of whom will join with the newly-elected members on the question of lowering the present license charge, which for two years past has been $17 a month.

Wm. Wolff & Co. are meeting with flattering success in the sale of "Canadian Club" whisky. They have extended its popularity to our Central American friends, a fact which is evidenced by the recent exportation of nearly one thousand cases of this fine liquor to these Southern countries. These goods are thoroughly matured, bottled under the supervision of the Canadian government, and the age of the whisky guaranteed by the same authority. As a consequence, the purchaser knows the goods are as represented.

"Yes, it am gittin' to be pore times for de churches," said Uncle Rastus, in answer to an inquiry as to how Mount Pisgah Church was prospering. "Dey'se gittin' to be too many 'cieties, an' dey is jist drawin' all the fatness and marrer outen the church. 'Cieties for temperance, 'cieties for Prohibitionists — yo' can't do nuffin widout de 'cieties. Dar am de Masons, an' de Odd Fellows, an' de Oklahoma Pilgrims. Why, brudder, by de time the brudders an' sisters pay for jinin' an' pay all the dues thar haunt enuff left for de church to buy sackramental wine for de preachers at two bits a gallon."

Charles A. Wetmore has opened up a new restaurant and wine store in the California Market, and has selected a new brand, the "Amapola Club." Mr. Wetmore will only keep a small stock on hand. His quarters are located about the middle of the Market, at the intersection of Summer street, and immediately over the cellar of the Cupertino Wine Co. Incidentally, "Amapola" is the Spanish name for the ever popular Eschscholtzia, and it must be admitted is infinitely a better name at that. Mr. Wetmore's labels all bear the characteristic poppy, and his place has been called the "Amapola Club."

VIVA  ASTI!

In every way a perfect day! California smiled her sweetest for her favorites from Italy, and the fascination of Switzerland was felt in the charm of her presence. The occasion was the invitation excursion given by the Italian-Swiss Agricultural Colony on the 11th inst.

Spirits rose with the progress of the train. Secretary Sbar-bororo! We are at Asti, the best wine producing district of Italy, transferred to Sonoma county, California, and bettered in the transfer. Carriages are in waiting to convey the guests to the Officers' Home. A cry of delight rises from all as we approach, for upon the lawn, under the grand sentinel trees, two long tables have been spread and daintily decorated bororo and Mr. Severns arranged that everyone knew everybody else, and "trifles light as air" flew back and forth through the special cars, while "mirth and music, joy and laughter, predicted no "sermons and soda water the day after."

"ASTI! Qui si descende!" A merry and inimitable call with rose leaves. Around the trees themselves twine the mingled colors of Italy, Switzerland and America. 'Tis a royal welcome after our happy ride!

Presently President P. C. Rossi, whose kindly, kindling eye had been watching our comfort from the start, marshals us at the tables, and for two hours we revel in the good things of life. President Rossi's face showed his keen pleasure in our evident enjoyment of it all.

Off for the winery! Let me put in some statistics right here, lest I get mixed later. Acreage of Asti, 1750; annual crush of grapes, 5000 tons; annual output of wine, 600,000 gallons. Winery built of concrete, two stories high, and filled with fermenting vats and storage tanks too big and too numerous to count, the entire storage capacity being upwards of one million hundred thousand gallons. Every thing about the place is as sweet as a New Eng and kitchen, and the atmosphere in the cellars a delight. We didn't go into the sherry room, however—a thermometer hung over the door—only 110!

Are Asti wines pure? Well, the guests drank freely at dinner, and in the winery it was a steady tapping of casks, each containing a kind of wine just a little better than all the others, and yet no one of the many present felt any disagreeable effects either on the first day or the second. What better test? "Pure wines" is the gospel of Asti. Go, preach it, ye who would see drunkenness depart from the land!

We visited the lovely country residence of Secretary Sbarboro. Here mirth waxed furious, for that ingenious and genial gentleman has provided the most inviting hammocks and chairs in the most delicious shade, but no sooner do you settle into one with a sigh of utter content than you unintentionally press the hidden spring, and are greeted with a fine spray of cold water, and when you jump you step on another spring and catch another shower. Maybe there wasn't fun in our crowd! But don't you give this away.

Not the least enjoyable part of the outing was the ride to Cloverdale in the evening. The hotel was placed at our disposal; Vice-President Dr. G. Ollino took charge of us, and a genuine informal dance and good time was the result.

Riding and resting were the orders for Sunday. Dinner was a repetition of the previous day, only more so. When the corks began to fly from Monte Cristo, the Colony's fine native champagne, President Rossi responded in appropriate speech to the enthusiastic calls for him. He expressed the Colony's appreciation of the presence of the assembled guests; indicated that it was the endeavor of the Italian-Swiss, both in business and on festive occasions, to voice their feelings in facts rather than in words, and closed with the happy suggestion that the Half Million Club look to the many fair daughters and brave sons of California, as represented in the gathering before him, for a speedy solution of their problems.

The applause for the President merged into a cordial clamor for Secretary Sbarboro. In his usual eloquent and winning manner the popular Secretary enlarged upon the pleasures of the occasion; set forth the policy of the Colony, in the past and for the future, and made a brief reference to his firm belief in the use of pure wines as a universal beverage. He paid the most delicate compliments to the ladies present, and made special reference to "the lady who superintends our Superintendent, and who is responsible for all the tempting viands of which we have partaken." This covered Superintendent Vasconi and his wife with blushes and confusion, and Secretary Sbarboro took advantage of the laughter to beat a retreat.

Responses followed in quick succession. G. W. Baer, editor Cloverdale Reville; G. F. Cavalli, editor Elvezia, and Mr. A. Moro, editor La Voce Del Popolo, replied to "The Press." Mr. Baer referred to the pride felt by Sonoma county in the Italian-Swiss Colony, and the special pride of the Reville in what it was able to do for the Colony. Mr. Cavalli suggested that President Rossi showed the same tact in offering the toast, "The Press," that he displayed in everything else, because "the Press are the leaders of consumers." As Mr. Cavalli was holding aloft a glass of Monte Cristo while he spoke, and had been like the rest of us, for some time under a shower of corks, this provoked renewed shouts of laughter. Mr. Moro spoke only the mother tongue, but, judging from the effect on the audience, his effort was a happy one. Mr. T. J. Welsh an accomplished orator from San Francisco, spoke all too briefly. M. F. Lowenstein, of Castle Bros., was enthusiastic and graceful about "The Ladies." W. W. Rushmore, of Central America, spoke in glowing terms of the reports he should make on his return to that country, and hoped the newspapers here would soon show a disposition to be more careful in their accounts of happenings down there. Samuel Thornton, of Thornton & Pippy, put everybody into still better humor, if that were possible. Mr. F. C. Hensley, of P. N. Yung & Co., the wit of the party, was buried in the good-natured protests that he aroused by his hits. A. W. Atherton spoke briefly in reply to a toast very courteously offered to the PACIFIC WINE AND SPIRIT REVIEW.

The pleasantest times pass, however, and amid cheers, songs and the greatest joviality, the party finally broke up and wended its way to the train.

Too much credit cannot be given to President Rossi, Secretary Sbarboro and Mr. E. Severns for this graceful act of courtesy to their friends. It was to be expected however, from men who have done and are doing what they are. Such people are the kind that the mother country hates to lose, and therefore the people whom we rejoice to hail as Americans. They have accomplished much for California already, and will do more.

Gentlemen of the Italian-Swiss Colony, the Review most cordially rejoices in your success.

From the California Wine Makers' Corporation.

The attention of the REVIEW is respectfully called to the following, taken from a letter received by the California Wine Makers' Corporation from Sgobel & Day, auctioneers at New York, under date of May 1st:

"We beg to advise sale today of California wines as follows:
FROM NAPA.

- | | |
|------------------------------------|-------|
| 8 barrels Franckin Chasselas | 16c. |
| 20 " Berger | 15½c. |
| 10 " Riesling | 16½c. |
| 2 " Sauvignon Verte | 15½c. |
| 10 " Chasselas | 18c. |

"Today's sale is what we may call disappointing, but the fact that some of the wines were deficient in alcoholic strength and others did not land in prime order, made the buyers somewhat timid in bidding. Of course, when white wines lack so much in alcoholic strength, they have to be mixed with some other wines or be put through some sort of a process before they can be sold. For this reason these light wines cannot obtain high prices. Our friends tell us they are pretty well stocked up, but we think had these wines been better, the bidding would have been livelier. We remain, Respectfully yours, SGOBEL & DAY."

The publication of this should prove of value to all intending wine shippers who have adopted the auction system of disposing of goods which they are unable to market in California as wines.

Taking the cost of barrels at 5c. per gallon, freight at 5½c. including the local and commission, and other general expenses, amounting to 1½c. we have for total selling expenses 12c., and the wine netted the owner from 3 to 6 cents.

Particular attention should be called to that part of the letter which states that such wines must "be mixed or put through some sort of a process" to make them salable. The press is asked to pass judgment on the pernicious effects of sending such goods to represent California, and to be sold under the proud caption of Napa county "Riesling" or wine of other reputable districts.

Good wines to the amount of 7,000,000 gallons have already been sold through this organization at 100 per cent. advance over the prices of one year ago. We are striving to induce all wine producers to distill their inferior goods, thus cutting down the supply to the betterment of prices generally.

The wines named in the above letter are outside of our control, but were passed upon, duly condemned, and the owner requested to see that they were disposed of by distillation. Against the protests of our body and other well-wishers of California industries, they are now going to New York. Will the press assist us in discountenancing such methods? The injured district particularly should deprecate any continuance of the above.

BLENDING & BOTTLING IN BOND.

It is virtually decided that at the next session of Congress an effort will be made to attach to the revenue bill that will certainly be presented — and if not that, to work for it alone — a measure by which the blending and bottling of brandies can be effected in bond. Of course, by the time that Congress convenes the Viticultural Commission will be about ready to wind up its affairs, but by that time its successor will be formed and ready for the work. It is needless to say, also, that no aid can be expected from the University, which is supposed to be competent to follow up the work of the Commission, for in such work as this the College of Agriculture is helpless.

Already the support of Senators White and Perkins and of the entire Pacific Coast delegation can be assured, for they are familiar with what is wanted, and why. When Mr. C. A. Wetmore was in Washington at the last session he made an effort to have a measure to this effect passed as a part of the Wilson bill. His proposed measure was as follows:

"That on the ninetieth day after the passage of this act, and thereafter, any distiller or owner of grape brandy in any special bonded warehouse, such brandy when in the original packages having a strength of not less than the strength of proof spirit, as defined in Title XXXV of the Revised Statutes of the United States, may, in such portion of such warehouse, separated by secure and unbroken partitions from the rest of the warehouse as the Commissioner for Internal Revenue shall for the purpose approve, and to be known as a standardizing room, and upon the making of such entries and the filing of such bonds and other security, and under such regulations, conditions and limitations, and upon the affixing of such stamps or brands as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall prescribe, prepare the grape brandy owned or produced by him to suit the demands of trade, both for domestic consumption and exportation, as to strength, color, sweetness, flavor, brilliancy and freedom from cloudiness and sediment, by transferring the contents of original casks or packages into new wooden or glass packages, by filtering, redistilling and adding distilled water, and by such other treatment as is recognized as legitimate in securing a uniformly high grade, such treatment to be authorized by the published regulations of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue; provided, that the time limited by law within which spirits may remain in any bonded warehouse without payment of the tax shall not be extended by this section. That the brandy transferred into bottles shall be withdrawn either tax-paid for export or for use of the United States within three months of the date of such transfer, although, under the conditions of the warehousing bond, it may be otherwise entitled to remain therein a longer time.

"That the stamps affixed to the new packages shall be engraved stamps, to be provided and furnished by the several collectors as in the case of other stamps, and to be charged to them and accounted for in the same manner, and for the expense attending the providing and affixing such stamps ten cents for each cask or outer case or package so stamped, and one cent for each bottle so stamped shall be paid to the collector on making the entry for the transfer from the standardizing room into the other portion of the bonded warehouse; and such stamps shall be denominated 'U. S. Standard Brandy Stamps.'

"That the treatment, including the addition of water, shall not be such as to reduce the alcoholic strength of the brandy to a point below eighty-five per cent. of the strength of proof spirits.

"That no substances other than distilled water shall be added without express published authority of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and no spirits other than the grape brandy in the warehouse shall be used in these operations.

"That no substances whatever shall be added to the brandy produced by any distiller without his express permission in writing, or in the event of his death, that of his heirs, executors or administrators, nor shall his brandy be mingled with that of another distiller without such permission.

"That the quantity contained in casks or other packages filled in the standardizing room shall not be less than as follows:

"Every cask (which must be of wood) not less than ten taxable gallons.

"Every bottle not less than one-fifth of a gallon.

"Every case (which must be of wood) for casing bottles shall contain twelve bottles.

"Every outer case (which must be of wood) shall contain in its inner cases and bottles not less than ten taxable gallons.

"That as soon as the process of standardizing is completed the brandy shall be immediately drawn into the packages herein described, to each of which bottles the coupon-strip stamps, and to each case containing twelve bottles the stamp to which the coupon was affixed, and to each cask and outer case the warehouse stamp for standardized brandy prescribed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall be affixed, and the cask or other package shall be removed from the standardizing room to the other portion of the bonded warehouse, the proceedings to be in all respects, so far as practicable, in accordance with those prescribed in Section 3287 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

"That the stamps on casks and outer cases containing the standardized brandy shall be issued by the collector and signed by the storekeeper and ganger, and shall specify the number of taxable gallons in the cask or package, and each stamp for inner cases shall have twelve coupons attached, each coupon to be a strip-stamp for each bottle to be contained therein, all stamps to be numbered serially, the coupons to have the same number as the stamp, and the cases will be sealed as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall prescribe.

"That no allowance for leakage shall be made as to brandy in glass packages or in packages of any material other than wood.

"That no allowance for loss in any of the processes or manipulations authorized by this section shall be made, and the tax on such losses shall be assessed upon the principal of the bond covering the brandy to be standardized and paid by him during the month next succeeding the month on which the loss occurs.

"That the taxable gallons of standardized brandy shall be determined by the number of proof gallons, although the proof thereof may be less than one hundred per centum.

"That when the tax on any portion of the contents of any cask or package of standardized brandy becomes due the tax thereon must be at once paid if the quantity exceeds ten gallons; and if the quantity is ten gallons or less, then the tax on ten gallons or less in the package must be paid, and a tax-paid stamp representing the tax-paid quantity will be affixed to the cask, and when the cask or package is withdrawn from the bonded warehouse, tax-paid, the central portion of the tax-paid stamp or stamps so affixed will be cut out and delivered to the collector in part payment for the stamp indicating the whole amount of tax to be paid upon such withdrawal. But such package may not be withdrawn for any purpose free of tax.

"Any person who shall defraud or attempt to defraud the United States of the internal revenue tax on any distilled spirits transferred into any standardizing room shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and shall be subject to a fine of not less than five hundred dollars, or to imprisonment for not less than six months, or both, at the discretion of the court, and the spirits as to which the fraud is perpetrated shall be forfeited to the United States.

"The internal revenue officers and distillers or owners of the brandy shall keep such books and make such reports as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, shall prescribe.

"All casks or cases of standardized grape brandy shall, upon being withdrawn tax-paid from the bonded warehouse, have tax-paid stamps affixed thereto, as in the case of other brandy so withdrawn, and any cask or package of tax-paid standardized grape brandy to which the tax-paid stamp is affixed may be exported with benefit of the drawback on the number of proof gallons contained therein when exported, as in the case provided for in Section 3329 of the Revised Statutes of the United States.

"And any package of standardized grape brandy and any original cask or package of fruit brandy containing not less than ten taxable gallons in any bonded warehouse may, except in the case hereinbefore provided for, be exported in bond free of tax, as is the case provided for in section 3330 of the Revised Statutes of the United States and in Sections 1 and 2 of the act of June 9, 1871, (18 Stat., p. 64), Section 10 of the Act of March 1, 1879 (20 Stat., 327), the Act of December 20, 1879 (21 Stat., 59), and Section 11 of the Act of May 28, 1880 (21 Stat., 145), the provisions of which statutes are hereby made applicable to the standardized grape brandy withdrawn for export in bond free of tax."

This is something very much like it will be urged again for passage.

As far as the whisky distillers are concerned, they are almost unanimously in favor of bottling whisky in bond, but as far as the question of blending whiskies goes they are very doubtful. All that they would need, were bottling in bond the sole proposition, would be the right to reduce the proof to the desired standard. Whisky goes into bond at about 101 to 103, but for bottled goods 85 is about the right proof. Were whisky bottlers given the right to reduce proof before bottling, this is all they would ask.

Brandy bottlers are on a different plane. Their goods cannot be produced from year to year on a certain standard of excellence. They must have the same privileges as French blenders and bottlers or their efforts will largely be in vain.

Preliminary steps were taken to re-organize the Los Angeles liquor dealers on the 8th inst. A second meeting was held on the 15th, at which J. P. Edoff and G. W. Baker, of the California State Protective Association were present, and the organization was perfected.

The Oakland druggists are in trouble for selling liquor without a license. Many of them are under arrest, and a test case will be made.

Moore, Hunt & Co. have repapered the walls of their offices at 404 Front street, painted the ceiling white, and taken other measures to lighten up their quarters. Improvements in office accommodations appear to be the order of the day nowadays.

Mr. Secondo Guasti, of Guasti & Bernard, the celebrated sweet wine makers of Los Angeles, Cal., spent a week in Philadelphia interviewing the wine and spirit dealers. The wines of Messrs. Guasti & Bernard are treated in the same manner as employed in Spain, and the quality of their goods was a revelation to many in the trade who had never sampled them previously. As they make all their own wines and sell their own product exclusively, their goods are always uniform in quality, and persons purchasing them are always sure of getting goods of a reliable character.—Bonforts.

THE JOHN T. CUTTING CO., SAN FRANCISCO, HAS A STOCK OF THESE GOODS.

MR. DANA HAMMERING AWAY.

Mr. Dana, of the New York Sun, has stirred up a hornet's nest on account of his misinformation and unwarranted criticisms on the California wine trade. On the 9th instant the following appeared in the Sun editorially:

"Within a short time we have received from viticulturists, wine makers and wine dealers of California a lot of letters, circulars, printed speeches and newspaper articles bearing upon the Sun's several allusions to the unsatisfactory character of the aroma of the California wines sent here, and to the heavy advance in their price since the creation of those companies that now control the wineries of that State. In a speech on that subject, with which we have been favored, we are told that 'the editor of the Sun is not an expert in California wines,' and that the 'recent increase in their price is based upon natural causes.' As to the demerits of some California wines of which we have spoken, it was not necessary to speak from expert knowledge, as their badness was manifest through the sense of smell. Besides, there are plenty of salaried experts for whose word we would not give a button. As to the recent advance in the price of California red wines, one does not need to be a buyer of them to ascertain that it has been discouraging to dealers here, or that it has given encouragement to foreign competitors of American wine makers. Let the wholesale price go back, as Mr. Ferdinand Frohman, of the California Wine Association, seems to believe it should, to 45 cents a gallon in San Francisco, and we apprehend there will be trouble in finding a market here for a great part of the 10,000,000 or 15,000,000 gallons of which the newly formed company has obtained control. If California people desire to hold their ground in this part of the country, they must furnish red wines as good as the French, at a price as low as the French. The question is one of both cost and quality.

"In a pamphlet sent to us from Contra Costa county by B. H. Upham there is this remark: 'The simple truth that I see now is that New York is less critical than she used to be, and is in danger of losing her reputation as an arbiter of taste.' The simple truth is just the opposite of Mr. Upham's statement. New York is more critical in the matter of wines than she used to be, and her taste has grown out of her experience of the best of them produced anywhere. California will make a mistake in taking up the thought that New York does not know desirable flavors, and also the purchasing power of a dollar at Marseilles and San Francisco."

The kernel of the nut is in the last paragraph. New Yorkers are provincial to a degree only exceeded by the true Parisians. New York the arbiter of taste in wines? The idea is amusing. New York is no more the arbiter of that than she will be of the money question after the next presidential election.

President Carpy, of the California Wine Association, says regarding the above:

"California wines have as good a bouquet as any of the European products. Ours have a characteristic bouquet, but in the case of dry red wines it resembles that of the Medoc wines of France. This is particularly the case of the Cabernet. Our Burgundies are of exquisite quality, and do not differ materially from French wines of the same class. When the editor of the Sun writes of the "badness of smell" he must have in mind the California trash consigned to New York by those growers who are not willing to take the fair prices offered by the merchants here. Those wines, I must admit, are not always properly prepared and handled, and, therefore, are no credit to our State. The trade in the East should be taught to buy from the trade here, and not from auctions in New York, where the wines are received in a crude state. Mr. Dana is wrong as to the advance in prices and its giving encouragement to the foreign competitors of American wine makers. The increase has been so slight as to affect only the middle men and not the consumer at all. It has been only from 5 to 7 cents a gallon. California wine is still quoted at New York for less than the tariff on the foreign article. Competition as to price is therefore impossible. Our average price was 20 cents; it is now between 25 and 27 cents a gallon, or an advance of 1½ cents a bottle. On the other hand, the tariff on dry wine is 30 cents and on sweet wine is 50 cents a gallon. You can see from these figures that the New Yorker is away off from the facts. As to that statement attributed to Mr. Frohman, of this Association, it is an error. Here he is himself. He never expressed the belief that wholesale prices in San Francisco would go back to 45 cents a gallon. What he did say was that the price for the wines had steadily decreased during the last ten years from 45 cents to 12½ cents a gallon. We don't want it to go back to the old price, for it would limit the demand. Prices at present are from 12 to 15 cents a gallon in bulk without cooperage. The cooperage is estimated at 4½ cents a gallon. This is a long ways from 45 cents—a price we do not want and which could not be obtained if it were wanted. Our cargo wines—I am not speaking of high-class vintages—are considered as good as the imported, and as they are offered in the East at less than the tariff, how can they be said to be dearer and not so good? I have never found New York to be very critical as to the quality of wines. Mr. Dana to the contrary notwithstanding. As a rule, seven-tenths of the wine drunk there is consumed by French, Italian, German and Greek laborers, who look more to price than to quality. It is the few, the rich, who drink Lafite and Margaux. I am making no comparison with them. California wines are unquestionably pure, and are within the reach of the great masses of the people, who are learning to appreciate them. The proof is that the demand for California wines is constantly increasing in New York. Careful statistics show that California shipped there between January 1st and May 1st of this year much more than during the same period last year, and the largest advance ever known."

The following is self-explanatory:

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review—SIR: In the Chronicle I note an extract from an editorial in the New York Sun in regard to California wines. As my name was used in quoting from my pamphlet, I wish to make an explanation in the interest of the $60,000,000 invested in the wine industry in this State. The extract referred to was part of Appendix B to the Report of the Board of State Viticultural Commissioners for 1893-94, by Charles A. Wetmore, and was duly credited as a quotation.

The full text of the remarks from which Mr. Dana quotes a part reads as follows:

"The New York market knows little of our best wines. There is a better market for them in the West and at home. The simple truth that I now see is that New York is less critical than she used to be, and is in danger of losing her reputation as an arbiter of taste. Imported wines are brought to this New York market and passed over the duty which would not be tolerated in London, and for native goods it is more a question of price than quality."

It is my experience, and that of others so far as I know, that St. Louis, Chicago, Milwaukee and San Francisco appreciate the quality of our best wines better than New York. If Mr. Dana will employ an honest, competent expert to find out the origin of the bad smelling wine of which he speaks, and expose the producer, he will be a benefactor to California. All we wine makers ask is credit when we are justly entitled to it.

In regard to the adverse criticism of the Sun and other Eastern papers relative to the so-called syndicates of California, organized to put up the price of California wines, I will state that the two corporations recently formed do not aim to advance prices beyond a legitimate return on the investments, but are striving to promote the industry. All wines handled by these corporations are graded in the makers' cellars, and any packages of wine not sound or inferior in any respect are marked "D" by the expert grader. Such wine is not put upon the market by either corporation or any of their members, but is sent to the vinegar factory or the distillery.

All sound wines made from Zinfandel and other grapes of like grades are classed "S," which signifies "Standard." The higher grades, from Cabernet or other fine grapes, if sound, are classed "N," and vary in price according to quality. "Standard" wines can be delivered in New York for less than the tariff on foreign wines of like quality, and are guaranteed to have no bad smell. Our Zinfandel can be handled in New York for three-fourths the price of vin ordinaire from France, and is superior to it in quality.

I quote from an article in a San Francisco paper by C. Carpy, who is an expert in both foreign and domestic wine. He is not a salaried expert of the kind for whose opinion Mr. Dana would not give a button. For years he had a branch store in New York city, and he knows that market thoroughly. He says: "I have never found New York to be very critical as to the quality of wines. Mr. Dana to the contrary notwithstanding. As a rule, seven-tenths of the wine drunk there is consumed by French, Italian, German and Greek laborers, who look more to price than to quality. It is the few—the rich—who drink La-Lafite and Margaux. I am making no comparison with them."

A word about pure wine stamps. A State stamp is no guarantee of a fine wine. The law makes it a misdemeanor, punish able by a fine, to place the stamp on a package of adulterated wine. There is no inspection by any state official or other expert. It is optional with the producer whether he shall use the stamp covering any juice of the grape. It may be totally unfit for consumption, but so long as it is the pure juice of the grape it may be stamped. You can see the temptation to the producer to send his cellar of wine to the auction, when he knows that if he attempted to handle it through the Wine-makers Corporation it would be condemned and not allowed to go in the market as California wine.

If New York dealers, or even consumers, prefer to take the chances of auction sales, they need not complain if they get some of the wine which Mr. Dana says has a bad smell. Time will teach them to buy of one of the wine corporations or of a responsible producer who has an established reputation to lose.

TRADE CIRCULARS.

From Peacock Distillery Co.

PARIS, BOURBON COUNTY, April, 1895.

We beg to advise the trade that we will produce during the season of 1895 less than 50 per cent. of our usual crop, and notwithstanding that we have already sold more than one-half of this season's output, we will not increase the amount of our production. The contract price for '95 Peacock sour mash is 40 cents, and we trust that those of our regular patrons who desire of this season's crop will promptly advise us, while we yet have the opportunity of supplying them.

NEW YORK, April 30, 1895.

DEAR SIR: Please take notice that I have just received per S. S. Elmar 100 barrels Zinfandel; 50 barrels sherry. Kindly make mention of same, and oblige, Yours truly, ACHILLE STARACE.

Among our wine men who are busy shipping wine we notice the Leroux Bros. They are shipping about 16,000 gallons of their claret to Lachman & Jacobi. They are members of the Wine Makers' Association, and are receiving 12½ cents for their wine. The brothers have a reputation of making a high grade claret, and find no difficulty in disposing of their product. While the price received for their wine is not as much as is paid those out of the Association, yet they take consolation in the fact that were it not that the winemakers had joined hands, the price of wine would in all probability have remained at the starvation prices of former years. The shipment will clean out their cellar, and as soon as possible the winery will be put in order for the coming vintage.—Cloverdale Reviville.

SUNDAY CLOSING IN OAKLAND.

The Christian Endeavorers, the Council for the Suppression of the Saloon, the ministers, and all their allies, are making a great effort to close the saloons in Oakland from 6 p. m. Saturdays until 6 a. m. Mondays. They turned out in great force on the evening of the 8th, when the City Council, sitting as a committee of the whole, heard arguments pro and con on the question, and finally decided, by a vote of 7 to 4, to report favorably such a measure. It will have to come up before the Council, and it is believed that Mayor Daire will veto the ordinance. The vote in the committee was as follows:

For Saloon-closing—Dow, Towle, Mott, Marshall, Buckland, Capell and Manuel.

Against—Bassett, Brosnahan, Heitman and Watkinson.

The arguments against Sunday closing were made by J. P. Edoff, president of the California State Protective Association, Thomas F. Garrity and Ben Morgan. Mr. Edoff said that San Jose and San Bernardino have abandoned the Sunday-closing plan, and that Los Angeles, finding the law impracticable, is about to repeal it. If disorderly houses are run, he said, it is because public officials neglect their duty, and the same officials will likewise neglect to enforce the Sunday law if it is passed. Drinking clubs will take the place of open saloons, and young men would meet in livery stables and other places to drink. Besides that, trade would be driven to San Francisco, and on Sundays the people of Oakland would flock to the road-houses and disreputable resorts outside of the city limits.

Mr. Garrity made a brilliant speech against the proposed law, and Mr. Morgan brought the house down with his argument.

A very characteristic scene occurred after Mr. Edoff had concluded his argument. Rev. Wm. Rader spoke out as soon as Mr. Edoff had finished, saying: "I looked at the man who dared to come out and speak in defense of the saloon, and while I looked up at him the spirits of the damned came out hissed him in the face."

The Sunday closers were represented by J. M. Haven, Rev. Wm. Rader, Rev. W. H. McDougall, Mrs. Ada Van Pelt, and Rev. Robert F. Coyle. They made the usual appeals to sentiment, and abandoned reason and logic throughout their efforts.

PRESIDENT EDOFF.

After an initial speech by Judge Haven, in favor of closing, President Edoff, of the Liquor Men's Association, advanced to the center of the floor and read an address, as follows:

As I have been so often misquoted and misunderstood in my public references, in so far as the position I occupy as President of the California State Protective Association is concerned, I have decided to reduce my views on the question now before you to writing, and read a paper on the subject.

As I understand it, this ordinance emanates from an association known as the "Council for the Suppression of the Saloon," the object of which is the suppression of the drinking saloon, and with this object as primary and directing the council seeks co-operative counsel and effort in all proper measures not involving consent to the principle of license designed to close drinking saloons in as many hours of the day and days of the year as possible; to break the political power of the saloon, and to lessen by proper laws its so-called perilous social attractions, or to counteract these by providing other and unobjectionable places of resort.

On the other hand, the objects of the California State Protective Association are to remove the traffic, as far as lies within their power, from politics, and, second, to elevate its moral tone, as it believes that the business is in itself legitimate, if it is carried on in a legitimate manner. Hence, from these facts it must be apparent to the thinking mind that the ordinance now before you is introduced, first, to close the saloon for a certain number of hours, and second, with the further object in view of endeavoring in the future to close it entirely; and from this standpoint I make the following argument.

In addressing you regarding the measure you are now considering, I desire to speak as a citizen, taxpayer, merchant, and officer of the California State Protective Association.

It is true that my business interests are intimately connected with the distribution of distilled liquors on this Coast, but I can say fairly that in preparing this paper this fact has not influenced my mind to any extent on the question of Sunday closing and its attendant consequences. I having endeavored to disabuse my mind of any prejudices I might have had against this ordinance, and to look at it from a fair standpoint.

You are elected to the position you are now holding by all classes of citizens, and I presume you will do equal justice to all, and not be biased for or against any measure that is not in strict accordance with your official oaths.

I am opposed to this ordinance as a citizen of Oakland, having the interest and prosperity of this municipality at heart; I am opposed to it as a taxpayer of Oakland, feeling it is not to my advantage to increase the burdens of municipal taxation; and, lastly, I am opposed to it as a citizen of the United States, because I am a believer in the spirit of the Constitution, that extends equal rights to all.

I shall endeavor, in as concise a manner as possible, to indicate briefly, and in bare outline, a few of the reasons which lead me to make these statements.

I do not come here to argue this matter before you in detail, because it is a question in my mind if my argument will have any influence should there be the slightest disposition to have one's mind made up as to final conclusions.

I do not feel equal to the task of giving it the exposition it deserves, but I want to say to you I feel as I do because I believe I represent one of a large class of the citizens of Oakland, your constituents, whose views have not, until to-night, been presented to you.

As I understand it, you are here to carry out the wishes of the people of Oakland. It is my purpose to let you know what I think a large and important class of those people want. While I am too good an American not to bow to the will of the majority, I distinctly deny, and challenge contradiction, that the majority of the people of this municipality are in favor of any such ordinance as you have now before you for consideration.

You may say, "But we know what the people of Oakland want in this matter. We have received yard after yard of petitions asking for Sunday closing."

Gentlemen, permit me to call your attention to the fact that a petition for a particular measure indicates but very little. A petition is not an expression of public opinion. If the very people who circulated the petitions for the passage of this ordinance had provided themselves with similar petitions against the ordinance, and given each person they approached a chance to sign either, in that case a consideration of the two sets of petitions might afford some clew to public opinion on the subject; but I submit again, in fairness and candor, that the petitions as they have been presented to you in themselves prove nothing.

A CLERGYMAN ON THE SUBJECT.

On the question of Sunday closing of the saloon, we have it on the prominent authority of Dr. W. S. Rainford, of St. George's Church, New York, who, in an address before three hundred people on March 14th last, said, "I am opposed to the present law which closes saloons on Sunday. I am in favor of opening saloons on that day for certain hours—say from 12 noon to midnight." He said he believed the opening of saloons for certain hours on Sunday would diminish law breaking. The present law, he thought, was impossible of enforcement, and its disregard begot a disrespect for law which was unhealthy for public morals. As to this evasion he said, "I need not say that this is true, not only of Irish or German saloons alone. It is also true of a large portion of our American people."

"Secondly," he said, "I am in favor of opening the saloons on Sunday because I think such action fair to the poor man and to the working classes. Personally, I believe the vast majority of men in every way are healthier and richer for not touching any alcohol. I was once a moderate drinker myself; I am now a total abstainer. I may convince my neighbor of this truth, yet I cannot force him to do it. The only club the working man has is the saloon. He does not go there simply to drink or to smoke. He goes there to meet his friends, and he has to go there to meet them, for as a rule he has no home in which they can meet him. You have no right to close up the workingman's club on Sunday. If you do you must close up the workingman's club on Sunday. If you do you must close up the gentleman's club too; but they do not need clubs nearly as much as working people do. I wish there were other clubs for the wage earners. I believe that in time there must be; but I deal with facts. At present there are not."

Dr. Rainford said that he believed that Sunday saloons would diminish drunkenness, and would take the saloons out of politics. The present laws, he said, gave an opportunity for blackmail.

ANOTHER MINISTER IN LIKE STRAIN.

I desire also to quote from a sermon delivered by the Rev. J. H. Rylance of St. Mark's Episcopal Church, New York, on the same subject:

He said: "Since vast numbers of our poor people are accustomed to use alcoholic beverages on other days in the week, which they must needs buy from hand to mouth, it were unjust to debar them from providing themselves with such beverages on Sunday, while leaving our rich men with the availabilities of their well-stocked wine cellars, or with the accessible resources of such sort at their clubs. If we must have laws regulating Sunday drinking, let them by all means be made to apply impartially all round. If you deny the right to the laborer to purchase openly and freely on Sunday, fairness and consistency will require that you maintain a heavy staff of moral detectives having authority to enter private houses to see to it that no drinking be done in contravention of your prohibitory laws."

On no less an authority than ex-Postmaster General Clarkson, of Iowa, we have it that Sunday closing and its attendant consequence—prohibition—breeds liars, increases taxes, fosters dishonesty, develops hypocrisy, retards settlement of towns, drags religion into politics, debases many courts of justice, disturbs peace among neighbors, stands in the way of better methods, increases the consumption of whisky, complicates affairs of church and State. It is an attempt at a present impossibility. It fails to decrease pauperism, as claimed. It is falsely asserted that it prevents the increase of insanity. It develops disreputable and professional spies and informers. It does not diminish the evils of the traffic at which it is aimed. It is an attempt at revolution which public sentiment does not endorse. It breeds a spirit of intolerance that is inimical to American institutions. It encourages and has greatly increased the monstrous crime of perjury. It is based on the false assumption that humanity can be made virtuous by law. It makes cowards of political parties, and prevents just and needed legislative action at times in other matters. It enables irresponsible leaders to secure the arrest of decent and innocent people, and subject them to indignities. It helps to strike down honorable men in a dishonorable way—simply because they will not agree to its maintenance. It interferes with the work of temperance reform, and deters it from being conducted along educational, religious and moral suasion lines. It enables blackmailers to bleed the saloon keepers, preventing city and county treasurers from receiving the fund necessary, and justly due them, for expenses in looking after the traffic. It has resulted in the election of many small-caliber men—men nominated because they were professional prohibitionists, and not because of any special fitness for the position. It makes sneaks of thousands of young men, who, in localities where best enforced, congregate in stables and other out-of-the-way places for the purpose of drinking, which places are hot beds of evil. It will not succeed in prohibiting the traffic, and is a constant and general violation, which breeds contempt for all law—a condition which, if continued, will prove disastrous.

I might go on and make quotations from many more eminent men who are fair-minded, and who have given the subject study and consideration, but I think the quotations I have used are sufficient for the purposes of this argument.

The people of this State years ago decided emphatically against Sunday closing, and never since that decision has any effort or consequence been made to have it brought up as a State matter. San Bernardino tried it for two years, and at the last election decided by a vote of two to one not to continue Sunday closing. The only city of corresponding size in this State today where Sunday closing is in vogue is Los Angeles, and I have it upon the authority of the Chief of the Police of that city that the ordinance has never been lived up to or worked satisfactorily, and that the doors of the saloons might just as well have been open, because there were just as many beverages sold on Sunday as there were on any other day of the week, and it is now a question in Los Angeles whether or not an ordinance will not be introduced repealing the ordinance closing saloons on Sunday.

NO DISORDERLY HOUSES IN OAKLAND.

It is not denied that the ordinance in its present form has worked to the disadvantage of this city. It has, however, been claimed that there are disorderly houses run here on Sunday, which I deny. If such be the case, somebody is not performing his duty. You have it within your power to revoke the license of a man running a disorderly house, and statistics prove that nowhere within the confines of this Union, in a city of 60,000 people, does an ordinance licensing the conducting of saloons work so well as it does in the city of Oakland. Because on Sunday the few may—whom I deny violate its terms and provisions, is no reason why the many should suffer.

The California State Protective Association, of which I have the honor to be

I should not repeat it, and it is not necessary to carry out my expressions, that it will be of no use in the present, if any of its members who willfully violate any existing ordinance.

I do not believe that the present ordinance is in the interest of good government.

Our Association has repeatedly, through the public press, invited a conference with the Christian Endeavor and other temperance organizations whereby we could meet on a broad plane and perhaps agree upon some measure, on the presumption that the traffic cannot be eradicated, we thinking upon our part, that perhaps some thing might be agreed upon between all parties concerned for the best interest of the city and the people in general. We have never been met, but have been talked about from the pulpit in words that have led us to believe it was of no use for us to try to meet our opponents in a spirit of friendship or candor or in the interest of good government.

I am opposed to the compulsory closing of saloons on Sunday in this city, because as a citizen of Oakland, and for the reason that I have its interest and prosperity at heart, I believe that the closing of saloons on Sunday here would be disadvantageous to the city in many ways. It would do either one of two things. It would drive a large percentage of our population that stay at home now on Sundays to all recent places. It would be the means of surrounding this city with a cordon of wayside houses that would require a larger police force to watch, so that disturbances would not take place within the city, thereby increasing the burden of municipal taxation, the increase of our police force and enlarging the sphere of our police courts to meet the thus increased amount of disturbances.

The influx of visitors from San Francisco and our surrounding towns is, of course much greater on Sunday than on any other day of the week. These people spend thousands of dollars in the course of the year within our city limits, not in the saloons alone, but in restaurants and among the trade people generally; and right here let me state that the saloon men of Oakland are blamed for many things of which they are innocent.

The California State Protective Association have under investigation restaurants and drugstores that we claim sell more liquor than the combined sales of all the saloons of the city for which they pay no license, and we claim that more harm is done to the general morals of the public through these various sources than through the saloons of Oakland, all of which is susceptible to proof, and the proof will be forthcoming in simple time.

Any real estate man will tell you that a Sunday trip to Oakland has decided many a person to buy land and build homes in this city. In short, I think that the proposition is self evident that the presence of a large number of weekly visitors is a good thing for us all. I think it is quite evident, if we close our saloons here on Sunday a considerable proportion of these people will stay away or will seek other places for their Sunday outings, as conditions here are somewhat different from what they would be in an inland town, we being so near a seaport town that conditions, as a natural consequence, must be very different, and the temperament of the people on this subject entirely different.

A QUESTION OF REVENUE.

In the second place, I am opposed to Sunday closing as a taxpayer of this city. There are some 200 saloons in Oakland. They pay into the city treasury the sum of $80,000 per year, or, in other words, nearly one-sixth of its taxable revenue. As a business man I do not care to deprive a class of my fellow-tradersmen that pays such a large proportion of my taxes of one-seventh, and in some cases two-thirds or even one-half of their revenue. As a business man, it does not seem fair to me. If we tax a man $900 for conducting his business, and then reduce through the law the volume of his business by one-third or one-half, we should in all justice reduce the amount of his license in equal proportion. I represent property in Oakland. I pay my proportion of the city expenses, and I deprecate any movement which tends to increase my taxes.

It has been stated time and time again from the pulpit in this city that Sunday closing was the first movement towards an absolutely prohibitory ordinance on saloons. Therefore I am constrained to the opinion that if this ordinance is passed it is a declaration upon your part that you intend to close the saloons entirely. If you do close the saloons entirely, it means that you must raise the taxable property within this municipality from ten to fourteen millions of dollars in order to get the same revenue that you are now deriving from the city.

If you close saloons on Sunday, I give it to you as a proposition of fact that one half of the saloons now doing business under license in this city will be compelled to retire from business, and as a natural consequence, the taxable property of this city must be raised from at least four to six million dollars to make up the deficiency caused by the retirement of the saloons that cannot maintain themselves when saloons are closed on Sunday.

You go further. You drive out of the community property of the value of at least $300,000, which also pays its proportion of the taxes. You throw into the street from 600 to 800 people to earn their living by other means, and instead of improving the condition of the citizen and taxpayer, you simply add to his burdens by any such ordinance as the one before you, and which, if passed, proves conclusively that it is intended at some future time to close the saloon business, so far as you are concerned by eliminating it from the city of Oakland.

You will put more whisky into consumption than was ever used during the history of the saloon. You will be responsible for all the drinking clubs, of which there will be hundreds spring up, and, if the city has more crime and vice, the fault of it must be laid at the originator's door.

Does it not, on its face, appear that the ordinance that is now before you is a question not of expediency, but of persecution? Does it not look, on its face, as though it is the first movement towards absolutely closing up the saloons? When an ordinance to close saloons from 6 o'clock on Saturday evening to 6 o'clock Monday morning is presented to you for final approval?

THE ASSOCIATION'S OBJECTS.

As President of the California State Protective Association I have assured you that it is the intent of our Association to eliminate the saloon from politics and to create a better city. I have dealt frankly with you in all that I have said. We have taken the saloon out of politics in this city. As an Association we have demanded a better city. Our members have as much right as any one to do and act as they please in their own lawful capacity. We have advised our members to respect the laws and have urged them that we would assist in their prosecution if they violate them. I need not mention facts when I say that never before in the history of Oakland has the same amount of business been conducted with as much property as it is now.

If any man or corporation take away the license of the man so violating it. We had by a recent ordinance the Chief of Police that they can not trace where they have been so long as they are not arrested. We are willing and ready to assist in the passage of a ordinance that if a man or corporation has had a man arrested from it five times in a year, with a fine of $1000, the license shall be revoked.

We are all willing, and I do not care more than willing, to assist in the restriction of saloons in any manner, and if our members are opposed to putting the saloon in politics, let us have the aid of the residents. We also think that when a municipality has become so filled on man by heads of families, each of them should be held up to the public as a saloon warning and that if any man or corporation take away the license of the man so violating it, we will be ready to assist in the passage of a ordinance that if a man or corporation has had a man arrested from it five times in a year, with a fine of $1000, the license shall be revoked.

Our members are ready to assist in the passage of a ordinance that if a man or corporation has had a man arrested from it five times in a year, with a fine of $1000, the license shall be revoked. I had an organ that I had used for many years, and I had the organization of organized religion, and I had a good one. I think the time has come for the organization of a society which should have for its purpose the taking of churches out of politics and the prohibition of religious organizations. I do not want to be understood to be an opponent of religious societies. No man feels more deeply than I do the good they have accomplished and are accomplishing, but what I do oppose is the using of such associations by political tricksters for their own ends. Glaring examples of this are numerous enough right here in Oakland, and were numerous enough during the last municipal election.

FOSTERING ON TOTAL PROHIBITION.

I believe the closing of saloons on Sunday is the first step towards the total abolishment of saloons. If saloons are to be closed on the Christian Sabbath, then with equal justice all trade of any kind should be suspended on that day, including your aristocratic clubs. Then, too, it traffic is to be stopped on Sunday, there is no good reason why it should not cease on the Sabbath of the Jews and on the Sabbath of a large and important sect of Christians, falling on Saturday.

This whole country, during the past two years, has been laboring under the stress of hard times. Many of our people have learned what hunger is. Some have gone through the bitter experience of having the ability to work and been unable to find work to do. In such times as these agitation of all kinds is rampant but I cannot understand how from the pulpit of this city, to influence you in favor of this ordinance, an eminent divine could say, or could be reported as having said, "that the saloon had no more right to exist than the mad dog," and on the same Sabbath evening preach to an overflowing congregation a sermon on "Equality of Opportunity."

The people are full of complaints, and the existing evils are traced by various classes to various sources. The result is that there is an epidemic of organizations, with all sorts of conflicting purposes striving, more or less adequately, to effect some change which it is imagined may improve the times. Under these circumstances it is natural that designing individuals, as members of churches, societies or organizations, should use these associations for their own ends—for their own political or social advancement, and it is to this source gentlemen, that the present Sunday closing agitation in Oakland may be traced.

In closing I will say that I have not tried to be conclusive in the propositions I have advanced. My object has been simply to suggest a few of the reasons which influenced me as a citizen, merchant, taxpayer and officer of the California State Protective Association to oppose Sunday closing in this city, and I again repeat I believe that the Sunday closing movement is the first step towards the total closing of saloons; but I, personally, would rather see the saloons closed entirely within the confines of Oakland than have the ordinance now under consideration passed, understanding as I do its attendant consequences.

It is a matter of common report that some of your honorable body are willing to abide by the decision of the majority of the people on this question. Have you any evidence before you as to the feeling of the majority of the people of this municipality on this question?

Speaking now as a member of the Association, I think it would be manifestly unfair to defer action on this matter, as our people are quite desirous of having this question settled one way or the other. I therefore hope that your honorable body will give this matter immediate consideration and come to a final conclusion on the subject at an early date.

OLD. My son, these maxims make a rule, and lump them ay together.
The rigid righteous is a fool, the rigid wise another.
The cleanest corn that e'er was dight* may have a little chaff in,
So ne'er a fellow creature slight for random fits o' dallin +
* Cleaned. + Fim. ROBERT BURNS.

THE City of Rochester, with its abundant supply of magnificent water and its close proximity to the best barley and hop producing districts of the country, affords unsurpassed facilities for the production of such health giving and palatable beer as brewed by the "BARTHOLOMAY BREWERY CO." Rochester, N. Y. Bartholomay's "Fine Standard" unquestionably is the purest and best beer in the market, and the "Knickerbocker," brewed of the choicest material will, we feel confident, on account of its exquisite properties, soon become a favorite with lovers of a high grade and delicate beer. FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS AND GROCERS.

WALDEN COGNAC.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets.

It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES.—The condition of the market remains about the same. Interest is centering particularly now upon the coming vintage with respect to quality and quantity. It is believed that should there be no adverse weather, there will be a pretty fair crop. We hear of no particular injury done to the vines in the more productive districts thus far, although in Fresno county the army worms are doing considerable damage. All there is to be feared now would be sunburn or very severe north winds, either one of which would reduce the product very greatly.

Receipts from interior cellars continue very heavy, having aggregated 1,750,000 gallons during May. It is stated by those who are in a position to know that the country cellars are many of them practically empty. A great many of them have largely depleted stocks. This will be readily understood by those who have watched the reports of the movements of wines during the last few months. Exports, both by sea and land, continue very heavy, the sea shipments for the last half-month having been unusually large.

A dispatch from New Orleans announces that the wholesale grocers of that city have decided to run steamers between New Orleans and Colon, and Panama and this city for the purpose of bringing the products of Louisiana to this market, and taking in return California wines, brandies and other products. The reason given for this movement is that freight rates by rail are so excessive that there is no margin left for the dealer. Whether or not such a line would secure sufficient west bound freight to make it profitable is the question. As to east bound freight, there is no doubt but what they would have all they could carry.

Referring to the receipts of wines at an interior point for the first five months of the year, it will be seen that for the same period of 1894 the receipts were over 3,000,000 gallons less than in this year. In other words, the receipts have almost doubled.

The following is a comparative statement of the receipts of wine and brandy at this point for five months—January 1st to June 1st—1894 and 1895:

	—1894—		1895—
	Wine.	Brandy.	Wine.	Brandy.
January	553,110	142,705	897,331	60,590
February	741,410	190,650	1,314,780	1,540
March	972,900	25,695	1,588,430	6,630
April	985,050	10,690	2,013,212	14,110
May	1,274,100	22,100	1,750,100	5,480
	4,526,570	397,840	7,594,356	88,680

Contracts for grapes are being made to some extent at this time, and in a number of instances prices ranged up to $15 and $16 a ton. However, it is not probable that many contracts will be made until there can be better opportunity to judge of the quantity of the coming vintage. Sweet wines remain about the same, and are considered good and growing property.

A dispatch from New York, dated the 19th instant, says: "The nineteenth auction sale of California wines and brandies was held today by Sgobel & Day, with the following results: From Calistoga—Riesling, 24½ to 24 cents; Johannisberg—Riesling, 26½ to 24 cents; Sauterne, 23½ to 22½; Gutedel, 24. From Mountain View—Burgundy, 34 to 28½. From St. Helena, Riesling, 24 to 22½; Johannisberg—Riesling, 30; Riesling and Johannisberg, 25½ to 25; Angellia, 38½; Chasselas, 22½ to 22; Sauvignon Vert, 24; Hook, 22½. From Marysville—Port, 38 to 35½; Angellia, 37½ to 37; Zinfandel, 28 to 27; Muscat, 36½; Burger, 22. Barrel brandy 48½ to 43 cents; half-barrels brandy, 53½ to 51 cents, in bond. Prices ranged a little higher than at the last sale. All the heavy interests attended, and the wine sold mostly in five and ten barrel lots. Several Philadelphia buyers took full quantities. The market is generally firm but quiet, with but little disposition to stock up. Sweets are stronger. In dry wines reds continue stronger than whites, with a rather full supply of the latter here."

Further advices from New York are as follows: "There is a small current demand for dry wines at slightly advancing prices, which it is hoped may develop later on into a better demand. The advance in sweet wines which is asked now by every large dealer comes at the end of the season when the demand for sweet wines is but small; there is no difficulty, however, in obtaining an advance of two to three cents, as the dealers realize that they should have paid higher prices for some months past."

The shipments of California wines by sea in May were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
To New York	131	349,718	$121,301
Central America	247	8,321	6,389
Mexico	64	7,333	3,145
Hawaii	1	7,473	3,239
British Columbia	7	430	320

CALIFORNIA BRANDIES that are not sold under an established brand and are sold slowly with no prospect of any material change before the fall trade begins.

The total exports of California brandy by sea in May are as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
To Domestic Eastern Ports	1	110	$1,220

WHISKIES. Trade is moving along at about the same pace, business not very good or very bad. While there is room for a lot of improvement, things are so much better than they were, that jobbers have not much just cause for complaint when they compare their business with other lines of trade. Business during the remainder of the summer months will probably be unchanged, and if there be any change, it should be for the better. As for the fall trade, no one entertains the proposition that business will not be very greatly improved during the coming fall and winter. Receipts of whiskies and spirits by rail for the half month were light, but the arrivals of export whisky aggregated a good volume. Country collections are still reported quiet, but better than they were some months ago.

The imports of American whiskies by sea and rail at San Francisco in May were as follows:

	Cases.	Barrels.	Half-bls.
By sea from Atlantic ports	326	89	...
By rail overland	165	676	84
Total	791	1,143	84

IMPORTATIONS.—Business is moving along without any particular feature, and importers are chiefly engaged in filling orders for immediate consumption. Thus far there is little inclination on the part of jobbers or retailers to lay in any larger stock than is absolutely necessary for immediate use. This feature of the street will probably change with the coming of the fall season. Importations for the half-month have been unusually large.

The total receipts of spirits by rail overland in May were 1445 barrels; of alcohol, 174 barrels.

The receipts of foreign whiskies were 523 cases and 1 hogs-head.

The exports of American whiskies to foreign ports were 970 cases and 3093 gallons valued at $11,416.

The principal importations in May were as follows:

- Champagne—368 cases.
- Still Wines—592 cases, 9 casks, 10 quarters, 40 octaves and 35 barrels.
- Brandy—190 cases, 75 casks. Also from overland, 5 barrels and 10 half barrels.
- Gin and Geneva—2480 cases, 60 pipes, 51 casks, 10 quarters, 118 octaves, 6 packages. Also from overland, 20 barrels, 50 half-barrels, 75 kegs.
- Vermouth—1800 cases.
- Mineral Water—2458 cases.
- Bitters—180 cases.
- Absinthe—240 cases.
- Cordials—50 cases.
- Undesignated Liqueurs—323 cases.
- Undesignated Spirits—337 cases.
- Ginger Ale—125 barrels.
- Bulk Beer (overland)—242 barrels, 110 half-barrels, 358 quarter-barrels and 270 kegs.
- Bottled Beer (overland)—385 barrels, 118 casks, 610 boxes.
- Foreign Beer by sea—500 cases, 50 casks.
- Foreign Stout (by sea)—10 cases and 80 barrels.
- Foreign Ale (by sea)—35 cases and 495 barrels.
- Fruit Juice—5 puncheons.
- Cider (by sea from Atlantic ports)—50 cases.

C. A. Wetmore makes the following announcement relative to the Cresta Blanca vintages: "Respecting the Cresta Blanca Souvenir vintages, I desire the following statement to be understood by the public: The Cresta Blanca winery and all trademarks and labels pertaining to the products of my skill and experience are my exclusive property, subject only to an arrangement made by me with the Wetmore-Bowen Co. for maintaining the supply and controlling the bottling of six well known brands, viz: Le Murgaux, St. Julien, Table d'Hotel, Sauterne, Haut Sauterne and Chateau Yquem Souvenirs. I shall commence bottling a few other brands of Cresta Blanca Souvenirs, of extraordinary quality, such as Cognac, Burgundy, Alto Douro and Tokay Souvenirs. All of these Cresta Blanca vintages, together with those bottled under my authority by the Wetmore-Bowen Co., can be procured at my depot, 67 California street."

FUTURE OF THE COMMISSION.

By the terms of the State law the Viticultural Commission will go out of existence on the 1st of next January. The following circular has been sent out by the Secretary of the Commission:

SAN FRANCISCO, June 4, 1895.

DEAR SIR: As you are no doubt aware, the Viticultural Commission will go out of existence on the 31st of next December, by the terms of the law passed by the recent Legislature.

The members of the Board as individuals, and not as members, recognize the necessity of having a central body of viticulturists (all practical men) ready and willing at all times to consider practical questions as they may arise—such as friendly and adverse legislation at Washington and Sacramento, matters pertaining to exhibitions, etc.

When the Viticultural Commission goes out of existence there will be no general body of viticulturists to deal with such questions. It is now proposed to incorporate a body of practical men under an appropriate title, with no capital, to handle practical problems as they come up.

The idea is not to interfere with the work of any Association of viticulturists or merchants now formed, but rather to assist them; to have charge of legislative matters; to provide headquarters and rooms where viticulturists may meet; and, in brief, continue the separate and special work of the Commission.

The question of affiliation with other bodies, such as the University, the Mechanics' Institute, the Academy of Sciences, the State Board of Horticulture, etc., is one of the future.

The Viticultural Commission will meet on the 10th inst.

Please let me know by return mail what you think of this proposition, so that intelligent action may be taken at that time. Very truly yours,
WINFIELD SCOTT, Secretary.

OAKLAND FIGHT WON.

The California State Protective Association has won the Oakland Sunday-closing fight after one of the hottest campaigns against the liquor business ever known.

The City Council of Oakland, by a vote of 6 to 5, has decided to submit the question of total prohibition, Sunday closing, or the saloons to be open all the time, to a vote of the people.

At one time it looked as if the Sunday-closing movement had succeeded, but the efforts of the liquor men told in the long run and the issue is not to be met at present.

The wholesale and retail liquor dealers of the Coast owe a vote of thanks and confidence to Mr. J. P. Edoff, President of the California State Protective Association, for this successful outcome of the battle across the bay, for it was he who directed and conducted the campaign against the Sunday-closing movement.

The following circular has been addressed to the liquor men of Oakland:

To all Members of the California Protective Association in the City of Oakland—GENTLEMEN: Your attention is called to the fact that in the recent controversy regarding Sunday closing the California State Protective Association has maintained a position of dignity and has never permitted itself in any way to my knowledge to engage in personalities, endeavoring to state its case to the Council and public in an honest, straightforward manner. You are hereby respectfully informed that because public sentiment was on your side, and the Council in its wisdom deferred action on the ordinance until it could be legally voted upon, it will depend entirely upon yourselves whether or not the sentiment of the public will be with you in the future as in the past.

You must obey all existing ordinances, especially that ordinance calling for the saloons to close sharply at 12 o'clock, midnight.

It is the intention of the Board of Trustees of the California State Protective Association to place in each one of your hands a small handbook covering all existing ordinances, so that ignorance of the law will be no excuse in the future for any of the members violating ordinances.

It will be the business of the State Association to prosecute any member of our Association who violates existing laws, and ask for a revocation of his license, and not only will we prosecute, but we will expel any member who does not strictly obey the law, when such disobedience is brought to our notice. We do not propose to establish any system of espionage, but if infractions of the law are brought to the notice of any of the officers of the Association, you can distinctly understand that the rules of the Association will be strictly enforced.

In order to have public sentiment with you, you must keep orderly houses and do everything that lies within your power to prevent intoxication, or prevent people who should not spend money over your bars from spending it.

Very truly yours,

J. P. EDOFF,

President California Protective Association.

AN OPEN LETTER.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31, 1895.

W. R. HEARST—The Examiner, City—

SIR: During the past month the New York Sun has been persistently attacking the wines and wine shippers of this State, the attack culminating in a statement to the effect that the Examiner is its authority for the charge that California wine shippers are adulterating wines before shipping them to the East, and that the Sun was loth to make such charges without the Examiner being authority for its statements.

The Examiner has been none too friendly to the wine interests in the past two or three years. Time and again, in that time, it has made general statements about "brick vineyards" and "wine fakirs" without leaving a tangible fact for reply.

We now openly challenge you to publish in the Examiner any definite and positive information as to any adulteration of wine that is practiced in California. We challenge you to publish when and where this adulteration was accomplished and the names of the culpable parties. We want direct statements of fact—not bare assertions of the belief of your writers. Failing in this, we call upon you for a direct retraction of your statements.

If you do not care to do this justice to the wine-makers and wine-shippers of the State of California, and if you continue to injure the industry which we represent, by your un-called-for assertions, it will be our duty to bring the attention of every wine-maker and shipper in California and every buyer of California wine in the East to the fact that you will neither bear out your assertions nor afford the justice of an acknowledgement of the Examiner's error.

Yours,

PACIFIC WINE AND SPIRIT REVIEW.

KATE FIELD RETIRES.

Kate Field, who has been an able and enthusiastic champion of California wines for a number of years, has ceased the publication of Kate Field's Washington, and will hereafter be connected with the Times-Herald of Chicago as a special writer. We are sorry to lose Miss Field's weekly budget of bright things, but are certain that in the new field of labor she will do ably and well.

C. M. MANN'S NEW PURCHASE.

As per announcement made in the trade circulars, Mr. C. M. Mann has bought the San Francisco house of L. DeTurk and will continue the business in his own name as Mr. DeTurk's successor, buying his wines from Mr. DeTurk.

For nearly a year Mr. DeTurk has been in poor health, and the sale was made owing to his desire to retire as much as possible from active business.

Mr. Mann is a young man and has made the agency a success while acting as manager. He has had a long experience in the wine business, having been connected with the Eisen Vineyard Company and with Kohler & Frohling prior to taking the management of Mr. DeTurk's San Francisco branch. He will continue to sell the DeTurk wine, while Mr. DeTurk will give his undivided attention to the Santa Rosa establishment and the Los Guilleos Valley ranch.

E. F. Crosett, of Jones, Mundy & Co., has been seriously ill during the past fortnight.

PHYLLOXERA IN CONTRA COSTA.

The first phylloxera found in Contra Costa County has been located in the vineyards of the Strentzel estate and of H. Raap, in the Alhambra Valley, a short distance from Martinez. Contra Costa has been free of this pest hitherto, very fortunately, but its presence appears certain. The soil is a heavy, deep alluvial deposit.

RECENT TREASURY DECISIONS.

The Treasury Department has decided:

That domestic whisky exported in casks and re-imported in bottles is dutiable as if of foreign origin.

That bottles containing Angostura bitters (containing less than one pint and more than one-quarter of one pint) are not dutiable.

That hop bitter ale, non-alcoholic, is not dutiable as ale at 20 per cent. ad valorem.

That concentrated cherry juice is dutiable as an alcoholic compound.

MR. DANA'S NEW ERROR.

Mr. Charles A. Dana, of the New York Sun, has again fallen into error. Not yet convinced of his blundering in attacking the wine business, he goes deeper by assuming that the San Francisco Examiner is an authority on viticulture.

The Examiner is authority on nothing, unless it be the details of a ghastly hanging or the minutiae of a rape case. Its editors know nothing of the wine business. Its policy has been adverse to the wine interests ever since the late George Hearst began to pour his money into the paper. Mr. George Hearst, when in the United States Senate—a position to which his talents never elected him—voted against the Sweet-Wine Bill. For years past the Examiner has assumed to befriend the wine-growers by belaboring the wine trade, good, bad and indifferent. It is fortunate that editorially the Examiner amounts to nothing or it could have done serious damage.

Mr. Dana, however, thinks that the Examiner is a wine authority. On the 23d ult. the Sun said:

"The Sun never spoke of any California claret in terms like those used by the San Francisco Examiner. It tells us a thing which we had before heard of, but were unwilling to mention until we got proof of it; and this is, that the greatest sinners in the case are certain big wine dealers of California who load the claret with salicylic acid till it is unfit to drink, and who, 'buying poor stuff and good stuff indiscriminately, blend and fake and sophisticate them for the Eastern market,' meanwhile selling this fraudulent claret at far more than its proper price. It is unpleasant news. We do not believe that the Examiner would unnecessarily scare consumers of any California clarets sent here, but we would not be surprised if some of the consumers were to get scared at its words. They ought hereafter to be very careful about the claret they may buy. It would be well for wholesale dealers to have every barrel tested by a trustworthy chemical expert in wines and to affix a certificate of genuineness and sound quality to every bottle they may sell to their customers. Otherwise the trade here will be endangered. As the Examiner says, the truth in a matter of this kind ought to be spoken with perfect plainness. We believe that plenty of unadulterated claret—honest and excellent of its kind—is made in California and sold there at a fair price. But we are also forced to believe that within a year or two much over-doctored and unwholesome claret has been sent out of the State and disposed of in this part of the country. There must be an end to this kind of thing. The big wine fakirs of San Francisco who fake the claret for Eastern consumption will bring ruin upon the wine trade of California if a stop be not put to their faking."

That shows what an irresponsible journal like the Examiner can accomplish in the direction of injuring an industry which it has already done its best to discourage.

W. D. Sink has completed arrangements for the building of a winery on his ranch in Oat Valley, Sonoma county, and will begin work in a few days. A stone quarry is being opened up to supply material for building purposes.

OAKLAND AND MERCED.

Public interest in the Sunday-closing battle in Oakland has to a large extent died away. Flushed by the belief that the 7 to 4 vote in the City Council, sitting as a committee of the whole, settled everything, the Sunday closers proceeded to alienate many of their supporters by proceeding to greater lengths and demands. They have received a setback, however, for the Council in regular session has virtually decided to submit three questions to the people for decision:

First—Shall saloons remain open every day?

Second—Shall saloons be closed on Sundays?

Third—Shall saloons be closed entirely?

This, it would seem, will be the final action of the Council, for the "temperance" people have become badly split up into factions and the question cannot be submitted for a year unless a special election is held. This would doubtless prove too costly for the city to undertake.

In Merced the saloons are running without paying any license. Judge Minor, of Stanislaus, who tried the civil suits against the retailers of Merced for $150 per quarter license, decided adversely to the saloon men, and in his decision held that the Court could not hear evidence whether such a license was prohibitive or one of regulation. On this an appeal is being perfected to the Supreme Court, and in the meantime no license is being paid.

M. Keyser, the Sonoma distiller, who was arrested for illicit distilling, was tried and convicted in the United States Court at San Francisco recently, and sentenced to serve ninety days in the County Jail at Santa Rosa.

WANTED—A position as wine maker and vineyardist, or would make wine on shares. Long experience, best references. Address WINEMAKER, Box 38, St. Helena, Cal.

A GOOD OPPORTUNITY FOR INVESTMENT—To enlarge a well-established wholesale wine and liquor business, an active party is wanted with a capital from $4000-$5000. Address S. O., Box 2514.

WINERIES TO LET—The wineries owned by the California Wine Association in St. Helena, Napa, Glen Ellen, Livermore, San Jose and Esparto (Yolo County) have been leased to the California Wine Makers' Corporation, and are by them now offered for rent. They will be let from year to year, subject to the regulations governing other wineries controlled by the Corporation. All bids must be in on or before July 1st. Full particulars may be obtained at the office of the Corporation, 3 California street, San Francisco.

Yours very truly,

CALIFORNIA WINE MAKERS' CORPORATION.

Notes and Personals.

Fred. Stander, of Wickman, Lutgen & Co., spent his vacation at Howard's Springs, Lake county. Tales of trout and deer are in order.

P. N. Yung & Co. have opened stores at 104 O'Farrell street for the accommodation of their retail customers. Their circular appears elsewhere in this issue.

George E. Dolm, the Santa Rosa wine-maker, is on the streets again after a long illness. He is greatly reduced in flesh and shows the effects of the very severe illness through which he passed.

Weil Bros. & Sons are repainting and refitting their present quarters on Front street. When the present improvements are completed the firm will have one of the finest suites of offices in the city.

Messrs. Dillemand & Co., of Chicago, have bought of the defunct concern, Fleischman, Adams & Co., the balance of the stock at their Washington-street store, and all the imported wines and liquors in the Chicago Custom House.

On account of the steady increase of their wholesale business Messrs. C. W. Frankel & Co., of Buffalo, N. Y., have leased, in addition to their store at 42 Niagara street, spacious new quarters at 62, 64 and 66 Lloyd street, that city. This is good news from a leading firm.

P. E. Ryan & Co., a department store firm of the West Side, Chicago, and William A. Hansburg, F. J. Fogel, Sr., and F. J. Fogel, Jr., have been sued in the United States Circuit Court at Chicago for putting up and selling under the brand of a French champagne house carbonated champagne made from California wine.

The Mellwood Distillery Company reports very heavy shipments of free goods, taxpaid prior to August 25th last, and a steady increase in taxpayment under the $1.10 tax. As yet the demand for goods in bond continues to be very limited, on account of the low prices at which some taxpaid goods can still be obtained.—Bonforbs.

The consolidation effected some time ago between the Phoenix and the Pacifique, of Los Angeles, has been dissolved. The Phoenix will hereafter be issued from Room 36, Downey Block, by Chase A. Codori, the former editor, and it will be, as formerly, the organ of the wine and liquor trade, and will endeavor to further their interests to the best of the ability of the editor, with the co-operation of the Protective Society and the dealers.

Mr. A. Hoeber, formerly with A. P. Hotelling & Co., has returned from the East. He has been appointed Pacific Coast agent for the following noted brands of whisky: R. Monarch, Kentucky Club, T. J. Monarch, Glenmore, Doherty, Short Horn Rye and Imperial. Mr. Hoeber will also control the field in Texas. He will have his headquarters in San Francisco, and will be pleased at all times to submit samples and prices of the foregoing brands. As he is a highly capable salesman, we predict a largely increased sale of these goods in this market.

One of the nicest and most useful presents that we have seen sent out for a long time is a knife, the blades of which are opened by springs, and which is inclosed in a handsome leather case, that is being distributed by the George T. Stagg Company, of Frankfort, to its many friends and customers. If the metal in this knife proves to be of as good a value, intrinsically, as the whiskies advertised on its handle, then, indeed, it will prove to be an exceedingly valuable present.—Echange.

Messrs. F. C. Hensley and P. N. Yung have opened an elegantly appointed store at 104 O'Farrell street. The firm name is P. N. Yung & Co. They handle all brands of imported and domestic wines and liquors, but quote as specialties the celebrated Monte Cristo champagne and other wines of the Italian-Swiss Colony, and the famous Jesse Moore whiskies. They have agencies in all the large Eastern cities and are evidently reaching after an extensive trade with a fluttering prospect of grasping and holding it.

Many people have wondered where the name gin originated, as in itself it conveys no particular meaning. Like many another word in common use, it is simply a perverted popular pronunciation of a longer term. The foundation word was the French "genivre," meaning juniper, as juniper berries are largely used in the manufacture of this liquor. The next step was "Geneva," after the Swiss city of that name, while the word gin was a contraction of Geneva, and first used as a term of contumely. It has now become generally accepted as the correct name, and is used everywhere without much reference to its early history.

Suit has been commenced against Wolf, Wreden & Co. for $7000 on a contract made by them with H. Bruhild & Co., of New York. Wolf, Wreden & Co., it is alleged, contracted to take the Pacific Coast agency for Breton Sae champagne for a term of five years. It was stipulated that the price should be 30 francs (about $6) per case of twelve quarts, and 35 francs ($7) per case of two dozen pints, with 4 per cent. discount for cash. The champagne was not to be sold by the agents, however, for less than $28 for the quart cases, and $30 for the cases of pint bottles, granting the usual discount to the trade and to jobbers. The agency could be taken away at any time unless 200 cases were ordered the first year, with an increase to 500 in the fifth year. The San Francisco agents are charged with failure to carry out the contract.

PACIFIC WINE AND SPIRIT REVIEW.

A WORD OF ENCOURAGEMENT.

On the 1st instant the people in the vicinity of Campbells, Santa Clara County, this State, filed with the clerk of the Board of Supervisors a petition for the establishment of a sanitary district under the law as amended by the last Legislature. The territory to be embraced in the district comprises about nine square miles. The object of creating this district is not so much for sanitary purposes, strictly speaking, but to insure the community against the location of any saloon in the territory. The projectors expect the petition to pass the Board of Supervisors, but as the organization is not clearly defined in the statute, some trouble is anticipated.

Louis Zierngibl & Co., of Chicago, have begun the publication of a monthly circular entitled "Our Monthly Traveler." It is to be devoted to the interest of the wine trade, and in the announcements this appears: "We call this little journal 'Our Traveler' because it's the only traveler we employ. It's a well known fact that it costs from $7 to $10 per day or more to send a good salesman to solicit business. This expense has got to be paid by the customer. This little journal is published at a very small cost, as compared to a traveler's expenses. We will divide the saving with our customers: is not that a fair proposition? You save money by ordering direct—we save money by getting your orders direct." Mr. Zierngibl is a mover, and he will doubtless reap goodly rewards for his enterprise.

Mr. R. Monarch, of Owensboro, desires to nail a falsehood, which has appeared as a press dispatch from Los Angeles, Cal., to the effect that the proprietors of the Monarch Distillery, at Owensboro, who are alleged to be Stein Bros., are about to erect a million-dollar distillery in that city. Mr. Monarch desires to state that Stein Bros. never owned a distillery at Owensboro, or had an interest in one, so far as he is aware; that he operates a distillery in Daviess county only, and expects to do so all his life. We think the reporter who sent the dispatch has got things mixed. There is a possibility that Stein Bros., who were "monarchs" in the distillery line when they ran the Calumet, near Chicago, may start a brewery near Los Angeles. The reporter must have been intoxicated with the exuberance of his own verbosity, or on the prospects of the good time he would have when the brewery began to brew.—Criterion.

The demand for California wine is rapidly increasing both for home consumption and export, and the prejudice that formerly existed in favor of foreign wines has been greatly modified by the excellent and wholesome quality of the product that California wine makers are now able to offer to the public. The low price at which domestic wines can now be profitably sold, and the probability that as experience shall increase and methods improve they will be cheaper still, encourage the hope that they may soon be produced in such quantities and at such prices as to furnish a popular substitute for the strong liquors that do so much harm. If this change in the taste of the drinking public should take place it would be a long step toward temperance reform. To be sure, the Prohibitionists would be no better pleased with the drinking of wine than they are with the drinking of whisky, but reasonable temperance people will rejoice at the prospect.—Philadelphia Record.

The Half Million Club, on their way back from Ukiah, recently, were guests of the Italian-Swiss Colony at Asti for a few hours. Speeches were made extolling the resources of California, in which the wine industry was the theme paramount. A large table, beautifully decorated with flowers and the product of the Colony, was an inviting feast. Champagne and wine were distributed among the visitors, being the best brands manufactured by the Colony. The citizens of Cloverdale were invited to participate in receiving the honored guests, and, with a local band, a large number were present, many taking their teams and carriages in which the guests were shown around the holdings of the Colony. On their departure each was furnished with a package of wine of the Chablis and Burgundy varieties. There is no question of the Colony people being royal entertainers, and the impression made upon the visitors will carry its sweet incense for many a day. Mr. Scarborough, the genial and jolly Secretary, is a man that believes in progression, and in every way possible works for the advancement of our State and Sonoma county in particular. Mr. L. Vasconi, the Superintendent, had his engagements perfect, and took much interest in showing the visitors through and explaining different things about the mammoth winery. Our people who were present spoke in the highest praise of the good time enjoyed.—Concordia Record.

The Business Evening School of San Francisco introduced its graduates of 1895 to the business men present at Odd Fellows' Hall, Thursday evening, June 6th. Among the young people were sons and daughters of parents interested in the trade which the Review represents, and occasion is taken to extend a cordial greeting to the graduates.

E. C. Kilpatrick, of Madison & Burke, is principal of the school, and to him is due the admirable work done in this most useful department of our educational system. The motive power of his keen business sense was specially evident in the excellence of the program. The future commercial interests of the Coast are to a certain extent in his hands, and they will not suffer there.

In relation to the markets for American products abroad, as published in the bulletins of the United States Department of Agriculture, the following report from the consul at Newport will be of interest:

The wines consumed are mostly those of France, Germany, Portugal and Spain, but the red wines of California, the Cape and Australia are becoming increasingly popular. There is very little sale for foreign brandies. The chief drink in the district is beer. There are numerous breweries in the country which completely monopolize the markets. As they produce all qualities at the lowest possible cost, they shut out foreign competition (except in the case of lager beer) almost entirely. Official records show that during the year 1870 the quantity consumed was 30½ gallons per head of the population. From that year to 1874 the quantity varied, averaging 27 gallons per head per annum. From 1875 there was again a gradual increase until 1893, when the consumption reached 29½ gallons per head.

The consul at Southampton reports: An effort has been made to introduce the sale of California wines into England, and, although there is no remarkable demand for our light wines, the consumption is gradually increasing. Much port wine from Portugal is also consumed, as also cognac, claret and champagne from France.

Scotch and Irish whiskies are preferred to the American article, and very little American whisky is sold in England, except to transient Americans. Scotch and Irish whiskies are, it is true, cheaper than the various brands of American manufacture.

Julian P. Pemartin, Jerez-de-la-Frontera, announces that in consequence of the death of his father and sole partner, Mr. Jose Pemartin, and in accordance with Spanish commercial law, the style of his firm, Jose Pemartin & Co., is altered to J. P. Pemartin. The whole estate, outstanding accounts, brands and stocks of the old firm, of which he has for so many years been the managing partner, pass without alteration to the new firm, while the brand will continue to be Jose Pemartin—Feuerherd—Jerez.

The maximum allowance for loss on casks or packages of less capacity than forty wine gallons, and not less than twenty wine gallons, is limited to one-half the amounts stated in the above table. No loss will be allowed on casks or packages of less capacity than twenty wine gallons.

It will be seen that where the loss of spirits while in warehouse does not exceed the statute limit, the tax is to be collected on the proof gallons contents as shown by the regauge.

Where the loss exceeds the statute limit, the tax will be collected on number of proof gallons contents, as shown by the original gauge, less only the loss allowed by law.

Messrs. Mohrs & Kaltenbach, the popular wine and liquor merchants, 29 Market street, have been instrumental in securing an eight-foot wide asphaltum crossing at California and Market streets. It will be quite a convenience to their customers and the public in general, and Messrs. Mohrs & Kaltenbach are sure it pays to be public spirited.

Pursuant to a call, the wine and liquor dealers of Los Angeles met almost to a man at McDonald Hall on Wednesday, May 17. The meeting was held under the workings of the State Protective Association, and was called to order by C. F. A. East, of the local branch. President J. P. Edoll, of San Francisco, then addressed the meeting, after which a subscription list to the society was opened, and those present not formerly members came forward and subscribed to the constitution and were enrolled. An election of officers was then held, and Henry Tostman was chosen president, H. J. A. Stuhr secretary, and Chas. Gollmer treasurer. A committee of three was appointed to select nine members as a board of directors. After a friendly exchange of ideas for the better protection and conducting of their business, the meeting adjourned to the call of the chair. The meeting throughout was harmonious, and developed the fact to no uncertain degree that among the dealers of this section there are loyal citizens and level-headed men, who are possessed of an unusual amount of intelligence and who know their business.

On the 22d ult sixteen documents were filed with the Recorder of Sonoma county by W. B. Paxton, one of the directors of the Wine Makers' Corporation, transferring to the Corporation by the different members in that county over 600,000 gallons of dry red wines, dry white wines, fortified wine and distilling wine of the vintage of 1893-4. The wine has already been sold, and the first pro-rata distribution has been made. Following are the amounts transferred: John Dixon, Brook Hill, 26,000 gallons; B. W. Paxton, Healdsburg, 35,000 gallons; John Bailiff, Mount Olive, 18,000 gallons; D. Cassasa, Santa Rosa, 17,000 gallons; Thomas Scheibel, Bennet Valley, 7,200 gallons; Joshua Chauvet, Glen Ellen, 240,000 gallons; P. and J. J. Gobbi, Healdsburg, 48,000 gallons; Charles M. Ryer, Geyserville, 30,150 gallons; Stamer & Feldmeyer, Geyserville, 20,805 gallons; Charles Lehn, Windsor, 27,850 gallons; A. Tanzer, Rincon Valley, 8,200 gallons; Fred Hefty, Santa Rosa, 15,000 gallons; Doris Wagele, Geyserville, 19,500 gallons; T. Fredson, Healdsburg, 19,000 gallons; J. B. Trapet, Healdsburg, 22,000 gallons; Cloverdale Wine Company, 100,000 gallons—a total of 645,305 gallons.

On the 13th inst. Mr. Wm. T. Minuse, the energetic wine broker of New York City, passed through this city en route home from California, where he had just purchased 860,000 worth of sweet wines at 27½ cents a gallon, naked, which will stand him about 37½ cents laid down in New York City. He reports the wine market of California effectually cornered, with no relief ahead until the next vintage in February, 1896. So strong is the syndicate of the winegrowers that immediately on the completion of his purchase they raised their price 2½ cents, or in all 30 cents a gallon. Another reason for expecting success to the winegrowers' corner is that while in '93 the sweet wine product was 4,500,000 gals., in '94 it was but 2,500,000, while the increase in consumption for the past eighteen months has been 25 per cent. It is therefore not surprising to learn that the market to-day is one-third higher than in January and February last. As between the combination of growers on the one hand and the California Wine Association on the other, the trade may expect to pay prices which will assure living profits for the first time in many years. Still higher figures may be anticipated, and those having stock on hand had better not fritter it away on the basis of old prices.—Booth's Chicago.

"KENTUCKY CLUB."

Any wholesaler or distiller who wishes to secure a good distillery with an established brand will do well to be represented at the sale of the plant of the Daviess County Distillery Co., at Owensboro, July 10th. The distillery is well equipped, and has a mashing capacity of 750 bushels, and with the property will go three warehouses, with a combined capacity of 40,000 barrels, all the warehouses being equipped with patent ricking. The land owned by the distillery comprises about 17 acres, and the brand, "Kentucky Club," is known to the trade of the United States. Sale will be by public auction.

MR. DAY AND MR. WHEELER.

Mr. H. G. W. Day, of Sgobel & Day, New York, has locked horns with Mr. J. H. Wheeler, manager of the California Wine-makers' Corporation. Mr. Day defends the auction plan which Mr. Wheeler showed up so thoroughly in the last issue of the C.W.M. The truth cuts, for Sgobel & Day say in a circular:

"Referring to the attack made on our auctions over the signature of Mr. Wheeler, of the Corporation, we shall reply to the same, although we do not believe in fighting our battles through the newspapers. Still we cannot allow this to pass. The auction sales will continue and grow to immense proportions, and we feel safe in saying we are and shall be supported by the great majority of the New York and near by buyers."

Mr. Wheeler has the best end of the argument. Prices such as have thus far been realized by Sgobel & Day tend to demoralize the market and to hinder the efforts of the producers and trade to hold up values. We had hoped that Sgobel & Day, who have ample means to carry on successful auctions, would work in harmony with the wine trade, and it is a satisfaction to know that their auctions, which hitherto have had the sole effect of hammering down prices, are to be discontinued until fall, and we trust forever, if the result is to lower prices.

BEER TAX.

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 26, 1895.

It is generally conceded by all of the practical officials of the Treasury Department that steps will have to be taken to secure additional revenue to meet the legitimate expenses of the Government, now that the decision of the Supreme Court relative to the income tax has deprived the Treasury of fully $30,000,000.

Of course nothing can be done until the next meeting of Congress, but we have reason to believe that Congress will convene very much earlier than is supposed by the public at large, and it would be well to consider what steps are proposed to be taken to reimburse the Treasury.

Already it has been suggested that an additional tax can be raised on beer, tea, coffee and whisky. It is quite certain that only in extreme emergencies would tea and coffee be taxed, but it is almost equally certain that the Treasury officials want to see the tax on beer increased.

According to the official returns already received by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue covering the ten months of the present fiscal year, the revenue received from beer at the present tax of $1 per barrel, has amounted to about $69,000,000. The revenue derived from whisky during the same period was $85,000,000, and that from tobacco and cigars $49,000,000.

The present advocates for an increase of the beer tax declare that the rate would have been increased from $1 to $2 in the Wilson-Gorman tariff bill had it not been for the timely influence brought to bear upon Congress by the brewers. Both political parties keenly realize that an increase of taxation upon their favorite beverage would arouse a hearty and much-to-be dreaded opposition on the part of the German voters of our country. In support of their advocacy of the proposed increase from $1 to $2, which will certainly be urged at the next session of Congress, experts claim that the profit on a barrel of beer is enormous. They assert that the cost of a barrel of beer to a saloon-keeper is not more than $6, from which can be drawn about 400 glasses, of the usual retail size, and these sold at five cents a glass would make a profit of about $14 on each barrel. They claim that, under existing conditions, an increase in the tax will not increase the cost of beer to the consumer, as five cents per glass would still remain the popular retail price in spite of the proposed increase in cost to the saloon-keeper.

From the amount of beer consumed annually in this country, as shown by the statistics of the Internal Revenue, it is conceded by those officials to be the poor man's beverage. These poor men have an equal right with their wealthier neighbors to vote, and if it can be shown that this proposed increase in taxation will mean an increase in price to the consumer, we feel confident there will be considerable hesitation before such a measure would be recommended. But they confidently assert that the increase will not be felt by the consumer.

It is claimed that an additional tax upon whisky and tobacco can be easily collected. But whisky is now taxed $1.10 per gallon, and it would seem to us that this is the highest figure which the Government can impose with safety to itself. And in addition to this it must be remembered that when the tax is raised above a certain rate an additional and unnecessary incentive is given to indulge in illicit distilling. We are aware, however, that this plan will have little or no weight with the Treasury officials, as they feel confident that they have sufficient safeguards around all distilleries to insure the payment of the full tax to the Government. As an additional incentive to an increased tax on tobacco it is claimed that this could be collected without cost to the Government, as no additional working force would be needed, and it is further claimed that the decrease of demand due to the increased taxation would be so slight as to be scarcely appreciable.

As we have already stated, an increase in revenue will be an absolute necessity, it is almost positively certain that this increase must come in the internal revenue features of the tariff bill. An attempt to make a general revision of the tariff would be disastrous in the extreme, and while we are well aware the proposed increase in taxation as mentioned above would meet with very decided opposition on the part of the representatives of the whisky and beer interests, still the fact remains that the situation will be one where money will have to be raised from some source, and these three articles seem to be the best target offered. To be forewarned is usually, and should be in this case, to be forearmed.

DISTILLERY FOR SALE.—Owing to disagreement of Stockholders, the Distillery of the Daviess County Distilling Company, with "Kentucky Club" brand, Trade-mark, Good-will, etc., will be offered for sale at public auction at the Distillery on July the 10th, 1895.

This Distillery has a capacity of 750 bushels per day, is admirably located upon about seventeen acres of land on the bank of the Ohio River, adjacent to the City of Owensboro, Ky.

Three Warehouses, one brick, slate roof, and two frames with patent ricking, furnishing storage capacity for about 40,000 barrels.

Persons desiring further information will write the undersigned, or call and inspect for themselves. Those visiting the premises will be furnished a summary of the business for the past ten years.

Terms—One, two and three years, with bonds bearing interest from date at 8 per cent. per annum with approved security, or purchaser at his option may pay cash, or in part to suit purchaser.

AMERICAN WINES IN EUROPE.

On the 22d ult. the United States Department of Agriculture issued a bulletin on the subject of the world's markets for American products. The present issue deals simply with Great Britain and Ireland. American Consul Meeker, at Bradford, England, says that the barley received there from the United States comes mainly from California. California fruits are in great demand. He notes the fact that the finest California pears are sold at 12 cents each. As to California wines, he says that one of the local dealers has been making experiments with importations.

This merchant passed the following friendly criticism upon the California product: "What this wine needs is finesse. In other words, greater care is required in all stages of manipulation, from the period of gathering the grapes to the bottling of the wine for consumption. Perfect cleanliness must be the rule absolute throughout. The greatest care must be observed in picking grapes of average ripeness. It must be seen to that the fermentation is full and complete, that the rackings are carefully looked after, and that all germ life which might cause refermentation is kept out. Any connoisseur will notice that these wines are not in proper condition. A wine of the claret or Burgundy type which is not perfectly clear when bottled will, probably before many months, or perhaps weeks, show a further precipitate from which fermentation may set up. If, however, the first fermentation is complete and the wine is properly made and well racked, clear of lees, there can be no further precipitation that will affect the wine harmfully.

"With the magnificent climate of California and the superior fruit of that State there is no reason why there should not be produced a wine equal to that of any other country. But having to compete with wine produced under the concentrated experience of generations of winegrowers and cultivators, educated latterly in the latest scientific researches, your wine producers will have to give much better results than we have yet seen on this side to gain any standing with the wine consumers of the world."

Consul Campbell, at Newcastle-on-Tyne, says that a great variety of canned fruits, chiefly from California, are sold there, and considered superior to all others. California wines are handled by all the large wine merchants there, and are steadily growing in favor.

Consul Heard, at Newport, Monmouthshire, says that the red wines of California have become very popular at that point, and Consul Rodger, at Londonderry, says that very large quantities of California canned fruit are sent to brokers in Glasgow, Liverpool and other large centers, and by them distributed all over the country.

Consul Claude Meeker, at Bradford, reports as follows:

"Orders are taken in Bradford for American wines and for American malt and spirituous liquors, but the demand is very small. Canadian Club whisky is sold by wholesale dealers.

"France is, of course, the principal source of supply for a great variety of wines, Germany, Portugal, Spain and Australia, however, each furnishing a liberal quantity. The drink of the masses is the English-brewed beer and ale, though many who have traveled drink the German lager. American lager made in Rochester, N. Y., is sold in London and occasionally here at 25 cents per pint bottle. Any dealer will take orders for it. Scotch whisky is the popular tippie of the middle and upper classes. Some drink Irish whisky, though it has been almost displaced in Yorkshire by the Scotch variety. For a time Australian wines were somewhat popular, but they have fallen off in quality 10 per cent. in the last two years, while the French wines have improved.

"Samples of a particular brand of American whisky, eighteen years old, received here have been pronounced by liquor dealers exceedingly good and equal in flavor to a fine old cognac. Several residents of Bradford have received cases of this whisky direct from New York. Some of the bars of Bradford sell small quantities of a California wine which they purchase in London.

"At the suggestion of the writer a Bradford wholesale wine and liquor dealer, whose cellars have a local celebrity, has been making experiments with California wine. He received a case of samples of burgundy, zinfandel and claret. It arrived here in very muddy condition. After allowing it to remain perfectly stationary for two months the importer invited several gentlemen to try it. They all agreed that these wines contained the elements of wine of the best class, but that they had notable defects in comparison with the French. The burgundy could be delivered here to the wholesalers at $9, the zinfandel at $4.50, and the claret at $3.50 per dozen quarts. Even these prices, however, would be higher than those of corresponding wines from France, which can be retailed at a large profit at the following prices: Good full burgundy at $5.50, Medoc claret at $3.50 per dozen quarts.

"The merchant's friendly criticism was:

"What this wine needs is finesse. In other words, greater care is required in all stages of manipulation, from the period of gathering the grapes to the bottling of the wine for consumption. Perfect cleanliness must be the rule absolute throughout. The greatest care must be observed in picking grapes of average ripeness. It must be seen to that the fermentation is full and complete, that the rackings are carefully looked after, and that all germ life which might cause refermentation is kept out. Any connoisseur will notice that these wines are not in proper condition. A wine of the claret or burgundy type which is not perfectly clear when bottled will, probably before many months, or perhaps weeks, show a further precipitate from which fermentation may set up. If, however, the first fermentation is complete and the wine is properly made and well racked, clear of lees, there can be no further precipitation that will affect the wine harmfully. With the magnificent climate of California and the superior fruit of that State there is no reason why there should not be produced a wine equal to that of any other country. But having to compete with wine produced under the concentrated experience of generations of winegrowers and cultivators, educated latterly in the latest scientific researches, your wine producers will have to give much better results than we have yet seen on this side to gain any standing with the wine consumers of the world."

"This gentleman asserts further that even the corking was deficient. Drawing the cork from a bottle of French wine, bottled in England, he showed that it was large at both top and bottom and small in the middle and that it was accordingly impossible for air to penetrate to the wine. The cork from the American wine was of inferior quality and not of sufficient size to protect the contents of the bottle from atmospheric influences.

"These criticisms are given for the benefit of American producers and agents. I am not responsible for them, and merely give them as the verdict of English experts."

THE D. & C. F. CO.

The new directors of the Distilling and Cattle Feeding Co. are S. M. Rice, T. H. Wentworth, and W. M. Scheffel, of New York; J. M. Hutton, of Cincinnati, and W. J. Mayer, W. J. Mayer, J. M. Mott and F. E. Jennison, of Chicago. They are the reorganization committee, and Mr. Rice is the only familiar with the distilling business. He is president, Mr. Hutton is vice president, Mr. Mott secretary and Mr. Mayer treasurer.

On the 16th the culmination of the charge against J. B. Greenhut, ex-president of the Whisky Trust, and some of his associates was reached in a bill filed in the United States Circuit Court by Receiver John B. McNulta. Greenhut and Nelson Morris are accused of having used the funds of the Trust for outside speculations of a personal character, in which they met with a loss of $500,000. To make good the losses they are charged with having, in the summer of 1893, conspired to secure the consent of the board of directors of the Trust to the issuance of bonds. It is further charged that they sold $1,000,000 of the bonds at 50 cents on the dollar, applying the proceeds to make up their losses, and secured possession of $800,000 of the bonds, so issued, at the 50-cent valuation, in order to "milk" the Trust for the other 50 cents on the dollar, thus giving them a profit of $400,000 on the transaction, besides securing the payment of their losses in speculations. The character of the speculations is not set forth.

Besides President Greenhut and Morris, the other defendants to the bill are ex-Directors William N. Hobart and J. Walter Freiber of Cincinnati, Lewis Maddux (Hobart's partner) and Julius Freiber (Walter's brother) and the Central Trust Company of New York. As specific instances of fraud, it is alleged that in September, 1893, Greenhut, as president, and Hobart, as treasurer, sold to Morris $75,000 of the bonds for $37,500. On October 11, 1893, Greenhut and Morris sold to Maddux and Hobart, of Cincinnati, $75,000 of the bonds for $37,500, the payment being made by a note of the Trust held by the firm, Hobart, the treasurer, being the member of the firm. On the same date $50,000 of the bonds were sold to J. Walter Freiber, of Cincinnati, for $25,000, the latter also being a director of the Trust at that time.

The receiver declares that all such sales were contrary to the obligation of their trust as officials, and were made without the knowledge of the other members of the company or the consent of the other directors. None of the proceeds, the receiver alleges, were ever applied to the uses of the Distilling and Cattle Feeding Company. The receiver avers that $800,000 of the bonds sold to Counselman & Day, of Chicago, are held and owned by Nelson Morris; that the $75,000 of bonds sold to Moris are still held by him; that the $75,000 of bonds sold to Maddux and Hobart are still held by them jointly, and the $50,000 in bonds purchased by J. Walter Freiberg are held by him and his brother Julius Freiberg. The $2,500,000 of bonds deposited with the Central Loan and Trust Company, as security for rebates, are still in the possession of the Trust Company.

The receiver prays that the court enjoin all of the defendants from disposing of the bonds to other parties; that they be required to answer, and that an accounting be had; that any amount of the bonds ascertained to be owing to the Trust be paid for at the purchase price of 50 cents on the dollar, and that the balance be canceled by the court.

President Rice, of the reorganization committee of the Trust, presided over a brief meeting at the Great Northern Hotel, at Chicago, on the same afternoon of the filing of the bill in court.

"Guy," she said, "Champagne is like love—inspiring while the sparkle lasts, sickening when the life is gone." "Yes," he answered, and like love, there is but one remedy." "What is that?" "Get a fresh bottle—find a new inspiration."

C. F. A. Last, the Los Angeles wholesaler, was prominently mentioned as a possible appointee of the Governor, to be Brigadier General of the Third Brigade N. G. C. The coldwater element did not like the proposition, but there could have been few appointments as good.

V. Valereli, an expressman, has been arrested for obtaining goods from A. Vignier and Jos. De Fremery & Co. under false pretenses. He took the business cards of E. A. Jaujou & Co., and on the strength of them ordered a lot of assorted liquors from both houses. Luckily he was captured, and the goods found concealed in the basement of a saloon on Grant avenue.

Conrad Haehl is busy loading a shipment of 10,000 gallons of wine for the California Wine Association. The shipment will comprise all his wine on hand, leaving only enough for his local trade, thus giving him plenty of coopeage for the coming vintage. The price Mr Haehl received is 15 cents for his claret and 13 cents for his white wine. With the encouraging outlook for wine and the prospects good for a large crop of grapes, an active vintage will be looked forward to.—Cloverdale Reville.

THE OLD-FASHIONED BOTTLE.

At "The Old Oaken Bucket."

How dear to my heart is the bottle which childhood
In fond recollection holds up to my view!
The stopper, a slight piece of well-seasoned wildwood,
Was easily drawn for a draught of the "dew."
How oft would old friends gather near for a "finger,"
To moisten their lips, and to give them a glow!
How oft by the hearthstone would each of them linger,
While round after round the old bottle would go!
The old-fashioned bottle, the bright polished bottle,
The highly prized bottle, the rounds it would go.

'Twas a bottle that ne'er would beguile into danger:
Its friends could all take it, or let it alone;
And 'twas only when found entertaining a stranger,
That any effects of its rounds would be shown.
It was simply a nip, and then pass to a neighbor,
While stories of love and adventure would flow;
Thus, calm, in the evening, when free from their labor
They sat by the fire, 'round the bottle would go.
The old-fashioned bottle, the queer colored bottle,
The highly prized bottle, around it would go.

In fond recollection, those years I live over,
They come up before me so clear in my dream:
I see the old homestead, the grain fields, the clover,
As lonely I sit in the twilight's last gleam.
Old friends, the old house, and the fireplace within it,
Have passed from the scene, like the melting of snow;
I linger awhile, and I long for a minute,
That 'round the same circle the bottle should go.
The old-fashioned bottle, the bright polished bottle,
The highly prized bottle the old rounds to go.

RUM AND NEW ENGLAND.

To be brief, rum is intimately connected with Boston, Mass. The founders of Puritanity did not know rum, and apparently did not know brandy.

Their trade with the West Indies made them familiar with sugar and molasses, and soon led to rum, its manufacture, and much else. The first rum distillery was established at Boston in 1653. Suffolk Deeds, 139, and led to many additional "stills," as they were called.

The product was called strong water, but in 1661 the colony records began to use the term rum, and efforts were made to regulate both the manufacture and sale of rum.

So early as 1653 the town of Boston licensed a man "to retail strong water." It was the first license of the kind, and had reference, no doubt, to rum, most likely the rum manufactured by the distiller alluded to.

I am disposed to think that the term rum was scattered, and possibly originated by Boston men. They were good at such things. So early as 1633 they called any idle pastime "coasting," the earliest pastime they had being along the coast, where they went fishing, shooting and idling.

Siding down hill was called "coasting," because the founders looked upon such things as idle and vain, though the young men and women took a different view. By 1643 the men of Massachusetts had invented the term "select-men," to denote their principal town officers.

But from 1630 to 1650 the men of Boston had no distilled drink, they drank beer and wine. After John Winthrop's death at the time when Englishmen gained a footing in the West Indies and the sugar trade, the men of Boston, Massachusetts, made rum, drank it generously, and traded in it both at home and abroad.

At a later stage, rum became the life of the slave trade and the special enemy of the American Indian, whose glory it is that he never turned slave or servant to white men. He is a slave to rum.

The Massachusetts Legislature of 1657 prohibited the sale of strong drink to Indians, "whither known by the name of rumme, strong water, strong beere, brandy, cedar, perry, or any other strong liquors going under any other name whatsoever." (V. Mass. Rec., 289.) The word rum, then, began in 1657 or earlier. Possibly an earlier instance may be discovered in Barbadoe.

LIVERMORE VINEYARDS.

Some of the finest vineyards of the State are found in the immediate vicinity of Livermore. Phylloxera has never come over the mountains to this sheltered nook, hence those contemplating viticulture are coming in here, where the grape yield is of the most superior quality. Recently an expert from the Bordeaux region of France came here to test the soil, vines and wine of this country, and pronounced a most favorable verdict.

The splendid vineyard and beautiful country seat of J. P. Smith, situated three miles south of Livermore, is one of the most superb estates in all of California, consisting of 2000 acres of valley, upland, and native timber lands. Five hundred acres are planted in the choicest varieties of vines and 225 in orchards. Mr. Smith has a perfectly equipped wine cellar and distillery, with a capacity of 300,000 gallons. Seventy-five men are employed about this ranch in the busy season. This great place is cut up into drive-ways, which are planted on each side with ornamental shade trees. From the residence site the view of the valley and old Mt. Diablo in the distance makes Mr. Smith's place, Olivina, a dwelling spot beyond compare.

Mont-Rouge, the fine vineyard and carefully-conducted winery of Chauche & Bon, is very near the town. The fame of the Chauche wines is very extended. Indeed most of the leading wine men of the State are found to be bottling and shipping their wines directly to markets of their own seeking.

Cresta Blanca, the vineyard of C. A. Wetmore, who has a wide reputation as a viticulturist, is situated near Livermore, at an altitude of 700 feet. Mr. Wetmore produces rare Burgundy, Sauterne and Cabernet. At Cresta Blanca almonds, figs and peaches are brought to perfection. Citrus fruits have also been successfully cultivated, as fogs and frosts are absolutely unknown.

Bellevue, the vineyard and beautiful palm-surrounded residence of A. Duval, is one of the features of this district, which is dotted with vineyards, orchards and good grain ranches. Olive culture seems to be coming to the front in California. This beautiful, silver leafed, ancient tree is used as a border to vineyards and orchards in many instances; besides, a large acreage is planted in orchard fashion.

TRADE CIRCULARS.

From W. A. Taylor & Co.

39 BROADWAY, NEW YORK, May 25, 1895.

We beg to call the attention of the Trade to the following:

Peter F. Heering, Copenhagen — "Copenhagen Cherry Cordial." Many substitutes have been offered for this famous cordial, but none have ever equaled it. The greatest friend in households. In use all over the world for years.

Silva & Cosens, Oporto; shippers of the famous "Tawney Ports." This house has long stood at the head of the shipping list, and is to-day offering the best values in the market. Send for samples and particulars.

Ardbeig Scotch whisky, Islay, an absolutely straight malt whisky. This class of whisky contains the least amount of sugar, and is harmless to those who suffer from gout and rheumatism. A grand Cutting whisky.

Chas. Tanqueray & Co., Bloomsbury Distillery, London: "Old Tom Unsweetened Gin" — The finest English gin made. Schedule for the trade only:

Less than 5 cases of 1 doz. bottles each	$8.50 per case.
5 cases, and less than 10 cases	7.60 ..
10 " " 25 " "	7.45 ..
25 " " 50 " "	7.35 ..
50 " " 100 " "	7.25 ..
In bulk, quarters or octaves,	$3.25 per gallon.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 23, 1895.

"TIMOTHY."—Our Amapala Club "Timothy" is specially designed as a substitute for both cocktails and vermouth. It is our own careful preparation of the finest qualities of old brandy and liquors of California production, together with the essential medicinal principle of the Kola nut, which is now celebrated as the best tonic and nerve stimulant recommended by the ablest scientists and physicians. We recommend our "Timothy," as St. Paul did to his disciple, the use of wine—"Take a little wine for your stomach's sake." Price per quart bottle, $1.50; $15 per dozen.

CHAS. A. WETMORE.

From P. N. Yung & Co.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 31, 1895.

DEAR SIR: You are cordially invited to call and inspect our new offices and stores, located at No. 104 O'Farrell street. Our opening will take place Saturday, June 1, 1895. We shall be pleased to receive a call from you and your friends at any time, and we assure you a hearty welcome.

Yours faithfully,

P. N. YUNG & Co.

From C. M. Mann.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21, 1895.

DEAR SIR: Owing to the ill health Mr. L. De Turk I have purchased the good will, and all his stock, fixtures and book accounts at the store and cellars, 216, 218 and 220 Sacramento street, and 221 Commercial street, San Francisco, Cal., and I will continue to fill all orders for L. De Turk's wines and brandies from here as heretofore, giving them my personal attention, and in the future all remittances, etc., will be drawn to my order, personally. The business will be conducted under the style of C. M. Mann, successor of L. De Turk. Thanking you for past accommodations, I remain,

Respectfully yours,

C. M. MANN.

From Wm. T. Minuse.

41 BEAVER STREET, NEW YORK, May 20, 1895.

DEAR SIR: I beg to inform you that on a recent trip through California I had the good fortune to purchase some of the best grades of sweet wines held by the growers there, which I offer ex-dock in carload lots, or less, at very low prices. I offer, arriving about June 1, 500 barrels port, 250 barrels sherry, 250 barrels Sweet Muscat and 100 barrels Angelica, all of which are of the best quality obtainable, and for which I shall be pleased to quote prices and furnish samples. If you are buying California wine or brandy at the auction sales, I will be pleased to send you latest information regarding these sales, to furnish samples, and to buy your goods for you.

Yours truly,

WM. T. MINUSE.

From the National Wine and Spirit Association.

Pacific Wine and Spirit Review, San Francisco, Cal.—GENTLEMEN: I beg to advise you that Mr. Geo. G. Brown, the new President of the National Wine and Spirit Association, has appointed the following gentlemen to serve on the Board of Control of this Association, all of whom have signified their willingness to serve.

BOARD OF CONTROL.

THE above celebrated brands of Whisky are still leaders, care without regard to expense having always been taken to keep the goods to the highest standard in quality, their popularity now being unequalled.

The distilleries that make the above brands never made private brands. Notice the feathered sticks in the Imperial brand. They are correct cuts of the celebrated hand mash sticks with which all these whiskies are made.

Bartholomay
 BREWERY CO. ROCHESTER, N. Y.
 THE City of Rochester, with its abundant supply of magnificent water and its close proximity to the best barley and hop producing districts of the country, affords unsurpassed facilities for the production of such health giving and palatable beer as brewed by the "BARTHOLOMAY BREWERY CO.," Rochester, N. Y. Bartholomay's "Fine Standard" unquestionably is the purest and best beer in the market, and the "Knickerbocker," brewed of the choicest material with, we feel confident, on account of its exquisite properties, soon become a favorite with lovers of a high grade and delicate beer. FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS AND GROCERS.

WALDEN COGNAC.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets.

It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES.—The market is in an unusually good condition, considering the season of the year. Exports by sea were over three hundred thousand gallons, and shipments by rail brought up the total to the grand figure of twelve hundred and sixty thousand gallons. Therefore, May made a record that is about as high as that of any other month in the history. A glance at the figures shows that case goods trade holds up well even in dull times. Receipts from interior cellars still continue ample, the total since January 1st being over three million gallons in excess of the receipts for the same period last year. If this rate is maintained, the interior cellars will contain little else than empty cooperage when the vintage opens, a fact that will be very fortunate to many a struggling vigneron. The forced sale of wines at St. Helena during the fortnight resulted in a surprise to many. It was predicted that because they were to be sold at auction for spot cash, net, prices would be slaughtered, but the strength of the market was proven by the fact that values were well maintained. It is certainly the beginning of a new era in the California wine business when such conditions exist. Let us hope that there may be no check to the new progress. The wine men will watch with interest the result of the first shipments of wine by the opposition line of steamers from this city to New Orleans. The first ship left for Panama during the fortnight with a good lot of California wines and brandies, which are shipped by this new route on account of cheaper freight rates. However, it is doubtful if the line can secure sufficient patronage to maintain it.

As we go to press we are informed that grasshoppers have appeared in Sonoma county from Healdsburg up the valley. The pest's appear in great numbers, and are sweeping the vines clear of foliage. They have also attacked the vineyards at Novato, Marin county, and from past experience there is no practical way to exterminate them. The progress of these destroyers will be watched with great interest, as their ravages may largely effect the vintage and the prices of grapes this season.

The following is a comparative statement of the receipts of wine and brandy at this point for 5½ months — January 1st to June 15th — 1894 and 1895 :

	1894		1895
	Wine.	Brandy.	Wine.	Brandy.
January	553,110	142,705	897,534	60,590
February	741,410	190,650	1,344,780	1,540
March	972,900	25,695	1,588,430	6,630
April	985,050	16,690	2,013,212	14,440
May	1,274,100	22,100	1,750,400	5,480
June (to 15) ..	524,400	36,830	645,950	500
Totals	5,050,970	434,670	8,240,306	89,180

Recent advices from New York are as follows: "During the past two weeks business has been very slow. While the members of the California Wine Dealers' Association are holding prices pretty firmly, the same cannot be said of some outsiders, who offer dry wines at two to three cents below the market. The demand for sweet wines has fallen off considerably, as it usually does at this time of the year, and although this is generally a good time for the sale of dry wines, the demand for them is very lukewarm, owing to the fact that buyers generally have bought their summer stock in advance, in anticipation of the rise in prices which has recently taken place."

A dispatch from New York, dated the 12th instant, says: Sgobel & Day held an auction sale of California wine and brandy to-day, and the following prices were realized. From St. Helena—Chasselas, 23 to 22½c; Sauvignon vert, 20½c; Angelica, 35½ to 35c; Hoek, 20½c; Johannisberg Riesling, 24c; Tokay, 47c; Riesling 22 to 20½c; Sweet Muscatel, 43 to 37½c; J. Riesling, 24 to 24½c.

From Cordelia—Port, 30 to 26½c; burgundy, 27½ to 20½c.

From Elk Grove—Sherry, 37 to 34c.

From Oalistoga—J. Riesling, 24 to 21c; Sauterne, 20½ to 17c; hoek, 17c; Gutedel, 18 to 17c.

From Marysville—Brandy, brls, 40½ to 39; hf-brls, 57 to 54.

The attendance at the sale was good, but the market was not strong as most of the dealers are already stocked up for the summer. The weather was very hot to-day, which also had its effect, particularly on the white wines. The port was not of the best quality, while the sherry was cloudy and new.

The total shipments of California wines by sea and rail in May were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
By sea.....	461	378,353	$136,571
By rail overland.....	3,010	881,683	364,713
Total	3,471	1,260,036	$501,284

CALIFORNIA BRANDIES.—We hear of no development in this department of the business worthy of particular note. The total shipments by sea and rail aggregated thirty-two thousand gallons, which is a good showing for May.

The total shipments of California brandy by sea and rail in May were as follows:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
By sea	51	4,145	$4,480
By rail overland	104	27,949	42,027
Total	155	32,094	$46,507

WHISKIES. —The market, considering the fact that the regular dull season is here, holds up much better than could have been expected. Collections are doing pretty well, and the houses with a well-established trade report that they have no reasonable ground for complaint, considering the season. All look for a general brightening of business at the beginning of fall, and feel confident that the movement will be steadily upward. The same reports come from the East, and the outlook is decidedly encouraging.

Receipts of whiskey and spirits during the fortnight have been of good volume.

THE DOWDELL FORECLOSURE.

A decree of foreclosure has been issued by Judge Ham, of Napa, in favor of Charles Carpy, of this city, on two mortgages, for $30,000, covering 500,000 gallons of wine, the cooperage and winery of Dowdell & Son, of St. Helena. The Dowdells tried to withdraw from the California Winemakers' Corporation and transfer to Chevalier & Co., of this city, the 500,000 gallons of wine which they had contracted to furnish the Association. Mr. Carpy, who is President of the latter combination, stepped in and took up the mortgages, which were held by the Bank of St. Helena, and brought proceedings of foreclosure through Daniel Titus. It was claimed by Rogers & Patterson, counsel for the Dowdells, that, as the wine had been sold to be delivered in San Francisco, the mortgages were raised. This view was not accepted by Judge Ham, however, and he signed the decree of foreclosure. The wine was sold on the 17th inst., and the buyers and partielars of the sale are elsewhere given.

UNITED STATES WAREHOUSES.

All California wine and brandy shippers who have a distributing trade from Chicago should avail themselves of the unusually good facilities offered by the United States warehouses owned by the International Warehouse Company.

The free warehouses owned by the Company have a capacity of 840,000 cubic feet, the customs bonded warehouse a capacity of 700,000 cubic feet, and the Company also has a special internal revenue bonded warehouse.

The warehouses are especially adapted to firms making Chicago a distributing point. The location is in the heart of the wholesale district (273-285 East Monroe street), and in fact this is the only warehouse in the down-town district with dock front. Added to this advantage is the fact that the warehouses are very convenient to all rail depots.

The warehouses are substantial seven story stone and brick buildings, equipped with automatic mercurial alarms and with sprinkler systems. The receiving and delivery service is excellent, as the company controls 138 feet of street frontage.

The Customs Bonded Warehouse is a separate building, while the Special Internal Revenue Bonded Warehouse is on the second floor of the main Free Warehouse.

Special interest is taken in the storage of whisky, brandy and wine; and the company officers will be glad to furnish any additional information at any time.

SALE OF THE DOWDELL WINE.

Three hundred and sixty-three thousand gallons of wine belonging to J. Dowdell & Son were sold at St. Helena on the 17th inst. to satisfy a judgment in favor of C. Carpy, amounting, with costs, to $30,000. The first lot offered, 44,000 gallons of claret, was bought by G. Migliavacca, of Napa, for 11½ cents. A. Laehman, of this city, bought 195,000 gallons for a little less than twelve cents. F. Chevalier bought 18,000 gallons in barrels for 12 cents. The entire lot brought $11,234, an average of eleven and thirty-four hundredths cents a gallon. It is considered a good price at a forced sale. The wine was sold at the cellar for cash, and had to be taken away at the buyers' expense. Dowdell & Son have still about 100,000 gallons unsold.

As will be noticed by an announcement in another column, the sale of the "Kentucky Club" band and property of the Daviess County Distillery Co., of Owensboro, has been postponed until Sept. 15th. The sale was originally set for the 10th of July.

The Board of Supervisors of Santa Clara County has, by resolution of the prohibition element, been censured for granting saloon licenses on the Alum Rock road.

THE OAKLAND SALOON FIASCO.

The people of Oakland have recently been treated to a farce comedy upon the subject of closing the saloons on Sunday which rivals any effort of the character ever attempted in California. It was ushered into existence under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor, but in its later stages was under the immediate direction and control of certain ministers of the gospel, who resolved themselves into a sort of a Lexow committee to eradicate the saloon from the Athens of the Pacific. It has become somewhat fashionable of late, emulating the example of Dr. Parkhurst, of New York, for the various religious denominations to forego their clerical and ecclesiastical duties and enter the field of politics for the alleged purpose of securing civic reform, and at the same time directing public attention to themselves as the conspicuous champions of all movements for the correction of abuses in governmental affairs. It was doubtless such an ambition that inspired Rev. Drs. Rader and Coyle to lead the attack upon the liquor dealers in Oakland rather than any sentiment founded on considerations of temperance and sobriety, and, like most efforts born of selfishness at the sacrifice of principle, it terminated in disaster, and nothing remains but the well merited reproach from their more earnest following that the cause was lost through incapacity and bad management. This is an unmerited rebuke, except in so far as they advised the contest. The truth is, that while the people of Oakland are of temperate habits and have no sympathy with abuses or excesses of any kind, they could readily perceive that the closing of saloons on Sunday was not inaugurated as a temperance movement, but simply to gratify a religious sentiment, and the demand was voiced by that element alone. Even then, this sentiment, commanding as it does the profound consideration and respect of non-communicants, would bring to their support a majority of the latter class, were it not known that to close the saloon on Sunday would have the very opposite effect than that which its advocates so vehemently urged. That it would increase the consumption of intoxicating liquor upon that day in the municipality is the history of every city which has tried the experiment. That it would induce a wholesale infraction of the law and a consequent multiplication of criminal prosecutions is common knowledge to the most casual and shallow observer. That it would be the means and inducement for the illicit and surreptitious vending of spirits upon that day by unlicensed and dissolute persons, thereby defrauding the city of legitimate revenue, and seriously affecting the business of the licensed saloon, is a fact which requires no stretch of the imagination to conjecture. And above all, that it would precipitate a cordon of saloons and brothels around the border of the city, and beyond the reach of its police regulations, for carousal and high carousal on Sunday, as a snare for the young of both sexes, is only repeating the experience of other cities that have closed the respectable saloons within their limits, and have been forced to abandon the measure as increasing rather than curtailing the evils of intemperance.

For these reasons, and many others which space forbids rehearsing, the majority of Oakland's inhabitants were not persuaded by the eloquence or logic of the reverend gentlemen, who sought to place upon the statutes of the city the ordinance which the Council very wisely rejected.

Neither was the majority of the Council overawed nor coerced by the flourish of trumpets and menacing threats of the clerical advocates of the measure, notwithstanding the fact that they were warned through the press that an adverse decision would be followed by an expose very damaging to their reputations for honesty and fairness.

These insinuations were contemptuously hurled back at their author by the gentlemen charged, in language of no doubtful import, and in a manner so convincing as to leave no room for doubt, that—whatever might be accomplished by persuasion—intimidation or threats were perfectly impotent, and a resort to that extremity carried with it no terrors.

The opposition to the movement was carried on by the California State Protective Association, and while the cause was easily won upon principle, the action of its officers in charge was in contrast with those of its adversaries. They met the most scathing abuse in debate with the Rev. Rader with a calm, polite and dignified reserve, and furnished to this follower of the true light an object lesson which it is to be hoped he will profit by in all future controversies.

They appealed to the good sense and judgment of the Council to fairly consider the subject in its various aspects as a deliberative body, and, without menace, threat intimidation or coercion to act in the premises in such a manner as would best promote the interest of the city and in consonance with the wishes of a majority of their constituents; always willing to submit the question to the people, and offering upon the part of the Association, to contribute liberally to the expense of an election. This exhibition of fairness materially strengthened their position, and was doubtless a prime factor in defeating the measure. —J. P. Brown, in Wave.

DEATH OF FRANCIS T. EISEN.

Francis T. Eisen the pioneer grape-grower and wine-maker of Upper San Joaquin Valley, the man to whom Fresno county owes much of its present development, died at his home in San Francisco on the 15th inst. He was the pioneer who led the way to the creation of the magnificent irrigation systems of the Valley which have enabled a sheep and cattle range of millions of acres to be converted into a highly productive agricultural country.

Mr. Eisen was a native of Sweden. He was born at Stockholm in 1826, and his father brought him up with a view of his entering a mercantile life. At the age of nineteen he was sent to Germany to learn banking and commercial pursuits, returning to Stockholm in 1848. He remained there two years in charge of his father's business, when failing health compelled him to go abroad. Going first to South America, he decided to come to California, arriving in San Francisco in 1851. He engaged first in the commission and brokerage business, and amassed considerable property, all of which was lost in the great fire of 1854. During the next five years he struggled to pay off all debts thus incurred, finally succeeding. He then engaged in various occupations, including milling, until 1866, when his mill was burnt out. In 1868 he erected the building at 12 Stevenson street, now occupied by his company, and engaged in milling until as late as 1885, amassing a handsome fortune therefrom.

His interest in Fresno property dates back to 1872. The Southern Pacific had just pierced the San Joaquin Valley, and after a thorough examination of the lands he purchased the land where the famous Eisen Vineyard now is. The land originally cost $10 per acre—a mere bagatelle of its present value.

Mr. Eisen plowed and planted a few acres of land, setting out Malaga grapes. These were the first vines planted in Fresno county, and everybody predicted disaster to his venture. His successes and experiments were eagerly watched by the less enterprising land holders around him. By 1874 his vineyard had increased to 125 acres and his irrigation system fulfilled all requirements, but still others held back.

It was not until 1876, when the Central Colony was formed, that anybody planted any considerable area of land to vines, and in those early days Mr. Eisen's magnificent vineyard was a standing advertisement to the capabilities of the land. Mr. Eisen tried over 200 varieties of grapes before resting satisfied with his results. His experience and experiments were of incalculable value in the development of Fresno county—now the banner viticultural county as to acreage—and in fact to the entire San Joaquin valley, from Stockton to Tehachipi.

In connection with his cellar and vineyard business Mr. Eisen opened agencies at San Francisco, New York, Chicago and other places, and always did a good business.

The funeral was a very quiet one, and took place from his family residence on the 17th inst.

TO FIX GRAPE PRICES.

A circular is in preparation by the California Wine Makers' Corporation advising its members regarding the purchase of grapes of this year's vintage.

The price to be paid will be based on that to be paid for wine at the Corporation figures, to be fixed next February. It will be suggested to the winemakers that they pay $5 a ton in cash for grapes and $5 at the end of sixty days. The concluding payment will be at the rate of 90 cents a ton for every cent a gallon that the wine may bring over 10 cents in February. Thus, if the price of wine should be 15 cents, the amount per ton for grapes will be $13.50, leaving $3.50 a ton to be paid on balance. Already 8,000,000 gallons of dry wine of this season's manufacture have been practically contracted for by the Wine Makers' Corporation. Of this amount 5,000,000 gallons will be taken by the California Wine Association at a price to be fixed by arbitration, and the remaining 3,000,000 will naturally follow the market price so established.

Since its organization last January the Wine Makers' Corporation has made two deliveries of wine and two distributions of receipts to its 190 members. This has taken place during the last two months, and has placed $190,000 in the hands of the individual winemakers pro rata to their deposits of wine. Another distribution will take place during June. At the beginning of operations it was estimated that there were 9,000,000 gallons of dry wines in first hands, of which 7,000,000 gallons have been disposed of, either through the Corporation or otherwise, so that very little of the old stock will remain on hand when the new vintage begins to come in next fall.

"The present outlook is favorable," says J. H. Wheeler, manager of the Wine Makers' Corporation. "The reports generally speaking, say the grapes are setting well, but from nearly every district come complaints of some minor calamity or other. In any event there will not be for many years such large crops as we had five years ago. In 1893 the dry wine yield was 16,000,000 gallons; last year it was about 9,500,000, and I would place this season's at 12,500,000 from the present outlook. In Napa county the phylloxera has reduced the crop from 6,000,000 gallons in 1893 to 1,000,000 gallons this season. From 5 to 8 per cent. of the vineyards are now being replanted yearly, but as it takes six years from planting resistant vines before wine will be placed on the market, it will be ten years before Napa will be back in its old place. Meanwhile the disease is making progress in Sonoma and Santa Clara counties, and two weeks ago the phylloxera was discovered in Contra Costa county, which had hitherto been free from the pest. Another fact which acts against a large yield is that the poor prices of late years caused widespread neglect of the vineyards, which cannot be restored to good bearing condition in one season, even under the stimulus of better prices."

DEATH OF W. H. JACOBS.

W. H. Jacobs, treasurer of the Mellwood Distillery Co., died at Louisville recently. Mr. Jacobs was 64 years of age and for twenty-five years had been with the Mellwood Company. He was a quiet, reserved man, whose great energies were concentrated in the Company's interests. The directors of the Company have adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That in the death of W. H. Jacobs, treasurer of this Company, we have lost not only an able official, but a friend whom we all loved and respected. Few men possessed so many high and noble qualities. Gentle, kind, unselfish, courageous, clear in perception, with the highest sense of honor, his life seemed governed by the desire to do good to his fellow man and to faithfully serve his Maker.

Resolved, That these proceedings be spread upon the minutes of this company, published in the daily papers, and that a copy of these resolutions be sent to his family."

R. F. BALKE, President.

GEO. W. SWEARINGEN, Vice-President.

The Supervisors of San Benito County have denied a petition to reduce the county license from $300 to $200 per year. An ordinance has been passed designed to compel restaurateurs to take out a saloon license.

Notes and Personals.

The business of George B. Cosby, jr., the Sacramento wholesaler, has been sold at auction.

J. Chaix, of Brum & Chaix, Oakville, has returned from his Eastern trip, made in the interests of his firm.

Carl Metzger, formerly of the Pomona Winery, has purchased the Kind Winery, at Azusa, for $2000.

John H. Wheeler, of the Napa Valley, has secured the contract to furnish the French Hospital, of this city, with its claret.

William Doose of Woodland is under arrest for selling liquor to a habitual drunkard after having received notice not to do so.

Korbel Bros., of Guerneville, are shipping two car-loads a week to their wine house in Chicago. They already have over 100,000 gallons stored there.

Dave Samson, for many years connected with the S. Lachman Company, is now the lucky possessor of a fat government job. He says he finds the work congenial, and is therefore satisfied.

The California Wine Co., Ltd., of Victoria, B. C., is closing out the stock of wines and liquors formerly carried. It is the intention of the Company to continue in business on commission only.

John F. Nugent, of Cartan, McCarthy & Co., has returned from his vacation trip to the Hawaiian islands. He took in all the sights afforded to visitors, and returns in much better health and spirits.

Thomas Kirkpatrick, President of Moore, Hunt & Co., has gone on one of his occasional trips to the Oregon and Washington trade. He expects to be away about two weeks, and he will undoubtedly have a fresh batch of stories and a lot of good orders for "Jesse Moore" when he returns.

The Berkeley Board of Trustees has instructed the City Marshall to offer the saloon men of Berkeley the $100 paid by them as the license for the year; and also to arrest all who refuse to accept it and pay $50 a quarter. The saloon men will make a test of the raise, and at present seven are selling without a license, some of them having offered to pay the $100 annually which was refused.

Mr. Henry Brune, of Naber, Alfs & Brune, while East will select a New York agent for "Damiana Bitters," so well known to the trade. The firm has made many shipments of these bitters to Eastern buyers, and, with a regular agent, the shipments will undoubtedly show a steady increase. "Damiana Bitters" have been used a long time, and their merits are too readily recognized not to be admitted in the East.

Mohls & Kaltenbach, the active wine men at 29 Market street, are keeping up their regular commission business, aside from the transaction of a general wine trade. They shipped 36 bars of copper-gold bullion, valued at $3000, to Europe via Panama last week, and are doing a good trade. Their convenience to the city front has led to the development of a nice trade with ship captains in port, and they have done well with making a specialty of supplying wines and liquors to vessels.

An inventory and appraisement of the estate of Calvin W. Kellogg has been filed as follows: Money in the hands of the executors, $5333.35; claim of estate against Loewe Bros, $5995.71; itemized debts and notes, not itemized as against the interest of the estate, $34,417.21; note of Ed Connelly, $50; liquor business at Stockton in the name of the C. W. Kellogg Company, $1691.26; outstanding accounts at Stockton, face value, $17,108.82, estimated as worth $3900; land in San Joaquin county, $350; land in Calaveras county, $500; land in Stanislaus county, $100; land in San Jose, $2000 — total value, $53,676.27. In the inventory are enumerated a number of shares of stock of unknown value, as follows: 2500 shares Osborn Hill Gold Mining and Milling Company, 66,500 shares Shamo Mining Company, 22,066 shares Dahlonega Mining Company (claimed by Mrs. Ella F. Gilroy and found in an envelope addressed to her), 200 shares International Toilet Company, 1000 shares Chrome Chemical Works, 20,000 shares of Boa Mining and Milling Company, 1000 shares Midas Gold-saving Machinery Company, 2000 shares Jay Gould Mining Company, 200 shares Gardner General Electric Company, notes of D. Ferris for $11,000 and T. J. Bradley for $250, valued at nil; notes of Dahlonega Mining Company, $478.25; 2500 shares Osborn Hill Gold Mining Company, not in possession of the estate and claimed by Mary Emma Kellogg, the latter resting her claim on a gift of the deceased; 100 shares Carrara Marble Company of Amador county. The appraisers are T. J. L. Smiley, Chas Mayo and Cass Zemansky, who consumed seven days in the appraisement. There is a contest pending the will of Calvin W. Kellogg, the contestant to be the daughter, Mrs. Emma Gilroy. As soon as certain preliminary claims upon the estate are settled, further litigation is expected.

We had the pleasure of meeting Mr. B. H. Upham, one of the leading wine producers of the State and a resident of Contra Costa county, this week. He had just returned from a visit of several weeks to the Southern part of the State, and arrived home disgusted with the roads in the northern part of the State. Mr. Upham claims that the good roads of the South have had as much if not more to do in building up that section than any other cause, and he gives the people great credit for their foresight. He told us of many beautiful roads, streets and avenues, from 60 to 120 feet in width, planted on either side with shrubbery, trees, etc., and miles in length, and then made comparisons with the almost impassable roads of the central and northern counties. Mr. Upham is in favor of bonding the counties to build roads — thoroughfares that, once established, can be kept in first-class condition ever afterward at very small expense. He and many of the residents of the beautiful Alhambra Valley will do even better in their locality. They will build a first-class macadamized road if the county will guarantee to keep it in repair and see that it is sprinkled during the summer months. It is a well known fact that under the present methods a great amount of money is annually thrown away on the roads in this portion of the State. This matter should be remedied at once, and the only salvation is to bond the county and to build roads for once and for all time. Mr. Upham gave us considerable information in regard to the wine industry, which we hope to speak of in the near future, and he assures us that there is yet hope for the California vineyardist. Those who adulterate our wines are being closely looked after, he said, and he also informed us that he intends establishing a depot for his wines East, where he will sell wines only in original packages, protected by trademark, branded corks, etc. While down south Mr. Upham purchased three dozen horned toads of the San Diego variety, which he has placed in his vineyard, orchard and garden. These toads are said to be great insect destroyers, and he hopes to give a good account of their services. — Martinez News.

Sole Agents for the Pacific Coast.

Enoch Bros. have been granted a license to conduct a saloon at Wheatland in spite of protests against their petition.

Edgar A. Mizner, one of the best known men about town in San Francisco, has accepted the agency of the Ruinart Champagne. His offices are at 210 Sansome street.

J. P. McCarthy, of San Jose, is under arrest for selling liquor without a license. It is his intention to contest the present license law of San Jose.

The Supervisors of Santa Clara County have refused an additional liquor license to Mr. McKay, of Saratoga, on the ground that there are at present enough saloons in the place.

The Preachers' Union, Epworth League, Women's Christian Temperance Union and Young Men's Christian Association, of Los Angeles, have combined under the title of the "Moral Reform League," with the avowed intention of making an anti-saloon campaign.

The Board of Supervisors of Santa Clara County have passed an order for a special election, in a district nine miles square, southwest of San Jose, to decide whether or not a "Sanitary District" shall be formed under the act of the recent legislature. The election, of course, hinges on the liquor question.

Randolph Payne, an English gentleman who visited this Coast some seven years ago, arrived from the old country a few days since. Mr. Payne is a London wine merchant, his house having for many years occupied the position of furnishing the wines used at Marlboro House and St. James Palace. "There is a certain future for California wines in England," said Mr. Payne, "where they are much preferred to the Australian product. It is, to my mind, simply a question of price and their proper introduction. I mean to say they are listed altogether too high. For example, in Scotland I have paid as high as 6s. English money for a California burgundy. This is higher than Beaune, which brings 4s. a quart, and which is a more mature wine. We find very little California still wines in the London clubs. French red wine of a fair quality will sell for 3 shillings a bottle. Now the Zinfandel, when found there, is much higher. I do not know of any London agency of California wines. There may be a few, but they have not made themselves prominent. In fact there is no attempt there, as far as has come under my observation, to push the wines of this country. There is far more body in your California wine than the vin ordinaire we drink in London. But your wines want racking. They are too green. They are not kept long enough in the casks. I am confident that nothing from California has ever reached the Prince's table, simply because there was no one to represent them. Sherry is no longer in vogue at English dinners. Champagne and claret are the favorites, and port and Burgundy, though for many years neglected, are slowly gaining again in popularity. Hock, chablis and sauterne are used a little. Dry Sillery is never heard of, and as a whole, champagne is the dinner drink. Whisky has taken the place of the once favorite brandy and soda. In the clubs one sees about eighteen of the former served to two of the other. Scotch is the favorite whisky." Mr. Payne will remain on this Coast for a few months, and during that period will make a close examination of the wines of California. He is a warm advocate of the clarets of this State, and is anxious to see them brought intelligently and on a broad scale to the notice of the wine consumers of England.

TRUST AFFAIRS.

Decisive action in the litigation surrounding the affairs of the Distilling & Cattle Feeding Co. came to pass on the 13th inst. The Supreme Court of Illinois on that day affirmed the decision of Judge Gibbons, of Chicago, declaring the trust illegal and void. Every point in Judge Gibbons' decision was sustained, and the Reorganization Committee, taking time by the forelock, has offered $9,800,000 for the principal plants in the aggregation controlled by the corporation which the Supreme Court has said must surrender its franchise. This offer was made to the Court on the 14th, coupled with no condition of importance save that the transfer be made within thirty days, and also that the purchasers be allowed to carry on the suit to invalidate the millions of bonds sold, or pay them off if the holders are so entitled. The committee owns and controls all but a small percentage of the 350,000 shares of stock, and as such a large holder of equities in the proceeds of the sale, its offer amounts to an undertaking to care for all claims. The offer is contained in a petition setting out the reasons why the property should be sold, the chief of which is that a receiver cannot properly run such a business. It is the first active step in court in the reorganization of the property.

In the course of the opinion of the 13th the Court said: "No one who intelligently considers the scheme of this trust as detailed in the information can for a moment doubt that it was designed to be, and was in fact, a combination in restraint of trade, and that it was organized for the purpose of getting control of the manufacture and sale of all distillery products, so as to stifle competition and to be able to dictate the amount manufactured, and the prices at which the same should be sold, and that its effect is to create or tend to create a virtual monopoly in the manufacture and sale of the products of that character.

"No rational purpose for such an organization can be shown consistent with an intention to allow the business to run in its normal channels, to give competition its legitimate operation, and to allow both production and prices to be controlled by the natural influence of supply and demand, and the results, as shown by the information, were such as might be anticipated. The trust obtained possession of nearly all the distilleries and nearly the entire distillery products of the United States, thus enabling it to dictate prices and the amount of production, and to draw to itself substantially the control of the distillery business of the country."

The Court cites a large number of decisions showing combinations of a similar character that have been held illegal in other States, among others the Match trust. The opinion continues:

"But it is urged that the defendant by its charter is authorized to purchase and own distillery property, that there is no limit placed upon the amount of property it may thus acquire. By its certificate of organization it is authorized to engage in a general distillery business in Illinois and elsewhere, and to hold property necessary for that purpose. It should be remembered that all the powers of incorporate charters are to be construed strictly, and that what is not clearly given is by implication denied.

"The defendant is authorized to own such property as is necessary for carrying on its distillery business, and no more. Its power to acquire and hold property is limited to that purpose, and it has no power by its charter to enter upon a scheme of getting into its hands and under control all, or substantially all, the distilling plants and distillery business of the country for the purpose of controlling production and prices, or crushing out competition, or of establishing a virtual monopoly in that business.

"Such purposes are foreign to the powers granted by the charter. The acquisition of property to such an extent and for such purposes does not come within the authority to own property for the purpose of carrying on a general distillery business. In acquiring distillery properties in the manner and for the purpose shown in the information, the defendant has not only misused and abused the powers granted by its charter, but has usurped and exercised powers not implied by it, and which are wholly foreign to that instrument."

UNITY NECESSARY.

It has time and again been brought to the notice of grape-growers and wine makers that it is of the gravest importance for them to join the Wine Makers' Corporation in order to save the wine market from ruin.

It is not necessary to inform them of the fact that in the past decade wine has decreased gradually in prices, and, to the injury of California's reputation, the quality has deteriorated—so much so that the situation last season could not have been any worse.

The Corporation's advantages are plain enough to the sagacious, but there are many who are hesitating about going into the compact, but they have no reason to fear its collapse. The largest manufacturers of wine in the State were the chief projectors in this movement, and, now that they have effected, they find that monopoly was their only salvation, and their hopes are fully realized.

A year ago grapes sold, delivered at the wineries, for $6 per ton—$8 maximum—and this year under the protection of the Trust, the growers will receive a minimum price of $12 per ton. Not alone will this combine bring about better figures for the producers now, but will be productive of the manufacture of better grades of wine, thus creating a larger consumption and securing a preference for our products in the Eastern States over those of foreign countries.

It is a matter of great moment to all who are connected with the industry, and its benefits and advantages should be given the serious consideration of those who are holding back. Procrastination will inevitably result in a great loss to them.

The leading grape and wine men of this valley have already joined the compact, but there are several small producers who will continue to depress the market if they persist in disposing of their wine independently. Now is the proper time for those men to ponder over this matter, and when the feasibility of corporative lines becomes plain to them let them sign the agreement, and they will always be thankful that they did.—Sonoma Tribune.

The Oakland ministers are still discussing the Sunday-closing movement. They are still of the opinion that they have not yet lost their fight. The Young Men's Christian Association is also holding to the same idea.

THE VITICULTURAL COMMISSION

For the last time in its existence of fifteen years, the State Viticultural Commission held an annual meeting on the 10th inst. Officers were elected for a year, but in reality for only six months, as by Act of the Legislature the Commission will cease to be on the December 31st next.

At the meeting were present Commissioners John T. Doyle, I. DeTurk, H. W. Crabb, E. C. Bichowsky and Allen Towle. The officers chosen were: President, E. C. Bichowsky; Vice-President, I. DeTurk; Treasurer, Allen Towle; Secretary, Winfield Scott; Chief Executive Officer, Clarence J. Wetmore.

Owing to the reduction of the appropriation for the next six months to $2,500, the Commission decided to vacate its front offices over the first National Bank and content itself with the back rooms, thereby reducing its rent from $150 to $60 a month. There was a proposition to place the exhibit in the California Market, but no action was taken.

The Commission, as a whole, will hold only one more meeting, and that will be in December next, preparatory to going out of existence.

President Bichowsky has appointed the following committees to serve the ensuing six months: Executive—George West, I. DeTurk and John T. Doyle; Finance—Allen Towle, R. D. Stephens and H. W. Crabb; Vine Pests—Charles Bundschu, H. W. Crabb and Geo. West; Distillation—H. W. Crabb, J. de Barth Shorb and R. D. Stephens; Table Grapes—R. D. Stephens, Allen Towle and Charles Bundschu; Anaheim Disease—J. de Barth Shorb and E. C. Bichowsky.

C. M. MANN'S NEW RESIDENCE.

A handsome modern residence on the Presidio Heights, a superb location, is being built by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence M. Mann, on the north side of Washington, between Walnut and Locust streets. It overlooks the bay, and being close to the edge of the Presidio Reservation, there is no probability of the view ever being cut off. The style of architecture is Colonial Renaissance, and the building was planned by Architect Howard Burns.

It is an eight-room house, with finished attic and basement, to cost when complete upwards of $20,000. The approach to the main entrance will be by marble steps. The vestibule is to be paneled with solid oak, with floor of fancy tile. The hall, a large square apartment, will be finished in curly red wood, and will have an open fire-place built entirely of brick.

On the left side of the room there is to be a hall 19 by 15 feet, finished entirely in white and gold. Beyond it there will be a handsome parlor and living room in redwood. In the rear of the hall will be a dining-room finished in oak. The kitchen, pantry, etc., will be on the main floor at the back of the house.

On the second floor there will be a large alcove bedroom, with bathroom annex, three other bedrooms and a finely finished separate bathroom in caustic tile. The servants' room will be in the attic, and there, too, a bathroom is provided for. In the basement there will be a billiard room, wine and store rooms and laundry. Work is now progressing on the house. It will be a handsome addition to the many fine residences of Presidio Heights.

The California Wine Makers' Corporation has formally gathered in the Napa wine. Of the 1894 vintage there were 370,452 gallons, of the 1893 vintage 580,351 gallons, and of older vintages 33,140 gallons, approximately. Of the wine thus transferred to the Corporation, the bulk was for sale, but 16,410 gallons were reserved by the winemakers for their own private contracts. De Pond of Napa, transferred 19,000 gallons; P. Conrade, St. Helena, 19,025; H. W. Helms, Zinfandel, 65,700; J. Oal & Co., Yonerville, 129,000; C. E. Klotz, Calistoga, 2,000; A. From the National Wine and Spirit Association.

A meeting of the Board of Control of the National Wine and Spirit Association was held at the office of the Association in Louisville, Ky., recently, at which were present George G. Bowen, Peter Lee Atherton and Chas. E. Chase, of Louisville, Ky., Mr. Phil Hamburger, of Pittsburg, and Mr. Geo. F. Dieterle of Cincinnati.

Mr. Dieterle was appointed a committee to gather data with reference to simplifying internal revenue regulations when this can be done without detriment to the government or the legitimate dealer.

The following was adopted:

Resolved, That the Secretary of this Association be instructed to communicate with the secretaries of the boards of trade of Peoria, Chicago, Cincinnati and St. Louis requesting them to quote whisky products in the following manner, to wit: Whisky, spirits and finished goods on a basis of 8 and cents for high wines; and that he request the directors of the several boards of trade to adopt this resolution for their future quotations on the books of the several chambers of commerce, and furnish the quotations in exactly this language to the Associated Press reporters each day.

A permanent Railroad Committee, consisting of the following gentlemen—Mr. Geisler, of the Union Dist. Co., of Cincinnati, chairman; Mr. L. Scharf of St. Louis and Mr. John Murphy of Chicago—was appointed, whose duty it shall be to watch the interests of the whisky business in all matters pertaining to freight charges, and the Secretary of this Association was instructed to notify each of the above gentlemen of their appointment.

This following resolution was passed:

Resolved, That the proceedings of the last convention, held in St. Louis, Mo., be published in pamphlet form and mailed to all the wholesale dealers in the United States, and that the president is hereby empowered to carry out this resolution.

The following gentlemen were appointed by the President to serve on the advisory committee of the Association:

Samuel Wertheimer, Pittsburg; I. W. Bernheim, Louisville; R. F. Balke, Louisville; Meyer Friedman, Denver; Louis Tausig, San Francisco; J. E. Daugherty, Keokuk; Ferd. Westheimer, St. Joseph, Mo.; L. Scharf and A. C. Selmer, St. Louis; J. H. Holmes, Cleveland; T. E. Keefe, Oswego; B. J. Semmes, Memphis; I. D. Richards, Boston; Frederick De Bary, New York City; Jos. F. Simmott, Philadelphia; Benjamin Pritz, Cincinnati; W. H. Livingston, Albany, N. Y.; Mr. Schmidt, New Orleans; E. Eppstein, Sherman, Tex.; Wm. Bergenthal and John Barth, Milwaukee; Charles E. Shillebar and John Murphy, Chicago.

Marion E. Taylor, of Louisville, Ky., was elected Secretary of the Association in place of W. W. Bullitt, resigned, for the ensuing year, without compensation, but he was empowered to pay for such services as he may from time to time require, not to exceed in amount $300 per annum.

CALIFORNIA TO THE FRONT.

SANTA CRUZ, June 5, 1895.

There are two articles in the Feuille Viticole of this week and last week which every California vigneron ought to read. They are long, and consequently could not be afforded space in the PACIFIC WINE AND SPIRIT REVIEW, else I would translate them; but the sum of them is this — that France has awakened to the fact that California is a most dangerous country, and something must be done to put her down.

The writer of the articles is one of those able Frenchmen, with cool, judicial minds, who can look at a thing of alarm without wince or bias, state in unmoved terms what it is, and proceed to marshal his forces against it.

Let us look into the matter a little further.

Mons. Petit Laroche, the writer in question, admits, without if or but, that the vins ordinaires of California — that is, California's good sound table wines — are the equal of the vins ordinaires of the Midi. But what does this mean? It means that California's ordinaires, or all the wines which the California Wine Growers' Corporation would stamp "Standard," can be taken pari passu with the great marketable wines of the south of France, which produces the best alimentary wines of the world. California may pat herself on the cheek; she has awoken, like Byron, to find herself famous.

Mons. Petit Laroche having taken the true measure of California and passed upon her the just word, turns on the instant and asks, "But what are we of France to do with California? She has driven our good wines — our vins de carguison, our excellent wines of consumption and general use — out of the American market. To-day our wines are not laid down in a third of the quantity which they used to be, and naturally is it so. We lay down our wines in bond in New York at 40 cents per gallon, then we pay 30 cents duty and sell at 70 cents, while alongside this comes California and sells at 45 cents and 50 cents. The wines being equal, why should we not suffer? Never mind Re-nomme. The whole world, as well as the Hebrew, has learned to cry 'cheap.'"

"Of course, when we come to compare California fine wines with the genuine fine wines of France, we excel California. You would pity her to see her then all black and blue. What do the rich Yankees care for a matter of one dollar or ten dollars? They don't count the dollars when they buy our fine wine, but spell the names on our bottles, every one of which they swallow without a grain of salt. Still, what is the quantity of fine wines which the rich Yankee takes? It does not amount to enough to call it a market, and what would be a market California has annexed."

If Mons. Petit Laroche asks what are we of France to do with California, he has an apt answer. It is: Get the Yankees to take off their tariff of 30 cents a gallon on imported French wine or any other foreign wine. Take the 30 cents off, and presto, France is happy.

Here Mons. Laroche remembers that the United States would not likely lift a duty without a quid pro quo, and a very wise idea occurs to him, which we recommend to the first Democratic administration, namely, reciprocity — France will take California raisins and American beeves free of customs impositions if the United States will do the same for French wines. Raisins are of little use to France whatever, and France is not starving for the lack of beeves, and there will be no loss to France in what she gives, but great gain in what she gets. Yankees, too, love France. When they die they go to Paris, and that happy state of affairs shall be continued.

I cannot conclude without wishing Mons. Petit Laroche all his heart asks. Nevertheless it strikes me that if the Viticultural Commission had not hurried up to Washington in time to stop the infernal madness of the last Congress, California would have been sold to the dogs, and that if the Viticultural Commission had never done anything else than keep on the 30 cents per gallon duty on foreign ordinary wines, they well repaid all that was ever spent on them.

In the face of Mons. Petit Laroche's cry, "Take off the 30 cent duty on our wines — be reasonable, and accept our sprat for your herring," I doubt more than ever the justice and sense of suppressing the Viticultural Commission. The Commission was not perfect — nothing is — and then they had to be learners themselves. All I hope is that the Commission's substitute may stand us as good as the Commission did when Mons. Petit Laroche or his speaker moves for free trade in wine. France acknowledges no defeat, although never was nation drubbed as she.

Our Native Wines Are in High Favor.

California winemakers have a champion in Herman Oelrichs, who has taken the lead in introducing the best of the product on board the North German Loyd Steamship Company's vessels, of which he is the general agent in New York City. Mr. Oelrichs is a man whose influence carries with it weight to attract attention and do away with the prejudices that have been created by the agents and dealers in foreign brands. While on a visit to this State, in company with a number of prominent men of the East during the Midwinter Fair, he became acquainted with the excellent quality of the native wines of California and immediately ordered a large number of cases of claret, hock, Burgundy and champagnes for his own use and for a few friends in the East. During his last visit to this city, about a month ago, he called on Thornton & Pippy, the agents for the wines he had purchased, and said he was so well pleased with the evenness and quality of the wines sent him that he intended placing them on all the North German Loyd steamers, and accordingly gave them the order. The claret, hock and Burgundy are from the celebrated winery of Jacob Seham, of St. Helena, Napa county, and the champagne from the Paul Masson vineyard, of Santa Clara county. These wines will be designated by a special label printed in gold, representing the Golden State, with the name of the manufacturers and the locality from which they come. By this means California wines of a pure character will be introduced by the captains of these vessels to travelers. A large number of other prominent Eastern people who have tested the merits of our native wines have ordered large quantities for personal use. Even the venerable editor of the New York Sun, who has not heretofore shown a friendly spirit toward California wines, has taken occasion to say that his criticisms of California clarets was caused by jugglers who had taken advantage of their popularity and imposed upon the public an adulterated article in the interests of the foreign trade, and that these criticisms have had a wholesome effect in stopping the jugglery. It is no doubt true that enemies have been at work, but when good judges come in contact with the genuine article they become convinced of the superiority of our native wines. The gentlemen who have visited this coast and tested the merits of California wines are experienced in the business, and among those who have ordered largely are J. Sloat Fassett, S. B. Elkins, R. E. Kerans of St. Louis, W. R. Bert and W. C. McClure of Saginaw, Michigan, Joseph Harris, T. S. Kirkwood (a prominent New York club man), L. Terst of Cincinnati and W. T. Mustin of Pittsburg. The manufacturers who have had their wines placed before Eastern consumers through the influence of such prominent men have taken great care in producing the most excellent wines, and in doing so they have done much for that industry throughout the State.—San Francisco News Letter.

The store of Hirschler & Co., the wholesalers and owners of the Ferry Saloon, on Market street, was burglarized recently. About $1200 in cash, some valuable jewelry, and stock valued at $10,000 were taken. No clue to the thieves has been discovered.

Mr. Kingman, of T. H. Sherley & Co., is again on the Coast looking after the interests of "New Hope" and "E. L. Miles." He will remain probably about six months.

THE above celebrated brands of Whiskey are still leaders, care without regard to expense having always been taken to keep the goods to the highest standard in quality, their popularity now being unequalled.

The distilleries that make the above brands never made private brands. Notice the feathered sticks in the Imperial brand. They are correct cuts of the celebrated hand mash sticks with which all these whiskies are made.

Directions for Bottling Wine for Private Use.

Part of a paper read by B. F. ADAMS, Liverpool, at a conference of wine growers, Casula, Australia.

Bottling wine for household use is much practiced in the wine growing parts of Europe; but in those countries where people are, by early associations, familiar with the treatment of wine; yet I have never seen a published treatise on the subject. The prevailing ignorance here is very much to be regretted, because it precludes many persons from the wholesome enjoyment of good wine, having the alternative of beer or spirits, both of which are unsuitable to the climate of Australia. At the cost of 1s. a bottle the consumer can have a first-class wine and the grower secure an equally satisfactory return for his outlay. It would also give an impetus to the production of good wine.

The intending purchaser of a cask of wine for home use should before-hand collect a sufficient number of bottles (six to the gallon) of clear glass, so that impurities on the inner surface may be readily detected; also obtain suitable wine-corks from a wholesale druggist. As much of his success as a bottler will depend upon the care and cleanliness with which the operation is conducted, the bottles must be his first care. These should be soaked for a day in water containing a little soda or potash, and brushed inside with a bottle brush, special care being taken to clear out the cavity round the bottom. Avoid the use of shot, which are put by some people into bottles and shaken up with the water. Bottles cannot be properly cleaned in this way, as shot does not reach that which it is most necessary to remove. When the bottles are washed they should be stood upright, with neck downwards, in a rack erected in a sunny spot in the open air. When drained and dry inside the bottles should be inspected in the full light of the sun, were any impurity invisible when the bottle is wet, inside, will now be readily detected. It is also necessary that the bottle be clean outside, which will follow easily in the process of washing, because impurities on the outside may be confused with those inside, and vice versa. In examining the bottles, pass back all that are not clean for further treatment, and keep the rest in the rack, neck down, till required.

The appliances required in bottling are — bottling-tap, cork-squeezer, small mallet, wooden punch, smaller than the neck of the bottle, and a few long cedar bungs, which may be had from any cooper who does business with vine-growers.

Now, we will suppose that the expected cask has been delivered at the residence of the consumer, who is cautioned and advised to exercise patience, and on no account to rush incontinently for gimlet and peg, and to draw first a sample, then a bottle, forgetting that by so doing he will let air into the cask, and with it germs of fermentation and decomposition, which unseen float about ready to germinate in any fluid susceptible to their influence. To this light and delicate wines are most susceptible. Let him content himself with removing the covering from both bung and tap hole, measure both, and see that he has the right size of both tap and long bung.

Then set the cask up on a solid stand (bricks will do), about 18 inches high, so that plenty of room is afforded for filling the bottles, taking care to have the tap end of the cask outward and some two inches lower than the other end. See that the bung is upward and chocks fixed to prevent the cask from rolling and disturbing sediment.

It does not follow that the wine must repose in a cellar — any part of the house will do if the temperature is fairly equable—but, of course, a cellar is the best. Once set up, the cask should never be disturbed till the wine is in the bottles, and as soon as empty a piece of sulphur match (made by passing a strip of calico rag through melted sulphur) should be burned in it and then corked and bunged tight. As long as the fume of sulphur remains no germ of impurity will affect the cask, which should be at once returned to the wine grower, who will be glad to allow full value, if it has been carefully attended to. After this digression, we return to our cask, which should rest quietly for a week or ten days, or such period as may be directed by the vendor, in order that it may recover from the effects of the journey. No sampling must be done meantime; it would lead to disappointment to the purchaser and injustice to the vendor. The former would not recognize the clear crisp wine he had admired in the cool cellar at the time he made his selection, and would, in all probability, imagine that the grower had substituted an inferior article for the wine he had chosen. He may be assured that many weeks must elapse before the will recover from what is termed 'sickness,' caused by the shaking and change of temperature it has undergone. On the other hand he may be consoled by the fact that, if he bottles successfully, in three months the bottled wine will be better than that remaining in the original cask. This is another digression; but I hope that my readers will remember that the cask was allowed a week to recover from its journey, at the end of which time it is to be tapped.

If the tap-hole is stopped with a cork, pick away the outside of the cork with a knife, apply the tap, and see that it will fit. If so, wrap it round with a strip of thin wet rag, give a smart blow with the mallet or billet of wood; the cork is forced in and the tap takes its place without losing any wine. If the wine does not flow without air gurgling up the tap, bore a small gimlet hole near the bung and insert a peg. Draw from the tap about half a tumbler and then catch a sample in a wine-glass, and if it is clear when held between the eye and a candle in a place which would otherwise be dark, the wine is in condition, and the sooner it is bottled and corked up the better. Once started, let nothing stay proceedings till the last drop is out of the cask.

After the wine ceases to run from the tap, carefully tilt up the back end of the cask, and continue to draw till no more will run; then knock out the tap, catch the rest and bottle it also. After tilting, keep all bottles separate, cork with slight hand pressure, stand them on end, and in a few days decant off the clear wine, which will be almost as good as the rest.

Should there have been no tap-hole, or one that was unsuitable, a new hole should be bored carefully with a center-bit, till the wine begins to exude from the orifice. Then proceed as before, for the thin wood remaining will splinter off before the driven-in tap.

If it is unavoidably necessary to stop bottling during the process, by all means burn a small piece of sulphur match, hooked on a piece of wire, over the wine in the cask, and leave the fumes in the cask, bung lightly but firmly.

The process of corking need scarcely be described. The corks should be steamed and drained, each cork being squeezed in the cork-press to exclude moisture before driving. Some persons dip the cork in wine to facilitate driving. In cases where the mouth of the bottle will be found too small to take a whole cork, it is open to cut the cork in half, and drive the half cork to its proper position, say one-eighth of an inch below the top of the neck, with the wooden punch. The bottles corked with half corks may be set aside for early use. After corking the bottles should be piled away on their sides, and on no account should they be allowed to stand on end, even for a week; the cork may dry and admit air.

In ordering a cask I often request the owner to add a fining of Spanish earth before sending away, but I would not advise that this be done contrary to the advice of the grower, who is responsible for the condition of the wine.

I am aware that exception is taken by some to the use of Spanish earth, on the ground that it flattens the taste of the wine. After long experience, I have never perceived this effect. I think that the skeptic would be convinced by putting the full quantity required to fine a hogshead into a bottle. Then fill up, and after a day or two taste the clear wine from the top.

If boiled and properly prepared by boiling a small quantity of water, evaporated to the consistence of cream, and then forced through cloth, scarcely any taste will be perceptible even in this concentrated form. I also believe that the pure earth is absolutely insoluble in wine. There may be some impure samples about, but I have found none.

I cannot too strongly impress and repeat my caution against admission of air to the cask or uncorked bottles. The air of cellars, especially is charged with the germs of fermentation and decomposition, which are, however, destroyed by fumes of burning sulphur (sulphurous acid gas), although the gas may be so attenuated and dispersed as to be perceptible to the organ of smell only.

Wines containing nearly the maximum amount of natural alcohol — say equal to 25 per cent. of proof spirit — have greater power of resisting the development of germs, and may be exposed many days or several weeks without being spoiled; whereas, as many hours would injure a light, delicate wine of say 18 per cent. proof spirit.

Unless the purchaser is a really good judge of wines, I would advise him to deal only with a grower of known experience, etc., who would, for his own credit, see that only wine of mature age and in suitable condition for bottling was supplied.

Henry Brune, of Naber, Alfs & Brune, has gone to New York for a short rest. He took his children with him, and before returning will see them safely aboard a steamer for Germany, where they are to attend school.

Crane, Hastings & Co. have decided to wind up their business and retire. Mr. Crane is anxious to retire, and Mr. Benjamin has other interests which require attention. The firm is one of the oldest on the Coast and retires with a good name and reputation.

Henry Lehrke, the well known grocer and wholesaler, died at his home in South San Francisco on the 12th. He had been in business for many years, and left a widow and four children — three sons, who were in business with him, and one daughter.

R. E. Schulz is now identified with the agency of the West Disinfecting Co. Its disinfecting appliances, and particularly chloro-naphtholeum, are known to be the only perfect disinfectants produced, which everybody should put to use to obtain relief from objectionable insects, bad odors and germs. Mr. Schulz will take pleasure in explaining the merits of his goods. His office is 320 Sansome street, San Francisco.

UNUSUAL COMPLIMENT.—The Rev. Sam Jones, the evangelist, tells the following story: "I seldom address an audience that I don't think of the words of the good old colored woman after I had preached to a great concourse of colored people on one occasion. This large, fat old colored woman—I suppose she would weigh 200 pounds—came up to me and gave me her hand and said: 'God bless you Brudder Jones; yo' is every body's preacher, and everybody loves to hear you preach, and every nigger loves to hear you; and brudder Jones you preaches more like a nigger than any white man that ever lived; and Brudder Jones, you's got a white skin, but, thank God, you's got a black heart!'" —Ron's Horn.

Two years ago the Dominion of Canada appointed a Prohibition Commission of five members to inquire into and report on the question of the advisability of adopting total prohibition for Canada. The commission went to work and thoroughly examined into the matter, and gave two years of hard study to the question. They have finally submitted their report, and have come to the conclusion that the effect of prohibition on the various provinces of the Dominion would be to wipe out a very large and important manufacturing business. Operators in Kansas, Iowa and Maine lead them to believe that the prohibition of the manufacture and sale of intoxicants could not be enforced in Canada any more than in the United States.

Superintendent L. Vasconi, of the Italian-Swiss Colony, has informed us, and with a great deal of pride, that a shipment of 60 barrels of assorted wines has just been made to Switzerland. While this shipment, from a quantity stand-point, is infinitesimally small compared with their usual sales, yet when it is considered in a different light it is vastly of more importance. The fact that California wine is meeting with favor in a country that borders on one of the greatest wine sections in the world speaks volumes in our praise. This is the second of a like consignment, and Superintendent Vasconi feels greatly elated that the wines of the Colony are competing with the foreign production at their very doorstep.—Clorvalde Reville.

THE ONLY GENUINE BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

EQUALLED BY NONE.

"CANADIAN CLUB" WHISKY

Distilled and bottled by
HIRAM WALKER & SONS, LIMITED
WALKERVILLE, CANADA.

The age and genuineness of this whisky are guaranteed by the Excise Department of the Canadian government by certificate over the capsule of every bottle. From the moment of manufacture until this certificate is affixed the whisky never leaves the custody of the Excise officers. No other government in the world provides for consumers this independent and absolute guarantee of purity and ripeness. "Canadian Club" whisky is particularly adapted for medicinal use.

Bartholomay
BREWERY CO. ROCHESTER, N. Y.
 THE City of Rochester, with its abundant supply of magnificent water and its close proximity to the best barley and hop producing districts of the country, affords unsurpassed facilities for the production of such health giving and palatable beer as brewed by the "BARTHOLOMAY BREWERY CO.," Rochester, N. Y. Bartholomay's "Fine Standard" unquestionably is the purest and best beer in the market, and the "Knickerbocker," brewed of the choicest material will, we feel confident, on account of its exquisite properties, soon become a favorite with lovers of a high grade and delicate beer. WALDEN.

WALDEN COGNAC.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets. It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

THE HALF YEAR'S TRADE.

Statistics Showing the Volume of the Liquor Business in the First Half of the Year 1895.

If, as is frequently asserted, the imports of champagne are to be taken as a gauge of the general business of any community, general business in California during the first half of 1895 has been much better than it was in the first half of 1894. The imports of champagne have been about double what they were in the corresponding period of 1894, but the showing is small as compared with the same period in 1893 and 1892.

The whisky imports have fallen off to a considerable extent, while the imports of spirits and alcohol have more than held their own. The falling off in whisky imports is not only attributable to the general dullness of trade, but is also due to the fact that stocks of free goods on hand were drawn upon for consumption to the last limit by wholesalers before being supplemented by new stocks from the East at the added tax-rate of $1.10 per gallon.

Considering that California has had a dull year; that business depressions and business reactions always reach the Coast at the very last; that the price of agricultural products has been unprecedentedly low—and this is an agricultural State; and that no great public or private improvements have been made, the showing made by the liquor trade is at least gratifying. And now that California has an incipient boom started, the last six months of the year should more than atone for any deficiencies that may be noted in the figures that follow on the succeeding pages.

MARKET REVIEW.

CALIFORNIA WINES —The condition of the market continues to be steady, and of such a volume that could not be expected at this time of the year, particularly when the general trade of the country is considered. The approach of the vintage seems to have no bad effect upon values of old stocks. Buyers know that country cellars are generally depleted, and holders of the mature goods are basing values on the rising future market. In other words, there is no probability of there being more merchantable wines than the demand will require, and the vintage of '95 will probably not have any appreciable effect on prices. It is the opinion of the REVIEW, and of others competent to judge, that before the '95 wines are ready for consumption there will be a decided shortage in old goods; all of which must tend to advance prices. The threatened destruction of vineyards in Sonoma district by grasshoppers has disappeared, and, unless the vines are injured by north winds or excessive heat, the crop of this year will be a fairly good one. As we go to press a report comes from the Santa Clara district that grasshoppers have appeared in such numbers as to threaten the destruction of at least one-half the crop. The only remedy thus far discovered is that used by the Italian-Swiss Colony, the formula of which appears elsewhere in this issue.

Exports for the half month have been of fair volume, and the receipts from interior cellars have been largely in excess of the same month last year. Sweet wines are holding their own in fairly good shape.

The following is a comparative statement of the receipts of wine and brandy at this point for six months — January 1st to July 1st — 1894 and 1895:

Advices from throughout the East, based on the revival of general business, indicate that the fall and winter trade in California wines will be greatly improved in comparison with business done last year.

Recent advices from New York are as follows: "During the last two weeks the wholesale trade has had but little to do in wines, while the jobbers catering to the hotel trade have been exceedingly busy; but, as the latter are closely related to the former, it is fair to presume that more activity will soon develop throughout the entire trade. Prices are well maintained by the dealers, and, with the exception of the lots offered at auction, there are but a few outside lots on the market. The reports from California are very encouraging. Commenting on the situation, a San Jose grower writes as follows: 'The wine interest is looking fine; our exports still continue large, and New York will soon have to take a back seat. Even New Orleans is taking more wine. The growers here are rather disinclined to sell, at present, preferring to wait until they are assured of a good crop of grapes: the vineyards are looking fine at present, but there is always something to cut the crop short, and we need a big lot of wine now to fill our empty cellars."

A dispatch from New York dated the 26th says: "Messrs. Sgobel & Day held an auction sale of California wine today, with the following results:

From St. Helena—J. Riesling, 22c; Sauvignon Verte, 23½c; Riesling, 25c; Angelica, 53½c; Hoek, 24c@20c; Sweet Muscatel, 38c@39c; Riesling, 25c@23c.

From Elm Grove—Sherry, 42½c@35½c; Madeira, 30c@27c.

From Calistoga—J. Riesling, 17½c@17c; Sauterne, 19c@16½c; Hoek, 17c; Gutedel, 17½c@17c.

From Sacramento—Sherry, 38c@34c, in barrels; 40c@37½c, half-barrels.

Some of the wines today sold higher than they did at the last sale, but most of them sold a little lower. The attendance was not large, and buyers have apparently stocked up for the summer, the bidding being rather sluggish. Messrs. Sgobel & Day announced that they would have no further auction sales until September, excepting possibly a small lot of sherry.

There were also sold for account of W. T. Minusc, 100 barrels Natoma Vineyard Company's port wine from 36c@33½c, making an average of about 35 cents, which was considered a shade lower than the market for this class of goods.

CALIFORNIA BRANDIES.—With respect to brandies, there is nothing to say except that they are in light demand, and there is no probability of a change for the better until after the summer months have passed.

WHISKIES.—The seasonal quietness for whiskies prevails, but there is little complaint, as it is to be expected that dullness will be the order during the months of June and July. At the same time, the prospects indicate that the fall and winter trade will be better than it has been for three years past. In the Eastern market the distillers and jobbers are much encouraged over the outlook, which promises a revival that will start the business on a sound basis. Every condition promises such a change. The fact alone that free stocks, that were tax-paid to avoid the internal revenue duty, will have been practically withdrawn from the market and passed into consumption, is sufficient to give stocks in bond a largely increased value. Summing up the situation, we look for the liveliest time in the general whisky market, beginning next fall, that has been experienced for many years.

IMPORTATIONS.—The trade in imported goods, in sympathy with other lines, is quiet, and will probably continue so until the opening of the fall trade.

We have received from the Industrial Publishing Co. of Owensboro, a 300 page hand-book entitled "Nineteenth Century Hand-Book on the Manufacture of Liquors, Wines and Cordials without the use of Distillation; also the Manufacture of Effervescing Beverages and Syrups, Vinegar and Butters." The book is compiled by William Baily Bryant, and the title explains its contents and purpose.

A new wine cellar is to be built at once in the Alexander Valley, Sonoma county. It will have a capacity of 100,000 to 200,000 gallons.

Kunkel & Hoch, the wholesalers of Portland, Ore., have dissolved. The business will be continued by Mr. Hoch.

CHICAGO, June 26, 1895.

Stagnation seems to be the predominating influence in trade in the liquor line in this part of the country at the present time. Whisky is moving very slowly, just sufficient to meet consumptive demands, and there does not appear to be any immediate relief from the conditions prevailing.

The long internecine fight in the ranks of the Whisky Trust has at last seemingly come to a focus, and the victory has gone to the organization committee, as Judge Showalter has handed down a decree ordering a public sale of the assets of the Distillers and Cattle Feeders Co. at an upset price of $9,800,000, and as much more as they will bring. The decision has in a measure stiffened the stock of the company on the exchange, as it has advanced several points since the rendering of the decision. Another trust, the Chicago and Milwaukee Brewers Association, which was formed three years ago for the purpose of controlling the beer market, and for some time made life a burden to brewers outside of its ranks, has given up the ghost and disbanded.

In California wines and brandies the trade is light, but in a rather satisfactory condition all round when other lines are considered. Dealers all report a steady increase in consumption, and the numerous "wein handlungs" which handle almost exclusively California wines, speak well for the progress California wines are making in this city. This result is owing almost entirely to a few California growers and producers, Louis Zierngibl, Korbel Bros., Aug. Wilkens, H. W. Crabb and others who have come here, and having faith in their wines have opened retail stores and devoted their time and means to the education of the populace, and that they have succeeded, one has but to stroll down the business district, and where several years ago "Rhine Wine," etc., held full empire, now California wines have taken their place, and there is now, I believe, only one establishment catering to the retail trade where imported wines are sold exclusively. In this line, none have worked harder than the To-Kalon Co., and the executors of the Leland Stanford Estate have good reason to congratulate themselves on the progress of their campaign of educating the American public that there is no necessity to go to France to secure a pure high-grade Cognac. In Chicago, "Vina" brandy is "King of Cognacs," and its subjects are many and loyal. At the splendid store, 284 Wabash Ave., Vina is predominant, and the beautiful stencil of the Vina Distillery is in evidence everywhere, while at the retail store at 194 La Salle Street, is piled some 500 cases of Vina Brandy in the center of the room, as a display, in direct view of the thousands of bankers, brokers, Exchange members and other solid business men whose interests center in this, the "Wall Street" of Chicago. That this lavish display attracts the attention of all whom it is intended to interest is amply evidenced by the hundreds of inquiries and orders that daily are attended to by the staff of employees in the two stores. The boast of Capt. C. E. Shillaber, the Eastern agent of the Vina Distillery, when he said about a year ago, "Vina Brandy has come to stay," is now more than verified by the magnificent progress this famous brandy is making in the channels of trade formerly controlled by a foreign article.

The F. S. Warehouse Co. here has completed arrangements, and now has a bonded warehouse for the storage of fruit brandies in bond, also has special facilities for the handling and care of wines and whiskies stored with them. This warehouse is most favorably situated for the handling of all classes of goods, having exceptional facilities for transportation both by water and railroads, while their warehouse is second to none in the country.

A. B. Crum, formerly Chicago agent of the Meadville, Pa., distillery, has resigned, and is now the representative of "Old Limestone," Maysville, Ky., bourbon, and is doing nicely in introducing this whisky to the Chicago retail trade.

PRESIDENT ROSSI'S CURE.

P. C. Rossi, president of the Italian-Swiss Agricultural Colony at Asti, Sonoma County, thinks that salvation is in sight for the grasshopper plagued ranches. A remedy for the pest has been discovered that means their swift and certain destruction. It is cheap in cost, simple in its composition, and easy of application. He says:

"About four days ago I was informed that the grasshoppers were eating the crops and seriously damaging the vineyards in our Colony and also those in our vicinity."

"Inasmuch as we had a similar experience ten years ago, we at once prepared to use the same means to check their ravages that had been used and which is the only one that has so far proved successful. At the time mentioned the grasshoppers ate more than forty acres of vines.

"The poison we used at that time was a composition of: 35 pounds of middlings, 25 pounds of bran, 25 pounds of arsenic, 1 gallon of water, 3 gallons of molasses.

"This must be thoroughly mixed so that every particle of bran and middlings receives a portion of the arsenic.

"The mixture is applied by putting a tablespoonful of it at the foot of each vine. The grasshoppers, before reaching the leaves, are attracted by the smell of the mixture and will eat it in preference to the leaves, and in a very short time the ground will be found covered with dead hoppers.

The grasshoppers generally travel in a straight line and eat the vines in rows, so that if the poison is applied on three or four rows of the vines, near the fences and near the roads, those three or four protected rows will prevent the spread of the pests into the body of the vineyard.

"Last Monday I sent up forty sacks of the mixture and the same was immediately applied. To-day I had the pleasure of receiving a letter from the superintendent informing me that the grasshoppers were being rapidly killed in large numbers, and that the mixture had again proved thoroughly effective.

"I would suggest that every ranch owner in the State be prepared to immediately apply the mixture as soon as the grasshoppers appear."

The Los Angeles Express editorially approves of the letter of President Edoff, of the California State Protective Association, to the Oakland saloon keepers, notifying them that they must obey all reasonable laws and ordinances. Henry Tostmann, President of the Los Angeles Branch, has notified all members in Los Angeles that they must rigidly observe the law there, closing the saloons at midnight Saturday and remaining closed Sunday.

Notes and Personals.

Charles Stern & Co. have succeeded to the wholesale liquor business of Stern & German, of Portland, Ore.

Donald McDonald has retired from the firm of Carroll & Carroll. The business will be conducted by Geo. Carroll alone.

The business of the defunct California Grape Food Company, of Los Gatos, has been sufficiently brought to a close to enable the creditors to judge of what they will receive. The company will pay a dividend of about 10 cents on the dollar.

The German Saloon-keepers' Association has elected the following officers: President, John Hagler, Vice-President, R. Kummlander; Treasurer, G. Gunther; Secretary, J. Hoss, Jr.; Sergeant-at-Arms, W. Rinecke; Trustees, H. Hermann, J. Rumsch; Justice Committee, J. Hagler, J. Bernhard, J. Fritchi, D. B. Fakter, J. Mangels.

Judge Wood of Oakland has found Henry Hennings guilty of selling liquor without paying the city license. Hennings conducts a bar on Long Wharf, and the question involved was as to the true western boundary of the city. Hennings claiming that his place of business is beyond the boundary. The case will be appealed to the Superior Court.

The Muller Winery, in Sonoma county, has been leased to Miller & Hotchkiss, of Healdsburg, for five years, the lease to commence July 15, 1895. The lessees are to pay an annual rental of $900. They are also going to erect an addition 90x46 feet, which will make the winery one of the best in the county. Its capacity will be increased to over 160,000 gallons, and Messrs. Miller & Hotchkiss will run it to its full limit.

The income of seven storekeepers in the Internal Revenue Department of San Francisco will hereafter be affected by a recent general order of Commissioner Miller. The order provides that when the amount of spirituous liquors in stock at a given store falls below 50,000 gallons, the wages of the storekeeper shall be $3 instead of $4, and when the stock on hand falls below 30,000 gallons the wages of the storekeeper shall be $2, instead of $3, per day.

R. E. Schulz, known under the firm name of R. E. Schulz & Co., ever since Oct. 1, 1891, has branched out in business of his own. He has been identified with the liquor and wine business for the last thirteen years, having been the cashier of Messrs. Lilienthal & Co., the secretary of the San Francisco Breweries, Ltd., and, up to Oct. 1st, 1894, was prominently identified with Messrs. Kohler & Frohling. Mr. Schulz has added to his various branches the Whisky business, he making a specialty as agent for all the best known and prominent distilleries of Kentucky and elsewhere, in addition to which he is prepared to satisfy all of his friends with straight California Wines and Brandy of every nature and description. The firm is engaged exclusively in the wholesale business, and Mr. Schulz will be pleased to welcome all his friends at his new and enlarged quarters, Room 14, 320 Sansome street. His continued good success is assured for the reason that he is a rustler and close financier from the word "Go."

About fifty of the Napa Valley winemakers met at Turner Hall, in St. Helena, recently, to discuss the proposition of forming a stock company for the purpose of leasing the Greystone cellar. The meeting was addressed by J. H. Wheeler and others who are strongly in favor of the movement, and as a result Captain Thomas Amsbury, Henry Lange and C. N. Pickett were selected as a committee to solicit stock. The scheme is on quite a gigantic scale, it being proposed to have the capital stock $100,000, to be divided into 1000 shares of $100 a share. This, however, will be decided at a subsequent meeting. A great deal of interest was manifested among grape-growers, as the feeling is that good prices will be realized for the coming crop.

The schedules of John Osborn, Son & Co., wine merchants, at No. 45 Beaver street, New York, filed on the 24th ult., show liabilities $1,339,602, nominal assets $1,020,714, actual assets $916,096. The assets consist of wine, nominal value $379,251, actual value, $379,251; book accounts, nominal value, $84,658, actual value, $59,069; real estate nominal $117,993, actual value $118,009; stocks and bonds, pledged as collateral, nominal $363,676, actual $352,124; bills receivable, nominal $8,459, actual $1077; cash $6503; bad accounts, nominal $6631, actual $30. Charles S. Osborn account, nominal $52,928, actual unknown. Among the assets are 18,515 shares of stock in the Brooklyn City Railroad Company, actual value $301,794, pledged as security for loans; also, 5240 shares of Mechanics' National Bank, actual value $23,580, also pledged. Among the unsecured creditors are the estate of Frances Pares Osborn, $370,272; Kunkelmann & Co., Reims, France, $201,202; Bisquet, Dubouche & Co., Jarnac, France, $9,559; Chemical National Bank, $19,097.

AUCTION IN ENGLAND.

At the auction of Messrs. Southard & Co., 2 St. Dunstan's Hill, London, E. C., on May 28th the following lots of California goods were sold:

Twenty-five barrels 3 star Natoma cognac, 2 s 9 d to 3 s 1 d per gallon in bond (66 to 74 cents).

Twenty-five barrels "Eagle" Natoma brandy, 2 s 10 d per gallon (68 cents).

Fifty barrels Natoma port, 2 s per gallon (48 cents).

Twenty-five barrels Cupertino Wine Co. charet, 1 s 6 d to 1 s 7 d per gallon (36 to 38 cents).

On June 6th, at the auction sale of John W. Bashford, 14 Hart street, Mark Lane, London, four half-barrels California brandy per ship Springburn, and entered June, 1894, were sold for 3s. 6d. per gallon (84 cents) in bond. This is the best price realized for California brandy at auction in England for some time.

On the 1st instant the Secretary of State of Illinois granted a license for the incorporation of the old Spirit Trust, under the name of the American Spirits Manufacturing Company, with principal offices in Chicago. The capital stock is $35,000,000, $7,000,000 of which is preferred and the balance common stock. The incorporators are Charles R. Holden, Alfred S. Austrian and H. Henry Guerin.

This is the company that proposes to take over the distilleries of the Distillers and Cattle Feeding Company for $9,800,000.

EDOFF'S CIRCULAR ENDORSED.

Commenting on the circular of J. P. Edoff, President of the California State Protective Association, issued to the saloon men of Oakland, and published in the Riviera recently, the Evening Express, of Los Angeles, has this to say:

"The temperance people have secured a new ally in their work of controlling the liquor traffic, and curiously enough it is no other than the liquor men themselves. The California State Protective Association, otherwise the liquor men's society, has concluded to join with the public authorities and the temperance people in seeing that the laws are enforced exactly as they are on the statute books or in the municipal ordinances, and to endeavor to have the laws repealed or their constitutionality decided by the courts when they are found oppressive, instead of violating them.

"In furtherance of this new plan, circulars have been sent around to all the members of the association, warning them that the laws and ordinances must be strictly obeyed, and that the association not only will not defend violators of law, but will assist in punishing them.

"Undoubtedly the association has taken exactly the proper course in this matter, the only course in fact which can gain for it the sympathy and endorsement of the public. Undoubtedly, much of the feeling against the saloon business is due to the system under which so many saloons are run, and because the business in many instances has identified itself with lawlessness and vice. If the liquor men themselves will join hands with the respectable element in the community, to so far as possible enforce the laws and stamp out the establishments which are openly violating the city ordinances, they can do more for the cause of temperance, public morality and the good name of the city than all the other classes of citizens combined. The movement which has been inaugurated seems to be in the proper direction, and if pushed honestly cannot but meet with the hearty commendation of all classes, even the extreme temperance people.

"It is, of course, in the real interest of the business, too, for the more respectably it is conducted the better it will be for itself, since the opposition of the community will be less and restrictive, and oppressive legislation will be less. No one, even the saloon men themselves, deny that the business should be controlled within certain limits, and if they aid to establish those limits and force their members to live within them, they have benefitted not only the community but themselves.

"This new departure seems wise, and is certainly notable, and an evidence of an entire change of policy by the saloon men."

GOING OUT OF BUSINESS.

The State Viticultural Commissioners are winding up the business of the institution as fast as they can, as the commission goes out of existence on the last day of December. They have only $2500 with which to carry on the commission to that time, and in order to retrench in expenses, the Commissioners have given up two of their rooms at 101 Sansome street, thus reducing the item of rent from $150 to $60 a month. When their business is ended, they will have to turn over all their furniture and a very valuable library on viticulture to the Regents of the State University.

There is much to be done yet. Secretary Winfield Scott, in discussing this subject, said:

"We are now engaged in drawing up a law which we hope will pass at the next session of Congress as a portion of the tariff and revenue bill, which is sure to be presented in some shape. We wish to secure the right to blend and bottle brandy in bond. At the present time the American distiller of brandy or whisky cannot remove the liquor from one portion of the bonded warehouse to another, and bottle in bond as is done in Canada; and no American bottled goods bear the Government stamp, the same as the goods in wood do. One reason why the Canadians have worked up such a trade for bottled whisky in this country is that they have what corresponds to an internal revenue stamp over the neck and cork of their bottles, which practically affords a government guarantee of purity. I am informed that the American whisky distillers will undoubtedly move to secure the passage of a law similar to the one that we want regarding the right to bottle whisky in bond, but I doubt if they would care to have the blending provisions which we desire, as they would only wish the right to reduce proof whisky before bottling."

WINE FOR FIRE FIGHTING.

The wine cellars of the S. Lachman Co., on Brannan street, had a narrow escape from destruction in the great fire which cleaned out two blocks of houses and factories on the evening of the 27th ult. The brick walls of the cellars acted as fire walls against the flames, but at times it was feared that the cooper shops would go, and it was only by vigilant care that the shingle roof of the wine cellar did not take fire.

For a time there was dread that the fire would get over the cellar to the wooden structures. The wind seemed to be controlled by a devilish imp who was sporting with it in a horrible way. It raised a great dust, which blinded people, and carried immense pieces of wood high in the air, dropping them where they would continue the work of destruction. Whirlwinds of great sparks swept towards the cellars, and desperate efforts were made to save them. The cooper shop and other buildings there would go in a few minutes if ever the fire reached them or if a blaze were started on the roof of any of them.

The workmen had gone home, but most of them returned and labored with hose and buckets. So much water was poured on the roof of the winery that it ran down to the engine room. The heat on the roof made the water nearly boil, and when this deluge caused a deep pool in the engine room, the men who were running the engine had to quit. The engine was stopped, and then the supply of water for the hose also ceased, the water which is used for the winery being obtained by pumping.

In this extremity a great wine vat, holding 10,000 gallons, which is set above the ground in the open air like a wind tank, was opened, and thousands of gallons were run through the hose in place of water. Wine ran like water. The tank was almost entirely emptied of its contents, and the building had a sanguinary, or reddish, aspect. About 1,250,000 gallons of sweet and dry wines were in the vaults, and had Lachman & Co been among the losers their loss would have amounted to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

The opportunity of the Prohibition press to jeer is now presented. We suppose that as a unit these journals will say that extinguishing fire is the only good use to which wine can be put.

MORE WINE TRANSFERS.

The California Wine Makers' Corporation is still formally gathering in wine under agreements with the producers. On the 22d ult, the following transfers were received from Alameda county: Osgood Putnam, 12,700 gallons of dry and red wines, and 2,000 gallons of white wine; Palmdale Company, 340,000 gallons red; Paul de Vaux, 3600 gallons red; Valley View Vineyard Company, 18,000 gallons red and 6,800 gallons white; Charles Weller, 19,300 gallons red and 12,700 gallons white; Eugene Paris, 35,000 gallons red and 15,000 gallons white; J. A. Salazar, 1,000 gallons red; C. Sigrist, 7,500 gallons red; C. C. Melver, 93,400 gallons red and 11,600 gallons white. The total amount of wine that passed by the transfer was 691,900 gallons of dry red wine and 18,000 gallons of dry white wine.

On the same day additional transfers were recorded in Sonoma county as follows: Fulton Winery Corporation, Fulton, 127,000 gallons; L. H. Cunningham, Windsor, 6,830 gallons; A. Frei and J. C. Reed, Healdsburg, 48,000 gallons; McCoy & Hotelkiss, Healdsburg, 55,000 gallons; Parker Vineyard Company, Cloverdale, 16,250 gallons; J. L. Alton, Fulton, 54,000 A. J. Dehay, Cloverdale, 10,000 gallons; Italian-Swiss Agricultural Colony, Asti, 585,000 gallons; Martin Feusier, Sebastopol, 179,000 gallons — making 1,081,080 gallons.

DEATH OF ISAAC RIDLEY.

Isaac Ridley, senior publisher of Ridley's Wine and Spirit Trade Circular, of London, died on the 9th of June.

Mr. Ridley was born in 1838. He was admitted to partnership with his father, George Ridley, in 1867, and in 1872 he became sole owner of the paper. Mr. H. J. Newman was admitted in 1883, and in 1886 Mr. Ridley retired from active business owing to ill-health.

William Wolf & Co. are entitled to the thanks of the trade for the energy with which they prosecute infringers on trademarks. Recently they had George Lang arrested for selling California champagne under a "Pommery Sec" label. If every firm in town had the same practice, the label infringers would soon be rather scarce.

HAWAIIAN DUTIES ON WINE.

The Legislature of Hawaii has assembled and the following has been sent to it:

STATE OF CALIFORNIA,
 BOARD OF STATE VITICULTURAL COMMISSIONERS,
 OFFICE OF THE SECRETARY,
 SAN FRANCISCO, May 15, 1895.

To the Honorable, The Legislature of the Republic of Hawaii:

Your memorialists, the Board of State Viticultural Commissioners of California, representing the wine growers and shippers of the State, respectfully call your attention to the following:

That during the past five years there has been a steady increase in the shipment of California wines to Hawaii. Such shipments pay your regular import duties, wine not being included in the list of free commodities under the reciprocity treaty existing between Hawaii and the United States.

That in the past two years there has arisen in Hawaii a demand for sake, from Japan, a liquor made from rice, and which has been admitted to Hawaii on the payment of the same rate of duty as California wine. That this sake can be produced at a far lower price than it is possible to produce genuine wine from the grape.

We would respectfully draw your attention to the statistics of imports of wine and sake into Hawaii in the years 1893 and 1894, the figures being furnished by United States Consul General Edgar Mills.

	California Wines.	Sake.
1893 (gallons).....	103,402	3,804
1894	124,729	83,095
Increase (gallons).....	21,327	79,291

Carefully prepared statistics of exports of California wines to Hawaii in the first four months of 1895 show the following shipments:

	Cases.	Gallons.	Value.
January	55	11,770	$ 5,687
February	25	7,590	3,462
March	23	6,068	3,903
April	139	8,214	4,528
Total, four months.....	242	33,642	$17,580

The average of exports of 1895 has not held that of 1894:

It is needless for us to impress upon your attention the mutual advantages which accrue to Hawaii and the United States through the existence of the reciprocity treaty, advantages which the producers of California are unable to share. We are the only class of California producers who do not benefit directly or indirectly by this treaty, and to-day we find ourselves in ruinous competition with a grain-made "wine." We deem it needless to inform you of the purity of our products, and of the superiority of true vinous beverages from a hygienic stand-point over any imitation article.

We, therefore, as producers and shippers of wine and as residents of a country and State having close business and social relations with you, respectfully urge upon your honorable body to take such measures, either in the form of a reduction of the duty on wine or the placing of an additional duty on wine not made from the grape, or to give us relief in such manner as your judgment may deem proper. Very truly yours,

THE BOARD OF STATE VITICULTURAL COMMISSIONERS,
 By WINFIELD SCOTT, Secretary.

The will of Francis T. Eisen has been filed for probate. His estate consists of real estate on Stevenson street, a vineyard in Fresno, and real properties in other counties, all of which, over and above debts, is estimated to be worth $250,000. The deceased left minute directions as to the management of his estate, most of which is to be held in trust for fifteen years. It was his wish that the real estate in this city be sold in order to provide funds for the reduction of a mortgage on the vineyard at Fresno. Directions were also left for the future conduct of the business of the Eisen Vineyard Company. The major portion of the estate was left by the deceased to his four children, Elonore Lopez of Guatemala, Mary Eisen, Adelaide Eisen, and a son, Augustine C. Eisen. The two daughters first named and Ami Vignier are appointed by the will to serve as trustees, and also as executors without bonds. The testator made several bequests to brothers and sisters residing in Sweden. The following relatives and friends are to receive $100 each: Gustaf, a brother, residing in this city; his nephews, Theodore Eisen, of Los Angeles, Edward Eisen, of San Francisco, and Frank Eisen, of Ukiah; his nieces, Cecelia Curlett, Emilia McLane, Ada Eisen, Alice Eisen and Jenny Joost, all of San Francisco; his sisters-in-law, Mrs. Leonora Vignier, Mrs. Filomena Crabb, Umpara Biven, Miss Helen Ansa and Miss Lola Ansa; Mrs. Lulu Ferrare, of Portland, and Fannie J. Chipman, of Alameda.

From the Loew Filter Co.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 25, 1895.

GENTLEMEN: We beg to notify you, that, for the purpose of the better demonstration of the workings of our improved system filters, we have established an agency for the Pacific Coast at No. 7 First street, southeast corner Market, this city, under the management of Mr. Franz Kitz, who will be prepared to show and point out the great superiority of our system machine above all others hitherto known to the trade. All orders should be made through him, and he also will be pleased to give all such further particulars as will be required.

You are, therefore, respectfully invited to call at above address, and see the filter in operation, to enable you to form your own judgment as to its merits.

Yours truly,

THE LOEW FILTER Co., Cleveland, O.

From L. Gandolfi & Co.

From Moore & Sinnott.

We beg leave to inform you that we contemplate closing our distilleries at Gibsonton, from July 1st to January 1st, next, and, if holders of existing contracts for our fall 1895 product, will kindly forward them to us, we will take pleasure in extending them six months from the dates the whisky was to be manufactured, and upon the same terms as those named in present contracts. We have also decided to limit our production for the first six months of 1896 to not more than ten thousand barrels, and parties desiring that inspection, will please communicate with us on this subject at an early day, as we shall have but a very limited quantity of Spring 1896 product to offer when the above-named extended contracts are completed.

Very respectfully, MOORE & SINNOTT.

From Moore & Sinnott—Special Notice.

We deem it important to inform purchasers of our Old Rye whiskies that unscrupulous parties are paying high prices for empty barrels of our brand for the purpose of refilling them with an inferior article, and selling them as our genuine whiskies.

Purchasers are cautioned to examine the Internal Revenue stamps placed by the United States Government upon the head of each package, and if our name does not appear thereon, they can rest assured that the contents are spurious.

It is our intention to prosecute to the fullest extent of the law all persons who are engaged in the above-named reprehensible practices, or who are in any way infringing upon our name and trade-mark. Our customers are therefore earnestly requested to assist us in suppressing such criminal transactions by defacing the brands when they dispose of our empty packages, as it will be to our mutual advantage to entirely suppress such fraudulent dealings at the earliest possible date.

Very respectfully, MOORE & SINNOTT.

From Dillinger & Sons.

RUFF'S DALE, PA., June, 1895.

We desire to inform you that on the 6th day of June, 1895, we shall discontinue the operation of our distillery, and purpose withholding the resumption thereof until the 1st day of January, 1895.

THE above celebrated brands of Whisky are still leaders, care without regard to expense having always been taken to keep the goods to the highest standard in quality, their popularity now being unequalled.

The distilleries that make the above brands never made private brands. Notice the feathered sticks in the Imperial brand. They are correct cuts of the celebrated hand mash sticks with which all these whiskies are made.

Notes and Personals.

J. H. Borland has retired from the internal revenue brokerage firm of Youngberg & Borland. Capt. Youngberg will carry on the business as heretofore.

Maddux, Hobart & Co., distillers of Cincinnati, O., have dissolved; L. O. Maddux retires, and the business will be continued under the old firm name by Wm. N. Hobart.

E. A. Kolb, of Kolb & Denhard, is camping with a party of friends on the Garcia river, Mendocino county, where, from his last accounts, deer average five hundred pounds, dressed, and the trout are from two to four feet long.

E. C. Bichowsky, of the San Gabriel Wine Co., left for the East, via Portland and the Northern Pacific, immediately after the last meeting of the Viticultural Commissioners. He will be away on business about a month or six weeks.

J. W. and Lizzie B. Johnson both had dismissed without prejudice their suit to contest the probating of the will of the late Paul Jones, of Louisville. The estate, which is valued at about $500,000, will now be distributed to the heirs.

The June number of the Western Broker has been issued in greatly improved form. The size of its pages is reduced one column, but it gives its full amount of matter by adding to the pages. The change will be welcomed as a great convenience by the readers of this trade publication.

Ed. Murphy, of Ed. Murphy & Co., the Lawrenceburg distiller, writes that it is not his distilling firm which has dissolved recently, as he had no partner, but it is the wholesale house at Lexington from which he has withdrawn, taking both his name and brand, "Belle of Anderson County."

The business of John Bardenheier, of St. Louis, has been incorporated under the name of the John Bardenheier wine and Liquor Co. The capital stock is nominally fixed at $50,000, and of the shares John Bardenheier holds 485, his son C. W. Bardenheier 10, and another son, John H. Bardenheier, 5.

Henry Laehman, of the California Wine Association, met with a painful accident in Fresno, on the 22d inst. He was in one of the wineries there, inspecting some wine, when, by a misstep he lost his footing on a plank, falling only two inches; yet one of the bones of his ankle was broken, and he will be laid up for six weeks or two months.

John Osborn, Son & Co., of New York, the prominent importers, have re-organized. The new firm consists of John Osborn, grandson of the founder of John Osborn, Son & Co., and Francis M. McDonald, recently connected with the latter house. Mr. F. B. Lund, well-known from his connection with Hiram Walker & Sons, of "Canadian Club" fame, has been admitted to an interest in the firm.

All but a few of the large cellars of wine in Sonoma county have been cleared out and sold. Of the large cellars of wine there remain but these: Dresel & Co., Sonoma; I. De Turk, Santa Rosa; the Fountaingrove cellars, Santa Rosa; Korbel Brothers' cellar, on Russian River, the wines of which are not on the market in bulk, these proprietors having each a very large trade, which will take all and more than all of the product of their cellars.

Baron Von Schilling has severed all connection with the American Concentrated Must Co., and will henceforth have charge of a pine needle factory in Oregon. Mr. Schilling's successor, Mr. Krug, is to have full management of the must factory in Healdsburg hereafter, but will make no change in the works. Whether or not the must factory will make a big run this year is yet a thing of uncertainty, owing to there being nearly 50 per cent. of last year's output still unsold.

E. Garnier & Co. have just purchased the Hood cellar of wines in the Los Guillicos valley, taking 220,000 gallons, with vintages running from 1888 to 1893. In the past three months this firm has bought 611,000 gallons of wine in Sonoma county alone, including the following cellars: George and E. W. Davis, 180,000 gallons; Steve Storey, 10,000; H. Keppel, 15,000; J. M. Roney, 20,000; Bendel, 6,000; James G. Fair-estate, 80,000; William Hill, Trenton, 60,000; Mrs. Hood, 220,000; G. N. Whitaker, 20,000.

Harry J. Edwards, of the Electrical Improvement Co., of San Jose, offers the following suggestion to the wine men of this State, after taking a month's trip East: "What California wants to do is to commence a campaign of education to teach the people of the East to drink California wine without pouring it from a bottle bearing a French label. The people there pay $2.50 for a bottle of alleged French wine which comes from California, and can be bought here for fifty cents. A campaign of education on the way to handle and to cook California dried fruits ought to be inaugurated also."

Charles E. Bowen, of the Wetmore-Bowen Company, is gaining the reputation of being one of the best window-dressers on the Coast. His bird's-eye maps of the new San Joaquin Valley Railroad, in the windows of the store at 140 Montgomery street, have been removed. In one front window there is a well laid design of bottles of rye whisky, each bottle being covered with glue and then dipped in the grain. The other window is filled with corks, and affixed to the glass itself are corks arranged in the words, "See our corks; Cresta Blanca vintages." The display is a model of window dressing.

A dispatch from Detroit says that Hiram Walker has retired from business. Mr. Walker was the head and founder of the large distilling business at Walkerville, which has of later years been conducted under the name of Hiram Walker & Sons. He was also the founder of that energetic and enterprising town of Walkerville, which was named after him. The vast enterprise which owes its growth to him, and all his other property, has been divided between his three sons, E. C., F. H., and J. H. Walker. Mrs. Theodore Buhl, of Detroit, his daughter, has been given a liberal share of the estate, which is variously estimated to be worth from eight to fifteen million dollars, the major portion of which is invested in the distillery and in the bonded warehouses. Mr. Walker has executed deeds of everything he possesses to his heirs, reserving only a life interest. The transfer is absolute.

ECHOES OF THE CONTEST.

Councils of the Society for the Suppression of the Saloon have been established in Santa Monica, Riverside and Pasadena.

Sunday closing has been laid to rest in Paso Robles. The City Trustees would have nothing to do with the petition for closing.

The City Trustees of Fresno have adopted an ordinance prohibiting "side-door entrances," and also the use of saloons by minors and women.

The Yolo County Prohibitionists will soon ask the Board of Supervisors to submit the Sutter County "dry" law to a vote of the people of Yolo County.

The new Lake County Ordinance calls for an increase in license to $50 per quarter in cities and towns. Every retailer must also supply $2,500 bonds.

The Oakland Enquirer admits at last that the Sunday closing fight in Oakland is lost, and adds that Sunday closing is all but impossible in a wine growing State.

The Supervisors of Santa Clara County have ordered special elections in two sections of that county for the formation of Sanitary Districts under the recent Act of the Legislature.

De McCarthy of San Jose has applied to the Superior Court of Santa Clara County for a writ of mandamus to compel the Mayor and City Council to give him a license at 236 S. Third St., San Jose.

The Police Commissioners of Los Angeles have notified the retail liquor dealers that any one found violating the midnight and Sunday closing ordinances will have his license summarily revoked.

There is a movement on foot among the members of the new City Council of Stockton, to close the bars connected with corner groceries. The special license Committee of the Council will seek to accomplish this by refusing to approve applications for such licenses.

License Inspector Mitchell of Oakland, has caused to be arrested the men conducting bars on the ferry boats, charging them with selling liquor without a license. They already pay San Francisco license, but Mitchell thinks they should pay Oakland license also.

The License Committee of the Trustees of Berkeley has recommended that all licenses granted during any quarter of the year shall expire with the quarter in which issued. Heretofore licenses have been granted for three months, irrespective of the time of beginning of the quarter.

Judge Smith of Stockton has decided that the town of Linden cannot incorporate. Under this decision saloons may be established without paying the high license sought to be collected by the would-be town. All that is necessary is to obtain the San Joaquin County license.

The Trustees of Santa Monica have passed an ordinance forbidding any liquor dealer from dispensing liquor to a minor, intoxicated person or habitual drunkard, and also forbidding the employment of women. Forfeiture of license, and fine and imprisonment is the penalty for violation.

"CANADIAN CLUB" WHISKY

Distilled and bottled by HIRAM WALKER & SONS, LIMITED
WALKERVILLE, CANADA.

The age and gentleness of this whisky are guaranteed by the Excise Department of the Canadian Government by certificate over the capsule of every bottle. From the moment of manufacture until this certificate is affixed the whisky never leaves the custody of the Excise officers. No other Government in the world provides for consumers this independent and absolute guarantee of purity and ripeness. "Canadian Club" whisky is particularly adapted for medicinal use.

WALDEN COGNAC.

WALDEN.

This Brandy, made after the French formula, from selected fresh grapes, has been successfully introduced, and is now regularly sold in the principal markets of Europe, in competition with French Cognac. Official German and French chemists have pronounced it the purest Brandy which comes to their markets. It is especially suited for the drug trade and others, where purity is demanded. While abroad these goods successfully compete, paying same duties as the French, the American buyer has the advantage in price between the Internal Revenue tax assessed here and the customs duties on foreign brandies. Samples will be sent on application.

DIVIDEND NOTICE.

The GERMAN SAVINGS AND LOAN SOCIETY, 526 California Street.

For the half year ending June 30, 1895, a dividend has been declared at the rate of four and eight-tenths (4 8-10) per cent. per annum on term deposits, and four (4) percent per annum on ordinary deposits, free of taxes, payable on and after Monday, July 1st, 1895. GEO. TOURNEY, Secretary.

A REMARKABLE INCREASE.

Magnificent Growth of the Shipments of Wine from the State of California.

Total Shipments of Wine for the First Half Year of 1895—21,383 Cases and 8,503,280 Gallons.

There is a whole story in these figures—a story of the legitimate development of the wine industry; a story of the advantages of co-operation; a story of good prices, good feeling, a revived industry, and of promise for the future.

The shipments of wine overland and foreign have more than doubled since 1892. Prices are better than they were in that year. Vineyard property has taken on a tangible value. In fact, the wine makers, wine shippers and grape growers of this State have every reason to be hopeful of the future.

No agricultural industry in the State is in better condition than Viticulture. The men connected with it in any and every branch are making money, and what is better, have every prospect of making more. They are united. They have a growing market, their cellars are all but empty, and under no circumstances can an increase of crop be expected for at least five years.

What more need be asked?

Analyzing the semi-annual tables presented herewith (which are supplemented by a complete table showing the distribution of wine and brandy shipped overland) it will be noted that the overland shipments have increased enormously. The Central American and Mexican trades are both in a healthy condition. Hawaiian exports show a decrease, owing to the imports of saki (Japanese rice wine) into the Islands. The other foreign markets are in a healthy condition.

As for brandy, the shipments have not grown commensurate with those of wine. Not much brandy has been sent to Germany and England for storage, the revenue laws permitting storage for eight years at home; and the home market itself has fully held up to the average.

The full statistics, which appear for themselves, follow on succeeding pages.

MARKET REVIEW.

BORDEAUX EXHIBIT.

In consequence of the fullness and satisfactory character of the semi-annual tables relating to the trade, our usual review of the business situation is omitted from this issue of the REVIEW.

Late advices from New York are as follows: "The demand for dry wines continues to be small, and is undoubtedly smaller than is usual at this time of the season; still prices are well maintained, and quite a number of dealers, who had figured on buying at low prices at the auctions are now compelled to pay the sellers' prices. It is reported that the holders of wine in California, outside of the Wine Growers' Association, are about sold out; that the outlook is for a very moderate crop—little more than last year—and that there seems to be every probability of still prices for the fall, as there are no more old stocks, the accumulation of years, to be drawn from, it being believed that the latter are now wholly out of the way."

A dispatch from Cincinnati, dated July 12th, says: "Receiver John McNulta, of the Whisky Trust, held a conference to-day with his counsel, Messrs. Boyesen of Chicago and Matthews and Cleveland of Cincinnati, attorneys for the reorganization committee and Thornton Hinley attorney for the resident distillers and distributors. Afterwards a petition was filed in the United States Court for the sale of the consolidated Holart and Maddux distilleries, the same as the Receiver has recently filed in the United States Courts of Illinois, Indiana and Minnesota."

RECENT TREASURY DECISIONS.

The Treasury Department has decided that bottles containing brandy are dutiable as such, and not free as claimed by James Wile & Co. of New York.

That all liquor seized in Alaska for violation of the laws governing the introduction of liquor into the territory must hereafter be sold at Portland, Oregon, and not to druggists at Sitka.

Secondo Guasti, of Guasti & Bernard, Los Angeles, has returned to California after a three months business trip through the East. While gone he met with great success in selling the wines of the firm and made new connections that will be invaluable in the future development of trade.

Bouquet's Bordeaux correspondent has the following to say in relation to the exhibit of California wines at the Exposition of the Societe Philomatique:

"California has a pavilion draped in green velvet, very much on the style of that of Greece, and a great number of merchants of that State have, I am pleased to say, seen fit to send their wines to this exposition. They are placed in very good hands, for Mr. Ducas and Mr. Gard are always ready to permit any one to taste them who so wishes. Decidedly the worst points about the California wines are the bottles in which they are placed. They are badly shaped, badly labeled and badly capped. I say this without any desire to be captious or critical, but the Californians should know it. The exhibitors are as follows: Cupertino Wine Company, Julius P. Smith, Arpad Haraszthy, C. A. Baldwin, Ben Leonard Wine Company, Gran & Werner, Italian-Swiss Colony, L. J. Rose Company, Pierre Klein, John Swett & Fils, Jos. Sladky, Englenook Vineyard, T. Albertz, Beringer Bros., Geo. West & Sons, Ruby Hill Vineyard Company, H. W. Crabb, A. Reppold & Co., C. Schilling & Co., Eisen Vineyard Company, C. Cury & Co., P. G. Sabatie & Co., C. J. Wetmore, California Wine Association, Kohler & Frohling, S. Lachman Company, Kohler & Van Bergen, Las Palmas Vineyard, Los Amigos Vineyard."

MRS. STANFORD'S CLERICAL DETRACTORS.

Everybody in the State of California knows that since the death of the late Senator Stanford the life of his widow has been devoted to managing the estate in such a manner that the Leland Stanford, Jr. University would reap the best possible advantages financially. To maintain this University to the standard set by Senator Stanford she has labored faithfully and well. Among its possessions is the great Vina ranch, which includes the 3800 acre Vina vineyard, the products of which are known in every market in the United States. In an interview in the Evening of the 14th inst. Mrs. Stanford is reported as saying that she had never quite become reconciled to the fact that brandy is made at Vina, but that she had made efforts to control its sale, so that it reached as far as the drug trade only; that this year light wines would be made, and that the brandy output, as far as possible, would be restricted to the drug and medical trade generally.

This has afforded the clerical gentlemen a chance to use their minds with their accustomed gallantry. The onslaught on Mrs. Stanford has broken out in Chicago, and here are utterances of some of the "men of the cloth":

Rev. F. G. Mitchell, Presbyterian

"Her excuse that the brandy will be used for medicinal purposes is all poppycock. A nice college indeed, to send young men to! Do you think any professor would dare advocate temperance there? I most certainly would oppose sending any Christian youth to a college supported by the sale of liquor. Mrs. Stanford can afford to furnish an example by making grape juice and pushing that article, but the idea of making the gift to the University a cloak for this infamous traffic!"

All right. Let the gentleman keep away from the University. No one will miss him or his kind.

Rev. John Rusk: "It is a shame that the University should be brought into odium by Mrs. Stanford's act."

Perhaps this gentleman thinks that he would make a satisfactory manager, at a large salary of course, without further recommendation than that bald statement.

There are plenty more of the same sort of utterances, but these will suffice.

In the midst of all this windy declaration one question is suggested to any practical mind. It is: "Why cannot people mind their own business?" Who constituted these gentlemen the censors of Mrs. Stanford's acts? Is the Stanford estate and the endowment of the Stanford University their property? Not knowing Mrs. Stanford or her sacrifices for education, are they to stand as her censors? And, after all, is there not much truth in the assertion made by Rev. Frank F. Hinkley, a young candidate for the ministry in Oakland recently, that the best brains do not seek the ministry?

These are professing Christian gentlemen—followers of the meek and lowly One who said "She hath done what she could," and, in an extreme case, "Neither do I condemn thee," and one is at a loss to know on what occasion anything the Master they claim to serve taught them to say that Mrs. Stanford's action in this case "is all poppycock." The words are not His words.

We have an added suggestion: While these people are attacking indiscriminately, they should make an onslaught on the University of California for having in its curriculum a course in theoretical viticulture and viticulture. While personally we have grave doubts as to the practical value of any teachings that have rise in that quarter, still the principle is the same.

B. H. HURT INTERVIEWED.

Regarding the question of an agreement among the distillers of Kentucky not to produce any whisky during the coming season, which is being agitated to some extent, Mr. B. H. Hurt, President of the Early Times Distillery Company, says: "I am by no means inclined to stand in the way of any movement looking to the restoration of confidence and the improvement of values, nor am I inclined to be made the instrument of those who merely wish to gain the confidence of the trade, that they may pour forth an ocean of whisky the season following.

"The trouble with the whisky business of this State is that a few distillers want to do all of the business, and in their frantic efforts to sell a vast amount of goods for which there is no demand, and also to freeze out competitors, they will cut prices to, and in some cases below, the cost of production.

"To these few distillers we owe the ills that from time to time oppress the trade, and it is the intention to monopolize or ruin, exhibited by them, that creates the antagonism to co-operation on the part of the small, or more correctly speaking, the conservative distillers.

"No one who is familiar with the vast producing capacity of the distilleries of this State can doubt the real need of some kind of limitation upon the season's output. It is simply commercial suicide to make 30,000,000 or 40,000,000 gallons per year of Kentucky whisky to supply a consumptive demand of 18,000,000 or 20,000,000 gallons.

"Such a course means ruin to distillers and dealers as well. The method of distilling this output however is of the greatest importance. Right and justice must prevail, or all attempts will fail. The small distillers of Kentucky have not forgotten the year of 1888. Some pledge must be given conservative distillers that non-production on their part for the season is not to be followed in the next few years by crops, at single distilleries, of from 20,000 to 60,000 barrels.

"Better far for the conservative distiller to jog along and take his share of the business offering than to encourage a repetition of 1890, '91, '92 and '93.

"If however, the big distillers will pledge themselves to a conservative output for five or ten years, there ought to be no trouble in getting up some kind of an agreement for the coming season.

"In a word, the Early Times Distillery Company will sign an agreement with the other distillers not to run next season, or to run any capacity agreed upon, if every distiller whose plant will make 15,000 barrels or more will agree not to exceed 15,000 barrels per annum for the next five years.

"A crop of 15,000 barrels is big enough for any house to distribute, and such an agreement will do much to restore confidence.

"A closing down in '96 without some such agreement would mean overproduction, the following year or two, of the most demoralizing character, and I will not intentionally give assistance to what must result in such a calamity." —T. M. Gilmore.

The California Tartar works, at Healdsburg, will reopen as soon as grapes ripen. This is another industry not common in America. In fact the only other plant in the country is owned by the same person, George De La Tour. It is located at San Jose. There are three large buildings used in the manufacture of cream of tartar. One is three stories high and has a ground dimension of 90 by 100 feet. The process of making the cream of tartar is simple. The grapes used are mashed into pomace and put into copper perforated baskets into which the steam is introduced. After it has boiled for some time the pomace is pressed and the liquor run into tanks. While it cools the cream of tartar is deposited in crystalline form on the sides and bottom of the tanks. The liquor is then run off. The crystals on refining, become the cream of tartar of commerce. Not only are grapes used in the manufacture of this article, but wine-stones, lees and low grades of wine.

HIS ONE DRUNK.

Nathan Barnes Greeley, Horace Greeley's brother, who recently died at the old Greeley homestead, near Corry, Pa., was one of the most eccentric of men says an old acquaintance. "His farm in Wayne township was one of the finest in western Pennsylvania. For many years he lived alone there, and was simply content to make a living on it. I used to like to go out to his place and hear him talk. I saw him last five years ago. He was then 78 years old, and as hale and hearty as he had ever been. He attributed his excellent physical and mental condition to habitual economy in the use of water, both as a beverage and for lavatory purposes.

"Although I am a Prohibitionist," he once said to me, "I believe that too much water, either taken internally or used externally, is as bad as too much rum. But there is only one excuse for a man to get drunk," he went on. "The only time that a man is excusable for getting drunk, and he is a fool if he doesn't do it then, is when he has a felon on his finger. To get good and drunk is the quickest way in the world to cure a felon. I have tried it, and know what I am talking about. The only time I ever tasted liquor in my life was when I had a felon on my finger. I hadn't had a wink of sleep for three nights. Some one said that a good drunk would cure me. I thought I would try it.

I told my daughter what I intended doing, and then went to Corry and filled up with the kind of stuff they sell in Corry. After loading myself I had 'em fill me a quart bottle of the best they had, and I took that and the lord I had to my daughter's. I didn't like the whisky, but the prescription called for a good drunk, and I got it. For a while, as I found out afterward, I made things lively in my daughter's house, carrying on after the most approved manner of confirmed old toppers. Then I sank into oblivion, and for a time it was a question whether I would come out of it again. But I did, and although the pain and swelling had gone from my finger to my head, the change was a great relief, and I was all right in a day or two, and my felon troubled me no more. It was an heroic remedy, but if I ever get another felon, I'll go off on a second drunk if I'm as old as a century."

It is not yet definitely known whether or not the must condenser at Healdsburg will operate this season. The American Concentrated Must Company nine years ago erected their plant at Geyserville. Three years ago their business became so extensive that they were compelled to seek larger quarters in Healdsburg. This is the only plant of its kind in America. The must, which consists chiefly of grape sugar, is used to raise the quality of inferior wines those lacking sugar and alcohol. The output last year was 1000 barrels, which was shipped to Europe. Twenty-eight men are employed at the condenser during the season.

E. Garnier & Co. have removed their New York headquarters to 426-428 Washington street. They have cellar accommodations in their new quarters, and are much better equipped for business.

Arthur Gruenberg continues to ship his "Bohemian Club" champagne to the Orient. He is finding this connection profitable, and is about concluding a negotiation for the shipment of three hundred cases per month to one firm. Mr. Gruenberg's business has grown steadily, and he is now looking for larger quarters down town.

The stockholders of the Cloverdale Wine Company met recently in regular annual session, the entire stock being represented. It was a very satisfactory meeting, and particularly so on account of the prosperous condition of the business affairs of the company, as shown by the report. The officers selected for the ensuing year are Wm. Caldwell president, J. G. Heald vice president, John B. Cooley Secretary and Manager, Bank of Cloverdale treasurer. Directors—Wm. Caldwell, J. G. Heald, Edward Cooley, W. T. Brush and F. K. Merritt.

J. J. Hanifin & Co., of Oakland (J. J. Hanifin and Frank Kane) have recently extended the business of the firm. They now have a wholesale department for wines and liquors of the very best grades. Mr. Hanifin has carried on the retail liquor business in Oakland for a great many years. By strict attention to business and carrying it on in an honorable manner he has succeeded in amassing a large number of dollars. He owned two saloons, one on Fourteenth street and another on the corner of Seventh and Broadway. For many years Mr. Kane managed the Fourteenth street house, and a few years ago became a partner in the business. Everybody in Oakland knows Mr. Kane, and they all like him. He never gets out of temper and is always gentlemanly and polite.

The Supervisors of Merced County have appointed F. G. Farrar as special counsel to prosecute the liquor cases in Merced County.

The town attorney of Vacaville has reported in a new license ordinance making the retail license $600 annually. The Town Trustees have reported the ordinance back to the attorney instructing him to embody all proposed changes in separate ordinances devoted exclusively to the liquor business.

The people of Wheatland are agitating the formation of a "sanitary district" with a view of closing the saloon of E. Remington.

Warden Aull of Folsom Prison has given notice that he will ask the State Prison Directors to enforce the law prohibiting the sale of liquor within two miles of the Penitentiary. Thirteen saloons and three business houses in Folsom will be affected.

Judge Wood, of Oakland, has decided that the ferry-boat saloon-keepers must pay license as retailers both in San Francisco and Oakland. The Chico Enterprise suggests, in this connection, that under this ruling the men who conduct the bars on the Sacramento and San Joaquin river boats might be called upon to pay local license in every city and county passed through by the boats. The case will be appealed.

A self-appointed committee in Los Angeles consisting of F. M. Stewart, Stephen Bowers, Dr. J. T. Price and Rev. George Morris have issued the following address to the public: "The Los Angeles Anti-Saloon League has been organized in this city to do temperance work on an entirely new plan. It proposes to ask no one to leave his chosen political party, but to ask all temperance people in all the political parties to agree to vote against the open drinking saloon. The city will be canvassed to see how many will sign this agreement. The League has opened headquarters at the corner of Temple and New High streets, and appointed an agent, Rev. J. H. Harwood. The committee ask the earnest and active co-operation of all temperance people."

Councilman Kreig of San Jose has presented an amendment to the liquor ordinance of San Jose, which was given a first reading. The change from the former ordinance is that signatures of property owners in the block where the proposed saloon is to be located are no longer required. A petition is to be required in which the location of the saloon is to be indicated. The petition is to be published in four issues of a newspaper printed and published in San Jose. Opportunity is to be given for citizens to file protests against the proposed saloon. A time is then to be set for hearing these protests. After the hearing, if the protests are not allowed and the petition is granted, the applicant must file a bond in the sum of $2000 for the faithful carrying out of the restrictions of the ordinance. It was intimated that at the next meeting of the Council still further amendments to the liquor ordinance will be presented.

A "BLUE-GRASS" SONG.

Some sing in the praise of the woman all new,
 But I sing in praise of the grass that is blue;
 Of "Blue Grass," that comes from Kentucky's bright hills,
 With virtues that cure all our woes and our ills,
 There are others who rave o'er the girl and her "bike,"
 Because they have never seen "one of her like;"
 And others there are whom the bold bloomer girl
 Deprives of their breath with her swish and her swirl,
 And leaves them to worship the path she has passed,
 Imploing high heaven she'll not be the last.

Take one, take them all, take the girly in pants,
 Revel and rollick and on with the dance;
 Boom the new woman for all she is worth;
 Take all that's in sight—yea, even the earth,
 But leave me, I beg you, one good flowing glass
 Of Kentucky's long famous and royal "Blue Grass."
 Let the bloomer girl come and the new woman go,
 But let the "Blue Grass" from the still ever flow;
 It's good for the Prince, and the people as well;
 It's good for the common man and for the swell,
 Its banner so long and so proudly unfurled
 Say's, "I am as good as you'll find in the world,"
 And that's so.

The Greystone Wine Co., of St. Helena, has been organized with the following directors: William Rennie, F. S. Ewer, J. H. Wheeler, A. L. Williams, Thos. Amsbury, Henry Lange and C. N. Pickett. William Rennie is President and F. S. Ewer is Secretary. The company will lease the Greystone cellar (Bowen cellar) and make wine there. It starts with the following shareholders, stock being $100 a share: J. H. Wheeler 100, F. S. Ewer 100, William Rennie 50, James Rennie 50, Thos. Amsbury 50, A. L. Williams 50, Howard Chase 50, H. Lange 25, R. J. Buttimer 10, R. W. Lemme 5. The new company is composed of substantial vineyardists and practical local winemakers. They expect to pay a fair price for grapes, based on the value of wine, and will work for the prosperity of the industry.

From William T. Minuse.

41 BEAVER STREET, NEW YORK, July 9, 1895.

DEAR SIR: On a recent trip to California I was fortunate in obtaining the finest type of Amontillado sherry ever produced in America. This I beg to offer you under the brand "La Rosa Sherry, 1888," either in quarters or octaves. The cooperage is perfect, and the wine has been pronounced by expert importers equal to a Spanish Sherry. Samples will be gladly furnished upon application.

I also have in store and arriving over 2000 barrels of high quality ports, sherries, Angelicas and Muscats from some of the best wineries in California, including Fresno Vineyard Company, Lind Vineyard, Margarita Vineyard, Natoma Vineyard, Miller & Nevis and Geo. West & Son, which I offer as bargains.

Yours truly, WM. T. MINUSE.

The license of Nick Dabanovich, of Oakland, will not be renewed: cause,—he sold liquor after midnight.

CHALLENGE WINE PUMP

The above cut presents our horizontal CHALLENGE WINE PUMP, of great compactness and power, for use in transferring for pumping from one tank into another. The cylinders of our iron pumps are brass lined, the piston rod, valve and valve seats are brass. The waterways are large and very direct, and the whole pump is so simple that there is no liability to get out of order and so substantial as to be very enduring. This pump is extensively used by wine men. Being compact, it is easily removed from place to place. The arrangement of the lever makes it less laborious to work than the ordinary lever. Each pump is guaranteed. Write for prices and catalogue. We also carry a full line of Wine Hoses, Wine Faucets, etc.

SHOULD SUSPEND OPERATIONS.

J. L. Hackett, of the Greenbrier Distillery Co., who has been spending a month or six weeks on the Coast looking after the trade in conjunction with his representatives, Chas. Meinecke & Co., has some very decided views on the course that Kentucky distillers should take in the next distilling season.

"The shouldn't be a single distillery running," says he, "if the distillers expect to come out with good profits. Look at the stocks now on hand. They are sufficient, and what is the use of piling up more in warehouse, and going to the expense of erecting additional warehouses? Grain is cash, fuel is cash—everything that goes into whisky is cash. Now, if the distillers will stop and let stocks run down, prices will go up and the distillers will have a chance to make a cent.

"The Kentucky distillers have the biggest and best sort of an investment in the country if they would only stand together and follow out a definite plan to develop legitimate profits. They have something better than the Standard Oil Company if they only knew it and worked together.

"Compare their course with that of the wine men of this State, for example. Two years ago the wine men were all losing. They got together, and now I am told they are all making money—the man with a vineyard, the winemaker, the merchant and all. The whisky business could be made the best paying business in the country to-day, exactly as the wine business is the best paying agricultural business in California, if the distillers would cease their 'devil-take-the-hindmost' policy."

ABOUT WINE AT DINNER.

Mr. Jerome K. Jerome once gave a dinner and discussed the matter of wine with the head waiter—a kindly, fatherly old man—before the guests arrived. He was a man of experience and knowledge, and they went over the wine list together. "Well," said the waiter, "if you take my advice, you will give them a good champagne to start with, let's say Deutz and Geldermann 1878, and let that go round twice. After that sir—well, here's a very good wine that I always recommend, at five shillings the bottle; and then, if I were you, sir, I would finish up with this," and he pointed to a modest little brand at three-and-six. "And don't you think," said Jerome, "that they will notice the difference?" "Lor' bless you, no, sir," said the man. "We generally do it that way. I wouldn't undertake to tell the difference myself between champagne at sixteen shillings and champagne at five after the first two glasses."

THE LOSS FROM MOONSHINING.

In a recent interview Mr. W. N. Hobart, of Cincinnati, drew attention to the loss of revenue by illicit distilling, which he set down at $10,000,000 a year. From the following official table it will be seen that the evil is growing, and that rapidly. Every penny of increase in the tax seems to stimulate moonshining until the whole South seems to be honeycombed with mountain stills.

From 1883 to last year the number of illicit stills destroyed was

1883	397	1889	466
1884	337	1890	583
1885	245	1891	795
1886	564	1892	852
1887	456	1893	806
1888	518	1894	1,016

If the 1,016 stills destroyed last year were, as is estimated, but 5 per cent. of the number in operation, there must have been 20,000 stills scattered through the mountains of the country, turning out from 100,000 to 200,000 gallons of liquor a day, or between 8,500,000 and 9,000,000 gallons a year. The $1.10 per gallon tax collectible upon that amount of whisky is easily computed. Add the loss on revenue to the cost of hunting down the moonshiner—and the $10,000,000 claimed by Mr. Hobart to be lost is pretty nearly accounted for.

The above should give food for thought to the legitimate distiller and to the Prohibitionist alike. Criterion.

A new license ordinance has been introduced into the Board of Supervisors of Kern county, raising the license from $100 to $500 per year, no liquor to be sold in places where women are employed or entertainments given.

SWISS ALCOHOL MONOPOLY.

In order to better regulate the manufacture and sale of alcohol, prevent adulteration, restrict consumption among the poorer classes, and, at the same time, create a much-needed revenue for the cantons, the Federal Government, by virtue of the authority vested in it by the federal constitution, on December 23, 1886, enacted a law by which the right to manufacture and sell alcohol became the exclusive privilege of the Federal Government. This law was immediately put in operation.

The manufacture of alcohol is under the supervision of the "federal alcohol administration," and the sales thereof are made by that authority. None but pure spirits are sold to the manufacturers and rectifiers of beverages, druggists, etc., and the product of home distilleries is invariably given the preference. All spirits obtained otherwise than from the distillation of the grape, wines, pomace, lees of wine, apples, pears, cherries, plums, prunes, etc., are subject to the federal monopoly and can only be sold by the Government. Such, however, as are obtained from the distillation of the above-named home products are free and can be sold by the parties producing them.

The Government obtains its alcohol supplies by contract with Swiss distillers, whose distilleries must be under Government control. Agricultural home corporations, distilling from grains and potatoes, are given the preference.

Foreign spirits are imported exclusively by the Government; so-called Qualitäts-Spirituosen, i. e., liquors containing not over 72 per cent of alcohol, and imported by others, pay a monopoly tax of 80 francs per 100 kilograms ($16 per 220 pounds), plus a customs duty of 20 centimes (3.86 cents) for each alcoholic degree.

Exported articles, in the manufacture of which alcohol is consumed, receive a drawback in a proportion equal to the quantity of spirits used, provided that the quantity consumed for any one shipment, is not less than 30 liters (23 quarts), for less quantities, no drawback will be paid.

All sales of alcoholic spirits, except in quantities of not less than 40 liters (42.3 quarts), by licensed wholesale dealers, is prohibited by law. Swiss farmers, however, are allowed to sell the products of their own stills, when distilled from fruits of their own farms, in quantities not less than 5 liters (5.28 quarts).

The execution of the law devolves upon the federal council, with the assistance of the respective cantons. For the purposes of supervision and execution, the federal council appoints ten supervisors for a term of not more than three years, whose duties are: (1) To take charge of the product of Swiss distillers, distilling on contract with the Swiss Government, and to control the output; (2) to periodically take account of the administration's stock; (3) to supervise exports subject to drawbacks; (4) to supervise the denaturalization of spirits; (5) to keep a record of, and report upon, infringements of the law; (6) to perform the administration's office and other work. The country is divided into nine supervising districts, with one supervisor at its head.

Strict supervision is kept over distilleries, as to the location of premises, apparatus used, cleanliness, working hours, kinds of materials used for distillation, etc., and the supervisors must at all times have free access to the distilleries during the distilling period. The distilling period is limited to from seven to eight months of each year, beginning any time after the 15th of September. All the distillery establishments must be closed and sealed by May 15.

The net revenues of the alcohol administration are distributed among the cantons in a ratio proportionate to their population, as shown by the latest census, but each canton is held duty bound to set aside 10 per cent of such net revenue for the exclusive purpose of restricting alcoholism and for the support of institutions created for the purpose of curing and redeeming drunkards.

Alcohol is purchased from contracting distillers in quantities of not less than 150 nor more than 1,000 hectoliters (3,965 and 26,317 gallons) at a time, and at a price fixed from time to time by the federal council, which, however, cannot be lower than 130 francs ($25) nor higher than 150 francs ($28.95) per hectoliter (26.117 gallons) of proof alcohol, cash, exclusive of packages.

Four kinds of spirits are sold for manufacture of beverages: (1) Wine spirits, 95 per cent, monopoly brand "A. V. W.," similar in quality to the best absolutely neutral German wine spirits, distilled from filtered potato spirits, at 175 francs per 100 kilograms ($33.76 per 220 pounds) net, or 142.50 francs per hectoliter ($27.50 per 26.117 gallons), 95 per cent naked. One hun-kilograms spirit at 95 per cent are equal to 122.7 liters of or cent, or 116.6 liters proof.)

(2) Prime spirits, monopoly brand "A. V. P.," 95 per cent, sponding in quality with the finest German potato spirits, 80 francs per 100 kilograms ($32.87 per 220 pounds), or 3 francs per hectoliter ($26.74 per 26.417 gallons), 95 per naked.

(3) Fine spirits, 95 per cent, monopoly brand "A. V. F.," quality as rectified German or Austrian spirits, at 167 francs per 100 kilograms ($32.23 per 220 pounds) net, or 136.08 francs per hectoliter ($26.26 per 26.417 gallons), 95 per cent
 d.

(4) Crude spirits of various degrees of strength say, as a from 90 to 95 per cent, from the product of domestic dis-ties, at 143.25 francs per hectoliter ($27.67 per 26.417 gal-
 , 100 per cent, without package.

Spirits used in the arts, for technical purposes, or in the hold as fuel, are sold at cost by the Government, after denaturalized and thereby unfitted for drinking purposes.
 To denaturalize alcohol, two methods are resorted to, viz, the ute and the relative. The absolute method is applied to s to be used as fuel in lamps or other utensils in the trades useholds, and is denaturalized by the addition of coal-tar yridine bases, pyroxylic spirit, or other similar substances, e pure alcohol.

The alcohol administration changes its method of mixture time to time, so as to prevent renaturalization.

Alcohol consumed in the arts or in industrial pursuits is turalized so as to avoid neutralization of its usefulness nstance, if alcohol is wanted for the manufacture of vine-acetie acid is the mixture: for varnish, camphor, turpenor shellac; for perfumery, a solution of castor oil soap; for industries, naphthaline, pyroxyline, benzine, nitric acid, , etc.

Spirits with relative denaturalization are sold only to bona well-known manufacturers in possession of a federal fie department's license, who must, upon receiving the spirits, rcribe to an obligation agreeing to use it only for their own nent. They are, in addition, subjected to a strict control, and at all times be prepared to show conclusively the quantity naturalized spirits consumed in their establishments.

Denaturalized spirits are sold as follows: Absolute, for fuel other similar purposes, 94 to 95 per cent, at 55 francs per kilograms ($10.62 per 220 pounds) net, or 45.25 pounds per liter ($8.73 per 26.417 gallons), 95 to 94 per cent naked.
 tive, for industrial purposes, per 100 kilograms (220 pounds)
 -wine spirit, 66 francs ($12.94); prime spirit, 58 francs 19); fine spirit, 53 francs ($10.23); and crude spirit, 45
 francs per hectoliter ($8.68 per 26.417 gallons), 100 per cent.

Orders must be sent to the alcohol administration at Berne, will be filled from one of the federal depots nearest to the of the parties ordering the same.

The penalties for infractions of this law vary as to circum-ces from, say, 200 to 10,000 francs ($39.60 to $1,930), or y times the value of the amount involved. For a second se, the penalty can be doubled, and in addition thereto, im-nment not exceeding six months can be imposed.

The net profit on the sale of spirits by the federal alcohol nistration was, for the year 1894, about 5,000,000 francs 5,000), which sum was divided among the cantons accord-o law.

EUGENE GERMAIN, Consul.

ZURICH, January 22, 1895.

A dispatch from Healdsburg dated July 11th says: "Last season many tons of grapes rotted on the vines in this district, the growers being unable to sell them. Now conditions have changed. W. D. Sink, of Cloverdale, is putting up a cellar of 50,000 gallons capacity. Napa winemakers are building a cellar in Alexander valley of 200,000 gallons capacity. P. & G. Simi, of Healdsburg, are putting an addition to their cellar of 75,000 gallons, and Miller & Hotchkiss, of Windsor, are increasing their cellar capacity by 150,000 gallons. The Winemakers' Association is enlarging the Huntington & Hopkins cellar, at Windsor, to 200,000 gallons. G. O. B. Gunn, of the same place, is putting an extension to his cellar of 50,000 gallons. As will be noted, this increases the cooerage capacity of northern Sonoma nearly 700,000 gallons. Besides this, many wineries not operated last season are being prepared for a heavy run. During the past four months over 400 carloads of wine have been shipped out of this section. Winemakers are offering $10 per ton for grapes, but no sales have been made at this price. S. L. Osborne, of Alexander Valley, recently sold 500 tons of choice wine grapes for $15. The crop is hardly an average one, Zinfandels being light."

Suit is to be begun in San Diego county against several persons alleged to have been delinquent in paying county liquor license.

PHILADELPHIA, July 6.

Editor Pacific Wine and Spirit Review — SIR: The pernicious effect on the California wine market by the recent sales at auction in New York City has manifested itself in a number of instances, and if the winegrowers of the Pacific coast have any regard for their future interest or reputation they will use all legitimate means in their power for the suppression of these sales. It is authoritatively stated that in many instances the goods are offered in small lots and purchased by retailers and even consumers. It is rumored that some of the wine that was purchased by a big dealer in the early part of the season is advertised to be resold, presumably with the hope of being disposed of to some retail dealer or consumer at wholesale dealer's price. This mode of doing business can only result to the pecuniary interest of the auctioneer and the speculator, and cannot but be detrimental to the California wine interests.

The United States Government has been very generous towards the winegrowers of the Pacific coast by refusing to impose a revenue tax on wines, and they should appreciate such legislation by endeavoring to improve the quality of their goods instead of deteriorating them. Owing to the overproduction in California wines during the past years, large quantities of inferior grades and mixed wines have been offered and sold on the market, to the detriment of the reputation and future interest of the California wine industry. Some New York houses have advanced the theory that it improves California wine to blend it. This is very true in regard to inferior grades, but there is no occasion for selling mixed goods when wine of a reliable character can be produced. If this class of inferior and mixed goods continues to be pushed on the market it is only a question of time when California wines, like the orange wine made in Florida, will come into disrepute, and no one will use it. Some of the so-called wine that has been offered on the market during the past year has been a disgrace to any wine-making country, and the time is not far distant when legitimate winemakers in California will be compelled, for self-protection, to petition the Government to make a law compelling all producers to stamp their goods with the vintage-district where made, the same as in liquors. Then "every tub will stand on its own bottom," and goods will be sold on their merits and not on account of their price without regard to quality. The recent report of the PACIFIC WINE AND SPIRIT REVIEW relative to the sale of wine at auction in New York City on the 12th ult. speaks for itself: "The Port was not of the best quality, while the Sherry was cloudy and new."

RECENT TREASURY DECISIONS.

Repacking Champagne in Bond Denied.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT, April 30, 1895.

SIR: Referring to your letter of the 9th instant, in which you request the privilege of repacking champagne in bond, I have to state that the only statutory authority for allowing repacking of merchandise in bond is found in Section 3018, which refers exclusively to drugs, medicines and chemical preparations, and in Section 3029, which refers to liquors in casks and to un-refined sugars.

Section 3016 provides that no drawback shall be allowed on exported merchandise, unless it be exported in the original packages "without diminution or change of the articles in quantity, quality or value."

Article 390 of Customs Regulations allows repacking of goods in bond "when necessary for their safety and preservation, provided that when the original contents are placed in the new packages they shall be marked and numbered as before."

The Department has always refused the privilege of substitution in bond. See decisions February 11, 1892, March 29, 1893, October 21, 1893, and January 16, 1894.

On October 21, 1893, the collector of customs at New York was instructed that duties accrue on champagne on its arrival in the United States, and the privilege requested would be in effect an allowance for breakage and leakage, in contravention of the paragraph of the tariff which provides that "there shall be no constructive or other allowance for breakage, leakage, or damage on wines." * * * also Section 2961, Revised Statutes, which prescribes that "all imports deposited in any public or private warehouse * * * shall be at the sole and exclusive risk and expense of the owner and importer." See, also, Revised Statutes 2983 and 2984.

For the reasons above set forth, the Department cannot issue a regulation in accordance with your suggestion.

Respectfully yours, CHARLES S. HAMLIN, Acting Secretary.

F. O. BOYD VS. L. H. QUINN.

Messrs. F. O. Boyd & Co., of New York, who are the Eastern agents of the Globe Distilling Co., of Pekin, Ill., have commenced a suit against the L. H. Quinn Co., of New York, for the enforcement of a contract made by the latter for the sale and delivery in April last of three carloads of high-proof spirits and one carload of alcohol, which reveals some curious transactions between the house of Ross & Kearny and L. H. Quinn Co. It seems that early in April, during the time of the cutting of prices by Receiver McNulta of the D. & C. F. Co., and the outside distillers, when the price of spirits and alcohol was below the cost of manufacture, Mr. Kearny of the firm of Ross & Kearny, called on Mr. L. H. Quinn with an order for 5 carloads of high-proof spirits, at the reduced price which then prevailed. Mr. Quinn was much surprised at receiving this order as he knew from former business connections with the house of Ross & Kearny that the latter firm would not use five carloads of spirits at one time. He suspected at once that in this proposed business transaction Ross & Kearny were simply acting as middlemen, and that the spirits were in reality wanted for other parties and possibly competitors of the D. & C. F. Co.

Mr. L. H. Quinn had received strict orders from Receiver McNulta not to sell goods under any consideration to competitors of the D. & C. F. Co. Acting under these instructions Mr. Quinn put the question fairly to Mr. Kearny asking him to state positively whether the goods were wanted for the firm of Ross & Kearny or for other parties. Mr. Kearny protested vigorously against the latter assumption declaring in positive terms that the goods were bought and intended to be used by the house of Ross & Kearny and not for other parties.

With such understanding the L. H. Quinn Co. agreed to fill the order and deliver the five carloads, respectively, at the much reduced price that then prevailed. Two carloads were immediately shipped to Ross & Kearny who transferred the same without change to F. O. Boyd & Co., in direct violation of the terms of the contract under which the goods were bought. When the L. H. Quinn Co. received information of this transfer and the open breach in the agreement between itself and the house of Ross & Kearny, the delivery of the other three carloads of spirits was stopped, on the ground that false pretenses and fraud vitiate any contract. Then followed some acrimonious correspondence between the L. H. Quinn Co. and the house of Ross & Kearny. The latter firm, seeing that it had no good ground upon which to base a claim against the L. H. Quinn Co. assigned its contract to F. O. Boyd & Co., who have commenced suit against the L. H. Quinn Co. to recover the difference between the price when the goods were contracted for and the market price at the time of delivery.

Mr. F. O. Boyd when interviewed on this lawsuit admitted the facts as stated, but said that Ross & Kearny had acted as commission merchants for him. When asked why the suit was not commenced in the name of Ross & Kearny, Mr. Boyd answered that Ross & Kearny did not want to appear in the transaction, but had transferred the contract to him. — Wine and Spirit Gazette.

Petitions are being circulated in Yolo County asking the Supervisors submit the question of "saloon" or "no saloon" to the voters. Those handling the petition are confident they will get the requisite fifty per cent. of the voters of the county to sign their names, and thus make it mandatory on the Board to bring the question before the people of the county.

A new ordinance is before the Pomona trustees by which half of all fines collected for selling liquor are to go to the former; authorizing the town marshal to put under police surveillance any person he may suspect of having intention to sell liquor; and finally providing for the search of any private house on suspicion that liquor is stored therein. And this is free America!

J. A. Munson, of Lorin, is under arrest for selling liquor without a license. He offered the $100 Berkeley license, which was refused. His case will be decided in common with all the other Berkeley cases.

License Collector Lees is conducting a campaign against those San Francisco druggists who make a practice of selling liquor the same as saloon men.

BONDING FRUIT BRANDY.

OFFICE OF THE COMMISSIONER OF INTERNAL REVENUE,
WASHINGTON, D. C.

In order that fruit brandy, removed for deposit in special bonded warehouses, may be deposited and held in such special bonded warehouses under transportation and warehousing bonds, Form 235, which shall continue in force during the entire bonded period, thereby obviating a renewal of such bonds each year as now required by regulations, such bonds will, on and after July 1, 1895, be so given as to cover all brandy removed for deposit during the fiscal year ending June 30th, and will continue in force for the full period during which the brandy is allowed to remain in such bonded warehouses.

At the expiration of the fiscal year, during which brandy may be so removed for deposit, and before further removals to such Special Bonded Warehouses are made, a new and separate Transportation and Warehousing bond, covering the brandy to be removed during the ensuing fiscal year, must be filed by the distiller.

The bonds herein required will, however, be subject to renewal in case of death, removal or insolvency of either of the sureties, or in any other contingency in the discretion of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, or the collector of the district in which the spirits are stored.

Should the distiller neglect or refuse to file the required bond, the collector will at once report for assessment all outstanding taxes due or accruing on the brandy not so rebonded, as provided in section 8 of the act of March 3, 1877.

A new bond will also be required where the outstanding bond is debited with taxes in excess of the authorized credits in an amount equal to or so closely approximating the penal sum of the bond as to render a new bond necessary or advisable. Should the distiller in such a case neglect to file the required bond in an additional sum, the collector will refuse to allow him to make further removals of brandy from his distillery to special bonded warehouses until the liability on the outstanding bond is so reduced as to safely admit of such removals being made.

The bond to be given in the cases herein provided will be in the following form, and in a penal sum not less than the tax on the estimated quantity of brandy to be deposited thereunder, and in no case less than $500.

Form 235—Revised

TRANSPORTATION AND WAREHOUSING BOND.

E. C. Bichowsky, general manager of L. J. Rose & Co., Ltd., San Gabriel, has returned to California. His eastern trip was cut short by the death of his winemaker and cellar manager, and he is now looking about for first-class sweet wine maker and distiller.

C. J. Wetmore, chief executive officer of the State Viticultural Commission, is in Southern California on his annual inspection of the vineyards of that section. He will travel throughout the vineyard districts of the State before the opening of the vintage season.

Ferguson & Curley, the Market street wholesalers are building up a fine trade for the "New Hope" whisky of T. H. Sherley & Co. Their business is among the best of the city, and their location in the business heart of the city materially aids them in disposing of their goods.

The United States Department of Agriculture has issued a bulletin showing the area production and trade of wine in France. A comparative statement of the wine produced by the different European countries in 1893 and 1894, as well as by the United States, will also be found, which shows that the production of wine in France for 1894 was 1,031,657,816 gallons, while that of the United States was but 25,000,000 gallons—very small when it is realized that on the western coast of California, which is probably the counterpart of the western coast of Europe, with Great Britain attached to the continent, every condition of soil and climate can be found to produce the wines peculiar to European countries.

The Solis Wine and Fruit Company is located on a part of the old Solis ranch, from which it is named, and is situated in the Uvas Valley and adjacent foot-hills, a few miles northwest of Gilroy. The place consists of 360 acres, 100 acres being planted in grapes with 85 acres in bearing. There are some very old vines on the place, and wine making has been going on quite largely since 1889. A large winery and cellar was then erected, and a large addition made last year, with greatly increased capacity. The wines have proven excellent as they have matured, and a ready market has been found in England for these products. Mr. J. A. Hague, the senior partner, is now in Europe on his annual business trip, and, being a native of England, has no prejudices to work down as he meets the customers of his place. Mr. Jonathan Hague is the resident manager of the place, and is still judiciously planting to keep up the standard of their wines. The vineyard is in fine condition. The rich bottom lands have been planted in orchard, of which there now 120 acres, only part in bearing. Like the majority of places, the apricots are scarce this year, and the pears also, but the prunes are promising pretty well, as are the apples and peaches. A commodious drying ground and house was erected last year, and the residence is very neatly and comfortably appointed.—Pacific Tea and Vine.

DISTILLERY FOR SALE.—Owing to disagreement of Stockholders, the Distillery of the Daviess County Distilling Company, with "Kentucky Club" brand, Trade-mark, Good-will, etc., will be offered for sale at public auction at the Distillery on September 17th, 1895.

This Distillery has a capacity of 750 bushels per day, is admirably located upon about seventeen acres of land on the bank of the Ohio River, adjacent to the City of Owensboro, Ky.

Three Warehouses, one brick, slate roof, and two frames with patent ricking, furnishing storage capacity for about 40,000 barrels.

Persons desiring further information will write the undersigned, or call and inspect for themselves. Those visiting the premises will be furnished a summary of the business for the past ten years.

THE ONLY GENUINE

BEWARE OF IMITATIONS

EQUALLED BY NONE.

The age and genuineness of this whisky are guaranteed by the Excise Department of the Canadian government by certificate over the capsule of every bottle. From the moment of manufacture until this certificate is affixed the whisky never leaves the custody of the Excise officers. No other government in the world provides for consumers this independent and absolute guarantee of purity and ripeness. "Canadian Club" whisky is particularly adapted for medicinal use.

THE above celebrated brands of Whisky are still leaders, care without regard to expense having always been taken to keep the goods to the highest standard in quality, their popularity now being unequalled.

The distilleries that make the above brands never made private brands. Notice the feathered sticks in the Imperial brand. They are correct cuts of the celebrated hand mash sticks with which all these whiskies are made.

Study Law at Home.

It was the ambitious young man and woman on the farm, behind the counter, in the mill in the lawyer's office, in the bank the man and woman without the opportunity of a college education, that made this method of teaching law a necessity. We offer two courses—

1. A Course Preparing the Student to Practice Law;
2. A Business Law Course for Business Men and Women.

The tuition fee is small, the course complete, the result perfect. Nicely printed catalogues explain both courses. They can be had for the asking. Address

The Sprague Correspondence School of Law,
142 Telephone Bldg., DETROIT, MICH.

AND SAVE MONEY

IT IS ABSOLUTELY The Best SEWING MACHINE MADE

WE OR OUR DEALERS can sell you machines cheaper than you can get elsewhere. The NEW HOME is our best, but we make cheaper kinds, such as the CLIMAX, IDEAL and other High Arm Full Nickel Plated Sewing Machines for $15.00 and up. Call on our agent or write us. We want your trade, and if prices, terms and square dealing will win, we will have it. We challenge the world to produce a BETTER $50.00 Sewing Machine for $50.00, or a better $20. Sewing Machine for $20.00 than you can buy from us, or our Agents.

IMPORTANT TO DISTILLERS AND WINE MAKERS

This cut represents our latest improved Continuous Still which has been perfected after years of experiment and large expense.

This Still has the advantage over all others, as it is economically operated and separates the hydro and other inferior oils and makes pure and high class brandy, and reduces the cost fully ninety per cent labor and fuel. It requires very little water and utilizes all heat heretofore wasted.
